

DEATH REMOVES TWO RESPECTED LOCAL CITIZENS

MRS. CAROLINE YEITER COULTER HAD LIVED IN LOWELL AND VICINITY HER ENTIRE LIFE—KEENE NEIGHBORS MOURN PASSING OF HENRY FASHBAUGH.

Mrs. Caroline Yeiter Coulter, 73, beloved resident of Lowell and Freeport her entire lifetime, passed quietly away Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock at her home here after a year's illness.

She leaves many friends and neighbors to whom she was greatly endeared. It has been said of Mrs. Coulter that she never spoke an unkind word of anyone.

Private funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home and at 2:30 at the Lowell Methodist Episcopal church.

Henry Fashbaugh Dies at Age of 80

Henry Fashbaugh died early Sunday morning at his home in Keene township, where he had lived many years. He was 80 years of age.

Mr. Fashbaugh arose as usual Sunday morning and was preparing to go to the barn to do his usual chores when the end came painlessly and without warning.

Funeral services were held at the late home Wednesday at 2 p. m. Interment in the mausoleum in Jones cemetery.

Surviving are his widow; two sons, Fred of Benton Harbor and Harry of Keene township; a daughter, Mrs. Lee Jones of Ionia; a brother, Grant of San Francisco; and three sisters, Mrs. Rose Munson of Los Angeles, Mrs. L. D. Buchanan of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Ella Feighner of Nashville.

Mr. Fashbaugh was a highly esteemed citizen. A Neighbor's Tribute

In loving sympathy for the family of Uncle Henry Fashbaugh, one of Keene's grand old men, who passed from among us Sunday morning, a feeling of sadness and loneliness hovers over the neighbors who loved and honored him.

They've three years ago this month he moved from south of Saranac to the William Hunt farm just across the road from the home where his death occurred and in all the following years we have known him as a wonderful neighbor, accommodating to the fullest extent of his ability.

He had for twenty years a great number of young people in his employ on the large estate he operated, and he was always like a father to them all. For a great many years he has been on the school board in the Marble district and always interested in the welfare of school.

When the bell was rung for the annual meeting he was always present. He was a devoted husband, kind father and loyal friend. One by one they are passing on, leaving aching hearts behind. Your correspondent has joined friends with Neighbor Fashbaugh 33 years and we voice the sentiments of the neighborhood when we say, we have lost one of our best friends, Maggie Carr Leece.

Real Need for More Food and Clothing in Local Welfare Work

If he is hungry—the answer is bread. If he is frozen—a fire and a bed. If he is lonely—a lamp on the sill. If he is weary—a help up the hill.

If his misfortune—his fault or his fate—Rescue must hurry, but judgment can wait.

Mrs. W. I. Burdick in her report to the officers of the Welfare Union Monday declared that the sentiment in the above words has urged her on in her work as director of the Union. She reported that 67 families have been helped with food, fuel, clothing, footwear and medical treatment.

Mrs. Burdick did not report that she has cared for folks in her own home at her own expense. And she did not report that she has done many other deeds of helpfulness. It is most unusual that one of her calibre should carry on with no salary only because she is happy in doing something for others.

The meeting was called because there is need for more money and for more supplies. The German Methodist and Congregational churches have made donations which have helped a great deal but there is a real need for more food and clothing. Such supplies should be left with Mrs. Burdick. Mr. F. F. Coons reported that the treasury is about depleted and that there is a need for funds. No

AFTER THE SLACKER DOLLARS

Converts from the sin of dollar-hiding are growing in number all over the country, every day. Money passing from hand to hand pays bill after bill, without anybody being the poorer. It puts men back in the factories and the stores and gives them the opportunity to take their places among the wage-earners again. "People are beginning to realize these things," says Henry T. Ewald, who heads the state organization to fan out the hoarded dollars. "Money is coming out of safe deposit boxes and other places where it has been placed from a false sense of security, and taking its rightful place in the world."

DUCKS

It looks as if the Twentieth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States would be one which would change the date of Presidential inaugurations and eliminate "lame ducks" from Congress. As things are now, we elect a new President and Congress in November but their term of office does not begin until March 4 the next year. In the meantime, the old Congress holds a session in which defeated members, known as "lame ducks," still sit.

This is a hangover from the old stage-coach, horseback days of slow travel. It used to take three or four months to get to Washington. Both houses of Congress have agreed to submit a Constitutional amendment making January 3rd the date for Congress to meet with the newly elected members sitting, and the new president to take office on March 4th.

This probably cannot become effective before 1936, as it is not likely enough states will ratify it to put it into force for 1932.

