LOWELL WOMAN DIES FOLLOWING CRASH OF CARS

MRS. BELLE HODGES, 77, SUS-TAINED FRACTURES OF PEL-VIS, ARM AND RIBS IN COL-LISION AT JUNCTION OF US-16 and M-66.

A collision of autos at the junction of US-16 and M-66 about 7 o'clock Monday morning resulted in injuries to Mrs. Belle Hodges, age 77; which resulted in her death on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Hodges was in company with Miss Marian Bushnell, a Lowell school teacher, at the time of the accident, Miss Bushnell was driving from the south on a re-turn trip from the Alto creamery, and as she was crossing US-16 collided with an east-bound car driven by Robert A. Thompson, of Cascade township. With Mr. Thompson were his father, G. A. Thompson and brother, G. E. Thompson Thompson.

As the cars collided, Mrs. Hodges was thrown into the back seat of the Bushnell car. She was carried into one of the gas stations on the corner and medicat aid summoned from Lowell, murdered four young people near from the regular April 14 session.

Compromise? Yes! But for the County as a Whole

Having met defeat at the hands of both the rural supervisors and the courts in their attempt to saddle upon the county 40% of the cost of the proposed N. Division project, it will now be in order for the city manager of Grand Rapids, either directly or through his emissaries on the city commission, to come forward fawningly and in the "interests of harmony" propose a "compromise" to the rural supervisors on the N.

The Ledger has enough confidence in the soundness of the rural supervisors of Kent county to feel that they will not fall for any such proposition should it be presented.

There are some things that do not permit of compromise and in our humble judgment the N. Division project as sponsored by City Mgr. Welsh is one of them.

Here's a proposition calling for the expenditure of twothirds of a million dollars, one-half of which sum would have to be paid out on the start for the purchase of ramshackle, run-down property, on the sale of which Grand Rapids real estate men would wax fat to the tune of perhaps $75,000 in commissions.

Mr. Welsh's claim that the project would prove a great boon to Grand Rapids labor can hardly be borne out in the light of the above fact. Furthermore, after deducting the thousands of dollars that would have to be spent for cement and other materials to be used, the amount left to go for actual labor would not be worth sneezing at. The claim that a thousand men would be put to work on this job is ridiculous. About two-thirds of them would have to be water boys for the other one-third.

The improvement of N. Division av. from an aesthetic standpoint may be a desirable thing for the city of Grand Rapids, but to accomplish it by saddling a goodly portion of the cost on the county at large should not be considered.

The Ledger believes in harmony in the board of supervisors, but it does not believe inharmony that has to be purchased at such a price as the N. Division ave. project - a project which is not only opposed by rural taxpayers but undoubtedly by a goodly portion of the rank and file of Grand Rapids

To compromise on Division ave. proposition, should such efforts be made, would be about as consistent as it would have been for Gen. Lee to propose a "compromise" after he had been licked by Grant.

Let city and rural supervisors get together for the good of the county as a whole. This can be accomplished by a little give and take on each side on other matters that are in dispute but which are of more vital importance to the county

Is the BEST FOOD for Growing Children . . and Even for Adults!

And POUND for POUND, It Is BY FAR the Lowest Priced Food You Can Buy, When You Take "Food Value" Into Consideration growing children or for adults than CLEAN, pure, wholesome milk. It contains just the elements that the human body demands. You will find that children will be a whole lot better off if pies and pastries are omitte from their diet, and a glass or two of clean, pure milk substituted at each meal. They will enjoy better health, will develop a better physical foundation, and you'll find that there will be a big saving in doctor's bills. But above everything else, the milk should be CLEAN, because ordinary milk is a recognized carrier of germs. Here is where Melody Farms Dairy can be of great help to you, by providing milk that is just as CLEAN as any milk produced in Michigan, as proven by ACTUAL TEST by State Inspectors. Melody Farms Dairy has fully met EVERY REQUIREMENT demanded by the state in the production of clean, wholesome milk, and is legally PERMITTED TO SELL GRADE "A" MILK.

HOUSEHOLD BUDGETING

NE of the simplest ways of carrying out a household budget is by means of what most housewives call a house purse; and some sort of purse in which a stipulated amount of money was placed for every day's or every week's expenses was often used before the present vogue for budgeting began, One way of going about it is to have a purse containing several sections, with money in each. When any is spent for food it comes from one section, money spent for house hold supplies such as soap, kitchen utensils, dish cloths, etc., which should be considered as part of op-erating expenses, comes from another section, while money spent for sewing materials comes from

The fact is all the food value is still there, the lack is in the flavor or extractives, which may be supplied in various ways—adding flavorful vegetables, meats sauces and condiments, thus making palatable and nourishing dishes from meat left from broths. When we learn that marketing is a household science which needs study and observation and that extrawagant buying, however full the purse, is never to be indulged, we are in a fair way to improve in that part of household management. GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

MARTING under disrespect shown by a subordinate, Washington set out for Boston to have his position clearly defined by Governor Shirley of Massachusetts, then the highest military authority in the Colonies. He returned with full authority as Commander-in-Chief of the Virginia forces. This was his first trip to Boston, and for effect he rode in full uniform.

