Kent Road Body Plans First Aid

First aid on the highways is a new phase of service of the Kent county road commission. The proposition was discussed and accepted at a meeting of department heads, district foremen and garage men of the road organization at a meeting Monday.

By the plan originated and developed by O. S. Hess, engineer for the commission, all the district foremen who are on the highways at all times of the day and often in the night will carry a newly devised kit. The foremen are to have first aid instructions and whenever they come upon an accident in which persons are injured they will give free service even to the extent of taking the injured to a physician's office or hospital, if a more suitable vehicle is not available, or if necessary, hasten to some point from which an ambulance can be summoned.

To Distribute Aid Kits.
A first aid kit also will be left with every gang boss. The county's garages, which are beginning to dot the county, also will have the kits handy.

Mr. Hess considers the road employees covering the county in a network will be in position to encounter many cases in which they can be of great help even in saving lives.

Mr. Hess had in mind at first to protect the road employees, but the idea was expanded to include all injured on the highways.

"A system such as this should save a lot of pain and misery and even prevent permanent injury by immediate attention, if it can be developed to a point of efficiency," Mr. Hess said.

For instance, much damage is done by carrying persons with broken bones a long way to a hospital in an ordinary automobile. Our men, when they are instructed, will be able to bind up the breaks and reduce much of the danger that comes with lifting and carrying and jarring in the car.

The kits, which will cost from $4.50 to $12, will be of a modern kind, equipped with individual packets of gauze and other necessities to prevent contamination of materials that remain in the kit.

Aunt Lucia Came and Conquered

The Aunt Lucia comedy staged at the City hall last Thursday and Friday evening was a complete success in every way, financially and otherwise. The promoter, Miss Ada Lightner, of the Universal Producing Co., the Odd Fellows and their friends who took part, all deserve praise for the merit shown in their uncustomed roles as public entertainers and the zeal displayed in producing so satisfactory an entertainment in so short a time.

The Lowell public was generous in its patronage, as it generally is with home talent entertainment and will be ready for the next one, which will doubtless come along in due time.

Without going into details we might say that Walter Kropf as the bogus Aunt Lucia was the bright star of the evening, and that from "her" on down to the littlest tot in Babylond they were all good. They're all our own folks, what else could we say?

BOY SCOUTS REORGANIZE.
After a ten weeks' vacation of camping and out door life, twenty-six enthusiastic scouts answered the first call for registration and reorganization of Troop No. 76.

Max Hood, applicant for a life scout was unanimously elected as senior patrol leader and Donald Hartley, who has passed several merit badge examinations was chosen as scribe and bugler for the ensuing year.

The troop was divided into three patrols, with Giles Sinclair, Jack Bergin and William Clark acting as Patrol leaders, and Jack Lalley, Robert Brighton and Morse Schwacha as their assistants.

Several boys are now on the waiting list for troop membership and it will be necessary to reorganize troop seventy-six by the first of October.

The troop committee is planning on a very extensive, as well as interesting program this year and it is hoped that many boys who are not scouts will join and take advantage of this opportunity.

Mr. M. Finch, Mr. Zwerner and Mr. Miller have been approved by the Troop Committee to serve as scoutmasters. Indoor meetings will be held in the High school gymnasium on Monday evenings between the hours of 7:30 and 9 o'clock. Troop hikes will be held on Saturday.

Am. Legion Annual Elects New Officers

At the annual meeting of the American Legion, Charles W. Clark Post No. 152 elected the following officers for the year 1930.

Commander, Walter Kropf.
Vice Commander, William J. Smith.
Adjutant, Norman Borgerson.
Finance Officer, Chas. Knapp.
Historian, W. W. Gumsier.
Chaplain, Rev. A. B. Lemke.
Sgt. At Arms, Peter Speerstra.
Welfare Officer, Dr. J. R. Stryker.

Executive Committee, T. A. Gzella, B. A. McQueen, Warner Roth.

The various committee chairmen will be appointed during the next two weeks.

The Charles W. Clark Post has just finished an unusually fine year. The membership has totaled 105 members. Various activities have been successfully conducted and today find the ex-service man 100% solid on the American Legion.

The coming year will find this post again interested in the welfare of this community, co-operating with every purpose that will make this a desirable place to live. It is urgently requested that all ex-service men, whether they have belonged to the Legion or not attend the next meeting which will be held Monday, Oct. 14th, at our club rooms in the Lowell City hall.

Past Commander Borgerson was given a fine tribute by the members for his fine work the past year. A good lunch was served by Stormzand and Miller after the band had played a few pieces, and singing led by W. W. Gumsier.

JIMMIE MARSH STILL SMILES.
Friends of James Marsh, familiarly known in Lowell as Jimmie, will be interested to know the outcome of his long standing invalidism.

About a year ago his left arm was broken in a fall on a Chicago icy sidewalk and that fracture was reduced; but the elbow still remained stiff. Recently, Gary, Ind., surgeons broke the elbow again and reset the joint.

The last operation is believed to have been successful and Lowell friends of this cheerful young man who has smiled bravely through all his troubles, hope that he is nearly through with them.

