

ON THE National Memorial Day we think of the noble sacrifices of the soldiers who have served the nation in our past wars.

War, in the usual sense, is a relic of barbarism. It is so destructive of national life and human welfare, that it is the greatest evil which the modern world confronts.

If the world shall at last perceive the folly and even insanity of attempting to settle its disputes by killing people and reducing itself to poverty, it does not follow that war will disappear.

There will still be the war against crime, selfishness, avarice, indifference and fraud. We shall need soldiers in such a war.

It will call for politicians who are willing to risk political defeat and the end of their public careers, in preference to supporting measures they know are wrong.

It will call for people everywhere who have the courage to stand up for their convictions in spite of all unpopularity and ridicule.

HOME TOWN BASEBALL

BASEBALL is still called the "national game," the great democratic form of athletics where rich and poor sink all differences in their admiration of home runs and speedy fielding.

But to make this game really the national one, it needs to be played in other places than on big league diamonds, or by the trained twirlers of the professional leagues.

Every American boy should inherit, as his right by nature, a chance to play on some ball team.

Every school and neighborhood could have a good playground and every boy be given his chance to bat and run bases, a lot of tricky mischief would never be heard from.

Competitions between factory and shop and store teams have been a wonderful thing in thousands of communities.

A town that can't support one good ball team is in danger of falling short of public spirit. When the people are asked to give the home team some solid backing, they should reflect that the town that has a team is a town where people like to come and where business is usually good.

END OF THE LEGISLATURE

THE 1935 session of the Michigan Legislature came to a close about daybreak last Saturday morning and taxpayers are rejoicing because of it.

The Legislature was demoralized by the aid of three or four renegade republicans who succeeded in blocking Governor Fitzgerald's economy program and long-suffering taxpayers will have to pay because of this unwise folly.

A small group of anti-Fitzgerald senators, true to their own egoism, also tried to do some dirty work.

In spite of Governor Fitzgerald's warning that state expenses must be kept within the state's income, the legislature passed appropriations for the next two years estimated to exceed the state's income by about $8,000,000.

There is a ray of hope in this connection as in its closing hours the legislature, perhaps unwittingly gave the governor power to pare expenditures within keeping of the income.

The Board of Review for Lowell-Ellet will meet in the township clerk's office on West Main-st. on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 4 and 5, for the purpose of reviewing the tax assessment roll.

Bullfrogs and frogs of other varieties, which are making themselves heard in a raucous chorus from the ponds and marshes, will become legal game in Michigan next Saturday.

Hear Program of Great Interest

Seguin Community Club entertained last Friday evening. The South Ward building was packed with an expectant audience.

Chairman Grace B. Walker introduced Lee R. Miller of Lowell high school, Mrs. Emma Green, Reta Steele Hudson, former Seguin teachers; also Maurice Miller, Mrs. Cecil Bancroft Croninger and Miss Krieger who entertained with her.

Lee R. Miller addressed the club and guests on "Racial Prejudices" and was well received. He said Seguin produced excellent young scholars, and during his six years in the Lowell schools he had felt very proud of them.

Emma Chapman Greene, who was not only a former teacher in Seguin but also a resident of that community and an outstanding teacher in Lowell high, gave reminiscences of old Seguin days.

The Chapman family were old New Yorkers and located in Seguin which at that time was calculated to become the town site. All the children, Emma, William and Marilla, became teachers.

Will Chapman taught for many years—all of twenty—in Seguin and the West Ward and finally won the distinction of being a most respected and beloved superintendent of Lowell public schools, which position he held for some years.

Many Lowell people cherish the memory of delightful times when they were entertained by a quartette which Mr. Chapman trained. This gifted, refined gentleman embodied those rare qualities—the intellect, cultural and disciplinary, so essential to a leader of the young.

A spotless life and his influence and while Mrs. Greene did not touch upon these things it is fit and proper that Lowell recall some of its past blessings gratefully.

