

Happy Homes

George Washington, the first president of this great country of ours, is quoted as saying:

"Economy makes happy homes and sound nations. Instill it deep."

Would not the opening of a savings account be a fitting way to celebrate the birthday of this great American? You must know that unless you have a cash reserve, the first misfortune places you at the mercy of others, so start an account now and build it with regular definite deposits.

Rural Mail Carriers Jollify in Lowell Meet

About two hundred thirty-five delegates and their wives attended the first meeting of the year of Michigan Inter-County Postal Workers and pot luck supper at the City hall Saturday evening, February 22.

Newton L. Coons, chairman, introduced the toastmaster, H. Earl Cowdin, post-master at Carson City, who in a very genial manner announced the following program: Address of welcome by M. N. Henry was hearty and full of his usual jovial spirit. Menno Weber, Service postmaster of Saranac, responded very feelingly. A toast by Rev. A. T. Cartland, who said he had been a rural carrier out of Kalamazoo five years and felt very much at home in the party.

Following this toast Lewis D. Copen, president of Michigan Branch National League of District Postmasters, of Millbrook, gave a fine talk, closing with a beautiful toast in verse. Zeona Rivette then gave a novelty dance. Mrs. O. J. Yeiter accompanying on the piano.

John L. Hoyt, secretary of Michigan Rural Local Carriers' association gave an original poetical toast. Mrs. O. J. Yeiter read "Kentucky Philosophy," and responded to encore with "Driving From the Back Seat," by Edgar Guest. The Misses Audrey Garey and Zeona Rivette gave a charming novelty duet dance.

Mrs. John L. Hoyt represented the Ladies' Auxiliary urging a 100 per cent membership in Michigan. She said there were 1,500 men in the association in Michigan and only 700 women.

H. Barum, postmaster of Bailey, secretary of Michigan Branch League of District Postmasters, gave a fine impromptu talk full of vim and good advice to those present and all who represented the Rural Local Carriers' association.

The closing number was an address by Henry L. Felton, president of Grand Rapids Branch Railway Mail association. His theme was "Striving for Harmony in the Work of the Rural Local Carriers," post masters, post-office clerks, second and third class post masters. His talk received a hearty applause.

Mrs. E. S. White lead in Community singing, Mrs. Orla Yeiter at the piano.

All gave Lowell and especially Mr. N. L. Coons a hearty vote of thanks by rising to their feet after which Mrs. White announced "How Do You Do, Mr. Mailman, How do You Do?" and the room rang with the heartiness of the song. All voted it a very much worth-while meeting. The question box at 4 o'clock was well attended. Warner Ensemble orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

A little conundrum would be apt in this article? What word which begins with P, and ends with E, has a thousand letters in it? Answer, Postoffice. A dancing party followed the banquet and program which was participated in by many of the guests.

OLD DAM TOP ICED OUT--TEMPORARY REPAIRS MADE.

The top of the old Light and Power dam at Smyrna was pushed away by the ice and carried away by the heavy water pressure Sunday night. Temporary repairs have been made to enable the plant to keep running for the month required to complete the new dam. With the village break-down service it is believed the light and power service will not be interfered with in the interim.

Methodists in Washington Memorial

The annual Winter picnic at the Methodist Episcopal church Friday evening, Feb. 21, was attended by at least one hundred and twenty-five people who greatly enjoyed the banquet and program which followed with Rev. A. T. Cartland, as toastmaster. The first number was the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. H. L. Weekes accompanying on the piano and Harley Maynard leading. A fine address by Mr. Lee Miller, of the Lowell High school faculty, "Some Admirable Traits in Washington's Character," was listened to with interest.

He spoke of the fact that General Washington as a General was well known, that as the first president of the United States he was a well known person, but that as a man but little was known of his most intimate life. That the most outstanding trait of his character was self control, thus his complete control over his soldiers. The hearty applause which greeted this talk showed Mr. Miller the company's appreciation.

Mr. Maynard then sang an old time war song of 50 or more years ago, "The Best Flag is the Red, White and Blue," Mrs. Weekes at the piano.

Mrs. D. A. Wingeier had prepared a paper "Some Interesting Facts about Washington's Women Folks," which was read by Mrs. Emma S. Greene, as Mrs. Wingeier was unable to be present. The toastmaster, Rev. Cartland remarked that this paper would be well worth while as a magazine article.

Mrs. O. J. Yeiter gave a reading in her delightful manner, kindly responding also to an encore.

After this the young people, led by Mr. Cartland, repaired to the gymnasium for games and fun, while the older ones spent an hour in social chat.

