

Uncle Sam Is Proving Good Provider

Because of the widespread interest in the U. S. colonization effort at Matanuska colony in Alaska, the following extracts from letters written by two former Lowell girls...

In describing the new home which they have carved out of the wilderness, Mrs. Foster says: "We have a wonderful place here, a nice round log house, the windows of which are trimmed to furnish a bit of color in the dreary winter. Our house is furnished with all new furniture, and all we had to do to get it to order what we wanted, sign our name when it came, and use it. We are allowed five dollars a week for buying our food for the year for clothing, etc. Livestock is being ordered for the spring. We have two cows now. Families that really want to get ahead are ordering just what they think they can take care of. Fish is without any doubt the best food we get. But the government would let us get more if we wished, and then buy feed for us next year. They certainly are lenient with us. All they expect in return is for the man to go ahead with the farm."

Although there is not much time for recreation in the colony, the settlers do take the time to mix a little fun in with the work. Mrs. Huntley writes of a fishing trip they made last summer, using pitch forks for spears. The fish, which were full of silt but as the stream was rather shallow they waded in. She described the adventure as follows: "We jabbed anywhere with the forks because the water was so dirty that we couldn't see the fish. When we struck one, we called for assistance in shoving the fish into a gunny sack. When we went home we carried with us 18 big salmon weighing about 100 lbs. We boil them in tin cans—cold packed salmon are the same as the ones you buy from the store as we have a sear unit that belongs to the camp."

There are four small children in both of these families. There are about 40 children in the camp and all of those who are of school age attend classes in the building. Mrs. Foster said that everything was not so harmonious as it might have been at first. "The children didn't always get along together. Two neighboring families had five and six children and they were continually quarreling. When we struck one, we called for assistance in shoving the fish into a gunny sack. When we went home we carried with us 18 big salmon weighing about 100 lbs. We boil them in tin cans—cold packed salmon are the same as the ones you buy from the store as we have a sear unit that belongs to the camp."

Government Will Buy No. 1 Surplus Onions

Kent County Agricultural Agent K. Vining was notified Tuesday that the surplus commodities section of the United States department of agriculture has been authorized to purchase a moderate quantity of Michigan onions for distribution among families on welfare. The government has designated Niles S. Baldrige with headquarters at 354 Hollister building, Lansing, as its official purchasing agent. Only onions grading U. S. No. 1 and U. S. No. 1 small (1 1/4 inch minimum) will be purchased by the government. Baldrige has been authorized to pay 70 cents a hundredweight for U. S. No. 1 grade and 65 cents a hundredweight for U. S. No. 1 small. All onions must be packed in new open mesh sacks of 50 pounds net weight and must be accompanied by a certificate of inspection by an authorized federal inspector. Inspection fees are to be paid by sellers. No lot of less than 50 sacks will be purchased.

Sellers are requested to contact Baldrige at his Lansing office before making arrangements for loading, inspecting and accepting shipments. Only onions of good firm quality will be purchased, according to the notice sent the county farm agent. Shippers estimate less than 100 cars of onions still remain in Michigan for shipment.

Bulletins for Farmers

Four new bulletins of immediate interest have come off the presses from the Bulletin Department, Michigan State College, Lansing, and are available to Michigan farmers. They include "Alfalfa in Michigan" circular bulletin 154 in the writing of which 11 departments collaborated; "Fertilizer Recommendations for 1936" extension bulletin 156, written by four members of the soils department; "Timely Topics to Topics," extension bulletin 158, put out in brief form by the horticulture, plant pathology, and entomology departments; and "Tomato Growing in Michigan," extension bulletin 155, written by H. L. Seaton, instructor in vegetable gardening.

In 1803 the Louisiana Territory was bought from France. The present state of Louisiana is but a small part of this territory, which extended northward to Canada and northwest from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains.

Explanation of Plan For Rural Electrification

New Equipment Pays Big Dividends

On account of the general interest manifested in the extension of rural electric lines, the Ledger makes the following excerpts from an address given recently by Prof. H. J. Gallagher: "The new plan for extending farm power lines is the most liberal plan in force in the United States. It does away with the $1,000-a-mile guarantee plan which has been in vogue in Michigan for some years and calls for a guarantee of a revenue of $150 per mile per year for a 5-year period. Under the old plan, which was more liberal than exists in most states, 50,000 Michigan farms had electric service. Already under the new plan which went into effect Jan. 2 of this year there have been filed applications for 409 miles of new farm line extension which will serve 2,340 farms."