Mrs. Greene talked with poise and utmost ease and when a fuse burned out leaving the place in darkness for a few minutes she never faltered in tone or accent but carried on without apparent concern.

This worthy and respected citizen of Lowell met almost every one present personally before the evening was over. Mrs. Reta Hudson spoke briefly of the happy days she spent in Seguin. She was idolized by her pupils and all who knew her.

The Hudsons had a way of walking off with the teachers and Reta Steele fell in line and became Mrs. Ellsworth Hudson.

Maurice Miller conducted community singing and sang several songs, and Mrs. Croninger and Mr. Miller sang together. Their work was appreciated.

Memorial Address

Today, America is menaced by another far more dangerous foe than the invader of our shores. It is more subtle. It is projecting itself into our lives, warping our minds, undermining our institutions, and attacking the very foundations of our democracy. It is the enemy of our peace, our freedom, and all the other "isms" of our life. It is the enemy of our progress, our prosperity, and all the other "isms" of our life. It is the enemy of our peace, our freedom, and all the other "isms" of our life. It is the enemy of our progress, our prosperity, and all the other "isms" of our life.

Democracy is in real peril for its life throughout the world! In Europe it has lost the battle of all the democracies created there after the war, one alone remains. Here where it has been tried, it has been established. While nations have been enslaved, their people, communists, and fascists have been established. While nations have been enslaved, their people, communists, and fascists have been established.

When you exchanged your money for the car you're driving

Uppermost in your mind, no doubt, was the pleasure and convenience that would be yours. But if the car hasn't lived up to your expectations, the chances are that you failed to provide the correct lubrication. This means not only the right amount of grease and oil—but the right kind, properly applied.

The ploughman homeward plods his weary way. Gray. These few words reveal the depth of understanding and sympathy the poet held for the skilled and badly-paid land worker.

The farmer usually charged the landowner 24 cents a week rent for his four-roomed cottage, with small garden patch, and the event of a change of employers his household goods were moved free of charge.

The farmer usually charged the landowner 24 cents a week rent for his four-roomed cottage, with small garden patch, and the event of a change of employers his household goods were moved free of charge.

It is nearing Christmas as I write this, and I would like to assert here that it is my firm conviction, and all historical records tend to support this, that before the coming of the Christ, the vast majority of at least the landworker-tenant class were serfs, wearing the iron collars, and the simple and vividly fresh alternatives—Love and Life versus Fear and Death.

being a poor return for the value of the high grade of work done and the many hours that constitute a day's work. It is most striking the observer that singular that little improvement in the modeling of farming implements was made at this period or as a matter of fact, at any time down to the Victorian era. The truth is that labor was abundant and cheap during this time and there was no call for mechanical aid. Internal strife and a series of foreign wars absorbed much of this surplus labor element and this scarcely affected the farmer's wages.

There is a Marketing Board and Milk Makers with a whatnot. They have a plan to satisfy none of them. There is a Small Holdings Act that was supposed to be a godsend to men capable of running a small farm, and a nursery of various vegetables, etc., but the Act appears to be a dead dog. There is an act concerning the handling of the market garden produce, and there have been instances when I have been reminded of the story of the Clave Co. farmer, who taking a load of logs to a mill for sale, was told by the scaler that he owed the mill just 50 feet on the deal!

conditions had done their damage. The present government is sympathetic towards the farmer, but the politicians, the men to properly handle remedies are men of experience on the job. So it is unlikelier that this tinkering with that and very little permanent good result.

