

TWO KINDS OF FORESIGHT

IT TAKES a lot of looking ahead to make a success in one's work, in business, or in developing a town. However, foresight may be too narrow. A business man may have a keen foresight for his own concern and plan quite intelligently for pushing it ahead. But that is not enough.

WAKING UP ON POLITICS

EXTREMELY heavy registration for the fall election is reported from many states. In New York city there are 500,000 more on the lists than there were for the election of 1932.

TORCHLIGHTS OF FORMER DAYS

METHODS of political campaigning have seen many changes. The old timers have a vivid recollection of the colorful campaigns of their youth, when the torchlight parade was one of the chief methods of political agitation.

Council Answers Gas Dealers' Plea

By Pump Tax Cut

But Victory Won May Be Nominal One

Eight local gas station operators, with William Heim their spokesman, appeared before the council on Tuesday night and requested reduction or repeal of the ordinance levying a ten dollar annual privilege or license tax upon each public gas pump maintained within the corporate limits of Lowell. When the subject was brought up a month ago the council voted down a motion by Trustee Claude Thorne to repeal the ordinance.

Levy Held Unreasonable

The tax constitutes an unfair burden upon a highly competitive business operated on a narrow profit margin. Mr. Heim declared, pointing out that the pumps are likewise subject to a personal property tax; the assessment always falls upon the individual station operator rather than his controlling corporation, which insists that most stations maintain high test and low test gas pumps, in addition to the regular grade gas pump; with the result that pumps dispensing the less popular brands are sometimes operated at an actual loss, when the ten dollar fee is included.

May Dispense Own Gas

It appeared, however, that the gas men may have gained only a nominal victory in their efforts to reduce the pump tax, because the council immediately began to consider the feasibility of a village operated pump to dispense municipally used, tax exempt, motor fuel, at an estimated saving of from three to five hundred dollars annually over the present system of spreading the village gas business among the various local stations, paying the regular price, minus the sales tax. Clerk L. E. Johnson was instructed to approach the principal gas consumption, total, to submit a plan for the management of such a pump, if installed.

Canine Control

At the preceding meeting Philip Hartley asked public protection from marauding, predatory dogs, running at large and destroying lawns and shrubbery. Examination of the ordinance book revealed that the only enactment touching on the subject was a sundry ordinance, passed in 1915, and providing for the imposition of a village dog tax, with the issuance of metal tags, and the creation of a municipal pound. The ordinance has never been enforced. By a piece of political strategy worthy of Jim Farley, its repeal was put to a vote on Tuesday night.

All Saddened By Unexpected Death Of Peter J. Fineis

Public Spirited And Highly Esteemed

Sudden death claimed one of the most popular and widely-known local business figures of the past quarter century in the passing last Thursday evening of Peter J. Fineis, at the age of 52. Mr. Fineis was spending the evening at the Howard Bartlett residence with Mrs. Fineis and a party of friends when overcome by a heart seizure. Suffering intense agony, the stricken man insisted on returning home immediately, where he died about ten minutes after arrival.

Launching a business career from humble beginnings, by perseverance, unlagging industry and resourcefulness, Mr. Fineis won recognition as a leading wholesale and retail oil distributor of Michigan. In early days at Lowell he managed the Standard station here, later venturing into the independent field, where he organized a chain of twenty-two stations throughout Western Michigan, handling Texaco, and, later, Dixie oil and gas products. Lately, he was a large scale distributor for another firm, and gave considerable time and attention to the maintenance of his successful orange ranch at Howie-in-the-Hills, Fla.

PETER J. FINEIS

Of open-hearted liberality, tolerant in outlook, and affable in manner, Mr. Fineis won and held friends in every class of society. The manifold expressions of sympathy and innumerable floral tributes which poured in on the family were only one attestation to his genius for human contacts. Worthwhile civic endeavors always found a ready helper in Mr. Fineis, and his contributions as a Showboat endman, revealing some and theatrical talent of a high order, were a memorable feature of the past three productions. Exemplifying a spirit of service above self, he insisted upon appearing in the 1936 Showboat, despite strict orders from his physician, rather than to necessitate a last minute cast replacement to the community at large. For many seasons Mr. Fineis took great pleasure in managing the Fineis Oil Colored Giants, a crack negro baseball team, which lent to the community at large considerable prestige and renown, from which Mr. Fineis neither asked nor received any direct reward.