The responsibility for making new farm line extensions falls largely upon the Consumers Power Company. It has been determined that 77 per cent of the farmers of Michigan live south of the Bay City-Muskegon line. This is the territory served largely by the Consumers.

"There is a big difference between electric service for farms and the 'electrification of farms,' Prof. Gallagher pointed out. "Too many farmers, in my opinion, look upon the installation of electric lights in their homes as barns as the principal benefit from electric power. They are mistaken. Electricity can be made to pay dividends."

Small inexpensive pieces of equipment properly placed and properly used, take away much of the drudgery of farm work and will actually pay dividends. Care and study must be given to the selection of equipment, Prof. Gallagher said. The mistake is too frequently made of buying too heavy equipment and a tendency to buy automobile and on his own farm Prof. Gallagher said that considerable experimenting had been done. The feed for a large herd of dairy cows was ground with a small cheap grinder run by a small motor. Water was pumped without giving thought to the vagaries of weather or wind. Milking machines are operated and many other irksome "chores" are performed quickly, efficiently and economically by the help of electricity.

The average farm which has the advantages of electric power does not have as much money invested in electrical equipment as they have in their automobile. The present average runs about $550, which is about half the cost of the automobile and only about 3 per cent of the total investment of the farm. The average farmer can safely invest 7 per cent of his total investment in electrical equipment and make it pay him dividends.

If any farmer is expecting a new line through their community, they must remember that it is up to them to line up the neighbors and get a private right-of-way. These are requirements of the new plan. When one or two neighbors balk at giving a right-of-way simply because they feel that the old kerosene lamp and lantern were good enough for granddaddy and something that we cannot help," Prof. Gallagher pointed out. "What we get out of the applications we do not refuse to go ahead. We simply delay action. There are too many applications that are regular and in order—where everyone is cooperating. Naturally we will build the lines where everyone is in order before we give any attention to those who have trouble agreeing to the plan."

Prof. Gallagher also said that he believed too many farmers were looking at the cost of electricity on the farm as an added luxury. They are too much interested in the $250 to $300 a month that lights might cost them. "They are overlooking the biggest benefits. The radio, lights and electric irons are nice, and quite worthwhile, but the actual dividends will come in the utility implements which help do the heavy work. Further, it is when the consumption of electricity gets beyond the minimum amount that the cheaper rates come into effect."

Tax Sale Quashed By Supreme Court

Upwards of 400,000 pieces of property in Michigan will not go under the hammer in a state tax sale on the first Tuesday in May, 1936, as previously scheduled. In an unanimous opinion handed down April 15, the Michigan Supreme Court quashed the sale. The fact that owners of the property involved have not been given proper notice that their real estate has been listed for the sale, due to the fact that the 1935 legislature passed a law repealing the clause requiring publication of descriptions of land delinquent.

Along Main St.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Richmond of Richmond's Cafe, have purchased from Mrs. Gladys Kropf the residence known as the Jake-way property on Howard-st. and plan to move therein sometime in May. This is a desirable residence property of brick construction with well-finished interior and will make the Richmonds a fine home.

The official name of the Richmond restaurant has been changed from "Richmond's Tavern" to "Richmond's Cafe" in compliance with regulations of the state liquor commission. The word cafe is the proper one to use where regular meals are served, according to the commission.

Another sure sign of Spring—workmen busy cleaning up municipal parks. The trout fishing season opens officially this year at the stroke of twelve midnight, this week Friday and many local disciples of Isak Walton will be found on the streams of their choice with their tackle in readiness for the hook strikes.

Wilbur Burras, C. G. Watterson and 29,999 other fans last Friday attended the first game of major league baseball to be played in Detroit this year when the Tigers crossed bats with the White Sox. It was a bleak, cold day with snow covering the outfield. The fans tried to keep warm with felt boots, winter underwear, winter overcoats and caps. Upon his return home Mr. Burras says he now realizes what the colonial soldiers endured at Valley Forge.

