BANKS WERE SOLVENT

The one-man grand jury investigation of the reasons for collapse of Detroit's national banks was concluded Monday with the findings by Judge Keidan that there was no evidence of criminality on the part of the bankers and that the banks were solvent at the time they were closed.

The findings by the grand jury coincide with the conclusions that they had been drawn by a vast majority of the people of Michigan. No greater hardship was ever brought upon the people of this commonwealth than the closing of its banks by order of the Governor. And this hardship was further increased through the action of Senator James Couzens, who undoubtedly is primarily responsible for the blocking of financial aid from the R. F. C.—aid which doubtless would have kept practically all of our banks solvent and open for the benefit of all. The people of this state who stand to lose practically one-half of hundreds of millions of dollars on deposit in banks will not soon forget those responsible for bringing this great calamity upon them, and they are getting it made plain. When we needed a leader on a white horse we didn't need him.

PEOPLE DEMAND GUARANTY

When the American Bankers Association met in national convention in Chicago recently, opposition was voiced to the bank deposit guaranty law sponsored by Senator Vandenberg. It is being well known that the Bankers' Association that there would be much use of reopening banks unless depositors have assurance that in the future their money is to be safe. As Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, chairman of the Banking and Currency committee, said:

"The bank deposit guaranty law sponsored by Senator Vandenberg will stand, regardless of opposition of the American Bankers Association," Senator Fletcher declared, continuing:

"The law provides for guaranteeing all deposits up to $5,000. It will not go into effect until January 1.

"There are two great essentials in recovery of the United States from the depression. The first is confidence in the credit and currency of the nation. The second is confidence in the banks. Nothing will do more to restore confidence in the banks than the guaranty.

"The bankers might as well understand right here and now that this policy of insuring bank deposits is to prevail. The people are entitled to it. The whole fund for such insurance could be obtained from an assessment on the banks of one-tenth of 1 percent of their deposits. This is not too much for the banks to pay for the free use of the people's money. The banks lend these deposits out and receive adequate interest. They pay no interest to the depositors except on savings accounts. Under the provisions of the Glass act they are not permitted to pay interest on ordinary deposits against which checks may be drawn."

OSBORN'S JOKE

It has been said of Disraeli that he lacked true greatness because he never appeared to be in earnest. That may have been true of Disraeli, but one thing is certain and that is that it is not true of our own Chase S. Osborn, who is so nearly always in dead earnest that when he does joke both the press and public are apt to take him seriously. Witness the reaction of both the press and public when Osborn sprang his little joke a few days since suggesting that Vandenberg retire from the senatorial race the coming election in favor of former Gov. Fred W. Green and that he, Vandenberg, return to the field two years hence to succeed Couzens. Undoubtedly the Sage of the Soo has many a good chuckle to him self since springing that little joke. The earnest part of the joke was that which you read between the lines. Osborn certainly never meant to suggest to the people of Michigan that they give up the services of the state's most outstanding public servant since the days of Zach Chandler. What Mr. Osborn evidently did mean to say between the lines of his little joke was that the genial Fred Green, who had been generally honored by his party, should at this time show his appreciation by supporting wholeheartedly the return of Senator Vandenberg, who has done valiant work in behalf of the people of Michigan. Let Green (or Greenback) be the one to succeed Couzens two years hence. Keep Vandenberg where he is until he goes to the White House as President of the United States.

Main-st., and that about October 1st, they will occupy the same with a stock of new and used household articles of various kinds.

Other officers will be chosen at the time of the next lesson meeting, the date of which will be announced in a subsequent issue of this paper.

B TEAM LOSES TO MIDDLEVILLE IN SLOPPY GAME

VISITORS RETURN HOME IN TRIUMPH WITH 7 TO 0 VICTORY TO THEIR CREDIT—WAS A TEST GAME TO UNCOVER PROSPECTS—LEE HERE FRIDAY.

A fine football aggregation from Middleville came to Lowell last Friday and showed our "B" team a few points of the game. The visitors left for home with a 7-0 victory tucked under their belts and they seemed well pleased with their triumph. In fairness to our own outfit we must admit that several regulars were not even in suits. The game was a test affair in order to uncover some prospects for the varsity. Mr. Finch will have to find about six boys to make up the first eleven. What he saw Friday night was nothing to encourage him.