Lee high school defeated Lowell's eleven last Friday evening at Recreation Park, 12-0. Lee showed very strong with a heavy fast team that was too much for the local squad. Lee took advantage of all the breaks in the game scoring in the first quarter after a poor punt by Lowell which gave them the ball on the 20 yard line. In the second quarter Lee completed several passes and again scored. The second half was a constant battle up and down the field with Lowell holding her own against the Lee attacks.

Local Dog Makes Good

This picture from last Sunday's Grand Rapids Herald shows "Elsa," prize winning dachshund owned by John Duncan McDonald, Grand Rapids attorney and son of John S. McDonald, former Kent County Prosecuting Attorney and State Supreme Court Justice, now Chairman of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

As a member of the McDonald household, "Elsa" holds her own with feuntonic stubbornness against a jealous spitz. She was christened "Noodles," after Adolphe Menjou's sausage hound, but Mrs. McDonald renamed her in honor of the character in Wagner's "Lohengrin."

"Elsa" was born and raised in Lower to Gerald Henry. An offspring of the late Weine, she is a sister of "Trixie," owned by Jack Bannan, and "Tootsie," the hunter and slayer of raccoons, woodchucks, snakes and rats, which is owned by Ernest Althaus.

Small Town And Rural Voters In Favor Of Landon

Final Returns in Poll By 3,000 Weeklies

(By John Thomas Wilson)

New York, Oct. 19.—Voters, one million, thirty-nine thousand, six hundred and thirty-five of them, residing in small towns and rural America, have registered a straw vote preference for President, with this result:

A majority of them, 57.1%, favor Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the Republican party candidate. The second choice is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate, with 36.8% of the vote. Congressman William Lemke, Union party, is a distant third with 4.6%; the other three candidates trailing far in the rank in the order named, Thomas, Socialist; Browder, Communist, and Colvin, Prohibitionist, last.

In political terms more readily understood, Landon with 594,183 votes leads Roosevelt with 382,842 votes on the ratio of about 5 to 3 in 40 states. Landon leads in 27 states to 13 states for Roosevelt in these 40 states on the basis of the small town and country vote only as recorded at the close of this poll.

Herewith is a table of the final total vote for all candidates:

Landon	594,183	57.1%
Roosevelt	382,842	36.8%
Lemke	46,848	4.6%
Thomas	7,544	0.8%
Colvin	3,580	0.3%
Browder	4,638	0.4%
Total	1,039,635	100%

The above standings are the final results in a nation-wide Presidential straw vote poll conducted by some 3,000 weekly newspapers located in states throughout the country. Publishers Autocaster Service and The American Press, located in the capacity of national straw vote headquarters to tabulate the nation-wide vote of state by state returns.

This poll of small town and country voters is made up of returns from 40 states. The states that are not included in this poll are omitted only because the vote was so small or so scattered that in the opinion of those tabulating the vote, such returns were of no informative or speculative value.

Fourth Nation-Wide Poll
Small town and country voters have been registering their Presidential preference in these polls, conducted by country weekly newspapers, each national election year since 1924. Each succeeding poll has shown an increase in the number of ballots cast and the accuracy of the forecast.

In 1932 this small town and country poll was correct within one state, giving Hoover 7 states against Roosevelt, whereas Hoover carried only 6 states in the November election. In popular vote totals, the Hoover-Roosevelt vote in the 1932 poll was within 1% of the distribution of the popular vote between those two when the official November count was completed.

Balloting in the 1936 poll was conducted over a period of nine weeks, from late July until October 10th. Only actual individual ballots as sent in by newspapers from subscribers and readers were included in the national state-by-state tabulations.

Lodge, organization or group voting was not counted. Newspapers of all political faiths and complexions were invited to join in the poll.

How States Voted

One new state, Nevada, was added in the final week of balloting. It went into the Roosevelt column by the narrow margin of 648 votes to 615 for Landon.

The 13 states wherein Roosevelt leads at the conclusion of the poll are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas and Utah.

