Why Counterbalances Are
on Airplane Propellers Devices not generally understood appear today to explain airplane propellers in the form of what seem to be weights. That is what they are, and they are used for counterbalancing effect. They are a part of the mechanism which permits
the propeller blades to be adjusted while in flight. The effect is most marked when the propeller is rotating at a high speed.

Fire Protection

The week beginning October 6 has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week throughout the nation, the purpose of which is to bring to the attention of all property owners the great losses suffered through fires. If fire losses can be reduced it will mean big savings in the cost of fire insurance and everybody will benefit.
This company joins in this laudable undertaking and trusts that every citizen will become conscious of the fact that his loss whenever there is a fire, whether it is on his own property or a neighbor's.

Let us each do our part.

"IT CAN BE DONE!"

No task or responsibility, no project or undertaking seems impossible of accomplishment in this great land of ours. America's indomitable spirit says, "It Can Be Done."
When it comes to saving money—today to meet the needs of Tomorrow—men, women, and even children are doing it in the face of pressing times with the aid of a Savings Account at this Bank. Why not you, too?

Roger Springlett left about one week ago for California where he has accepted a position in the Sequoia National Park. That's where the redwoods grow and the late Joe Fordney of Saginaw used to say that "they were so big that it made the earth groan to grow them."

Word from Blodgett hospital this (Thursday) morning is to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Callier and daughter Corinne, who were so severely injured in an automobile accident Sept. 21, are getting along nicely although, of course, it will be a number of weeks before they will be able to return home. Dr. J. C. Foshee of Grand Rapids, injured in the same accident, has been taken to the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., for special treatment.

W. J. Smith, principal of the local high school, left Wednesday afternoon for Belleville, Ontario, Canada, upon receipt of a telegram informing him of the passing of his only remaining uncle, Harry Smith, who died following an appendicitis operation. Mr. Smith, who had been an invalid for a number of years, was a frequent visitor at his nephew's home here and W. J. Smith also spent part of every summer with him in Canada. The funeral will be held on Friday.

ORGANIZE GIRLS' CLUB

A Girls' Club tea took place at the home of Miss Koth last Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, for the officers and cabinet members.

They planned an interesting program for the coming year, and hope to make the club a bigger and better organization than ever before.

The first get-together was in the form of a potluck supper at Miss Koth's. About sixty girls were present.

The officers for this year were installed as follows: Helen Frost, president; Virginia Smith, vice president; Madeline Kyser, secretary; Barbara Fletcher, treasurer; and Izzeta Frost, assistant treasurer. Each class has two representatives in the cabinet. They are: Senior, Selma Kerr and Eileen Gault; Junior, Cara Smith and Edith Stukkie; Sophomore, Sarah Bannan and Delia Wunsch; Freshmen, Dorothy Fletcher and Ardis Schneider.

They were then entertained by a very nice program of singing and violin solos.

The Edict of Nantes, 1865, resulted in the exodus of 50,000 French Protestants to England.

Social Events

Mrs. R. D. Hahn entertained the members of the Book Review Club Tuesday evening. High scores were held by Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lee. Refreshments were served to the guests in the dining room.

Wedding Plans Completed

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Wood of McGordis entertained with a Sunday night supper in honor of the approaching marriage of their daughter Beulah to Myron Henry of Lowell. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Henry, Miss Alice Henry, Gerald Henry of Lowell and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Colby of Morris. Mr. and Mrs. Wood are giving a rehearsal dinner for the bridal party this Thursday evening.

The wedding will take place Friday evening at eight o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wood. Miss Wood has named Miss Evelyn Haan of Grand Rapids to attend her as bridesmaid. Charles Wood, brother of the bride-elect, will assist Mr. Henry as best man. Rev. L. E. Doerr will officiate. Miss Alice Henry of Lowell, sister of the bridegroom, will play the wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Colby, uncle and aunt of the bride-elect, will act as master and mistress of ceremonies.

Church "Loyalty" Day Sunday, Oct. 6

The ministers of Lowell are co-operating with the national committee of religious welfare and the government in sponsoring a spiritual recovery program. The men in government and other high circles realize that before there can and will be a political and economic recovery, there must first be a spiritual-recovery. All economic depressions have been preceded by a spiritual declension. When we turn back the pages of history, we find this to be true even in the time of Israel. But God has promised that the people that serve Him shall prosper. Shall we unite together Sunday, October 6, and all attend some place of worship? You are urged to go to your church or your father's church and reconsecrate your life to the great King of the Nations. And then look for the fulfillment of God's promise. He never fails.