ENCOURAGING

In a telephone conversation last Thursday morning, Governor Brucker called attention to the fact that there had been no financial institution of any kind close its doors in Michigan in six weeks. Restored confidence of the public and a distinct strengthening by liberalized credit by governmental agencies is bearing fruit.

The new naval airship ZRS-5, building at Akron, Ohio, will be named the Macon in honor of the Georgia city. The House Committee on Naval Affairs has under consideration a proposal to increase the size of the Macon from 6,500,000 cubic feet to 7,500,000, which would insure the United States first place in lighter-than-air construction.

Next Monday, March 14, is village election day. While there is but one ticket in the field every voter should nevertheless go to the polls and vote.

Search for Lindy's Baby Still Futile; Kidnapers in Fear, Claim

The following Associated Press bulletin may account for the delay of the return of the Lindbergh baby; it at least gives reason for hope:

Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has taken every possible step to negotiate directly and confidentially with the kidnapers of his son, it was learned in an apparently reliable quarter that the abductors have informed him that they did not feel it yet safe to deal with him further.

Odds and Ends Here and There

The Harry Harr family came mightily near going hungry last Sunday. It happened this way: The Harr's came to town Saturday, bought a week's supply of groceries, put them in an automobile which they thought was their own, but it wasn't—just another car that looked like theirs. Later they got into their car and drove home, only to discover they had no groceries. In the meantime John Kadis started to get into his car when he discovered a nice lot of groceries in the back seat. Mr. Kadis knew some one had made a mistake, so he brought the groceries to the Ledger office where they were placed in a conspicuous place in the front window, where they were seen by the Harr's who had returned to town post haste to make a search. And everybody smiled again.

On April 1, the state will pay an additional $250,000 on its debt to the counties for the care of tubercular patients in county institutions. Since the malt tax law became effective last spring, the state has previously paid the various counties $500,000. Total revenue from this source, according to Department of State records, will exceed $800,000 by April 1.

Charles Doyle returned Tuesday from his southern trip for the King Milling Co. Mr. Doyle reports that in Georgia the flowers and peach trees were in bloom, but a heavy rain storm was in progress accompanied by a 150-mile gale which was blowing the waters from the bay into the city of Northport. Passenger trains could make scarcely 10 miles an hour.

Michigan has this week been gripped in the severest weather of the winter. The cold wave came out of the north last Saturday evening and on Monday and Tuesday nights the thermometer registered near zero. Should this weather continue a short time longer it will yet mean a good ice harvest which would give employment to a number of men and effect big savings to consumers on next summer's ice bills.

The Real Sweet Shop has been undergoing extensive improvements to the interior during the past week. Walls and ceilings have been redecorated, tables and chairs refinished and new linoleum laid. Mr. Jensen, the new owner and Mr. Hixson, the new manager, plan to have a formal opening in the near future.

W. C. Hartman has been confined to his home for a week or more with an attack of influenza. Mr. Charles E. Brown, well-known pharmacist here, has been assisting Mrs. Hartman in the drug store during Will's enforced absence.

After over a year of unremitting effort on the part of Perry Stebbins, his ice cream, north and east of Saranac, will be served with electrical current by the Consumers Power Company and twenty-one farm homes on the way will be made brighter.

B. J. Dennis is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Archie Dennis, who died in a snow storm in South Dakota and that it had been as low as 22 below, with roads piled deep with snow. Archie Dennis left Lowell about a dozen years ago. He has 1700 acres of land and is engaged in stock raising.

Having served one term as township clerk I respectfully ask the electors for their support at the Republican caucus to be held Tuesday, March 15. If renominated and elected I shall continue to give the same conscientious service and time to the duties of the office.

Continuing through April 10, the Lowell Epworth League will be the scene of a very unique group of meetings; the topics dealing with a study of the South American people, and the missionary work being done there by Dr. and Mrs. Scott Hauser and his corps of workers, whom the Michigan State Epworth Leaguers are supporting, through their missionary contributions. Plans are also under way for a membership contest to be held in connection with the mission study. Committees chosen by Robert F. Merrill, first vice president, are as follows:

Speaker, R. W. Merrill; chairman, Robert F. Merrill; assistant chairman, Thomas Doyle; song leader, Thomas Doyle; time keeper, Frances McCarty; assistant keeper, Edith Althaus; captains of two sides, Robert F. Merrill and Esther Beatham.

At the close of the contest the losing side will act as host to the winners at the April party. It is expected that a large number of young people who are attending no other young peoples' society will find their way into these splendid services.

