HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF
Writing of the colonization of Virginia in 1613, John Marshall said: "Hereafter no separate property had been acquired, and no individual had labored for himself. The lands had been held, cleared, and cultivated in common, and their produce carried into a common granary. Industry, deprived of its only reward, felt no sufficient stimulus to exertion, and the public supplies were generally inadequate to the public necessities. To remove this cause of perpetual scarcity, Sir Thomas Dale divided a considerable portion of land into lots of three acres and granted one of them in full property to each individual. Industry, impelled by the certainty of recompense, advanced with rapid strides; and the intruders were no longer in fear of wanting bread, either for themselves, or for the emigrants from England.

Now a press dispatch from Russia, where the common ownership system has been in effect, says: "A new proposal to emphasize the dictum of 'only those who work may eat' was presented to the all-union congress under the new scheme of commissariat of agriculture said the most difficult question—equalization of labor—was expected to be answered by introduction of the 'piece work' system in more than 85,000 enterprises. The standard of wages will be fixed in either works or commodities so the man who works hard will receive more than the man who does not."
The moral is that economic laws are fixed and unchangeable. Even the country which is carrying on the greatest socialistic experiment in history cannot do away with the law, which has been a part of human nature since the dawn of civilization, to reap the reward of one's own industry and ability.

RUNING ECONOMY
A primary reason for the magnitude of fire loss in the United States is the inadequacy of building laws in many communities, coupled with a false sense of economy on the part of builders.
The sort of material that builds without employing the most fire-resistive construction and materials, really amounts to waste. Second-rate construction may save a few dollars here, a few more dollars there, but it may be the means of destroying property valued at thousands of dollars and irreplaceable lives.
The National Board of Fire Underwriters has created a building code, most of whose provisions should be incorporated in the codes of all cities and towns. It is said that the success achieved in holding down fire wastes a number of European cities is largely due to the strictness and adequacy of their building codes. America has the money and skill to build homes and buildings that come with being fire-proof and it is possible—but the fallacious idea of economy often stands in the way.

There are few American communities which do not house one or a thousand fire traps—buildings whose very existence is a constant menace to all property in the neighborhood. They may even—as the Chicago and San Francisco fire demonstrations have demonstrated—an entire city. Likewise, there are few communities, aside from half a dozen metropolises, which are free of fire drenches such as that which was responsible for the great disaster in Berkeley, California. Conditions like these show why our half billion dollar annual fire waste is almost a thing to be expected.

I NEED THE CHURCH
To say that I do not need it is mere bravado. I need it when my father died; I need it when our babies were taken from us; and I shall need it in the hour of death and need it badly. I cannot quite conceive myself that the millions who have upheld the church were and are fools, and that all unbelievers are sane and right. So I attend church where I can and do for the church what I can, because I believe in it. It has been the source of inspiration and strength and comfort, and we should be grateful and thankful to it. Criticism and belittling, ridicule and mockery as it is, the church still stands for the finest in our thought. We cannot afford to join ourselves to the great number of non-church-going people, because we see no hope in what they advocate. We can not see where they lead us. They are trying to lead us and our children into licentious and debauched into a cruel struggle for existence here on earth and to a hopeless deathbed at last. As for me, I love the habitation of Thy house and the place where Thine honor dwelleth.—Edgar A. Guest.

Friendship is a precious thing. It makes our journey thru life easier. It widens the hours that would otherwise be bitter. It takes away loneliness and gives us pleasant companionship. It gives us confidence in the other fellow and, perhaps best of all, it gives us confidence in our selves. Without friendship life would be harsh and cold.

Some of the most prized friendships all of us make are those built on simple business transactions. Two neighbors exchange work, or they buy or borrow from each other, and every one of them is sure that there is a fair exchange and each man does the square thing. Friendship has been built.

We like to be neighborly with our patrons in all our business transactions.

The Ledger is in receipt of an interesting letter from Samuel Rowley, who has written to the automobile trip from Elm Dale to Clark, Montana, a distance of 2,911 miles. Gasoline used on the trip was 140 gallons.

Some of us are traveling through rain, snow and sleet the trip was without serious mishap, barring a few flat tires and minor accidents, their car at one time leaving the road, but without serious damage.

At Enders, Neb., Mr. Bowser reports speaking of mountain driving, "It is not all difficult to traverse," he says. "We are in luck, except the Continental Drive. There we had to shift back once, which is not a bad thing, especially on high wheels, but on the low wheels, it is a different matter. The roads over there were dry and good and at all places, well equipped with good tires and every sign of them here. We covered the route in about 12 miles away, though it is 12 miles.

