Brief Paragraphs, News and Information on a Variety of Topics

THE ELECTION LANDSLIDE

IT MUST BE with a tremendous feeling of triumph that Franklin Delano Roosevelt considers the election returns of Nov. 3. Never before in our history has a political candidate received such an endorsement. Whatever one may think of his administration, the American people have expressed approval, and have told him to go ahead. Whatever one's political convictions may be, the people should give him hearty support in order to be calculated to restore prosperity. In this free country those who doubt the wisdom of government measures have the right to point out what they believe to be defects and mistakes. It is desirable at this time that partisan rancor be put aside.

It is the almost universal history of our politics, that when business is good, the administration in power at Washington gets another term, and when it is bad, the administration in power is thrown out. Business is not better, exactly good today, with 20,000,000 still dependent on relief. But no one can deny that a marked improvement has taken place. This gain has led the great majority of the people to give the administration another chance. The average voter tests political results by the way they affect him. If his income increases, he votes for the party in power. If it declines, he votes against the party in power. As the great majority of people have made some gains in this respect since 1933, they have voted against a change at this time.

Future political results will depend much on whether this improvement continues. If in 1940 the election returns are as favorable, the voters will probably say it is time for some change of policy. Let us hope that the depression will be only a memory by that time, and that that election will be decided on other issues.

And now for final observations: long before 1940 arrives we all will know whether our present prosperity has been of the synthetic variety or whether it was built on true economic principles and sound foundations. The Ledger is not in a position to offer an opinion that President Roosevelt himself knows that he received his tremendous majority vote almost solely upon the belief upon the part of the average voter that times were better and that his election brought the means of giving him mandate to amend lightly the federal constitution with its bill of rights and its other safeguards of liberty attained through centuries of endeavor on the part of the common people.

INDIAN SUMMER

THERE IS a period of poetic and mellow charm in the latter days of autumn, often called Indian summer. According to tradition, the indolent Indians of old times depended upon these days of late fall to complete the tardy harvesting of their crops.

The poet Longfellow thus described the days of late fall: "The wind is soft, the sun is warm, wafts to us the odor of forest leaves, that hang wilted on dripping branches. The birds have taken wing, and have left their roofless dwellings. Not the whistle of a robin, not the twitter of an avocet, nor the swiftness of the carol of our sweet familiar voice. All are gone."

There is another side of Indian summer. It is a period of great calm. The earth seems to lack the feverish activity of spring time, in which it is so great and mighty effort. With many a kind of hush of waiting for the storms of winter.

The earth has just accomplished mighty deeds, has produced great stores of grains and fruits, and now it is resting from its labors. In the quietude of the November days, it seems cheered and comforted by the work it has done. There are no more pleasant days in all the year than a November day when the weather turns warm. It seems like the rich old age of some grand man or woman who has had a long and great deeds, and who now rests quietly contemplating the things that have been done.

The sun still shines with genial light. It gives life and cheer, without the scorching fierceness of August. With many or most of the trees bare of foliage, you can see long distances and get distant looks that were hidden in the full tide of summer. Let us take advantage of these days all we can, before old winter chills and his freezing blasts, and drives us to the shelter of the fireside.

TOO MUCH SUCCESS TALK

SOME EDUCATORS complain that young people are constantly urged to be "go-getters," to go out and win success. Then when they go out in the world and fail to make money and acquire some wealth, they sink back bitter and disillusioned.

Not many people can become wealthy. The world may look at the rich man as brilliantly successful, but if he can't adjust himself to life, he will not regard himself in that way. The man without a dollar, but with his two strong hands and ability to do good work and find a job, may plod along day after day enjoying life, and getting more out of it than those who are rolling in luxury. We need a new and more accurate yardstick than money with which to measure success.

John Callier, 75 Fifty-Six Years With Local Firm Faithful Employee of King Milling Co.

A career of continuous employment for one institution which seems incredible in these days of constant change, was brought to a close a few days ago by the retirement of John Callier at the outset of his fifty-sixth year in the service of the King Milling Company.

Mr. Callier plans to spend his leisure in the operation of his chicken ranch in Boston-1p. Besides the very real problem of whether the mill can get along without Mr. Callier, there also remains the question of whether Mr. Callier can get along without the mill. It is probable the habits of a lifetime will assert themselves, and he will be seen at intervals about the institution which has played so large a part in his adult life.

JOHN CALLIER

Mr. Callier "hired out" at the age of 19 to the late Ed. Wisner in October of 1880. He has watched the milling business progress from the era of grinding flour on stones to the present highly mechanized and scientific manufacture of grain products. Many years ago he was advanced to general work in charge of the east side Forest Mill, producing granulated corn meal, buckwheat and prepared pancake flour.

