JUST POLITICS

THE following from the editorial columns of last week's Charlotte Republican-Tribune makes interesting reading for Ledger readers for at least two reasons, viz: One of the characters in the story is from our neighboring county on the east, while another character is none other than Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, who will address the annual banquet of the Lowell Board of Trade next Monday evening. So much for the synopsis—now go on with the story: Ionia county is out after Eaton county's record. For term after term Eaton furnished the state with its lieutenant governor. Now comes a story out of Lansing that Howard C. Lawrence of Ionia, former state treasurer, is being considered for the governorship, an extra compliment when it is remembered that Ionia has hardly recovered from a similar honor. A Detroit News writer points out that Fitzgerald is none too eager to be governor. He is amiable and peace-loving. He dislikes controversy. He hates to disappoint anyone. Having spent most of the working days of his adult life in the capitol or the state office building, he knows that the governor of Michigan is a sort of public punching bag. He has watched several men achieve general popularity, assume office as governor, alienate a few admirers with every official act, and retire from public life bewailing the fickleness of their erstwhile friends. Fitzgerald is keenly aware of tremendous problems a governor must tackle. He doubts his own ability (and the ability of anyone else, for that matter) to solve them in a manner satisfactory to all concerned, or even the great majority of those concerned. When Fitzgerald does a job he likes to have it generally understood that the job was well done.

and then proceeds to enumerate the personal qualifications of Mr. Lawrence and the political psychology in his favor. Then of course is the natural supposition that Governor Brucker and his friends must always be considered. The governorship is a high honor but we can not personally see Lawrence and Fitzgerald as primary opponents. While Fitzgerald has much the wider acquaintance and the Fred Green friendships about the state would "cut in" on many of the leaders who are now for Fitzgerald. Lawrence and Fitzgerald—and Green for that matter—think in the same political groove and as a trio they are too smart to divide their present political advantage. Then again, 1934 is an off year and much depends on what the democrats accomplish in the way of tax relief. Fitzgerald is well equipped with all this talk about his position in 1934 may be a smoke screen to temporarily protect the secretary of state while the democratic legislature is in session, just over his head, in fact as well as theory. All this early talk about the republican gubernatorial aspirants in 1934 suggests this school of philosophy: Our actions are usually right, but our reasons for them seldom are.

NEW IDEA THE Grandville Star of February 9th quotes some of the citizens of Wyoming-tp, as advocating a new idea in welfare relief as follows: "Jacob Vredevoed and a number of township civic-minded students obtaining help from the township to sign a note for very good in relief given them in other words he would loan and not outright give the indigents help. This is an advanced suggestion which has its merits. Right now many are receiving help from their neighbors as it were indirectly (actually through the township) at a time when they are as poor as those obtaining relief." INTERESTING BUT APPALLING A STRIKING illustration as to why the cost of government and public activities must come down is clearly shown in an article on the editorial page of this week's Ledger, entitled, "How the State Gets Your Cash." The startling facts shown provide convincing proof that taxes must come down and NO NEW TAXES CREATED.

Farm Acct. Books Checked Next Week Between 55 and 60 farm account books in Kent County will be checked in next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, February 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd by representatives of the farm management department at Michigan State College. Arrangements have been made to have the books brought into Lowell, Alto, Rockford, Kent City, and Grand Rapids. Nine men are checking in their fifth account book, fourteen are checking in their fourth book, eighteen their third book, fourteen their second books, and three their first year. These books are summarized at the college, returned to the farmer with a record of his year's work in comparison to others in a similar farm system. New books can be started this year. JOURNAL PLANT IS WRECKED BY FIRE AND WATER BUILDING OWNED BY J. M. HUTCHINSON BADLY DAMAGED — HAYSMER BARBER SHOP RUINED — GAZELLA AND YEITER STOCKS ALSO SUFFER.