Gov. Fitzgerald Signs Flynn Bill Exempting Farm and Industrial Supplies From Sales Tax

Gov. Fitzgerald on May 23 signed Senator Felix H. H. Flynn's bill to exempt from the 3% sales tax goods purchased for consumption or use in industrial processing or agricultural production. The Flynn Act will eliminate $500,000 or more in sales taxes paid by farmers and manufacturers of supplies and machinery annually, according to the Michigan State Farm Bureau. The Farm Bureau and 180 associated farmers' elevators and creameries, and manufacturers were at odds with the State Board of Tax Administration in the courts and elsewhere for nearly two years before the dispute about pyramiding of sales tax was settled amicably in the Legislature. The Flynn Act is now in effect. Left to right, behind the Governor: Rep. V. J. Brown, Mason, chairman of the House taxation committee; Senator Flynn, Cadillac, author of the bill; and these Farm Bureau officials: R. Wayne Newton, Lansing, tax authority; Wm. Zonnabell, Holland, president of Farm Bureau Services; C. L. Brody, Lansing, executive secretary, and E. E. Ungren, Lansing, tax authority. Farm groups in this territory that were associated with the Farm Bureau in seeking exemption of seeds, feeds, fertilizers, machinery and other farm supplies were: C. H. Runciman, Lowell; Byron Center Co-operative Co., Grand Rapids; Alto Co-operative Creamery; Rockford Co-operative Co.; Kent City Farm Bureau; Caledonia Farmers Elevator; Caledonia Creamery Co.; Harry Shaw, Cedar Springs.

DESCRIBES MUSICAL CONCERT

Over 300 adult citizens turned out Sunday at the high school assembly to hear the first annual musical concert put on by the music department. The opening number consisted of selections by the Junior orchestra. This orchestra is composed of this year's music students.

The Boys' Glee Club followed with four selections. The large and appreciative audience then heard the Senior orchestra which is made up of more advanced and experienced musicians. This orchestra has already played at several public functions.

Then the Girls' Glee Club sang several numbers and were followed by the Faculty Quartet. The band presented the finale by rendering several stirring numbers. Mr. Walter deserves a great deal of credit for training all these musicians, first separately, then in their respective orchestras and glee clubs.

Odd and Ends

On Dec. 13, 1886, a sturdy bewhiskered young man became inmate No. 4002 at the now abandoned old Michigan State Prison. He gave the name of Francis Shivers, and his record showed that he was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his brother-in-law. During all these years, he has had only two visits from a brother. In the opinion of prison officials, Shivers will serve out his life term. When the end comes, he will be laid to rest in the little prison cemetery—a place forgotten for forgotten men.

Unwilling to wait for a university to confer an honorary degree, Charlotte by common consent has taken upon itself to confer the title of "Doctor" upon Muri H. DeFoe, newspaper publisher and postmaster. As the son of a physician, DeFoe in his youth was known to his intimates as "Doc." With the coming of years and dignity, the entire Charlotte community has come to know him as Dr. DeFoe. The Rotary Club, upon his retirement as its president in 1924, gave him a testimonial signed by all its members, lauding him for his services. "Yep," said a local man, "we just conferred the degree of 'Doctor of Charlotte' on him. He diagnoses our ills and prescribes remedies in his editorials, and some times it's pretty tough medicine, but it seems to bring a cure."—Detroit Free Press.

To social climbers of the 1830's in Livingston County, all that was needed was a side of salt pork, and the snootiest of log cabin dwellers would welcome you to his home. Even more, he would unfailingly call upon you at yours. But if all your larger boasted was wild turkey, venison, honey, game fish and squab, the social heights were not for you. This sidelight on the manner in which salt pork greased the ways to social prominence is given by C. G. Jewett, son of pioneer parents in his record of his early struggles. Jewett writes that in 1837, when pork was quoted at $25 a barrel and the only way to obtain it at that price was by laborious travel to Detroit, the fortunate possessor of pork was certain to find himself unusually popular, with his neighbors casually dropping in at meal time. Salt pork was regarded as a delicacy to tempt the most feeble appetites when anyone was ill. But wild turkey was plebeian food. If you were too thrifty to waste time and ball and powder in hunting them, one could always be obtained for about two cents a pound or less. One sale is mentioned in which a quart of whiskey, selling at 25c a gallon, was traded for a large gobbler. Deer and fish could be had for the shooting or fishing. Honey trees were found frequently, and the pioneer who wanted pigeon, shot one into the nearest tree and then discarded the older birds.