The fidelity of Mr. Callier's service, and his worth as a trusted, efficient employee, cannot be overemphasized, according to William C. Doyle, the mill stands in its present stature as a monument to the industry and devotion of men of his calibre.

Mr. Callier is in his 75th year and is enjoying rugged health.

Responsibility Act Gets Mostly Drunks

The recent expiration of the first three years' operation of the Financial Responsibility Act has revealed several interesting developments, according to records in the Department of State.

In the first place, while the act was framed to curb the driving of those who fail to satisfy damage judgments returned against them, actually less than 200 drivers were involved for this reason during the three year period. More than 10,000 drivers ran afoul of the act during this time.

While those failing to meet judgments returned against them for damages, are barred from the highways until the judgment is satisfied, others involved for considerable list of other reasons—all violations of the motor vehicle act—are barred for three-year periods, unless they meet rigid requirements. Less than 15 per cent of all drivers involved have been able to meet these conditions.

The 1935 legislature amended the Financial Responsibility Act, removing 1,552 drivers from the barred group, leaving 8,874 barred by the act. Of these, 8,162, or nearly 91 per cent were barred from driving on conviction of drunk driving charges.

The three-year suspension period for these first under the act, convicted for motor vehicle violations, expired October 17, third anniversary of its effective date.

75 Horses Ready To Go To Chicago

Some of Michigan's finest registered horses of three breeds from many of the leading breeders' farms in Michigan will be in the state exhibit of horses in Chicago during the annual International Live Stock exposition Nov. 28 to Dec. 5, it is announced by Harry E. Moxley, extension specialist in animal husbandry at Michigan State College.

Moxley expects that most of the 75 horses which will comprise the exhibit will win ribbons and cash prizes, for the animals will be entered individually in the classes for which they are eligible. They are the pick of draft horses in the state, selected from those which have been winning consistently in county fairs and the state fair in Michigan.

Included in the list of exhibitors is William McCarthy & Sons of Parnell. Sponsoring the group exhibit are the Michigan State Department of Agriculture, the Michigan Horse Breeders' association and Michigan State College. Some of the animals will be trucked to Chicago direct from farms, while others will be taken down in groups from East Lansing. The State horse breeders' association is paying expenses for a boy from each club who has won in 4-H colt club projects.

MANY TURKEYS TO GET REPRIEVES

Many a Michigan turkey is going to get a reprieve of a month or so from the traditional Thanksgiving day, says C. G. Card, poultry husbandman at Michigan State College. He makes the prophecy because the birds in general in this state are grown on good mash and grains and are too often forced to compete in the November holiday markets against range reared stock carrying a poorer quality finish.

Those who wish to purchase well finished Michigan turkeys often are willing to pay good premiums for the better meat, says Card. "If producers in this state can get in touch with dealers, restaurants, hotels, or individuals where such quality premiums will be paid, the producer will obtain better returns than in ordinary market."

"This fall, especially, it is going to pay dividends to producers who are more careful in their marketing. Perhaps many turkey flocks will obtain greater returns if birds are sold with quality finish and if more home dressing is done before marketing."

To return to the question of whether turkeys should be marketed for Thanksgiving or held for the Christmas trade, Card indicates this may be a problem to be decided individually by turkey producers. It may depend upon the size and the finish of the birds. The time of marketing may be decided on the basis of feed supply and cost of rations for another month on farms where turkeys are being fed.

Card estimates that this year in Michigan there is a greater number of turkeys than ever before, especially in the Thumb area of the state. It will be good business for producers to market only those birds in good finish and the lightweight unfinished turkeys should be held for the higher quality finish they will show for Christmas.

Rats are Destructive; Kill 'em Off!

Plans for the rat campaign in Kent County, Friday, Nov. 13, have been completed and it is expected that thousands of rodents will come to a deserved end after feasting on the red squill bait which will be served them at that time. The poison bait should be distributed in the various infested buildings early in the evening. Each rat will eat $2.00 worth of grain every year. It costs only a cent or two to kill him. Rats spread disease. Kill them off.

The slogan "Lowell the Friendly Town" is a true slogan says Mr. J. D. Mapes, who was back in Lowell the first of this week for a brief visit, after spending the past year and a half in California. "There are many fine people in all sections of the country," declared Mr. Mapes, "but I can truly say that I have never found a town to equal Lowell in the friendliness of spirit displayed by its citizens." Well, that's a fine thing to say about our citizens to continue living up to the ideal of friendliness toward the stranger within our gates.