Fire which started about 10 o'clock last Sunday morning in the basement of the building on West Main-st owned by J. M. Hutchinson, completely gutted the building and practically ruined the printing plant which had been used for years in publishing the Lowell Journal until that paper suspended publication in July of last year since which time Mr. Hutchinson has conducted a job business. The east half of the front of the building was occupied by the Haysmer Barber shop, all of the contents of which were destroyed with the exception of two barber chairs which were removed, although more or less damaged. Even the razors and other barber tools were destroyed. Mr. Hutchinson's living quarters on the second floor, together with contents, were ruined by water and smoke. Considerable damage was also done to material and machinery in the carpenter shop of J. C. Hatch, located on the second floor at the rear. The Gazella lullaby store on the west suffered damage to the extent of several hundred dollars, as did also the Yeiter furniture store adjoining on the east. Practically all the damage to the stock in these two places was due to smoke and water.

Mr. Hutchinson states that he had made a fire in the furnace that morning about 8 o'clock and that everything appeared to be all right when he left the building a few minutes before the discovery of the fire by Harvey Haysmer, the barber. The fire originated in the joint in the partition separating the barber shop and printing plant. Mr. Haysmer is quoted as saying that he attempted to smother the fire with ashes but without success. In the meantime the fire was spreading in the partition. Haysmer rushed out to the street and notified Harry Day, who happened to be across the street. Mr. Day turned in the fire alarm and the fire department responded promptly. After nearly two hours of hard work the flames were under control and the adjoining property had been saved.

The total loss amounts to several thousand dollars—perhaps $5,000 or more—the greater part of which falls on the Hutchinson building and plant, partially covered by insurance. The Gazella store and the Yeiter Co. also carried insurance. Mr. Haysmer did not carry insurance.

Weekly News Review For Our Readers

So many people have found it necessary to drop their daily paper in order to curtail expenses that The Ledger is this week inaugurating a Weekly News Review of the events of the week. This review will cover the most important events in a non-partisan manner and will enable our readers to keep well informed even though obliged to do without a daily. This "News Review of Current Events the World Over" will be continued in The Ledger as long as there appears to be a demand for such a feature, and is in line with the publisher's endeavor to provide a first-class home news paper. Turn to page 7 for this new feature. If not too much trouble please let us know what you think of it.

Local Democrats Will Meet Feb. 24

The committee on by-laws for the local unit of the Kent Co. Federated Democratic clubs met at the Harry Briggs home on Wednesday evening and have called on all Democrats in this vicinity to attend a meeting at the City Hall, Lowell, on Friday evening, February 24, to perfect a permanent organization and present their report. All Democrats are invited to turn out at a most interesting session is scheduled.

Flagg and Quirt in New Strand Show

Flagg and Quirt, that pair of scrappy marines are tearing into humor. Hot and spicy, loaded with smiles and belly laughs, "Hot Pepper" is by far the best this team has turned out since "The Cock-eyed World." It plays the Strand this Sunday and Monday so get set for your share of the fun. Ledger want ads cost little, accomplish much. Ledger Want ads pay.

Local Ice Men are Putting Up 10-in. Ice

Charles Billinger of the Spring Brook Ice Company, and Harvey Callier of the Northern Ice Company are putting up ice this week. The ice is about 10 inches thick and is of good quality. Barrings, a sudden thaw, both ice companies will complete the harvest this week. Last summer, both Mr. Billinger and Mr. Callier were obliged to truck in artificial ice from other points in order to supply their trade. It looks as though the zero weather of last week came just in time this winter as the sun was getting pretty high.

BIG PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR B. OF T. ANNUAL

Speakers of State-wide Reputation Will Be Present—Michigan Reformatory Orchestra Coming—Be Sure to See the Synthetic Cow.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Lowell Board of Trade to be held at the City Hall next Monday evening, Feb. 20, promises to be one of the most enjoyable ever held in the history of the organization. The meeting will be honored with the presence of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, and a former Secretary of State, Hon. Coleman C. Vaughan of St. Johns. Mr. Fitzgerald will talk on "State Affairs" from a non-partisan standpoint, a subject of vital importance at this time. Mr. Vaughan, who was called upon to head the State Building and Loan Department during the business crisis, will bring a message of hope that will be worth listening to at this time. The program will also have a number of other features of a happy nature which no one will want to miss. President E. C. Foreman and his committees have looked well to that. Mr. James B. Hayes, secretary of the State Hellenic Breeders' Association will be presenting "The Synthetic Cow—if you know what that is. Anyhow, be sure to be there and enjoy a good time with old bossie. Warden Charles Shean of the Ionia Reformatory is coming in person with his sextette of stringed instrument players. These boys are marvels and "the life of the party."