Play Sloppily

We have never seen a Lowell team play more poorly. The boys seemed to do everything wrong. Offense was something charged to slowly and on defense it was a case of standing up and taking it. The blocking and tackling were terrible. The pass defense did not seem to function at all. The ball-toters were not given any support but at times showed flashes of form. It appears that Mr. Finch has a huge task on his hands if he is to present a team up to the standard of former years.

Few Look Good

We still believe that where there is life there is hope. The one redeeming feature about the whole game was the apparent willingness of the boys to do the right thing. They were in there for their best and we somehow believe that they will surprise us in future games. Several in particular looked like real comers. Eickhoff at guard clearly showed that Mr. Finch will not have to worry about at least one position. Barrett looked good at end during the last quarter. Sinclair appears to know what is all about and is certain to see much service. Lindsay, who has never played before, can be depended upon to develop into a real line-man. Ricker played his usual steady game and prevented gains through his side of the line. But he will have to be more aggressive. Young Reynolds did a good job at the center of the line and should be a capable understudy for Doyle at the pivot post. Scott, Hawk, Ellis, Sherwood and Christoff are all in need of experience, but should develop into good ball carriers. After the game coach Finch stated that the regular lineup is still a mystery. Doyle at center, Bergin at quarter, Clark at end, Schwacha at full-back are the only ones sure of their positions, and it was not necessary for them to display their wares Friday.

Lee Here Friday

Lee High will be here Friday as the first opponent in the county race. The visitors are reported to be as strong as last year and should furnish plenty of opposition. After the game coach Finch stated that the regular lineup is still a mystery. Doyle at center, Bergin at quarter, Clark at end, Schwacha at full-back are the only ones sure of their positions, and it was not necessary for them to display their wares Friday.

Bit by Rattlesnake, Boy Is Recovering

Ralph Riggs, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Riggs, of Berlin Township, is recovering satisfactorily from the nearly fatal effects of a rattlesnake bite.

Young Riggs was working in a field last Wednesday and as he reached down to get a jug of water from a patch of brush he felt something on his back. As he gave it a brush to knock it off he felt a twinge on his shoulder and discovered a snake had bitten him but he did not recognize it as a rattler.

Later when the wound started to pain him, he was given medical treatment at Saranac and when he became nauseated he was rushed to Ann Arbor. Some delay in locating the desired physician there was experienced and when, at last he examined the Riggs lad, the arms and legs of the sufferer had swollen to nearly twice their normal size.

Prompt treatment came just in time, according to the Ann Arbor physician, who said in another hour half it would have been too late.—(Ionia County News.)

Truck Takes Rams To Michigan Farms

Improved breeding stock first step on road to better flocks and more profits.

Better flock management and better profits are inseparable companions, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College, which is preparing for the sixth year to send a truck carrying purebred rams into 35 Michigan counties from Sept. 20 to Oct. 20.

Purebred rams are the foundation for better handling of the flock. All good practices fall if the stock is inferior quality and lacks those characteristics which permit the animal to make rapid gains and to produce a good fleece.

Rams will be selected by specialists from the College and a representative from the Michigan Purebred Sheep Association and the animals will be taken in the truck to the farmers who have placed orders for them. Animals which have been sold in previous years will be exchanged by their owners in cases where the rams are outstanding individuals.

One Michigan man who had both purebred and grade rams in his flock last year found that the lambs from the purebred ram weighed enough more at marketing time and had enough better quality to bring a difference in price which more than paid for the purebred ram.

In addition, ewe lambs which would improve the flock were retained.

Members of the college staff will be with the truck and will discuss problems of sheep raising at one or more meetings in each of the 35 counties. County agricultural agents are making local arrangements for the meetings and can tell how to reach the farms where they will be held.

Burras to Speak at National Ins. Meet

W. V. Burras, president of the State Mutual Rodded Fire Insurance Co., is on the program for an address on the subject of "Mutual Insurance" at the national convention of all mutual insurance companies, which will be held in Minneapolis, Minn., the week beginning October 9th.