In connection with Loyalty Sunday, Oct. 6, the Lowell Ministerial association is offering prizes of $1.00 each for the oldest Bible, the largest Bible (in weight) and the most unique. If you have an old Bible, a large Bible, a small Bible or a Bible printed in foreign language, bring it to your pastor promptly with a card attached. It will be presented in a local window for display by October 10.

85 Hear Program By So. Ward Club

Segun Community Club entertained with a program and supper Friday evening, Sept. 27, in the South Ward school building with eighty-five members and guests present.

Originality characterized the program. The club will feature from time to time the presentation of poems, songs, short-short stories, etc., composed by its members. And, dear readers, while one would not willingly detract from the learned works of Shelly, Keats, Lowell, Shakespeare and other great poets—works that have done, no doubt, more than all the wars in promoting the advancement of the welfare of mankind, yet is there not a certain indefinable charm about a bit of verse, an essay or song when its author is your acquaintance or neighbor? Longfellow advises one to go to a great poet of one's choice and then say "Then go to the humbler poets." The encouragement of self-expression is laudable and a factor too largely neglected in community life. The village of Lowell and surrounding communities have, perhaps, unrecognized and unheralded persons of originality, who have kept their treasures hidden because the opportunities for self expression have not been given.

Use Old Battle Cry To Mix Poison Bait

Kill Rodents with Formula Used To Arouse Voters in Past Campaigns

Sixteen to one used to be a battle cry of the politicians but it now is just the proportions used in mixing red squill with food materials in preparing poison baits for rodents, according to the U. S. Biological Survey, which advises that rats and mice be killed before they become established in granaries and corn cribs.

These rodents live in the fields in the summer but cold weather and the harvesting of crops which have provided them with food cause the animals to seek better quarters around farm buildings. Farmers would not object so much to furnishing grain to feed these boarders, but their destructiveness is not confined to the amounts of grain eaten. Bags in which grain is stored, grain bins, and any fabric stored in barns are likely to be damaged in the rodents' search for food or nest building materials.

Red squill is the safest material to use as a rodent poison. It does not poison other animals. The poison baits are most effective when one part of squill is mixed with 16 of the food used. Several kinds of food substances, such as meal, cereals, and vegetables, should be used at one time to prevent the rodents learning to avoid any one food in which the poison is mixed.

Rats which have made burrows underground in confined places can be killed by placing calcium cyanide powder in the burrows. This substance is blown into the burrows with a duster. Persons using it should be careful to avoid breathing any of the dust and should be sure there is good circulation of air while the duster is being used.

Barium carbonate is another poison often used in the preparation of poison baits for rodents. This material will kill other animals as quickly as it will rats so must be used with proper care. It is mixed in the proportion of one part of poison to four of the food material selected for the bait.

Communities in cities or in the country which are interested in ridding a whole district of rats can get information from county agricultural agents on cooperative plans for rodent control.

Smiths Left Anvils In Spite of Poetry

College Teaches Horseshoeing As Forge Is Abandoned in Favor of Garage

Longfellow's poem made the village blacksmith a familiar figure to the school children of America but it did not prevent the smith from becoming so interested in garage work that it has become necessary for Michigan State College to give a short course in horseshoeing to prevent the trade from becoming a lost handicraft.

The short courses at State are planned to give practical instruction to people who want to learn the latest methods in their own work or who find they must learn some trade related to their work. Farm managers and men in charge of the horses for transportation companies had become so scarce that it was necessary to learn something of this trade so they could be certain that their horses were being properly shod.

Horseshoeing is only one out of more than 20 of these practical courses which are given at the College. The courses vary in length from two days to 16 weeks and are given during the months when it is most convenient for producers of farm products to leave their work and spend a short time in study.

The 16 weeks course gives training in general agriculture and continues through two years. Greens keepers for golf courses specialize on one problem of maintaining a turf which will satisfy divot diggers and this course lasts only two days. Two months are spent on instructing students how to raise poultry but four days appears to be all the time needed to learn about growing rabbits.

Horticultural problems are taken up in a series of courses on fruit production, commercial floriculture, and vegetable growing. The dairymen are given courses in production and in manufacturing. Instruction is not limited entirely to production as classes are held in cooperative marketing, which gives the student a slant on ways of selling the things he produces.

The 16 weeks agricultural course begins Oct. 8 and the horsehoes begin their training Mar. 9, 1936. Instruction is given by regular members of the College staff and by persons who are successfully engaged in the work which they teach. Full details of all courses can be obtained from the director of short courses at East Lansing.