Charles Doyle In Kentucky Hospital

Charles Doyle, president of the King Milling Company, was taken seriously ill late Wednesday morning while on a passenger train enroute from Detroit to points in North Carolina. He was taken from the train at Danville, Ky., about one o'clock this morning and is at present resting in a hospital in that city. Mrs. Doyle was with her husband on the train and a message telling of Mr. Doyle's illness was received here immediately after their arrival at Danville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Shivel, the latter a sister of Mr. Doyle's, left at 4 o'clock this (Thursday) morning and will arrive at Danville about noon today. Mr. Doyle's many friends here are hoping to hear encouraging news from the bedside at an early date.

In general, all metals, liquids and gases tend to expand when heated, the lower part of the Empire State building (1248 feet high, including the mooring mast) were thrown out of line a fraction of an inch by the tremendous force of expansion of its steel framework, the top of the building might easily be thrown out of line several feet. A knowledge by engineers of the expansion of materials is necessary for safety.

Octogenarian Club

Chronologically, the subject of this sketch falls into the category of the favored few who attain the age of eighty. Disregarding, however, those lying cheats, the years, she remains in spirit and health and the other things that really count, a young woman. She does all her own housework, including furnace tending, devours crossword puzzles by the dozen; and takes a keen interest in her large garden, which is cultivated annually by William J. Anderson, club duties and faithful untiring church service are among other activities which go to form a contented and useful career of the latter years.

Mrs. Andrews is a Kent County native. She was born in the town of Lowell on May 13, 1856. Her father, James H. Kellogg, was a '61 volunteer, a farmer, and died shortly thereafter. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that Lowell's only remaining Civil War veteran, Robert B. Boylan, was also a musician, having been a strapping drummer boy in Grant's Army.

Mr. Kellogg's young widow, with her daughters, May and Nellie, removed to Lowell in 1868. The subject of this sketch attended Lowell high school under the tutelage of S. P. Hicks, which was the title accorded public school heads of that day. At the 1936 alumni banquet Mrs. Andrews was introduced with Mrs. Florence Fuller, Mrs. Clifford White and Mrs. M. C. Greene. The parents and friends of the children will have an opportunity to watch them participate in regular classroom activities.

The school is also bringing a traveling art gallery to the village. Starting Thursday, Nov. 12, the kindergarten and first eight grades will present living pictures portraying some favorite work of art. These will include reproductions from Whistler, Gainsborough, Millet and others. Selections will be played by members from the school orchestra.

Patrons and friends of the schools are urged to attend and visit the shop and economics departments.

Along Main St. Speaker Praises Efforts For Peace

Armistice as the most widely celebrated holiday, with the exceptions of Christmas and Easter, was discussed by Dr. John R. Stryker, Commander of Charles W. Clark Post, No. 152, the American Legion, before the local Rotary Club Wednesday noon.

The speaker gave a vivid description of the Rock of Gibraltar near which he was stationed for thirteen months during the World War, and cited the joint activities of Rotary International and Legion in the promotion of World Peace.

The scheduled debate on "Are School Athletics Overemphasized" with the entire club participating developed into a burlesque which produced one laugh after another.

Last year 11 hunters were killed and 28 were injured during the first month of the small-game hunting season.

Secrets of tough muffins are not secrets at all, announce search workers in home economics at Michigan State College. Toughness in a muffin seems to be merely the result of too much stirring. And the remedy? That's simple and is obtained in three steps. One is to mix the dry ingredients. The next step is to mix the liquid ingredients, and then the liquid is to be incorporated into the dry mixture and mixed with the dry mixture, stirring just enough to moisten all the ingredients. The brief mixing prevents developing the gluten in the flour. It's the gluten which causes the tunnels and peaks and the toughness in the muffins.

"No," Saturday Evening Post.

It Always Happens
"Do you think it possible to meet all your friends at one time?" asked Joe.
"Certainly," replied Dora. "Just go out in your oldest frock and her with a run in both your stockings and your nose unpolished. You'll meet them all."—Northwestern Farmer.

Mary's Fancy Costume
Little Mary was going to a fancy dress party and could not find what to wear. Then suddenly she had an idea. "May I go as a milkmaid, can't I, mother?"
"But you are too small, Mary!"
"Oh, but I can go as a condensed milkmaid, can't I, mother?"

TELLING HER
"It's always had the last word in this family," said a mother.
"That's so? What does he say?"
"Yes, my dear, you're absolutely right."