OUT, what winding roads do even heroes sometimes travell Washington detoured to Philipse Manor, near Yonkers, to pay court to Mary Philipse, a Colonial beauty. It was not an ill-timed call, for was he not resplendent in a new blue and buff uniform with a white and scarlet coat? And was he not accompanied by an impressive military escort? The proper approach, it would seem, for the sudden cepture of a lady's heart.

CRY FOR IT—
CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.
When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea.

Learn what a difference six cylinders make

Step out of any other low-priced car into a Chev-rolet, and learn the difference six cylinders make, "Idle" the engine-and the whole car remains steady. Open the throttle-the power flows evenly. Accelerate - throttle down-go fifteen or fiftyand this smoothness stays with you whatever you do. It's actually built into the motor-and objectionable vibration never even starts!

Yet smoothness is only one of many six-cylinder advantages. There's greater quietness, because noisy vibration is gone. There's greater comfort, because built-in smoothness doesn't tire you out. There's greater flexibility, because the powerimpulses of a six overlap. And a six is much easier

If you raise the hood of a Chevrolet and watch the engine running so smoothly, you'll realize that six cylinders also mean greater dependability. And remember when you do-that no other ear is so economical to operate as the Chevrolet Six

ed Riddles That Still Puzzle ities Here and Abroad

The Death of Cleopatra A SK the average person how Cleopatra queen of Egypt and supervampire of the Nile, came to her death, and, basing their reply upon the statements found in the usual history and the filmed ver-sions of the career of the Egyptian princess, they will answer: "She committed suicide by permitting an asp to sting her."

But put the same question to Plu-tarch, master historian of his time and admitted expert upon matters connected with the history of Rome and its neighbring nations, and the answer will be found upon the pages of his history: "What real-ly took place is known to no one." There, summed up in a sentence, is the truth about the death of Cleopatra, so far as it has been definitely and authentically ascertained up to the present time. In fact it is susceptible of being boiled down into two words—"Nothe statement that it is extremely doubtful if anyone ever will know, unless the sphlux gives up its secrets or some hidden recess of the pyramids is uncovered which contains the truth about the final days of her who was called the most beautiful of queens, but who was described by Plutarch in the fol-lowing words:

"Her actual beauty, it is said, was not in itself so remarkable that none could be compared with her or that no one could see her withor that no one could see her without being struck by it, but the contact of her presence, if you lived with her, was irresistible. The attraction of her person joining with the charm of her conversation and the character that attended all she said and did, was something bewitching. It was a pleasure merely to hear the sound of her voice. to hear the sound of her voice, with which, like an instrument of many strings, she could pass from one language to another, so that there were few even among the barbarian nations that she answered through an interpre

Born in Alexandria, in B. C. 69, Cleopatra shared the dominion over Egypt with her brother Ptolemy when she was only eighteen, out, some three years later, she was dethroned by those who adhered to her brother's standard. About this time Julius Caesar arrived in Egypt and fell victim to the charms of the siren queen, assisting her to regain her throne and she, in turn, presented him with a son, Caesarion, born during her stay in Rome where she remained until Caesar's ussassination in the senate, when she returned to Egypt.

About three years later another noble Roman cast his shadow across the career of the beautiful Egyptian—this time the handsome Mark Anthony, friend of the murdered Caesar and newly appointed ruler of Asia and the East. Sumnoned before Anthony on a charge of having given assistance to his enemies, Cleopatra, according to the description which Plutarch gives, "came sailing to him in a barge with gilded stern and outof silver beat time to the music of flutes and fifes and harps. She herself lay all alone under a canopy of cloth of gold, dressed as Venus in a picture, and beautiful young boys, like painted cupids, stood on each side to fan her. Her maids were dressed like sea nymphs and graces, some steering at the rudder, some working at the ropes. As a result, the positions of captor and captive were reversed for, as Plutarch continues, "Were Anas Plutarch continues, were Anthony serious or disposed to mirth, Cleopatra had at any moment some new delight or charm to meet his wishes; at every turn she was upon him and let him escape her neither by day nor by night. She played at dice with him, drank with him, hunted with him and, when he exercised in rms, she was there to see." Anthony's divorce of his wife, sister to the Emperor Augustus, which followed his infatuation for the Egyptian charmer, led to war between his forces and the Romans and to Anthony's suicide when he received a false report of Cleo-patra's death. This report, how-ever, was false only with respect to time, for only a short time aft-erward the former queen of Egypt shut herself inside the tomb of her Roman lover and when soldiers finally forced the doors they found her "lying upon a bed of gold, set out in all her royal ornaments,

But how did she accomplish her death? The most generally accepted story is the account of the asp, which some say was amuggled to her in a basket of fruit, while others declare that the queen had prepared for just such an emergency and had kept an asp in a vase for months. But why an asp, a comparatively large snake, when a small viper would have been quite as deadly? Why not poison, which would have left no marks upon the body which she loved so dearly?

Moreover, once more to quote
Plutarch, "there were no marks or suspicion of poison on her body"which appears to dispose of the asp theory—"and what really took place is known to no one."