There will also be community singing, led by W. W. Gumsier, who declares that every song is going to be of the rollicking kind. Attorney R. M. Shivel will preside as toastmaster and in addition will present "The Minute Men," which means something more for you to wonder about until the time you hear them. Oh, yes, and don't forget about the barnyard milking scene, and right here we will also mention that this banquet will be something to talk about—"Capons," says Mr. Foreman.

Committees President Foreman has announced the following committees: Banquet—L. W. Rutherford, V. E. Ashley, Paul Kellogg, W. J. Smith, Bruce McQueen. Speakers—R. G. Jefferies, D. G. Look, M. B. McPherson, M. N. Henry, Harry Day, B. Van Dyke. Entertainment—W. W. Gumsier, W. V. Burras, W. C. Doyle, Dr. B. H. Shepard, R. T. Ford, C. H. Runciman. Reception—Charles Doyle, P. C. Peckham, F. H. Swarthout, Dr. H. P. Gottfredsen, M. D. Hoyt, H. L. Weekes, Frank Coons. Membership—R. E. Springett, X. E. Borgerson, G. D. Cook, E. C. Foreman, W. J. Kropp, J. A. Arhant. Decorations—W. W. Cook, F. J. McMahon, W. J. Roth, Carl Freymuth, Russell Smith.

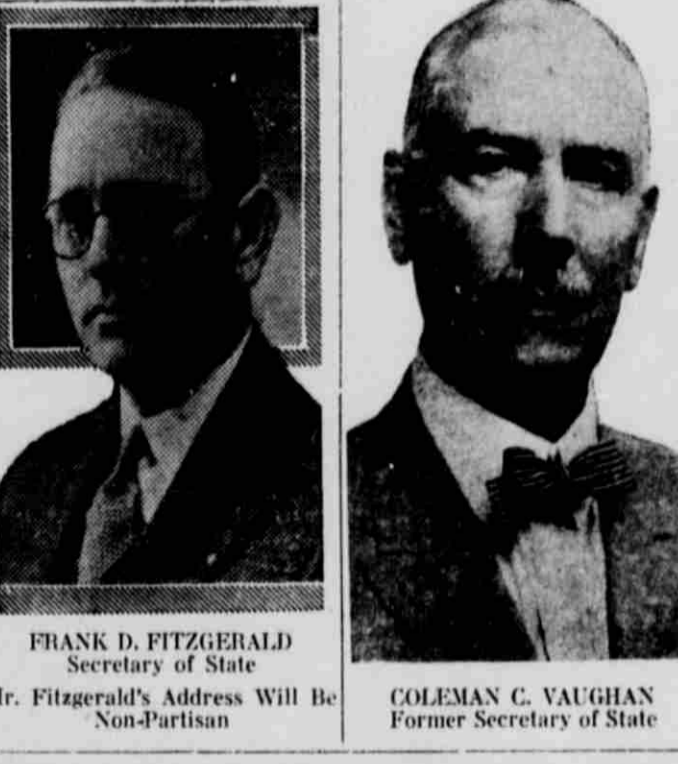

One-of-Um Tells About Frank's Club

Everything is quiet on the south side and why not? For they have a Santa Claus in the person of Frank Stephens. For some time his garage has been the congregating place for south side neighbors and patrons. Frank not only welcomes them in his well known congenial manner but keeps a nice warm place, with tables and chairs, and the men play sociable games of chess, checkers and cards. Each man has a chance to play in his turn, but the spectator seems to enjoy the game as much as the player. The crowd appreciates the convenience of passing away other weary dreary hours in a sociable way. —One of Um.