SULLIVAN'S HIT WINS THE GAME.
When order was resumed Prehn singled down the first base line and scored DeVitt. Sullivan responded to the emergency with a double to the right field fence that scored McCoy and Prehn.

Harry Rush, former major league pitcher, pitched early in the tournament for the Benj. Brakes, of South Bend against Lowell, was sent in to relieve Ginter and retired Van Slyke via Pulkiner to Ward. He pitched the game out and was not hit safely by the six men, who faced him in the last two innings, four of whom he struck out.

Presenting Joe Napier, former Central league star, as leadoff man. Ginter and Rush as pitchers and Brooks, their season's pitching star in the outfield, the Lowell team appeared until the blowoff just a little too well balanced to be beaten by the Ramonas. Bob Apsey's team played errorless ball, however, behind Harry DeVitt's splendid pitching and it was a game that will be talked about for a long time to come by all who were in the crowd. It was DeVitt's master effort of the season.

Napier drew a pass to open up the game, stole second and scored on a double by Stuepeck. That was all the scoring until the seventh, when the Ramonas scored all of their runs. In the eighth Lowell threatened for a time to overcome the Ramonas' lead of 4 to 1. Napier singled and was forced to second by Pulkiner. Stuepeck struck out. Hutchinson drew a pass and scored along with Pulkiner on a Texas leaguer by Brooks and a high, wild heave to the plate by Otzman.

Fineis Oils Lost Game to Ramonas

A large number of Lowell and vicinity base ball fans accompanied by the American Legion band, attended the base ball tournament in Grand Rapids Sunday and witnessed the defeat of the Fineis Oil team by the Ramonas of East Grand Rapids and the Umpire. Grand Rapids men were heard to say that in a questionable decision, the umpire had robbed the Lowell team. The Grand Rapids Herald gave the following account of the game, which does not feature a near riot following the umpire's rotten ruling.

As the result of a 4 to 3 victory scored by the Ramonas of East Grand Rapids over the Fineis Oils in the first game of the state tournament doubleheader yesterday afternoon at Ramona Athletic park, and a 3 to 2 victory in 11 innings of the second game of the double bill next Sunday. The championship will be decided in the second.

Two harder fought or more interesting games have never been played at Ramona and the large crowd went wild with excitement over the entertainment of as good as baseball as is played in any league. The Ramonas scored all of their runs in the seventh inning and really won the game through Lefty Ginter, of Lansing, losing his stuff after a near-riot and being touched up for three successive hits, which was within one of as many as were made off his delivery in the first six innings.

Temporarily losing his control, Ginter passed Westveld and Haan in succession. DeVitt forced Haan at third. Otzman lined out to short, the four runs were scored with two men out. D. McCoy singled and Haan scored. The play was close, but he was safe. Catcher Hutchinson of the Fineis Oils and Mgr. Apsey of the Ramonas got into a fist argument at this juncture and there was plenty of excitement for a few minutes. The players of the two teams pulled the pair apart. An outsider in street clothes rushed in and was escorted off the field and placed in the East Grand Rapids jail for safe keeping.

Sullivan's Hit Wins the Game. When order was resumed Prehn singled down the first base line and scored DeVitt. Sullivan responded to the emergency with a double to the right field fence that scored McCoy and Prehn.

Harry Rush, former major league pitcher, pitched early in the tournament for the Benj. Brakes, of South Bend against Lowell, was sent in to relieve Ginter and retired Van Slyke via Pulkiner to Ward. THE LOWELL LEDGER AND ALTO SOLO

Published every Thursday morning at 210 East Main Street, Lowell, Michigan.

TWO KINDS OF MEN LEAVE TOWN. Not so very long ago, say within a dog's age, two men left the same town, say within a hundred miles of Lowell, and so far as the townspeople were concerned, there was all the difference in the world as to their feelings regarding the two departures. And this was why:

One of these men had gone about among his fellows with a friendly greeting, and a genial smile, and often a merry whistle, that revealed a whole-souled human being behind them. In his business dealings he had been a fair price. All he wanted in selling or buying was a square deal. All in all, he was everybody's friend, and he moved away everybody who was sorry and wished him Godspeed.

The other man was a prick, who went pussy-footing and gitching around, seeking the best deal of every deal. With him it was always "me and my wife, our son John and his wife. Us four and no more." When he went away it was a matter of indifference to all who knew him. No one cared, or if he did, it was relieved of an unpleasant reminder.

That town is better because the first man had lived in it; and because the second man moved away.

DOES DEATH END ALL? There is something for the "Death ends all" folks to ponder on. Prof. Michael Pupin, famous scientist, said recently in the American magazine: Science finds that everything is a continuous developing process. It reveals man as a being with a soul which is progressing more and more toward Divinity.

Isn't it time that decent people everywhere awoke to the threat that the criminal element holds over organized society? Did you ever read the man who hanged a serpent to his bosom? Read this for a parallel, substitute our government for the man and this unrepentant serpent for the serpent, and then write your own editorial, unless language falls to describe your sentiments, as it does with us.

