STEPS OF PROGRESS

Of recent years the electric industry, aided by various farm organizations, has been giving much attention to solving the problems of farm electrification.

On January 1, 1924, there were 166,160 farms in the United States with "high line" electric service, or 2.61 per cent of the total number of farms reported in 1925.

On June 1, 1930, 627,105, or almost 10 per cent of the number of farms in existence, were provided with "high line" service, representing an increase of 27 per cent in 6 1/2 years.

At the present rate of progress, it will not be many years until a majority of American farms are provided with electric service.

When that time comes, we will be close to a permanent solution of agriculture's problems.

NORTH KEENE BOSTON CENTER SOUTH-WEST LOWELL

SOCIALISM'S NEW TECHNIQUE

In a recent address, Bernard J. Mullany, President of the American Gas Association, forcefully described what he terms "Socialism's New Technique."

Mr. Mullany points out that nowadays the term "Socialism" is so inflated, and that it advocates work under the new, and less distinctive labels of "Liberalism," "Progressivism," and the like.

All this, of course, is their right, though one might have greater admiration for their courage in a winter belief in their sincerity.

In the long run, it will be the voters that determine just how successful the Socialists shall be.

WHAT WE WILL DO AND WILL NOT DO

We will not buy a new suit now at $28.50, but we will buy it at $34.50, a little later on.

As Anatole France says, "It has always been man's destiny to fall into contrary excesses and the recovery from those excesses is always labored and prostrating."

And Shakespeare: "Men construe things after their fashion, clean from the purpose of the things themselves."

Wrote Descartes: "Good sense is, in all the worlds of men, the most equally distributed; for everyone thinks himself so abundantly provided with it that those even who are the most difficult to satisfy in everything else do not usually desire a larger measure of this quality than they already possess."

It is a wonder that we who cannot run a peanut stand offer to run the world; that we cannot invest $5 wisely will jump to invest $5,000; that who know what will be provided with electric service.

When that time comes, we will be close to a permanent solution of agriculture's problems.

Mr. Wheat moved the Johnson family to the Norton farm near Saranac Tuesday evening, Nov. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Houserman and son Harold, and Mrs. Elmer Richmond, of Lowell, will spend Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vorburg, of New Alton.

What kind of a Winter are you prophesying? We're expecting one like we had back in '08—or was in '97?

How many fish did you catch last Saturday? We're working, boys, who want to see you get a few more.

That fish dealer has made a mistake again. He charged us for eight."

Congratulations to Lowell high school on the showing you made in football. That was fine.

The mill folks came up on two dorkies walking slowly up the road, single file.

ABOUT THE LOON

BILLIE BROWNIE had always wanted to talk to the loon. He didn't know what to do. He decided to go to the loon on Great Northern River.

He wondered if there was any truth in the expression or how it had started in the first place. So he decided he would call upon a loon.

On his way there he wondered just how he would talk to a loon. It was rather a difficult thing to go to a creature and say, "Look here, old chap, they say you are a loon."

Yes, it would be extremely difficult to say that, and yet that was the way he would begin the conversation.

"Are You So Restless, Then?" Billie Brownie asked. He panted and he panted as to the way he would begin the conversation.

"By the way, they tell me you're a bit foolish yourself," he said. He was afraid, though, that a loon would be able to say this in a way as to make it sound as though he had just thought of it.

Then he wondered if he could talk about crazy things people had done and said. "I don't suppose you've ever done anything silly, have you?"

But he was afraid that might not do. That might sound as though he had meant the conversation to be a bit foolish yourself.

For Meditation

DEATH is the result of breaking contact with environment. When it is cut down the tree dies. Sever the flower from the stem and it will wither. In the same way, if the soul is severed from the body, the body will die.

The Way I See It

The San Francisco earthquake cured hundreds of cripples. They jumped up and ran for their very lives when their houses began to shake. They weren't as badly crippled as they thought. So here we are crippled. We fear the future. We fear this and that. We are ruled by fears, in spite of the fact we have half of the world's gold, half the machinery and all the skyscrapers. We've got the greatest home market in the world. We get what we go after. We are ruled by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. We all know when a horse balks, the balk is in it's head, not in it's legs, he moves when he wants to. To lose a little money is really nothing. But to lose hope--to lose nerve and ambition, will make cripples out of all of us. Nineteen hundred years ago the command was "Arise and Walk." We are up and going. When you need Drugs come to us.