MOTHER OF EARL COLE LAID TO REST AT BELDING

Mrs. Helen D. Cole, widow of Ezra Cole, former residents of Lowell and Belding, was buried in Belding Sunday. She died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Viola Mills of Detroit. Surviving are four other daughters, Mrs. Mary VanWagon of Wrentham, Wash., Mrs. Estella Mariele of Port Sanilac, Mrs. Dollie Springer of Detroit and Mrs. Mabel Blanchard of Williamston and a son, Earl Cole of Lowell. Mrs. Cole would have been 85 years old had she lived until next August.

Banks of State Closed By Order of Governor; Lowell's Spirit Goes On

Business in Lowell is going on as usual. Local banks are supplying needed change for the transaction of business and merchants are doing all in their power to assist people during the bank moratorium. All people are showing their confidence in the future and stability of the State of Michigan and in the soundness of its banking structure as a whole. The wisdom of Governor Comstock's action is recognized despite the great inconvenience.

One of the most startling incidents in Michigan's history occurred early on Tuesday morning of this week when Governor William A. Comstock issued a proclamation closing banking and financial institutions throughout Michigan for a period of eight days, ending with Tuesday, February 21.

The proclamation was issued following an all-night conference participated in by Gov. Comstock, bankers from all over the state and federal and state banking officials. The proclamation, which came dramatically, like a bolt from a clear sky, was unprecedented in the state's history. It was declared necessary, mainly because of the acute financial emergency existing in the city of Detroit and immediate territory. The institution directly involved in the affair is the Union Guardian Trust Co. Like other financial houses it has suffered depreciation of its assets and was seeking to get out of the banking business and leave that field to other units of the organization. To do this it was necessary to pay off its depositors in cash. To make a long story short the Guardian Trust lacked several million dollars of having enough to do so. The result was the necessity of a bank holiday for all financial institutions of the state. Gov. Comstock is quoted as saying: "Unless it had been declared the larger depositors who were informed in advance of the condition of the institution would have withdrawn their money and left the smaller ones 'holding the bag.'"

It is probably safe to say that if the bank holiday had not been declared runs would have been started on the Guardian Trust and scores of other banks, doubtless spreading to all sections of the state. It is generally agreed that the Governor's action will give the Guardian Trust company and other banks opportunity to effect an orderly reorganization. Millions in gold are being rushed to Detroit.

Lowell Marches On

The people of Lowell and neighboring communities are meeting the situation with the best of humor and good grace. That's the way in Lowell. A community whose forebears conquered the wilderness a hundred years ago, who endured the hardships and privations of pioneer life, whose descendants went through fire and flood and then came up smiling to press on with greater courage in the processes of rebuilding that which had been destroyed, are not easily dismayed.

The people of this community know that the banks of this community are manned by men whose soul efforts during these trying times have been for the protection of the resources of their patrons. That they have been successful in their endeavors is evidenced by the substantial manner in which the gale is being weathered. The people of this community are pressing forward gamely as they always do.

Gunman Tries to Kill Roosevelt, 4 Wounded

Last night at Miami, Fla., a gunman made a deliberate attempt to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt escaped injury but the would-be assassin's shots instead seriously wounded Anton Cermak, mayor of Chicago and four other persons. The would-be assassin gave his name as Joe Zangara of Hackensack, N. J. Mayor Cermak, from his hospital bed, told Mr. Roosevelt: "I'm glad it was me instead of you."

Village Caucus on Friday, February 17

Notice is hereby given that a Citizens' Village Caucus will be held at the Lowell City Hall on Friday, Feb. 17, 1933, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for village offices for the ensuing term: Village president, village clerk, village treasurer, assessor, three trustees for two years, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the caucus. By order of F. F. Coons, Mrs. B. H. Shepard, L. W. Rutherford, committee. Dated Feb. 7, 1932.