A threat against his life received through the mails yesterday after death. Our old friend, Sylvester P. Hicks used to put it like this: "Hobnobbing is a preparation for youth. Youth is a preparation for maturity. Maturity is a preparation for old age. Old age is a preparation for eternity." Mr. Hicks called it "Reasoning by analogy."

Most of us who have lost dear ones, prefer to think that we shall see them again somewhere, sometime and the thought should influence our lives for the better and help us to hide our suspicions with patience and cheerful hope.

Denial that whiskey is ever influential in medicine was voiced by Dr. Len M. Hagen, of Los Angeles before the National Union of Whiskey in the treatment of any disease, at any age, in any climate." She further declared that prescription of alcoholic beverages as household remedies was a fraud and had caused thousands to become liquor addicts.

Attorney General Mitchell has strongly recommended that Harry F. Sinclair's petition for declaration of his jail sentence be denied as it is in the public interest and has been aided by it. "Would undermine the confidence of the people in the Administration of Justice." The Attorney General is 100 per cent right in that matter; and we are free to declare to him and to Mr. Hoover that "The Administration on one side of the fence is in the confidence to spare, in a country where a large proportion of the people are already firmly convinced that in justice, as in everything else, "Money makes the mare go."

Reports from Cuba that that of a bare roof. So it is in life. Two may start together, separate and by following diverging routes terminate as far apart as the poles or "as far as the East from the West." The value of a right start in life cannot be over estimated.

Attention of the interested in the game and fishing laws, we prairie chicken, pheasants, quail, quail, and muskrats, is invited to the notices given elsewhere in this paper by the State Game and Fish Commission. Ledger readers are favored by having this timely information made available to them.

AN ABANDONED CABIN. On a hill overlooking the river a cabin was built long ago. Where the forests in primeval beauty.

No ax of a woodsman then knew it. But today it stands lone and abandoned. No welcoming voice at its door. And the pride and the glory have vanished.

Of primeval forests you have now a farm with its orchards and grain lands. It is found where the rivers once stood. And the maples that shade the log cabin.

And all that give grace the cottage. Gone is the axe that traced the cottage. And helped to develop the farm. And a stranger reaps from the pioneer vested in charm.

O, I muse on the frailty of mortal. Today they are here, and then gone. But their work and their deeds are always. Travel inward and onward and on!

But the river flows on serenely, away, it was a matter of indifference to all who knew him. No one cared, or if he did, it was relieved of an unpleasant reminder.

That town is better because the first man had lived in it; and because the second man moved away.

A threat against his life received through the mails yesterday after death. Our old friend, Sylvester P. Hicks used to put it like this: "Hobnobbing is a preparation for youth. Youth is a preparation for maturity. Maturity is a preparation for old age. Old age is a preparation for eternity."

Most of us who have lost dear ones, prefer to think that we shall see them again somewhere, sometime and the thought should influence our lives for the better and help us to hide our suspicions with patience and cheerful hope.

Denial that whiskey is ever influential in medicine was voiced by Dr. Len M. Hagen, of Los Angeles before the National Union of Whiskey in the treatment of any disease, at any age, in any climate." She further declared that prescription of alcoholic beverages as household remedies was a fraud and had caused thousands to become liquor addicts.

AN ABANDONED CABIN. On a hill overlooking the river a cabin was built long ago. Where the forests in primeval beauty.

No ax of a woodsman then knew it. But today it stands lone and abandoned. No welcoming voice at its door. And the pride and the glory have vanished.

Of primeval forests you have now a farm with its orchards and grain lands. It is found where the rivers once stood. And the maples that shade the log cabin.

And all that give grace the cottage. Gone is the axe that traced the cottage. And helped to develop the farm. And a stranger reaps from the pioneer vested in charm.

O, I muse on the frailty of mortal. Today they are here, and then gone. But their work and their deeds are always. Travel inward and onward and on!

But the river flows on serenely, away, it was a matter of indifference to all who knew him. No one cared, or if he did, it was relieved of an unpleasant reminder.

That town is better because the first man had lived in it; and because the second man moved away.

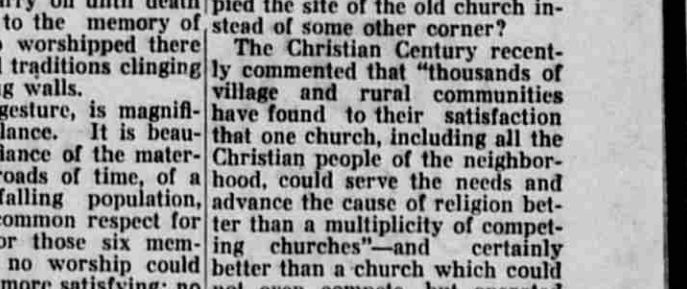

DOES DEATH END ALL? There is something for the "Death ends all" folks to ponder on. Prof. Michael Pupin, famous scientist, said recently in the American magazine: Science finds that everything is a continuous developing process.

Isn't it time that decent people everywhere awoke to the threat that the criminal element holds over organized society? Did you ever read the man who hanged a serpent to his bosom? Read this for a parallel, substitute our government for the man and this unrepentant serpent for the serpent, and then write your own editorial, unless language falls to describe your sentiments, as it does with us.