ISO-VIS MOTOR OIL

Speedway Tests Reveal FACTS to guide the careful buyer of Motor Oil

- 1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.
- 2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.
- 3 Oil added—only 1/4 quart—of a quart—average for all cars—in 1,000 mile test at 30 miles per hour, using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy).
- 4 Effect of speed on oil consumption: Speed is the chief factor affecting oil consumption. All oils tested at 55 miles per hour showed a consumption nearly 7 times that at 30 miles per hour. Iso-Vis gave excellent oil economy at all speeds.
- 5 Carbon: only 6.23 grams per cylinder at 30 m. p. h. using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy), average for all cars.
- 6 Cylinder Wear: scarcely measurable—less than one one-thousandth (1/1000) of an inch in any cylinder in any car—the entire 9,000 miles.

HERE IS proof that New Iso-Vis does an outstanding job of lubrication. Try this tested and certified oil in your car. Then at draining time, make the Standard Oil Service Station or dealer with New Iso-Vis you have used. See for yourself that besides many other advantages, New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

People interested in problems might find out why "perfect love matches" sometime end in Reno. . . .

The idea of going to church next Sunday may strike you as a good one, but it won't do you any good unless you go.

Just about this time of the year thousands of seniors are planning to take care of the old world as soon as they graduate in June.

A successful leader of men can say nothing with so much pathos that he wins sympathy from his opponents and applause from his admirers. . . .

The man in the street who criticizes the church because its members are not saints ought to realize that if they were they wouldn't need the church. . . .

Some people think that all Chinamen are fools. Harken to C. T. Wang, Yale graduate, Foreign Minister of the Nanjing government: "Nations are given seals at international conferences according to the size of their navies." . . .

President Zamora, of Spain, promises to strive for the creation of respect for "law and justice." If he succeeds in Spain we might give him a job here.

Cities are great when they promote better citizens; and for this reason nothing is of more importance than the atmosphere created for the children of Lowell.

Up to this writing no bright pupil has written a letter to the school trustees of Lowell asking for an amendment to the school constitution and to adopt it as far as possible.

The Lowell Ledger is not crazy on the subject of trade-homes, but it does urge all its readers to give the idea serious consideration and to adopt it as far as possible.

Just to give the weather man a break let us remark that we checked up on his day to day prophecies for three weeks and he was right every time. Believe it if you want!

Mailing circulars is all right for those who prefer to use newspaper advertising but if you go to your postoffice you won't find many copies of The Ledger in the wastebasket.

I Love 'Em All!

Days of Summer—how I love 'em—
Ain't no days can rank above 'em!

Pretty soon, though, they must go.
Like to hear the jug fire away,
As I see 'em start to leave me,
I like Autumn too, you know!

Days of Autumn—fine and bracing—
Make you feel like forward-fac't!
Put new vigor in your step!
While your head basks you are given!
Make you glad to be a-bivin',
Fill you up with wit and pep!

Days of Winter—sharp and bitey—
Keen and nippy! Love 'em mighty—
Like to hear the jug fire away!
Like to hear the old wind shriek,
Like to hear the shutters creak!
Pan of pop-corn in my lap!

Days of Spring Time—sweet careenin',
What a joyous, gentle blessing—
Clean my heart of all its gall!
Yes, I love 'em, I do, they
Still, each season's full of true joy.
Sweet with charm—I love 'em all!

It amends the Federal court rules relating to insanity defenses in criminal trials. Where the insanity is raised, the bill provides the court shall conduct a hearing, and if the accused is acquitted, he cannot be committed to the Iowa State hospital for the insane. The sentence may be started within a year.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

It is interesting to note the large amount of space given to editorial in leading newspapers regarding the associate justice of the supreme court.

Another interesting thing is that though leading newspapers are quick to continue to bear his choice of responsibility as a member of that court.

Justice Holmes refused to admit failure. His personality and capacity for hard work as well as his splendid character have made him to all his work a success.

Justice Holmes is a great patriot. As defender of his country he not only served for 25 years on the supreme bench, but in the early days served in that conflict which he still carries in his body.

Canoe or Coffin? Argued Archaeologists of Scotland are arguing as to whether a rough hollow log of black oak, six feet long, found 25 feet below the normal level of Loch Thiel is an ancient canoe or coffin. Tests showed that it would float on the lake, but the length makes the coffin contingent adamant in their arguing. Anyhow, both say it is a valuable find.