TWO FARM FIRES COLDEST NIGHT OF THE WINTER

FAMILIES BARELY ESCAPE IN NIGHT CLOTHES WITH MERCURY 10 BELOW ZERO—MRS. RITTERSTORF AND BABY SUFFER FROZEN FEET

Two of the most damaging fires of the winter occurred last Thursday night, February 16, with the thermometers reading at the lowest point of the season—10 deg. below zero. The first fire occurred about 9 o'clock at the Clark farm on US-16, near Yeiter's oil station. The house was a double one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John I. Clark and their son Ernest, and his family. The fire originated in the attic and spread rapidly. The fire department was called and responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway that neither the house nor much of any of the contents could be saved. The loss on the house and contents is partially covered by insurance. Neighbors have come to the pressing needs of the Clark families with clothing and other necessities. Work of fixing up a place to live on the farm are now under way while preparations are also going forward for the building of two small houses in the spring to take the place of the one destroyed. Mr. Clark, Sr., is 73 years of age and his wife is 63, but they don't appear to be the kind of folks to take a k. o. over such a thing as losing their home, furniture and clothing. That's the spirit!

Mother and Babe Suffer Frozen Feet From White's Bridge Correspondent: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ritterstorf of Keene had the misfortune to lose their home by fire last Thursday night about 11 o'clock. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Ted Vanoccker. Some of the furniture and bedding was saved by quick work. Mrs. Ritterstorf froze her feet while helping to rescue the furniture and children. This is a terrible loss for them as they have a large family and all their canned fruit and vegetables are gone. They are now living in the former Mary Dailey house. Mrs. Clyde Gordon, Alto-Veogenes correspondent writes: Mrs. Ritterstorf froze her feet, which were frozen at the fire, had to be lanced since because of infection, also that one of the children's feet were frozen and that they put him in the brooder house for warmth while the house was burning."

Blizzard Lets Up On Its Firm Grip

The blizzard which hit most of the country on Thursday and Friday last week caused considerable hardship and more or less suffering in this section. Mercury dropped to 10 below zero on Wednesday night and many roads were well-nigh impassable. Local R. F. D. carriers each carried extra help with them on their trips, equipped with shovels for clearing their way through the snow. Practically all of each route was covered, although some of the carriers covered portions of their route on foot. All schools here were closed on Thursday, but on Friday all rooms were in operation below the ninth grade. From the ninth grade up no sessions were held either day as not a pupil from outside the town was in attendance. Plumbers were on the jump night and day, thawing frozen frozen water lines and repairing burst water pipes. While thawing water pipes leading to his meat market, Lester Weaver lost his balance and fell into the icy waters of the Flat River, under his market. Mr. Weaver donned a change of clothing and was soon back on the job, none the worse for his experience. The weather has now moderated considerably and spring again appears nearer.

POLITICAL POT OF THE VILLAGE NOW SIMMERING

LOT OF TALK ABOUT TWO TICKETS OR A RUN-OFF ON ELECTION DAY—CITIZENS' CAUCUS FRIDAY NIGHT AT CITY HALL

Awhile back there was more or less speculation as to what would develop in the local political situation, but as village election draws near developments appear to be lacking. Several had been heard to express themselves as hoping that local Democrats might see fit to place a ticket in the field, believing that a wider expression of choice would be for the public good. However, no such action has as yet been taken, although it is not yet too late. Others have suggested that two non-party tickets—Citizens and Peoples, for instance—would be a good thing. Still others have suggested that at the Citizens caucus, which has been called for this week, Friday evening at the City Hall at 7:30 that informal ballots be taken for candidates for each office and that in each case the names of the two persons having the highest vote appear on the ballot for a run-off in the village election on Monday, March 13. It is claimed that this plan works well in those places where it has been tried. No doubt there will be a large attendance at the caucus on Friday night. The times have been such that citizens generally are taking a greater interest than for some time past in all branches of government and the cost of same. When times were flush not so much attention was given to taxation, but the situation is much different today. The sad part of the present situation is that in most all governmental functions expenses were created, which, in many instances, must now be met when the people are unable to foot the bill. The past cannot be helped, but the future can be guarded. So far as The Ledger can ascertain locally there appears to be no one overly anxious to assume thankless jobs at the gift of the people. Candidates to succeed the following officers are to be named at the Friday night caucus: President, V. E. Ashley; clerk, O. J. Brezina; treasurer, W. J. Kropp; assessor, Chris. Bergin; trustees, Harry Day, Dr. B. H. Shepard, C. W. Cook. The trustees who hold over are Claude Staal, Arthur Armstrong, and H. J. Englehardt.

