HOOPER DRIVES AHEAD
In his speech accepting nomination to the presidency Herbert Hoover went "on the defense" to powerful attack upon the depression.

But worse than this there has been in those articles which have not only been for but for all laws, grave dangers to the nation. He especially reviewed the Administration record for alleviation of the economic situation—saying the measures taken have repelled attacks of "fear and panic."

His speech accepting nomination to the presidency Herbert Hoover went "on the defense" to powerful attack upon the depression along the whole National Front.

Reiterating opposition to cancellation of war debts, he at the same time expressed assurance that this country would consider any particular adjustment of war debts.

One after another he listed his favor for sound currency, protective tariff, immigration restriction, revision of railway laws, Federal regulation of interstate power, conservation of our resources, tax and banking reform, balanced budget, Federal economy, the St. Lawrence Seaway and adherence to the World Court with reservation.

In reference to foreign affairs he told of having projected into international diplomacy the new doctrine "that we do not and territory gained in violation of the peace pact."

Outlining what has been done to contract economic ills, Mr. Hoover said all of it in accordance with the principles of equality and individual responsibility.

"This is not an individualism which permits men to run riot in selfishness or to override the equality of opportunity for others. In the race after the false gods of materialism, men and groups have forgotten their country."

He declared solution of the Nation's problems, was not to be found in "haphazard experimentation or by revolution" but must come through the development of our national life under these ideals.

"It does not follow," he said, "because our difficulties are stupendous, because there are some souls timorous enough to doubt the validity and effectiveness of our ideals and our system, that we must turn to a State-controlled or state directed social or economic system in order to cure our troubles."

"With the humility of one who has stood in the midst of this storm," the President said, "I can say with pride that the distinction for these accomplishments belongs not to the Government but to you."

"It is due to the intrepid soul of our people. It is to their character, their fortitude, their initiative, and their courage that we owe these results."

"We of this generation did not build the great ship of state. But the politics I have inaugurated have protected and aided its navigation in this stormy sea."

HOOPER TAKES STAND FOR DRY LAW REFORM

The complete text of President Hoover's prohibition declaration follows:
Across the path of the Nation's civilization there has arisen a bitter controversy over the control of the liquor traffic. I have always sympathized with the high purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment and I have used every power at my command to make it effective over the entire country.

I have hoped that the final solution of the evils of the liquor traffic would be found in a law which would protect our people where they have strayed for generations. It has succeeded in great measure in those many communities where the majority sentiment is favorable to it. Laws opposed by majority sentiment create resentment which undermines enforcement and in the end produces degeneration and crime.

Our opponents pledge the members of their party to destroy every vestige of Constitutional and effective Federal control of the traffic. That means over large areas the return of the saloon system with its corruption, its moral and social abuse which debauched the home, its deliberate interference with those States endeavoring to find honest solutions of political, economic, and social problems, and its perversion of Legislatures, which even touched at the Capital of the Nation.

At the same time I must recognize the difficulties which have developed in making the Eighteenth Amendment effective and that abuses have grown up. In order to secure the enforcement of the Amendment under our dual form of government, the Constitutional provision called for concurrent action on one hand by the State and Federal authorities and on the other by the Federal Government.

It is my duty to state that the Federal Government, its enforcement agencies, independent but coincident action of both agencies. An increasing number of States and municipalities are proving themselves unwilling to engage in such enforcement of the Amendment.

But worse than this there has been in those articles which have not only been for but for all laws, grave dangers to the nation. He especially reviewed the Administration record for alleviation of the economic situation—saying the measures taken have repelled attacks of "fear and panic."

CONSIDER THESE FACTS

IF YOU are in the least skeptical about the very real and increasing number of homes poorly adjusted economically, you are growing older, regardless of your age, and you are realizing that your own life is passing away, you should consider these startling facts.

A study of more than one thousand homes in the United States shows that fully half the homes are poorly adjusted economically. This means that one out of every two homes in the United States is poorly adjusted economically.

Eighty-five percent of all homes are poorly adjusted economically. This means that one out of every two homes in the United States is poorly adjusted economically.

Market Your Grain Through Livestock

Better Than Current Prices Realized on Feedstuffs Used as Rations for Cattle, Lambs or Hogs

Livestock provides the best market for Michigan grains under present price conditions, according to members of the animal husbandry division of Michigan State College.

Groups of calves bought by State College for experimental feeding cost $7.50 per hundred-weight and were sold for the same price, but they made gains rapidly enough to pay the following prices per hundred-weight for grains: ground barley, $1.48; shelled corn, $1.39, and ground oats, $1.30.

Roughage and grain can be marketed through lambs at a good profit. In forced feeding, approximately equal quantities of roughage and grain are fed, but, if light lambs are carried through a longer feeding period, the proportion of roughage can be increased to about twice the amount of grain.

Better than current market prices for feed, can be realized from feeding lambs which sell for the same price per pound that was paid for them. Any increase in market price for the finished lambs will materially increase the returns from the feed.

Good, thrifty pigs are excellent grain markets unless an attempt is made to make the gains on grain without any protein supplement when the hogs are being fed in a dry lot. The College livestock feeders say that the cost of gains under such conditions is prohibitive and they recommend the addition of skim milk or tankage to the grain ration.

Family Reunions

Condon Reunion

Ninety descendants of Samuel and Maria Condon gathered at Fallsburg park Sunday for their 21st annual reunion. Oldest member present was Mrs. Christie Condon of Smyrna. Youngest member was the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Burnette Condon. No business meeting was called again this year and Mrs. Mary Keller of Greenville took the dues. A counifull pot luck dinner was served at noon.

Sweet School Reunion

About 125 attended the Sweet school reunion at Fallsburg park Sunday, August 14th. Games, races and athletic stunts were enjoyed. Officers for the coming year are president, Earl McDiarmid; vice president, Charles Rittenger; secretary, Miss Mable Johnson; treasurer, Andrew Rittenger. Their meeting for 1933 will be at the same place the second Sunday in August. Visitors were there from Lansing, Grand Rapids, Lowell, South Lowell, Caledonia, Detroit and the country around.

Boylan Family

The fourteenth annual reunion of the Boylan family was held Sunday, August 14th at Fallsburg park, with 42 in attendance from Lansing, Langsburg, Ann Arbor, Brighton, Howell, St. Johns, Gaylord, Ionia, Grand Rapids, Grand Ledge, Dewitt and Lowell. A wonderful spread at noon to which all did hearty justice, after which a business meeting took place and officers were elected for the following year.

R. B. Boylan, our fellow townsman, succeeded himself as President and Lydia Wile of Ann Arbor was chosen secretary. Following the business a program was enjoyed, the outstanding feature of which was the congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Boylan in memory of their 50th wedding anniversary which occurred last winter while they were in the Southland.

Later in the day ice cream was served with a gold cake 49 inches around and 4 1/2 inches high, beautifully decorated with golden icing and capped by twelve golden (real) roses. Mrs. Boylan was asked to cut the cake which pleased the palate as well as the eye, with ample to serve all and a few pieces were brought to Lowell for some of the Boylans' shut-in friends. This part of the program was a complete surprise to the Lowell Boylans, who nevertheless enjoyed the honor bestowed upon them.

The guests from away were loud in their praise of Fallsburg park, some of whom had visited it when thinking of a place to hold their reunions this year.

In 1933 the family will hold their meeting in Ann Arbor.