Wins Honor Plaque

E. William Heim, familiarly known to his friends as plain Bill Heim, is all puffed up (and justly so) over a plaque on display this month at his oil station on East Main street which was awarded to him by the Texaco Oil Company for best business performance of the preceding month in Zone B, which includes South Bend, Mishawaka, Elkhart, Michigan City, Battle Creek, Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Rockford and Lowell. The points on which the plaque is awarded include sales, operation and cleanliness.

Ram Exchange Day Tues., Oct. 3

A county ram exchange day will be held in Kent County, Tuesday, October 3rd, at the West Michigan Fair grounds. This event will be held in conjunction with the Michigan Pure Bred Sheep Breeders Ram Truck which is again being operated by this organization. Educational demonstrations and discussions will also be conducted as part of the program on that date.

Any Kent County farmer who has a purebred buck or one eligible for registration may bring them on this date for sale or trade with other sheep owners or possibly with bucks on the truck. Owners of unregistered bucks not registered but eligible to registry, will bring a statement to that effect from the breeder of the buck. Sheep owners desiring to buy a new buck can place an order with the county agent. Breeders of purebred sheep in Kent County are planning to have some bucks on hand.

There will be no fees or sales charges. Stalls will be bedded down. Sheep owners who plan to bring in bucks would advise County Agent K. K. Vining.

Stocking's for shells.

Town Agog Over Triple Wedding Here Next Week

"Henry's Wedding," produced with local talent and to be given next Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Sept. 26 and 27, at the City Hall, is the title of the hilarious comedy of tangled events that mark the wedding day of Uncle Henry, a bachelor bridegroom of 55, played by William Smith and Samantha Green, widow, played by Mrs. Altea Bennett.

First, he is persuaded to postpone his wedding, and then he is seized and tied up, kidnapped by gangsters, caught in an explosion and so blundered that he is mistaken for a negro servant, ducked in holy water at a colored spiritualist meeting, and finally restored to his frantic fiancée.

The cause of all his troubles is his nephew Jack, played by John Winks, and his two friends, Ted Murray, played by Emory Frierson. In order to inherit $100,000, which is his grandfather's will, Jack must be married before his twenty-fifth birthday, which is the next day, and Uncle Henry must not be married. Jack is all set to wed Mary, played by Mrs. Philip Schneider when Uncle Henry and Samantha decide to make it a double wedding. In desperation, Jack and his two friends kidnap Uncle Henry.

From here the comical situations multiply. O'Flarety, a hard-boiled detective, played by W. W. Ganser, and his assistant, Muggs, played by Pat Bowes, are called in to solve the mystery. Meanwhile, Uncle Henry has been taken from the boys by two gangsters, but before they can carry him off he is caught in an explosion and emerges black, consequently he is mistaken for Rastus, a negro servant, played by Carl Freyermuth, and is forced to do the menial household work without being given a chance to explain.

The disappearance of Uncle Henry has caused the arrest of Susan Christopher, his boyhood sweetheart played by Mrs. Emily Murray. Lawyer Brown, played by Dr. J. R. Stryker, is called to her aid and begins by winning her affection. With his uncle out of the way, Jack decides to go ahead with his own wedding, but his fiancée, Mary, played by Mrs. Philip Schneider refuses to go through with it until Uncle Henry is found.

Thus Jack is in a worse predicament than ever. If Uncle Henry can't be found, Mary won't become his wife, and if he is found, Jack will lose the fortune he expects. He can't explain to Mary because of the promises he has made her.

However, a negro servant, Eliza, played by Mrs. Charles Doyle, called by the Brethren and Sisters of the Mystic Shrine to locate Uncle Henry, Henry, being black, is forced to attend this meeting and along with the others is dipped in holy water. Of course, his blackness washes off, and Uncle Henry is found!

But to tell more of this hilarious comedy would spoil your enjoyment of it. There are many more wild happenings before things are happily ironed out, and other characters are wound up in the amazing tangle.

Odds and Ends Here and There

Pithy Points Picked Up and Patly Put By Our Peripatetic Pencil Pusher

A reader calls our attention to a detail on the new N. R. A. three-cent stamps. On the face of the stamp is shown four figures representing the Farmer, the Capitalist, the Workingman and a Woman marching along. The Capitalist is out of step with the other three. Was this deliberate and intended by the artist and government engravers, or was it a mere oversight? Look at one of the new stamps closely and you can easily detect this discrepancy.

