THE DAY OF HOPE

THE SACRED writer said that the three greatest things are faith, hope, and love. The Easter celebration combines all three elements.

As the day of hope, Easter tells us that life does not grow darker as we draw toward its end. It believes that life is a kind of school, and that the graces and capacities which we develop as we travel this pilgrim path are not lost, and will not be thrown away by a beneficent creator.

Nothing is ever really lost. If you bury physical things in the ground, they reappear in some different form. They become fertilizing substances, and they make trees and plants grow more richly.

DRIVEN FROM THEIR HOMES A RECENT estimate of the losses by the eastern floods has it that 425,000 more persons were made homeless and destitute by this great calamity.

What thoughts must come to such a family, when they return to the loved spot of home, and find it changed to a scene of desolation? Many of these folks toiled and saved week by week, to make payments on these homes.

The majority who have gone back to the flooded homes have found them standing in a sorry condition, with thick layers of dirty mud and refuse. Costly repairs are needed in many cases.

That's why we hear protests to Congress against taxes on the American breakfast table and the forgotten man's shirt.

That's why a noted political observer could recently declare that the American people are spending more for government than they are for food, clothing and rent combined.

That's why statisticians can make the startling announcement that the annual total of federal, state and local government expenditures in America averages $517 per family.

Throughout the nation, it is now apparent, the taxpayers themselves are coming to a grim realization of what these things mean to them. And, what is more significant, they are making their protests heard.

It's a good sign—if we don't wait.

Our Army of "Dependents"

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

As millions of Americans struggle with their latest tax forms they are beginning to realize that there is a large group of "dependents" for whose upkeep they are allowed no exemptions whatever.

It is the growing army of political job-holders—every member of which is dependent for his paycheck on the earnings of the average American citizen and taxpayer.

But the burden doesn't rest on the income taxpayer alone. With other costs of government, it falls on every worker, every housewife, who either earns or spends—if not directly then in taxes hidden somewhere in the price of nearly everything he or she may buy.

And the costs continue to mount.

That's why we hear protests to Congress against taxes on the American breakfast table and the forgotten man's shirt.

Postmen Must Use Boats

Postmen in Arles don't know what real delivery is, according to the men who carry mail in South Island of New Zealand. These make a fortnightly journey with mail from the settlement of Weheka to the fringe of unsettled country at Okuru, 98 miles away. Lack of bridges compels them to cross rivers by loading the mail and saddles into a boat and rowing across, the horses swimming behind. Danger from roving animals also is great.

Crude Paintings Valued

Many of the crudely painted early American portraits, which are collected to add charm to Colonial rooms, were produced with ordinary paints by house painters, says an authority on primitive American art. These quaint pictures were often done as a side line to the general business of painting barns, tavern signs or decorating wagons.