Speaking of long and continuous service on Main-st., we wonder if there are many here who can equal or beat the record of some of the employees of The Ledger office. Will J. Morse, editor foreman, next month will have completed 22 years of almost continuous service in this plant. Others who have rendered long and faithful service in this institution include Mrs. Etta Ricker, linotype operator and compositor for nearly twenty years, and Oscar Arild, pressman and make-up man with 13 years to his credit. Mrs. Gertrude Richmond, at present in California, was connected with the Ledger as linotype operator for nearly fifteen years and Miss Edith Kaufman, of Oscar Grand Rapids, also served as linotype operator and ad compositor for a number of years. Outside of eight years spent in a printing plant in Saranac, Mr. Morse has spent his entire printing career of 44 years in Lowell. He was 16 years of age when he started to learn the trade. The publisher of The Ledger has a warm feeling for these employees and the faithful service they have rendered. Among the more recent employees who have become connected with the institution and whose services are highly valued should be mentioned Donald MacNaughton, linotype operator; Miss Emma Covert, office secretary; and Harold Jefferies, who is mastering the science of advertising.

As a matter of convenience for the general public, the State Savings Bank will be open until four o'clock Saturday afternoons instead of three o'clock as on other days.

Remember, the first ball game of the season occurs this (Thursday) afternoon at four o'clock between the high school teams of Lowell and Rockford. Give the boys your support in this worthy recreation. It is expected that the high school band will be on hand to lend color to the occasion.

Picnic tables and other equipment have been put in place in Fallsburg Park in readiness for the enjoyment of the public. Frank Jones will have his ice cream and refreshment stand in operation beginning with next Sunday. Everybody in the community has manifested considerable interest in the propagation of wild ducks which has been underway here for the past few years by the King Milling Company. Starting with eight birds, the flock now has grown to upwards of 60. We regret to state, however, that the natural increase this year has been greatly endangered through what may be mildly termed the thoughtlessness of two or three young boys who destroyed upwards of 20 nests. This is a rather serious matter. Although the ducks have been fed and cared for by the King Milling Co., they are considered the property of the state and may even be under federal control. It is greatly to be hoped that there will be no repetition of the offense on the part of the youngsters.

LOWELL DEMOCRATS HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Two Girls Win Class Honors

CATHERINE HOOVER Valedictorian

LUCY PAULINKAS Salutatorian

Two girls led the graduating class at Lowell high school this year, Catherine Hoover and Lucy Paulinkas having been named valedictorian and salutatorian respectively. Besides being the best of their class, they have much in common. They live in the same neighborhood about three and one-half miles northeast of Lowell, both are Catholics, neither has received any mark lower than a B, although they have often had to walk to school, and both pursued an academic course during their years in high school. Catherine, who is 19 years of age, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoover. She earned an average of 3.81 throughout her four years' work. Other members of her family have achieved scholastic honors in high school and college. A brother, Michael, is also a member of the graduating class. Catherine is interested in teaching and hopes to go to college.

Good Program for Girls' Conference

The fifth annual Kent County Rural Girls' Conference, under the auspices of the Kent County Rural Teachers' Association, will be held on May 2 at the Grand Rapids Y. W. C. A. Registration begins at 8:30. Educational tours through two hospitals, radio station, the police station, jail, depot and fire department will be conducted by various teachers of the county, in the forenoon. An equally interesting program is being planned for the afternoon.

A. building, Grand Rapids, to perfect the county organization and receive instructions regarding and making out worksheets for better than 1,000 Kent farmers that will have to be interviewed. It is expected that this work will start (today) Thursday and be completed as fast as possible.

Junior Farmers to Compete on May 7, 8

Junior farmers in Michigan in 150 of the state's 192 federally aided Smith Hughes vocational agricultural high schools are sharpening their wits for the 17th annual Junior Farmers' week to be held on the campus of Michigan State College, East Lansing, Thursday and Friday, May 7 and 8. In all likelihood there will be a good representation from the agricultural class of the Lowell high school. In 1935 the judging, demonstration and entertainment program attracted 2,563 in judging, livestock, dairy, potatoes, poultry and speaking, in addition to 265 delegates in convention from the 170 chapters of Michigan's Future Farmers of America organization. Winners in the judging contests will be eligible to compete in national competition in the fall at the Kansas City Royal Livestock show.

Speaker Endorses City Charter Idea

Lowell could profit by the city manager form of government, C. Sophus Johnson, city manager of Grand Rapids, told the Rotary Club at its Wednesday noon luncheon. "Your municipality is a large enough industry to have a permanent executive, acting as manager, and board of directors, sitting as a commission, and running the city in a business-like fashion," Mr. Johnson declared. "Under the city manager form, despite a revenue cut of more than 40% under the fifteen mill tax limitation, Grand Rapids had a cash balance of $388,000 at the close of the last fiscal year, according to the speaker. He warned that any civil service body established should be composed of disinterested citizens rather than city officials. The election of commissioners by districts or wards is a faulty practice, Mr. Johnson believes. They should be elected to represent the city at large. Guests of the club were Contractor Frank L. Dyke of Holland; A. H. Wright, A. J. Gilbert and F. Odell of the State Building & Loan Department, Lansing; George Coe of Ionia; and Rev. R. S. Miller, F. S. and Gerald Henry of Lowell.