A Human Zero
"How's that widower you married turning out as a husband?"
"The poor fellow is covered by his first wife there even isn't a single eye fusing with him."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

How Long?
Tommy was listening to some of his father's old-time stories.
"You see, sonny, I always believe in fighting an enemy with his own weapons."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Conserving Space
"Have you much room in your new flat?"
"Heaven, no. My kitchen and dining room are so small that I have to live on condensed milk and shortbread."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Old Stuff
"Well, Willie, your sister and I are going to be married. How's that for news?"
"Shucks! You just finding that out now?"

The reason a bad egg floats in water is that gases have formed inside, owing to decomposition. These make it lighter than all good eggs, which contains white matter.

It is estimated that 20,000 religious structures were built in Mexico within a period of 300 years after the Spanish conquest. Many such chapels grace all Republic's second largest city, Guadalajara.

Long, Low Contours Mark New Plymouth for 1937

REVOLUTIONARY "safety styling," and massive bodies pillowed on rubber-poise mountings for a new kind of "hushed" ride make their bow with the new Plymouth for 1937. Hypoid rear axles, complete soundproofing and big airplane-type shock absorbers are other Plymouth innovations this year. Interiors are roomier, with the added luxury that only extra space can give. Eight "deluxe" and three "business" body types are included in the 1937 Plymouth line. The models shown above are the new Four-Door Touring Sedan (lower left), the Two-Door Sedan (upper right) and Rumble Seat Coupe.

"You admired that man because of his speech?"
"Yes," replied Farmer Cortosel.
"But you didn't agree with his opinions."
"Not as a rule. But it struck me that a man that could get up before a crowd of people and talk such a lot of 'junk' at the top of his voice had real grit."

Loyalty

He was a loyal little fellow and would not permit anything said against his parents go unchallenged. One Sunday afternoon a visiting boy friend said:

THE ELECTION LANDSLIDE

IT MUST BE with a tremendous feeling of triumph that Franklin Delano Roosevelt considers the election returns of Nov. 3. Never before in our history has a political candidate received such an endorsement. Whatever one may think of his administration, the American people have expressed approval and have told him to go ahead. Whatever one's political convictions may be, the people should give him hearty support in every measure calculated to restore prosperity in this free country those who doubt the wisdom of government measures have the right to point out what they believe to be defects and mistakes. It is desirable at this time that partisan rancor be put aside.

It is the almost universal history of our politics, that when business is good, the administration in power at Washington gets another term, and when it is bad, the administration is thrown out. Business can not be called exactly good today, with 20,000,000 still dependent on relief. But no one can deny that a marked improvement has taken place. This gain has led the great majority of the people to give the administration another chance.

INDIAN SUMMER

THERE IS a period of poetic and mellow charm in the latter days of autumn, often called Indian summer. According to tradition, the indolent Indians of old times depended upon these days of late fall to complete the tardy harvesting of their crops. The poet Longfellow thus described the days of late fall: "The wind is soft and low. It wafts to us the odor of forest leaves, that hang wilted on dripping branches. The birds have taken wing, and have left their roofless dwellings. Not the whistle of a robin, not the twitter of an eavesdropping swallow, not the carol of one sweet familiar voice. All are gone."

TWO MUCH SUCCESS TALK

SOME EDUCATORS complain that young people are constantly urged to be "go-getters," to go out and win success. Then when they go out in the world and fail to make money and acquire some wealth, they look back bitter and disillusioned. Not many people can become wealthy. The world may look at the rich man as brilliantly successful, but if he can't adjust himself to life, he will not regard himself in that way. The man without a dollar, but with two strong hands and ability to do good work and find a job, may find a way after day enjoying life, and getting more out of it than those who are rolling in luxury. We need a new and more accurate yardstick than money with which to measure success.

SOUTH BOSTON GRANGE EXPRESS APPRECIATION

I also wish to thank those who solicited and Mr. N. C. Thomas who so generously rendered his services in the most appreciative cooperation.

THE LOWELL LEDGER

LOWELL, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, NOV. 12, 1936

NO. 26

John Callier, 75 Fifty-Six Years With Local Firm Faithful Employee of King Milling Co.

A career of continuous employment for one institution which seems incredible in these days of constant change, was brought to a close a few days ago by the retirement of John Callier at the outset of his fifty-sixth year in the service of the King Milling Company.

JOHN CALLIER

Mr. Callier plans to spend his leisure in the operation of his chicken ranch in Boston-pit. Besides the very real problem of whether the mill can get along without Mr. Callier, there remains the question of whether Mr. Callier can get along without the mill. It is probable the habits of a lifetime will assert themselves, and he will be seen at intervals about the institution which has played so large a part in his adult life.