The cabinet met at the home of Robert F. Merrill Monday evening to discuss plans for the coming month. Among other projects under way is the Junior Epworth League, which meets each Sunday afternoon at 6:30 in the church for all children. This live group is under the direction of Miss Lucille Visser, Miss Marian Brown and Mrs. A. F. Zwemer. Recently, W. J. Smith gave a very interesting and timely talk upon the life of Horace Greeley, early American pioneer. The organization wishes to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Smith for his message.

At some time soon the Epworth League will stage their first Annual Basket Ball Tournament. Watch for announcements.

Lowell Victor in District Tourney

Lowell's smooth working basketball machine was low well oiled last week for any breakdown and the boys coasted of victories over Belding, Sand Lake and Rockford on successive evenings. Belding was pushed over 25-13 on Thursday, Sand Lake was smothered 37-10 on Friday and Rockford was routed 21-12 on Saturday.

We will not go into detail about these games. We will merely state that Lowell displayed a five-man team and each player acted as a cog in the machine. They played superb ball. The crowd from Lowell was small in comparison with the followings from other villages.

By winning the district tournament Lowell won a parchment emblematic of the championship. The boys also won the honor of representing the district at the Regional Tournament, which will be played at Union High School, Grand Rapids, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Regional Tournament It is hoped that many fans will give support to the team at Grand Rapids. The admission is 25c for students and 50c for adults. Mr. Finch participated in the draw Monday morning and drew Grant for Thursday night at 8 p. m. Woodland and Zealand will play at 7 p. m. and Ionia and Hastings will play in a class B game at 9 p. m. If Lowell wins Thursday Fremont will be encountered on Friday. Fremont has not lost a game this year. Holland Christian will play the winner of the Woodland-Zealand game on Friday in the other class "C" game.

A special picture has been booked by the Strand and will be shown Wednesday, March 16th, as benefit performance for the Legion Auxiliary which is conducting a ticket-selling campaign. The picture is an authentic and thrilling epic of the late war and carries you to every front and the more important actions and battles.

AIR RAID ON TOWN Swooping out of the snow clouds last week-end a yellow plane bombed the town, leaving in its wake some novel advertising of the Strand Theatre. We find the "snowbirds" were Hollis Drew of the Strand and Jack Byrne, Grand Rapids aviator, and some ten towns were "attacked."

Thirteen graduates of the class of 1931 are attending higher institutions of learning. These institutions are Central State Teachers College, Western State College, Junior College of Grand Rapids, Rockford College and the Ionia County Normal.

The official records from the above institutions show that Lowell graduates are doing much better, on the average, than those from other schools.

No other medium or method can be compared to The Ledger in covering this field.

THE PARENTS Mr. Hoyt predicts that Michigan, because of its natural advantages of soil and location, is destined to become the leading poultry state of the nation. And he further predicts that Lowell will be one of the most important poultry centers in that state. "The location here of the Foreman Poultry Farm as the breeder of strains that are gaining a national reputation the King Milling Company which manufactures a poultry feed which is also gaining a national reputation, and the Lowell Sprayer Co. which is putting on the market a fine line of poultry breeders' supplies, will be the big contributing factors to that end," declared Mr. Hoyt.

HOYT LMBR. CO. HAS BUILT 350 BROODER COOPS

NEW DEPARTMENT OF LOCAL INSTITUTION ADDS TO LOWELL'S FAME AS POULTRY CENTER—MR. HOYT A PAST MASTER IN MANUFACTURING ECONOMIES.

As further evidence that Lowell is steadily forging ahead as an important poultry center should be mentioned the growth of that department of the Hoyt Lumber Co. which is devoted to the manufacture of brooder houses. During the less than two years' time that the Hoyt Lumber Co. has been engaged in this branch of the building business, over 350 poultry houses have been made and delivered, the gross sales of which have averaged upwards of $25,000. That these houses have brought satisfaction to owners is evidenced by the large number of repeat orders which the company has received.

M. D. HOYT Those who visit the plant of the local company cannot help but marvel at the efficient manner in which their manufacture is carried on. Everything is done in an exact scientific manner. There isn't a particle of waste, in fact it would be difficult to start a kitchen fire with what is left over from the construction of half a dozen houses. The houses are made in ready-cut form. An electric saw is used and the work so handled that two sections are produced with one operation. The savings effected result in placing on the market a brooder house much better and at much less expense than could possibly be done by the individual builder. The houses are made in line with the most approved specifications of Michigan State college. In fact, two of the local company's 10x12 brooder houses were exhibited last week Wednesday at the farm of Swift Winegar, near Alto, the construction work being in charge of the college engineering department at an all-day meeting attended by poultrymen of this vicinity.