Prospects Good for School Track Squad

The Lowell high school track squad has been practicing for the past week and trying out new material. The squad as a whole is new with only one member who placed in the last year county meet. Staffer and Ayres are the best looking prospects so far but Coach Avery feels that by hard work the team can be shaped into a strong squad. The following prospects are trying in the several events: 100-yd. dash, Gerald Ellis; 440-yd. dash, Boark; 880 and mile, Bob Ellis, Toward, Dalstra, Roth, Krauz, Pinckney; high hurdles, Jones, Ayres; low hurdles, Ayres; pole vault, Gross; high jump, Staffer, Jones, Dalstra; broad jump, Gerald Ellis, Toward, Dalstra; Shot, Monkowski; Golfedress, Pinckney.

SIGNIFICANCE OF PENTECOST

A local pastor contributes the following: "While Easter has been a great Festival within the Christian Church, Pentecost fifty days after Easter is the Birthday Anniversary of the Church. Forty days after the Resurrection came the Ascension at which time the promises of Jesus in that great section of John were fulfilled, that 'if I go away, the comforter will come' and so on Pentecost came. Time and service matured the Apostles until on Pentecost the real Church of Christ as we know it today was born. Read again Acts 2 for the finest story in all human history of personal power and missionary zeal. Basis is the personal baptism from on High. Let the events from Easter to the Birthday of the Church abide in our hearts these interesting days."

Auction Sales

Michael Downs Estate, May 2 On account of the death of Michael J. Downs, a public auction sale of cattle, horses, mules and other livestock, as well as all kinds of implements and tools for the operation of a 370-acre farm, will be held on Saturday, May 2, at the Downs farm on the Barnell Road about 1 1/2 miles west of Parrell church. This will be an all-day sale starting at 10:30 with a free lunch at noon and will be one of the largest sales to be held in this section in several years. The cattle will include more than 40 head of high grade Durhams. N. C. Thomas is the auctioneer. Watch next week's Ledger for complete description of the sale.

SALES WELL ATTENDED

The auction sale of implements and tools on the Thornwood Farm at Ada last week Saturday was attended by several hundred people. In spite of the large list of offerings Auctioneer Thomas disposed of the lot in less than three hours. The Clarence Yelzer sale at Ada on April 15 was also attended by a good crowd. A. W. Hilzey was the auctioneer at this sale. Every auction sale which has been advertised in The Ledger has been attended by large crowds and, in almost every instance, every article has been sold.

Need Little Cash To Plant Garden

College Vegetable Specialist Says Eight Dollars Will Buy Seed, Plants for Half Acre

Eight to nine dollars will plant that half acre farm garden with sufficient seed and plants to have a variety of 20 to 30 different kinds of produce, sufficient for a year's vegetable supply for the average family, says H. L. Seaton, instructor in vegetable gardening at Michigan State College, East Lansing. Depending upon location in the state, the first planting should be in the ground within the next two weeks if the ground can be worked. The early maturing vegetables should also have some more permanent companions started now, including strawberries, rhubarb and asparagus, according to Mr. Seaton. "An ideal half acre family vegetable plot should be planned to include at least 20 to 30 kinds," says Mr. Seaton. "There should be room for 75 to 100 tomato plants, 20 to 25 early cabbage plants, 100 asparagus, 15 to 20 rhubarb, 250 to 300 strawberry plants, one ounce each of lettuce, onions, beets, chard and one-half pound of beans and sweet corn, one-fourth pound of squash and pumpkin and two ounce nuts of cucumber and melon seed."

First plants in the next two weeks should be followed by second period plantings April 25 to May 10 and third plantings from May 5 to May 20. The horticultural department has made a special study of family gardens and their needs and has drawn plans for different sizes and kinds of gardens. Plans may be obtained by writing Mr. Seaton. He broadcasts at 1 p. m. each Thursday over WKAR, Michigan State College of the Air.