It is claimed that 45,000 people died last year who had allowed their life insurance to lapse. The loss to the dependents of these 45,000 persons is said to have been $37,000,000. This is tragic if true.

Goodbye, Old Camp

Dear Jeff:
Now that you've shaken hands with the great outdoors and was elated enough to tell you truly the public, may be the enclosed poem will somewhat interest you.

Goodbye, Old Camp, I'm sorry to go.
I'll miss you when the sun is low.
When I sink behind the blackened trees.
In a busy week, and a sleepy purr soothingly through the bank of green.

Where the ebbling glow of day is seen.
And far above in the cloudless sky.
Starting the silence with his cry.
The nightbird darts his aimless way.

And over the river the swallows play.
Softly and thickly the shadows fall.
As Nature draws her quilt over the night.
Your river, stealing away unseen.

Like a shadow, drifting along its way.
While flow and muskrat feed and play.
As banks grow dim in the fading light.
I'll miss your hours of dreamy contentment.

Your air, like a cooling liniment.
Your musical poplars, your hissing waterfalls.
The freedom to live where life is good.
And when at night awake I lie,
Again I'll hear your nightbird's cry.

I'll see your fire, your speckled blue.
And dream of the times I've had with you.
How oft you loitered in your boat.
And on your ground my pillow
In comfort from the noontday sun.

That scorched your trees to make pitch run.
Sweating the landscape with its dry.
And hurrying the atmosphere with a haze.
And sometimes when I closed my eyes.
To the spell of needed lullabies.

In the great boughs spread lullabies.
That hush the listening darkness.
As hours went by and I slumbered still.
And sometimes when I slept down from the hill.
With chilly finger you prodded me.

Almost apologetically.
And while me as you said: "Old Top."
"It's almost night. Get up, get up."
And when your fire I kept alone.
As night wore on and the keen-edged moon.

Cat slowly across the blackened pine.
While needles clung to its changing lines.
I watched the white lights turning glow.
That had seen the centuries come and go.
That never had changed then and there.

And left man guessing at when and why.
And why and how of the human race.
And trying to calculate time and space.
In vainly seeking to understand the secrets of sea and sky and land.
To penetrate that great domain of knowledge divine and all in vain.

And dreamed in your deep soil.
Captive of Nature's magnetic mood.
New truths, yet old, stole me.
Truths born of a new philosophy.
The one I had brought from the haunts of men.

It seemed would never suffice again.
For there we toil to eat and drink.
And scarce have time to ourselves to think of many things.
You started me thinking of many things.
That only life in the outdoors brings.

That only comes when the night is still.
And the mind is free to roam at will.
Untroubled and far from the scenes of life.
It's bound to get a new meaning of life.
You teach anew the truths of old.
A life well lived is more than a gold.

That he who clamors wealth, renown.
Is mocked by it, at last goes down.
When gods chase a cat named "Old Top" up a pole, he goes the other way and would not come down.
It never and would not come down.
It never and would not come down.

When gods chase a cat named "Old Top" up a pole, he goes the other way and would not come down.
It never and would not come down.

Phonotron Tubes New

Radio Equipment Idea
An outgrowth of the vacuum tube, familiar in radio sets, is the phonotron, having no grid wires and consuming very little power. It takes the place of the rectifier, which transforms alternating current into direct, where the latter is preferred. The capacity of the tube is increased by the use of a special material, making it infinitely greater. The first installation is located in downtown Detroit. The equipment makes use of six of these phonotrons, which convert electrical energy from the power line into a direct current. The tube is a compact automatic substitution in place of the rectifier. It is a new development in the art of radio engineering.

FACTS ABOUT THE TELEPHONE

The Bell System uses about 20,000 motor vehicles.
The peak hour for telephone traffic in the average American city is between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.
The first school for telephone switchboard operators was started in 1902 by the New York Telephone Company.
New York City's first dial telephone central office, Pennsylvania, was placed in operation ten years ago - on October 14, 1922.
Old newspapers for sale at the home of the publisher, 112 W. Main St., are good for pantry shelves or put under carpets and rugs.