Granite Co. Installs New Equipment

The Lowell Granite company has just installed a large size air compressor and the latest modern sand blast outfit operated by Westinghouse motor. With this equipment the company can finish any kind of granite or marble cemetery memorial in the very latest styles.

The sand blasting process has permanently established itself as a means of performing, carving and lettering operations in monumental art, and owing to the large volume of business handled by this firm in the past year, the amount of orders now under construction for early Spring delivery and the increasing number of orders being written it became necessary to increase production. This has been taken care of by installing the latest and best machinery.

The Lowell Granite Co., now has seven men in its employ and expects to increase this force in the near future.

HAND GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Newal Hand celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 23, with their four children and families, Ray and wife, E. and Mr. and Mrs. James Collins, and Ernest, of Lowell, Cyrus and wife, of Pontiac, Harold Collins, of Grand Rapids, Howard, of Freeport, Mrs. Nellie Stevens, of Allendale, a niece and husband, of Spring Lake. A bountiful dinner was served finishing with ice cream and cake. Many presents were received with two gold pieces.

All left wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hand many more happy years of wedded life. They have lived in Lowell 45 years, 42 of them in the home Mr. Hand built.

Trade Board at Live Wire Dinner Fest

The Lowell Board of Trade enjoyed a jovial and enthusiastic dinner meeting at the City hall at 6:30, p. m. with an attendance of 43, obtained without visitation or solicitation except for notification in The Lowell Ledger.

After a good repast served by the Yardley Group of the Congregational church, President Vern Ashley, newly-elected executive, called the assembly to order, and in a hearty and earnest manner presided over the talk-fest which followed.

Lee Smith of the Lowell High school teaching staff, introduced "Marquis," who was to entertain the Junior Course audience that evening, and he gave a brief address on magic, which consisted mainly of an "Exposure of Bogus Mediumship, or Spiritualism," which he denounced as a sham.

A letter from Secretary E. R. Kniffin at St. Petersburg, Florida, said that the rest of the Lowell people had gone to the East coast, but he and Mrs. Kniffin were not very well and were remaining where they were.

On motion of F. M. Johnson, supported by M. N. Henry President Ashley was requested to send a message of sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Kniffin and to tell the former he was missed at the meeting.

G. D. Cook was called upon to introduce Mr. Grovesma, forestry expert of the Michigan State college, who talked interestingly of "Idle Lands and Costly Timber," saying that the Michigan State college is interested in substituting busy lands and cheaper timber, and advocated reforestation as a means of meeting the needs of future generations for their home-building purposes and commended action regarding same to the American Legion and chamber of commerce bodies.

President Ashley said that "Idle Lands," reminded him of Idle hands, and that of 130 Board of Trade members 50 are active and 80 are riding, some keeping off the ground and some letting them drag.

Expected speakers, Fred D. Keister and Howard Lawrence, of Ionia, being kept away by the illness of Mr. Keister, the meeting concluded with brief impromptu remarks, Messrs. Bergerson, Hahn, Ford, Runciman and Kropf responding, all expressing hopeful anticipations for the coming year.

The next meeting will be held about middle of March at which time President Ashley will announce the Board of Trade committees for 1930.

Lowell Legion Plans Forest Memorial

At a regular meeting of the local Post of the Legion Monday night the members voted to purchase 10,000 seedling pine trees, the same to be planted by the Legionnaires, with the co-operation of the Agricultural department of the school. Mr. R. F. Kroodsma, Extension Forester of the State college, addressed the meeting and by the use of slides showed how a barren piece of land can, within a few years, become a beautiful pine forest if protected from fire. The site of this forest will probably be the land surrounding the village will, as the Council has already expressed a willingness to set it aside as a park so that it can be preserved and protected for all time for the people of Lowell. The committee appointed by Commander Kropf to take charge of this project is Wm. J. Smith, N. E. Bergerson, G. D. Cook and F. D. Smith.

OTHER LEGION DOINGS.

Walter Kropf, Norman Bergerson and Dr. Gottfredsen attended the Conference of Post Commanders and Adjutants held at the Post Tavern, Battle Creek, Feb. 22 and 23.

The Lowell Post was awarded the little brown jug trophy for having the highest membership record in the Fifth district. This makes two years in succession that the Lowell Post has received this honor.

The Post officers were also decorated with three stars each as a decoration for the meritorious work done by the local post. Addresses were made by Attorney Gen. Wilbur M. Brucker and Commissioner of Police Emmons, of Detroit, both prominent Legionnaires.