Probating Estates Of Missing Persons

There may be much of human interest—even paths—perhaps tragedy to be read between the lines of several legal notices now appearing in the columns of The Ledger. These are probate orders of the Kent County probate court for the appointment of an administrator of the estates of "disappeared or missing persons" who at some time in the past made deposits of money in various banks of Kent County but who have not been heard from for years and whose whereabouts are unknown or whether they are living or dead. The petition for the probating of these accounts is made by Buell A. Doelle, State Public Administrator, asking for the appointment of Roland M. Shivel or some other suitable person as administrator within the county. Are these persons living or dead? If they are still in the land of the living, why have they neglected their bank accounts? These accounts range all the way from a few dollars to several hundred dollars in some instances. If the owners of the accounts are not found after due notice of publication, the balance left after deducting the expense involved reverts to the escheats fund of the State of Michigan.

A HAPPY CHOICE

MICHIGAN newspaper friends of James E. Haskins, for 30 years editor and publisher of the Howard City Record, applaud his selection by Secretary of State Orville E. Atwood, as supervisor of the building and loan division of the department of state, succeeding the late Ben Coleman C. Vaughan. Mr. Haskins takes with him to his work in Lansing a mind seasoned and trained in business affairs, a sympathetic appreciation of the part building and loan associations have played in building and protecting the homes of our citizens.

"NO GREATER LOVE" THE CIVILIZED world for ten days and nights has been watching with hopeful hearts the heroic work of scores of men who at the risk of their own lives succeeded at midnight Wednesday in rescuing Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Seadding, who had been buried alive 141 feet below the surface in an abandoned gold mine at Moose River, Nova Scotia. A third member of the party, Herman Magill, unable to withstand the awful ordeal, died several days ago. Dr. Robertson is one of Canada's best-known surgeons, noted for his great humanitarian work. Mr. Magill was a well-known attorney of Toronto. Mr. Seadding is a time keeper. The work of the noble men who performed the rescue will go down in the annals of history as one of the finest accomplishments of man. In Africa, in the meantime, dark-skinned men and olive-skinned men have been slaying each other by the thousands. This is a strange world. Perhaps future generations will look upon this as the age of barbarism.

AVOID SECRECY

NEVER KEEP it a secret from other drivers what you intend doing in traffic. That is one of the cardinal rules for safe driving. Don't leave it up to the other fellow to guess your intentions, he might make a fatal mistake. The safe driver gives proper attention to the car when turning, moving from one lane to the other, or pulling from the curb. When about to turn he slows down, pulls over to the right or left, gives the proper hand signal. The safe driver always indicates by these actions that he is going to change his course from the straight path.

BACK YARD BASEBALL

DON'T GET too wrathful if the kids stir your whole neighborhood with the noisy yelling over their baseball. Don't feel as if the government was being overturned if once in awhile a ball is put through one of your windows. Remember those kids have to play somewhere. There should be a chance for every single American boy to play baseball. If every boy had that chance and could play on some team of equal ability with his own, we should come far toward abolishing the crime that now costs us a billion or more of dollars. The boy who is figuring how he can hit the pitcher's curve is not roaming around the streets seeking to prey on the neighborhood.

Also the boy who is getting all out of breath running bases, is not standing on the curbstone picking up undesirable thoughts.

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY

THE YEAR might be divided into three epochs. The real time of beginning is Labor day, when people return with enthusiastic faces and flattened purses from vacations and prepare to fill their home towns with the hum of social and other activity. January 1 is like the equator, which is shown on every map, but you never know when you cross it. So January First is a poetic thought, a day which we have appointed to remind us that life, like an ever flowing stream, bears its sons away, as the old hymn put it. May First is the most festive of these epochal dates. The occupations of the good old summer time begin. The ball parks and golf links are opening, the thrud of the woolly tennis ball is heard, the fishermen are thronging the streams, and the roads are crowded with motorists. For many centuries, a joy seeking spirit has burst forth on this date. The crowds dancing around the maypole in "Merrie England" told the happiness of the season. Many minds take the first of May more seriously. In other lands, socialist and other organizations which seek great changes in our economic system choose it for their demonstrations. Blood sometimes flows, on an occasion once noted as the time when children and adults should go forth in the field to pick spring flowers.

In some cities, May first is moving day, when families pack their belongings on the trucks, and go through the busy and fatiguing process of family removal. In the working world here in Lowell May day is simply one more work day, when all must drill through the usual tasks of the job. Let us not forget that May day is the first of glorious season of outdoor activity, when bright skies and soft air call us into the beauty and exhilaration of this shining world.