Homemaker's Corner

Many different effects can be obtained by using the attachments of a sewing machine, and they can be made to serve as time-savers in handling, hemming, and ironing. For instance, the binder may be used to bind straight edges, inward or outward curve. It can make buttonholes, invisible plackets, or a kind of buttonholes, bound with bias tape.
Mock French seams can be made with the hemmer and hemmer and sewing on lace can be completed in one operation. The machine also makes heavy folds, and the upper and lower tensions are adjusted to pull or stretch the fabric. Machine stitching is also used for adjusting when changing from fine to coarse thread, or when changing from cotton to silk thread. Fine materials need light tensions, while heavy fabrics require a heavy tension to produce a perfect stitch.
If the needle being used is too long, looping of stitches may result, or if it is too short, it will cause skipping. The position of the needle is also important, if incorrectly placed, it will break the thread or crooked tracking. The size of needle depends upon the fabric.

Wash Silks, Rayons According to Rules

Original Color and Finish Can Be Retained if Care Is Taken in Laundering.
By following a few simple rules, different washings, and different washings, M. S. C. silks and rayons will retain their original color and finish after laundering.
The first and most important rule is to use cold water. This can be done by testing a few drops of water for five minutes, then rinse, dry, and iron. This is the best method. An inconspicuous part of the garment, such as the end of a sleeve, should be tested first. Only a pure alkali-free soap should be used for washing. Use a pure alkali-free soap. Do not use a hot iron, and never use a hot iron. The water must be right, almost cool, never too hot, and never too cold.
Silks and rayons should be allowed to soak in suds, but should not be wrung out. They should be avoided by squeezing the suds repeatedly through the fabric. Do not wring or twist. The garment should be laid flat and should not be hung up. The garment should be laid flat and should not be hung up. The garment should be laid flat and should not be hung up.

Miss Graves, who is head of the Employment Bureau of the Lucid Private Secretarial School, in Grand Rapids, relies entirely on the telephone in contacting both employers and applicants. She says:

"We use the telephone exclusively in placing applicants. And we will not accept an application that does not give a telephone number."

Other things being equal, the applicant for employment who can be reached quickly and easily by telephone is likely to be the first called to work. Telephone service pays its way. Order a telephone today. Installation will be made promptly.

As foreign restrictions on our wheat mount higher, more of it piles up in this country. That is the lesson of this chart of United States wheat stocks and the rate of import duty imposed by representative European consuming countries. In 1925 these duties first became general and since that time our wheat supplies have climbed. The German duty of $1.62 is highest of all, as the picture shows. Next comes Italy with a duty of $1.07 a bushel and finally France is lowest with a duty of $0.85. The black bars, representing the wheat stocks in the United States, show that while these restrictions have been in force, the stocks have climbed to more than 360 million bushels. Even with the short crop in the United States this year, the black bar representing the stocks for this country a year from now probably will be near the 200 million bushel mark. The following year, if nothing is done to prevent it, the carryover is again likely to be around 350 million bushels.

Edith Maloney Is Married at Lovely Church Service

A lovely wedding took place at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, September 12, at St. Mary's Catholic church in Lowell, when Edith Maloney, daughter of Amelia Maloney of Lowell and Frank Tracy, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Tracy of Detroit, were united in marriage. Rev. Father Jewell performed the services. The altar was beautifully arrayed with pink and white gladioli, and the altar rail was banked with palms and baskets of garden flowers. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Harvey Haysmer of Lowell. During the services Miss Josephine Meece of Detroit, sang "Ave Maria" and Orrin Sterken of Lowell, sang "O Promise Me," "Because," and "I Love You Truly." Miss Maloney was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Maloney as maid of honor, Miss Doris Maloney, sister of the bride and Miss Dorothy Duff of Detroit as bridesmaids. Jack Tracy assisted his brother as best man and the ushers were Earl Maloney, brother of the bride, Tom Tracy, brother of the groom, and Art Schoenrock of Detroit. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Roman Maloney, wore a gown of white satin designed on simple lines with a long train. Her veil of silk tulle was held in place by a pointed venise lace cap. Her flowers were a shower of bouquet of white roses and stock. The maid of honor was gowned in baby blue crepe made on princess lines. Her accessories were of pink and blue. She carried a blue muff made of silk tulle. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in frocks of peach colored flat crepe with blue satin sashes. They carried muffs of peach colored silk tulle. A small breakfast served at the Lone Pine Inn followed the service, after which Mr. and Mrs. Maloney left for a motor trip to the Century Progress Exposition in Chicago, the bride wearing traveling ensemble of brown silk faille trimmed with brown plaid taffeta. She wore a brown felt hat with matching accessories. After the twenty-sixth of September they will be at home to their friends at 138 Glendale, Highland Park, Detroit. A large number of out of town guests were present at the wedding. Miss Velma Keech was pleasantly surprised last Friday evening when some of her friends began dropping in at her home at Moscow. ## Old Friends Meet to Honor Miss Grace Ogg, Missionary