It will doubtless be of interest to know how it came about that Mr. Hoyt developed so efficiently his method of constructing brooder houses. In his past connections Mr. Hoyt visualized the possibilities of entering the lumber business for himself. He was buyer of lumber at a large box factory and in this capacity he had to plan and skimp, so that in the manufacture of boxes there would be practically no waste whatever. Millions of feet of lumber were bought with an absolute minimum of waste and thus contributed to the net profit of the company he was working for. Now, with this education and knowledge of economy, he is able to pass on a real saving to buyers of brooder houses.

Mr. Hoyt predicts that Michigan, because of its natural advantages of soil and location, is destined to become the leading poultry state of the nation. And he further predicts that Lowell will be one of the most important poultry centers in that state. "The location here of the Foreman Poultry Farm as the breeder of strains that are gaining a national reputation the King Milling Company which manufactures a poultry feed which is also gaining a national reputation, and the Lowell Sprayer Co. which is putting on the market a fine line of poultry breeders' supplies, will be the big contributing factors to that end," declared Mr. Hoyt.

The meeting will be in charge of Mable Hall and Kenneth Fletcher, assisted by various members. All young people are cordially invited.

This society has been prominent in the religious activities of Lowell for the past three years, and was recently reorganized under the new pastor, Rev. S. B. Wenger. The following are the newly elected officers: President, Richard Court; vice president, Kenneth Fletcher; secretary, Mabel Hall; treasurer, Grace Warren; pianist, Charlotte White.

Rat Experiment Shows Value of Nutritious Food

Pupils of the fifth and sixth grades in Lowell have been carrying on an experiment in nutrition as a part of their hygiene work.

Each grade was supplied with four white rats and each rat was fed with a different diet. An ideal diet was given to the first rat; a diet lacking in vitamins was given to the second rat; a diet lacking in carbohydrates was given to the third rat; and a diet consisting of bread and coffee was given to the fourth rat.

At the end of one month there was enough difference in the size of the rats for the children to actually see how different diets affect the body.

Hens Do Not Bother To Raise Chickens

Mechanical Methods Successfully Replace Biddy in Michigan Poultry Flocks.

Michigan poultry yards now contain one of the few leisure classes left in the world, since mechanical contrivances have relieved 80 per cent of Michigan hens from the responsibility of raising their own families, according to the poultry department at Michigan State College. Successful artificial raising of chicks is dependent upon clean range, maintenance of the proper temperatures in the brooder house, and the proper amounts of suitable feeds.

Clean range means ground upon which no kind of poultry has run during the preceding two years. Brooder houses must be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the chicks are placed in them. The brooder house should be movable and should be taken to the range after it has been cleaned.

The brooder stove should be set upon an asbestos pad or in a sandbox to eliminate fire hazards. A temperature of 90 degrees at a point one inch above the floor at the outside edge of the hover should be maintained. More chicks are injured by overheating than by chilling. The brooder house, away from the hover, should be about 70 degrees; these temperatures can be gradually reduced as the chicks become older.

The starting mash recommended by the Michigan State College poultry department is made up of 36 lbs. coarse ground yellow corn meal, 20 pounds flour middlings, 20 pounds ground oat groats or ground oatmeal, 10 lbs. dried milk, 5 lbs. meat scrap (50 per cent protein), 2 pounds steamed bone meal, 1 lb. salt, and 1 lb. cod liver oil. This mash can be fed until the birds enter the laying house, but it is improved as a growing mash by substituting 20 lbs. of bran for the flour middlings. The dried milk can be cut to 5 pounds and the corn increased to 41 lbs.

Advertisers too often spend one dollar for advertising and expect to get 85 back, within a day and a half. Seldom do they plan an advertising campaign as a capital investment.

Unnecessary Withdrawals Is Deplored

Unnecessary withdrawals by shareholders of Michigan building and loan associations, seriously hamper business, Coleman C. Vaughan, director of the building and loan division of the Department of State, declared recently. "The effect of large numbers of withdrawals," he said, "is to stop needed loans in order to pay withdrawals; and when withdrawals cannot be paid as fast as presented, it causes others to withhold investments, the withdrawing shareholders themselves preventing new loans and new investors putting in money and seriously affecting the earnings of their own corporation."

"If every application for withdrawal of shares in Michigan building and loan associations were canceled at once, new money would soon come in to loan, earnings would increase and shareholders would be benefited thereby. It seems probable, based on past experience, that if this were done the associations would, in a reasonable time, be able to resume paying off applications for withdrawal on demand, as they did generally for many years. It is hoped that all shareholders will try this plan of cancelling applications and will say to themselves:

"This is my association, I am a shareholder and a part of it; it is my business and I will stand by and help to make it stronger and a blessing to the community in the future, as it has been in the past."

SO. LOWELL EXTENSION CLUB