NATURE OUTDOES THE AAA FROM a recent newspaper column comes this word picture: "Mary L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator, dipped a glass in the muddy Potomac during the recent flood. A day later the water was crystal clear, but on the bottom of the glass was a deposit of soil three-eighths of an inch thick. Cooke estimates that this year's floods have carried away more than one-quarter of a billion tons of soil."

It may well be that this will exceed the acreage removed from production by the AAA.

Garden Lore Club
The Garden Lore Club met with Mrs. J. K. Allard Tuesday afternoon. A number of questions arose at this meeting that were tabled, the question of the Garden Show at the Showboat time and the question of several social affairs to be held this summer.

A larger attendance is hoped for by the president, Mrs. E. S. White, at the next meeting which will be held May 5, the place to be announced at the next publication of this paper. All Garden Club members watch for further announcements for the Garden Club.

Men who pay whole-hearted attention to business, who train themselves, who develop every power to the full, are favored by the ill-training of the average man. Despite our boasted institutions of learning, most men are only half-educated, have no clear purpose in life or little real ambition, and are not honest in the highest meaning of the word. The only wonder is that well-trained, honest, ambitious, creative men do not forge to the front more rapidly.—Darwin P. Kingsley.

Prevent Apple Scab
By Prompt Spraying
Lower Peninsula farmers are advised to take strong precautions against the spread of apple scab, most prevalent apple disease in this part of the country. Donald Cation, research assistant in plant pathology, Michigan State College, East Lansing, says that late fall rains and heavy winter snows were exceptionally favorable for the overwintering of the fungus which has an early start this spring.

"The spores which are found on the old dead leaves on the ground are ripe and will be ready to discharge by the time the apple buds are in the green stage," he says. "Spore discharges occur only during rains and infections can only take place when the foliage is wet."
Three pre-blossom sprays to be made from one week to 10 days apart are recommended. For early sprays, which should be applied now, 2½ gallons of lime sulphur in 100 gallons of water is effective. The strength can be weakened for the after-blossom sprays. Milder sulphur fungicides are often used after bloom. For complete control of the apple scab in seven to ten years, five sprays applied thoroughly during the early developing period of foliage and fruit are usually sufficient.

The plain truth is precisely what we need. We may not like it, but it is a good medicine for us. When we are quite restored to health, we shall realize that the thing for us to do is not to hush up the truth about ourselves and others, not to whisper and snigger about it in corners, and be horrified when anybody is honest enough to say in the face of all men what few of us hesitate to say behind their backs, but to see to it that in the future the facts are so different, that not even the most orthodox biographer will feel constrained to falsify his portrait of us by suppressing most of them.

OIL WELL PROGRESS

Traverse rock was reached at approximately 2100 feet in the G. W. Groff oil well at 5:40 p. m. Friday. At this depth a showing of oil was made in the Anton Kallinger well last summer, but similar expectations in the current well did not materialize. However, the well is being reamed and drilling will be continued into the dundee sands, at a depth of 2500 feet, which is expected to be reached about Wednesday of next week, according to the Lowell Development Company and the Michigan Oil Exploration Company, co-sponsors of the enterprise.

Woman's Club

The Lowell Woman's Club met on April 15 at the Lowell library. After the regular business session, Mrs. C. H. Horn introduced Miss Margaret Nevins, who gave a very fine talk on the older girls' side of the "Youth Movement." Miss Nevins touched first on the subject of "Religion" as applied to youth. She said there are four things that influence young people in the matters of religion, training, education and parents' attitude and companions. She next stated that parents are a problem to children, inasmuch as they are apt to do several things which displease youth, one of which was always saying, "When I was young" when at the same time they are almost catching up with their children.

The rest of the program was on the topic, "Alaska," with Mrs. Chas. Foote as chairman. Mrs. Bert Purchase read a very interesting article on the "Territory of Alaska," telling among many other interesting facts that Alaska was purchased from Russia for $7,200,000 and transferred to the United States on October 18, 1867.

Mrs. Foote told many interesting things about the Matanuska Valley project, which was put into action in March, 1935. There are 200 families who emigrated from Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. People were selected so they could adjust themselves to the same climate as they had been accustomed to. The cost per family is $3,000, on which they begin repaying at the end of five years. The rate of interest is 3% with thirty years to pay.

The meeting adjourned to meet on April 29 for a luncheon meeting at the Hosley House.

Make yourself nests of pleasant thoughts. None of us yet know, for none of us have been taught in early youth, what fairy palaces we may build of beautiful thoughts, proof against all adversity. Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure-houses of precious and restful thoughts, which care cannot disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands, for our souls to live in.—Ruskin.