Miss Grace Ogg, who, as a child was a resident of Lowell for several years, called on her relatives here last week on her way home to Sierra Madre, Calif., from the mission fields of Syria. Grace came here with her parents, the Rev. W. D. Ogg and wife, in 1907 when Mr. Ogg was called to the pastorate of the Congregational church. The Rev. Ogg served the church faithfully and well for six years. He and family were loved and respected by the entire community. In 1913 the Rev. Ogg was called to the Congregational church in Eureka, Calif., where Grace graduated from high school. Following her graduation she taught school for a few years. First in the mountain schools of California and later in the schools of Long Beach. Feeling the urge for the training offered by the Los Angeles Bible Institute, she abandoned teaching for a time and spent two years in the institute. Her entry into the mission fields in Syria seems to have been Divinely preordained. Her course at school was nearing completion. Two were to be sent to Syria, one of whom had been selected. Who the other should be was a matter much discussed but with no decision. The one having the matter in charge finally decided it should be the first girl that came to her office. While Grace had but little contact with that particular office, it so happened at the time that she had occasion to visit the office, and as the first girl after the official's decision as to whom should go, her appointment was soon consummated and she and her companion were shortly on their way to Syria, departing without serious purpose, so to speak, but having sublime faith that the Lord would provide for their every need. This He did for seven years. Grace has taught astronomy, literature, grammar and mathematics in the Mission High school and though now on her way home after an absence of seven years, it is most probable that she will return to Syria at the conclusion of her year's furlough. While living here Grace accidentally fell from a heavy load of logs and the sleigh runners passed over her leg midway between the knee and ankle, crushing the bone to a pulp. Dr. McDannell, who was the attending physician, a wizard with bruised and broken bones, refused to countenance amputation, and in a tribute paid to his memory Grace said that the full enjoyment of the use of her leg is due to his fidelity of purpose and skill in practice. The Earl Hunter home was placed at her disposal while she was in Lowell. Her old friends and schoolmates called on her here to renew acquaintance and live over again the days in school together. In order to give her a better contact, it was suggested by Mr. Frank King that a pot-luck supper be given in her honor at the Congregational church Saturday evening. Mrs. Earl Hunter sponsored the undertaking, ably assisted by Mrs. Emma Coons and Mrs. S. B. Wenger. The event was most pleasing, about 100 being present. It seemed that the honored guest lived grace to the occasion, and radiated a spirit of peace, joy and contentment that will long be remembered by all present. Following the supper a short program was given. It was composed of remarks by Rev. S. B. Wenger, Mr. King, Harvey Taylor, and Latelle Ecker, a vocal solo by Gertrude Herman, an instrumental solo by Miss Charlotte White and a talk, all too brief, by the evening's honored guest. The body of the talk being here incorporated. Those attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roth and family, Mrs. Latelle Ecker, Mrs. Lee Ladow, Dorothy Nothstine, all of Detroit, Frank King and daughter, Miss Florence, Mrs. Herman and daughter Gertrude, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Taylor, Mrs. Bessie Egger and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marsh, all of Grand Rapids. The event closed by all joining in the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," after which Grace, accompanied by Mr. King and daughter to Grand Rapids, where she took the midnight train to Chicago on her journey westward to meet that father and mother, who, not only gave her to the Lord for His service, but denied themselves the joy and comfort of an only daughter in the family circle.—(Contributed).