The 27 states favoring Landon are: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

A study of the national state by state tabulations shows the closest voting in California, Connecticut, Nevada, North Dakota and Ohio.

So comes to a close the weekly newspapers' most successful Presidential poll.

Lowell and Vicinity

At the close of voting Oct. 10, the total straw vote of Lowell and surrounding townships totaled as follows:

Landon	331
Roosevelt	132
Lemke	2
Thomas	2
Colvin, Browder	None

TWO KINDS OF FORESIGHT

IT TAKES a lot of looking ahead to make a success in one's work, in business, or in developing a town. However, foresight may be too narrow. A business man may have a keen foresight for his own concern, and plan quite intelligently for pushing it ahead. But that is not enough.

WAKING UP ON POLITICS

EXTREMELY heavy registration for the fall election is reported from many states. In New York city there are 300,000 more on the lists than there were for the election of 1932. Whence comes all this great army of new voters? The politicians ask anxiously what it means. Is it some ominous new element that threatens defeat to the old organizations?

TORCHLIGHTS OF FORMER DAYS

METHODS of political campaigning have seen many changes. The old timers have a vivid recollection of the colorful campaigns of their youth, when the torchlight parade was one of the chief methods of political agitation.

WHAT GOOD WILL COULD DO

AN EXPERT on industrial production said in one of his addresses, that the lack of good will between employer and employee causes a loss of 25 per cent in the industrial production of the country. He would argue that if bosses and workers would all cooperate heartily, the industries could make up that 25 per cent loss, and produce more welfare for everybody.

Council Answers Gas Dealers' Plea By Pump Tax Cut

Eight local gas station operators, with William Heim their spokesman, appeared before the village council Monday night and requested reduction or repeal of the ordinance levying a ten dollar annual privilege or license tax upon each public gas pump maintained within the corporate limits of Lowell. When the subject was brought up a month ago by Trustee Claude Thorne to repeal the ordinance.

Levy Held Unreasonable

The tax constitutes an unfair burden upon a highly competitive business operated on a narrow profit margin. Mr. Heim declared, pointing out that the pumps are likewise subject to a personal property tax; the assessment always falls upon the individual station operator rather than the controlling corporation, which insists that both stations maintain high test and low test gas pumps, in addition to the regular grade gas pump; with the result that pumps dispensing the less popular brands are sometimes operated at an actual loss when the ten dollar fee is included.

May Dispense Own Gas

It appeared, however, that the gas men may have gained only a nominal victory in their efforts to reduce the pump tax, because the ordinance which they consider the feasibility of a village operated pump to dispense municipally used, tax exempt motor fuel, at an estimated saving of from three to five hundred dollars annually over the present system of spreading the village gas business among the various local stations, paying the regular price, minus the sales tax.

Canine Control

At the preceding meeting Phillip Hartley's protection from marauding, predatory dogs, running at large and destroying lawns and shrubbery. Examination of the ordinance book revealed that the only enactment touching on the subject was a lenient ordinance, passed in 1915, and providing for the imposition of a village dog tax, with the issuance of metal tags, and the creation of a municipal pound. The ordinance has never been enforced.

When there's freight to go, when there's freight to come, insist it move by railroad.

Freight via railroad means efficient handling, speedy movement, on-time arrival.

Freight via railroad means a protected shipper, a protected shipment, a protected delivery.

Freight via railroad means using the only transit agency whose average charge is less than a penny a ton a mile.

A GOOD CURE FOR UNHAPPINESS IS TO BE UNHAPPY

She had fallen in love with a college professor. For five years she had been in love with him...

By KATHLEEN NORRIS. One of the simplest ways to help cure unhappiness is to be unhappy.

It sounds like sheer nonsense, but it has a profound spiritual truth beneath it...

Sometimes, when life is going all wrong, when ideas and anxiety and work and discouragement are piling up like mountains all about you...

One grasping this point of view, family life and that which most things are left you, and some of them are good things.

It is a blessing and beautiful thing to ask yourself you expect ever to be happy in this twisted world...

When you are in a state of mind, you are in a state of mind. You are in a state of mind.

When you are in a state of mind, you are in a state of mind. You are in a state of mind.

