Every live citizen should be a good sport, come out of their shells, boost hard for the home city and make the dead ones do the same.

Housecleaning After Dust Storms Is No Snap in the Stricken Areas of West

Women of Michigan may be truly thankful that they do not live in any one of the dust storm states of the middle west. Spring housecleaning would have added terrors if they did. Here's what a Kansas woman writes:

"We had another dust storm last night. All we could do about it was to sit in our dusty chairs, gaze at each other through the fog that filled the room, and watch that fog settle slowly, covering everything—even ourselves. Our doors and windows were shut tightly, yet those tiny particles seemed to seep through the very walls. It got into the cupboards and clothes closets; our faces were as dirty as if we had rolled in dirt; our hair was gray and stiff and we ground dirt between our teeth.

Twenty big tank trucks working 24 hours a day go thundering through Main-st., loaded with crude oil from the big gusher brought in last Thursday near Crystal Lake, Montcalm county. The oil is being delivered to the local Refinery, Grand Rapids. Workers are afraid to shut down the controls for fear of the well blowing up on them because of the great gas pressure.

The heaviest flow of traffic ever carried on Main-st. is now being experienced here due to the diversion of traffic because of the widening of US-16 from Grand Rapids to a point several miles east. It is understood that this work will require until well in to the summer for completion.

OTTO DELIVERS WORDS OF HOPE AT B. OF TRADE

EVERY MAN IS A MILLIONAIRE WHEN HE CONSIDERS THE BLESSINGS OF LIFE—B. OF T. PLANS YEAR OF ACTION

C. William Otto, secretary of the Lansing Chamber of Commerce, delivered a message of hope and inspiration in his address at the March dinner meeting of the Lowell Board of Trade, held at the City hall last Friday evening. Mr. Otto is always a prime favorite with Lowell audiences and whenever he is down on any program as the "speaker of the evening" every person present knows that he is going to hear something that is worthwhile and take away with him some new thoughts that will add to the measure of life's work and happiness.

Mr. Otto declared that all of us were rich in spite of losses due to the depression or from any other cause. The speaker brought out this point with these words: "I am a multi-millionaire. I have a pair of legs for which I would not take a million dollars. Perhaps they are not as young as they used to be, but I value them just as much as I ever did. I have a pair of arms which are worth very much to me. I have a good digestive system, a thing John D. Rockefeller would give a million dollars to possess. I have a pair of eyes with which I can see my wife and children, of whom I am proud. I can see all the beauties of nature. I also have a pair of ears with which I can hear the voices of my dear family and friends. When I am home I can turn on my radio and listen to some music or some speech. I cannot put a price on any of these physical things. I have a million dollar wife, a daughter attending Michigan State College, and a son. We cannot put a cash value on any member of our family. We never know how much each one is worth until we have lost one. You are all as rich as I. How much is a friend worth? If a man has only his friends he will get along pretty well. I have much richness in my friends; so have you and you. I am very proud. One of my best things is my sense of humor. One time I nearly lost my sense of humor, and I have thought many times since what a great loss that would be to anyone. Since then I have told myself that no one can ever take that from me. Even at my funeral there will be one funny thing, and that will be me."

Communities Must Look Forward

Mr. Otto continued, "Try to make things better instead of just giving up. Around you there are people who are losing faith. This has a bad effect on any community. We should be very grateful because the worthwhile things are still with us. No community should get the attitude that there is nothing to look forward to, nothing to work for. If so, that community should be pitied. I feel rich because I live in a community that comes out and says 'we are going ahead.' People do not wait for things to 'just happen.' They go out and make them happen. I like to see a community take an interest in the young people, for they are a valuable asset. I like to see a community that is interested in the savings banks, the churches and in a high standard. 'God help the community that is not interested in the youth.' Lowell is to be congratulated because of the interest it takes in its young people."

Active Year Ahead

Mr. Otto was given a rising vote of thanks at the close of his address, after which President Burras called upon the various committee chairmen for reports as to activities for the current year. The activities will include special Buyer Weeks throughout the summer and early fall; the holding of a second annual picnic for the entire community, a good program of athletic sports throughout the season, the annual Showboat production on August 1, 2 and 3, cooperation with the annual flower show by the Garden Lore Club, street and river improvements, propagation of fish and game, flower decorations, etc.

May Pave This Year

The Village of Lowell has entered into contract with the Kent County Road Commission for the care of the streets of the village. This action is in line with that of the townships in turning over township highways to the Road Commission.

Under the terms of the contract, village streets will be cared for on a cost basis plus 5 per cent, which has been found to be a much lower rate than the village itself could care for its streets. In speaking on this subject, Village President John A. Archart stated: "If we were to continue trying to care for our streets it would be necessary for the village to make an expenditure this year of right around $3,000 for new equipment and the members of the council could not see how this could be done."

"The Road Commission," continued Mr. Archart, "with its thorough equipment and complete organization, can do as much in one day on our streets as we could do in six days. For this reason it will be seen that the village will be able to maintain its streets better than before and at less cost."

"Does the village contemplate any street paving this summer?" "We have hopes of being able to do some paving this summer," answered Mr. Archart. "But this cannot be determined until we have further data regarding costs. If possible, we hope to pave Monroe-av. from the city hall north to the cemetery, and we may also pave from the City State Bank block north to the end of the triangle, thence south on Broadway to Main-st."

It is proposed to pave these streets similar to the paving laid on Vergennes-dr. last year, which has a tar and bitumen surface proven very satisfactory thus far as it provides good traction and freedom from dust.

Farm Horses Bring Top Prices at Sale

Auctioneer Allen Haskins of Ionia, in town on business yesterday, reports that the demand for good farm horses continues. "Nearly $5,000 worth of horses were sold at the Johnson & Jarvis sale at Ionia last Saturday," said Mr. Haskins. "The top team brought $520," he continued "and another team brought $480. Every horse sold for better than $200. At another sale held recently a single mare sold for $300."

SALVATION ARMY WORKER IN LOWELL

Major W. J. Purdue of North Muskegon, Michigan field representative for the Salvation Army, was in Lowell yesterday in the interest of the Army's Home Service Appeal for 1935. Major Purdue has been engaged in Salvation Army work for 35 years and his work has taken him to many parts of the world. The Major made a brief talk at the noon-day luncheon of the Lowell Rotary Club yesterday which was well received. For the past 17 years he has been engaged in Army work in Western Michigan, his special interest being in the Evangeline Home, located in Grand Rapids, which looks after the welfare of unfortunate girls.

Legislative Letter COLUMN

BY HAROLD SAUR State Senator 17th District

The outstanding event of this week at Lansing was the Governor's special message to the house of representatives.

From the Governor in the form of a special message which is a masterpiece of a plea for loyalty and cooperation of the House of Representatives.

The administration measures now being introduced by the Emergency Board and the Emergency Administration Board and its many interlocking divisions in fact constitute a single business of partnership; merger of the several tax collection agencies of the state into a single revenue commission.

Three important effects of the week were: the hearing on the Thatcher School bill Tuesday night, which drew a large crowd of people from all over the state.