As you travel on the county line from Lowell across to US-16 a substantial looking culvert may be observed near the Harry Kinsley place. That's the oldest culvert in Boston-tp. It was built by Grant Warner 34 years ago and bids fair to endure at least another 34 years. Fiddling isn't the only thing that Grant Warner does well.

Free Want Ads for Ledger Readers

Until further notice The Ledger will give 50 cents worth of free advertising in the Want Column for each year's subscription paid. A card will be issued, good for use any time within the year. This offer is made primarily to acquaint all of our subscribers with the result-getting qualities of Ledger advertising and also to enable each subscriber to make a saving of 50 cents on each year's subscription. If you have anything you want to sell, swap or trade, or if you want to buy anything the Ledger Want Column will bring results. Your neighbor will tell you that it pays to advertise in The Ledger. MISSIONARY TO SPEAK

Rev. Charles H. Larson, a missionary to Bolivia, now on furlough, will be at the Baptist church in Lowell Sunday, February 19th, speaking at 11:30 a. m. and again in the evening. He is a very interesting speaker and will tell of his experience on the mission field. This will be your only opportunity to hear him as he will soon be going back.

15 Ladies Learn About Rug Making

Kent County Home Demonstration agent, Miss Seekell met with fifteen ladies at the home of Mrs. Jennie Kroff Tuesday and were given a lesson on making rugs. Three types of rugs, hooked, braided and crocheted, color, design and sizes were discussed and exhibited. Each member was taught how to braid with no raw edges showing which add to the appearance of a finished rug. The hooked rugs seemed to be the most popular. Another meeting will be held on March 3rd with Mrs. Bessie Frost.

The Depression Must Be Over—Alto Butter Goes for $2 Pound

The all-time high for butter—butter that scores better than 92 consistently—was reached recently when the product of the Alto Cooperative Creamery Association was knocked down to 82 per lb. No, that is not a mis-print—the price paid was two dollars per pound for Alto butter in Grand Rapids, Michigan, Feb. 8, 1933. Last those farmers who are patrons of this creamery began selecting new Cadillac, Lincoln, etc., we hasten to add that this butter was a prize-winning tub entered in competition with creameries all over Michigan at the annual meeting of the Michigan Allied Dairy Association recently held at Hotel Pentland, Grand Rapids and that it was auctioned by N. C. Thomas to a buyer who offered the record-breaking price. No other butter sold for $1 per pound. In so far as price is concerned the Alto Creamery held first place. In competition with over forty other creameries in Michigan, Alto butter took second prize. Only creameries in large cities—Flint and Saginaw—were in the running, with the exception of the Alto Cooperative Creamery Association. At the annual meeting of the Michigan Creamery Owners' and Managers' Association the local manager, Mr. Dale V. Curtis, was elected a director. Local patrons of the creamery are of the opinion that if Mr. Curtis can continue to make butter at two dollars per pound—and collect for it—the depression will shortly be over.

Pithy Points Picked Up and Patly Put by Our Peripatetic Pencil Pusher

Dr. J. H. Bickert of Hampshire, England, formerly of Lowell, is renewing his subscription to The Ledger for another year takes time to write the following: "Perhaps 'Uncle Marcus' will remember seeing this skill by Capt. Taylor of the Portland (Mich.) Observer: 'The editor sat in his easy chair.' (From a story chesnutly and old.) 'Twas the hole in his pants That made him sit there— A part that has never been told."