Local Dog Makes Good

This picture from last Sunday's Grand Rapids Herald shows "Elsa" prize winning dachshund owned by John Duncan McDonald, Grand Rapids attorney and son of John S. McDonald, former Kent County Prosecuting Attorney and State Supreme Court Justice, now Chairman of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

As a member of the McDonald household, "Elsa" holds her own with Teutonic stubbornness against a jealous spitz. She was christened "Noodles" after Adolph Menou's sausage hound, but Mrs. McDonald renamed her in honor of the character in Wagner's "Lohengrin."

"Elsa" was born and raised in Lowell by Gerald Henry. An offspring of the late "Weinie," she is a sister of "Trixie," owned by Jack Bannan, and "Tootsie," the hunter and slayer of raccoons, woodchucks, snakes and rats, which is owned by Ernest Allaus.

Small Town And Rural Voters In Favor Of Landon

Final Returns in Poll By 3,000 Weeklies

(By John Thomas Wilson)

New York, Oct. 19.—Voters, one million, thirty-nine thousand, six hundred and thirty-five of them, residing in small towns and rural America, have registered a straw vote preference for President, with this result:

A majority of them, 57.1%, favor Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the Republican party candidate. The second choice is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate, with 36.8% of the vote. Congressman William Lemke, Union party, is a distant third with 4.6%; the other three candidates trailing far behind.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, Socialist, Prohibitionist, last.

In political terms more readily understood, Landon with 594,183 votes leads Roosevelt with 382,242 votes on the ratio of about 3 to 2 in 49 states, and leads in 27 states to 13 states for Roosevelt. In the cold terms of electoral votes Landon has 378 to 110 for Roosevelt in these 40 states on the basis of the small town and country vote only as recorded at the close of this poll.

Here-with is a table of the final total vote for all candidates:

Landon	594,183	57.1%
Roosevelt	382,242	36.8%
Lemke	46,848	0.4%
Thomas	7,544	0.8%
Colvin	3,580	0.3%
Browder	4,638	0.4%
Total	1,039,035	100%

The above standings are the final results in the nation-wide Presidential straw vote poll conducted by some 3,000 weekly newspapers located in states throughout the country. Publishers Autocaster Service and The American Press, located here, served in the capacity of national straw vote headquarters to tabulate the nation-wide vote of state by state returns.

This poll of small town and country voters is made up of returns from 40 states. The states that are not included in this poll are served in the capacity of national straw vote headquarters to tabulate the nation-wide vote of state by state returns.

The vote was so small in the rural areas that it was not included in the opinion of those tabulating the vote, such returns were of no informative or speculative value.

Fourth Nation-Wide Poll
Small town and country voters have been registering their Presidential preference in these polls, conducted by country weekly newspapers, each national election year since 1924. Each year has shown an increasing number of ballots cast and the accuracy of the forecast.

In 1932 this small town and country poll was correct within one state, giving Hoover 7 states against Roosevelt, whereas Hoover carried only 6 states in the November election. In popular vote totals, the Hoover-Roosevelt vote in the 1932 poll was within 1% of the distribution of the popular vote between those two when the official November count was completed.

Balloting in the 1936 poll was conducted over a period of nine weeks, from late July until October 10th. Only actual individual ballots as sent in by newspapers from subscribers and readers were included in the national state-by-state tabulations.

Lodge, organization, group voting was not counted. Newspapers of all political faiths and complexions were invited to join in the poll.

How States Voted
One new state, Nevada, was added in the final week of balloting. It went into the Roosevelt column by the narrow margin of 648 votes to 615 for Landon.

The 13 states wherein Roosevelt leads at the conclusion of the poll are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas and Utah.

The 27 states favoring Landon are: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New South Wales, Tennessee, Virginia, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

A study of the national state by state tabulations shows the closest voting in California, Connecticut, Nevada, North Dakota and Ohio.

So comes to a close the weekly newspapers' most successful Presidential poll.

Lowell and Vicinity
At the close of voting Oct. 10, the total straw vote of Lowell and surrounding townships totaled as follows:

Landon	331
Roosevelt	132
Lemke	21
Thomas	2
Colvin, Browder	None