A copy of the Havana, Cuba, Evening Telegram of February 3, handed to The Ledger by Charles Doyle, lists the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Doyle and Mrs. Carl H. Kronenberger of Lowell, Mich., at the Parkview hotel. Well, we can always find something to be thankful for. According to Mr. Hollis Drew of the Strand we will soon see the "Last of the Mohicans."

Mrs. Levi Morningside, 76, died Friday at her home in Algoma township. She had resided on the same farm all her life. She is survived by her husband. A want advertisement in a metropolitan paper reads: "Lost—Chow, heavy red hair, tail lighter." A dog like that must have been a great convenience to any owner who smokes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doyle returned the latter part of last week from a trip to Florida and Cuba. Mr. Doyle reports considerable shrinkage in the number of tourists to Cuba, doubtless due to the times. Cuba has been involved in revolution for the past two or three years and soldiers are in evidence at all bridges and many other public places. The president of the troubled island declares his life during the past two years. When he travels he goes in an armored car surrounded with a strong body guard. On the steamship on which Mr. and Mrs. Doyle returned from Cuba was an ex-president of Honduras and his entire family, who occupied adjoining state-room. The ex-president was fleeing from his unhappy country to take refuge in the United States.

A new salad has been named the "Zephyr." Many hostesses will be glad to get wind of it. As you travel on the county line from Lowell across to US-16 a substantial looking culvert may be observed near the Harry Kinsley place. That's the oldest culvert in Boston-tp. It was built by Grant Warner 34 years ago and bids fair to endure at least another 34 years. Fiddling isn't the only thing that Grant Warner does well.

An automobile manufacturer proudly announces that some of his cars have traveled 80,000 miles in one year. We know some that have traveled even further than that, and still haven't found a place to park. The entire community rejoices over the good news that Mrs. D. G. Cook, who has been critically ill for ten days or more with pneumonia, has taken a turn for the better and that hopes for her ultimate recovery are now very encouraging.

Miss Myrtle Taylor continues very ill, with some improvement in her condition reported this morning. Her insurance office remains open for business with Mrs. Beulah McIntyre in charge. Charles Courter of Saranac, R. F. D. 4, was a caller at The Ledger office yesterday. Mr. Courter said he liked The Ledger "because it had lots of ads in it" and he "could tell where to buy what he wanted." Well, Mr. Courter, were afraid you are going to be disappointed with this week's issue.

Automobile Speed King Again at Daytona

Good Prospects In 4-H Sheep Clubs

One of the finest 4-H projects for a boy or girl is the sheep club. The original cost of the foundation animal is comparatively small. The amount of feed needed for proper feeding is small, and with good care there is a reasonably rapid increase in the flock.

The unit of work is one breed, ewe (either grade or purebred). Feed records are kept from March 15th to September 15th. The club member should secure his ewe previous to lambing so she will become accustomed to her new home owner. Usually, the ewe can be purchased more reasonable if bought before lambing.

The sheep responds well to good care and management. The boy learns the art of trimming and blocking, also showmanship. In addition to developing a flock of sheep and learning of their management and care, the boy learns how to conduct business meetings through the regular monthly meeting of the club. There is also an opportunity for social development because each 4-H club devotes a part of each meeting to recreational and social activities. The annual Kent County 4-H club camp at Bostwick Lake has a real meaning to all of the 4-H club members who have attended. A part of the camp activities consists of visiting farms and judging livestock. Any boys or groups of boys interested in sheep club work should get in touch with County Agent K. K. Vining.

School Teachers at Portland Get Part Pay in Scrip

As result of agreement recently concluded the teachers in the Portland village schools have begun accepting part of their wages in scrip.

The scrip is redeemable at Portland business places at 100 per cent of face value. The business men in turn will present the scrip they collect to the township treasurer when it comes time to pay their school taxes and will be allowed full amount for such sums as they have collected.

The plan was inaugurated on request of the teachers. It serves the double purpose of encouraging a buy-at-home movement and also in easing somewhat the financial problems with which the Portland school board has been faced as result of increasing tax delinquencies due to current business conditions. It will continue to affect the remainder of the present school year.

THE PENNY CARNIVAL

The "Penny Carnival" at the Congregational church Wednesday evening sponsored by the group of ladies of which Mrs. F. J. Swarthout is leader, proved a grand success in every way, according to report of all who attended. More than 300 people, old and young, attended. Mr. Runciman as chief of police, was kept busy arresting disorderlies, (he being taken before the judge as the most disorderly,) among whom were the Village President, V. E. Ashley.

Rev. Wenger was arrested and brought before Judge Swarthout for gambling and fined a penny. Mrs. Shivel for contempt of court, F. P. MacFarlane for short weight, Paul Kellogg for wife desertion, and many others for lighter offences.

The banker was also a busy person, having handled nearly four thousand pennies, besides the nickles and dimes.

Glendon Swarthout and Bill Warren as clowns and barkers did their stunts to perfection. The fish pond, from which 650 "fish" were taken was in charge of Mrs. Garden Johnson. Lee Lampkin, beauty parlor operator, was kept busy and the fortune tellers, Mesdames Sigler and Pennock delighted all their patrons with the pleasing "fortunes" promised them.

W. W. Gumser demonstrated his power of guessing by many accurate guesses on weight.

F. P. MacFarlane showed his nationality by his "close" guess, coming within five ounces of a huge lump of coal. The many booths were conducted with regard to the purchasers comfort and pocket book and the refreshments in charge of Mrs. Dor Niles were plentiful and fine.

Mrs. Neil Cameron held the lucky ticket which drew the lovely blanket.

Door prizes were awarded, 1st, to Mrs. Fred Jacobi, a beautifully decorated angel food cake; second, two dozen fresh eggs; Miss Dorothy Husman; third, a box of candy, going to Samuel Meyers. The dummy door prize went to Mr. Bettis. Mrs. Wenger, who directed the play, "Mrs. Jenkins' Brilliant Idea" was ably assisted by Mesdames Pennock, Thorne, Haysmer, Jacobi, E. H. Fletcher, Steed and L. E. Johnson.

THANK YOU ALL

To every one who contributed in any way to the success of the "Penny Carnival" the Shepard Group of the Congregational Ladies' Aid wish to express their sincerest thanks.

Saranac Locals

(By Mrs. Bertha Harwood)

Undertaker W. E. Densmore conducted the funeral of Dallas Harwood at Ionia Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ward were at Bancroft Sunday to attend the funeral of his father.

Ed. Dodd has sold his farm to Ora Weed, a stock buyer, and formerly of Ionia.

Another milk route has been established by Douglas Eddy. This makes three milk men in the village. Well, competition is the "spice of life."

The Saranac Legion Post had charge of the funeral arrangements for Milton Powell, which was held Sunday at the M. E. church, the pastor, Rev. F. P. Frey, officiating.

Vercha Covert of Detroit and two daughters of Rockford, were week-end guests of her father, James Hawley.

The Ionia Co. Teachers' Institute was held at Ionia Friday and Saturday of last week. A number of teachers of Saranac and the rural schools were in attendance.

The gentlemen night's banquet of the Ladies' Literary club was held Thursday night at the school auditorium. A fine chicken supper was served by the Seniors to about 85 people, after which they were entertained by "Wardens" Sheehan's "Lucky Boy Minstrels."

The Saranac Seniors are planning their annual trip. They have decided to back an all expense trip to the World's Fair at Chicago. The class earns the expense money during the four years in High School. The price of the six day trip is to be about $30 per person, including transportation, hotel accommodations, meals, admission to the fair grounds (4 days) and possibly side trips.

This year, as last, a limited number of persons outside of the numbers of the class will be accommodated. Any one interested may get further information from Supt. L. B. Vanantwerp.

Wins Honors

Ionia county was well represented at the annual Farmers' Week program at the M. S. G., and also acciered home some of the honors. Mrs. Stanley Thorpe of Saranac, receiving third place in the Tom Turkey class of 12 entries and in the pullet class of 12 entries. She was also elected vice president of the Michigan Jersey cattle club, and one of the directors of the Turkey Growers' Association.