Mr. Callier "hired out" at the age of 19 to the late Ed. Wisner in October of 1880. He has watched the milling business progress from the era of grinding flour on stones to the present highly mechanized and scientific manufacture of grain products. Many years ago he was advanced to general work in charge of the east side Forest Mill, producing granulated corn meal, buckwheat and prepared pancake flour.

A New U. S. Flag in Every Schoolroom

The Department of Public Instruction is sponsoring, in cooperation with the American Legion, a program which will place a new American flag in each of the rural schoolrooms in Michigan. The flags were made by WPA workers. Members of the American Legion will visit the various schools and make the presentation of the flags on Friday, Nov. 13th. Appropriate programs will be arranged in the schools.

Responsibility Act Gets Mostly Drunks

The recent expiration of the first three years' operation of the Financial Responsibility Act has revealed several interesting developments, according to records in the Department of State. In the first place, while the act was framed to curb the driving of those who fail to satisfy damage judgments returned against them, actually less than 200 drivers were involved for this reason during the three year period. More than 10,000 drivers ran afoul of the act during this time.

While those failing to meet judgments returned against them for damages, are barred from the highways until the judgment is satisfied, others involved for a considerable list of other reasons—all violations of the motor vehicle act—are barred for three-year periods, unless they meet rigid requirements. Less than 15 per cent of all drivers involved have been able to meet these conditions.

75 Horses Ready To Go To Chicago Ag. Class Staging Two-day Fair Here

Some of Michigan's finest registered horses of three breeds from many of the leading breeders' farms in Michigan will be in the state exhibit of horses in Chicago during the annual International Live Stock exposition Nov. 28 to Dec. 5, it is announced by Harry F. Moxley, extension specialist in animal husbandry at Michigan State College.

Moxley expects that most of the 75 horses which will comprise the exhibit will win ribbons and cash prizes, for the animals will be entered in the classes for which they are eligible. They are the pick of draft horses in the state, selected from those which have been winning consistently in county fairs and the state fair in Michigan.

MANY TURKEYS TO GET PREPRIES

Many a Michigan turkey is going to get a preprieve of a month or so from the traditional Thanksgiving ax, says C. G. Card, poultry husbandman at Michigan State College. He makes the prophecy because the birds in general in this state are grown on good masses and grains and are too often forced to compete in the November holiday markets against reared stock carrying a poorer quality finish.

Rats are Destructive; Kill 'em Off!

Plans for the rat campaign in Kent County, Friday, Nov. 13, have been completed and it is expected that thousands of rodents will come to a deserved end after feasting on the red squill bait which will be served them at that time. The poison bait should be distributed in the various infested buildings early in the evening. Each rat will eat $2.00 worth of grain every year. It costs only a cent or two to kill him. Rats spread disease. Kill them off.

Secrets of tough muffins are not so hard to announce re secret workers in home economics at Michigan State College. Toughness in a muffin seems to be merely the result of too much stirring. And the remedy? That's simple and is obtained in three steps. One is to mix the ingredients. The next step is to mix the liquid ingredients, and then the third step is the important one. The liquid is added to and mixed with the dry mixture, stirring just enough to moisten all the ingredients. The brief mixing prevents developing the gluten in the flour. It's the gluten which causes the tunnels and peaks and the toughness in the muffins.

An Admiration for Nerve
"You admitted that man because of his speech?"
"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "But you didn't agree with his opinions."
"Not as a rule. But it struck me that a man that could get up before a crowd of people and talk such a lot of junk at the top of his voice had real grit."

Loyalty
He was a loyal little fellow and would not permit anything said against his parents go unchallenged. One Sunday afternoon a visiting boy friend said:
"Listen to your father snoring."
"Dad is not snoring," was the indignant reply. "He is dreaming about a dog and that is the dog growling!"—Indianapolis News.

Worried Mother's Retort
A meddlesome woman, riding in a train, began sneering at a young mother's awkwardness in holding a fretting baby, says London Opinion.
"I declare," she snorted, "a woman ought never to have a baby until she knows how to hold it."
"Nor a tongue, either," calmly responded the worried mother.

NOT THAT KIND
"Do you think De Beat will ever wipe out his debt?"
"Not even though he is a big sponge."

Mutual
Earnest little Johnny sat watching his mother who was busily ironing. Out of a silence came this surprising question:
"Mother, do you 'prelate me'?"
"Of course, sonny. Why do you ask that?"
"Well, I 'prelate you," was his reply.—Indianapolis News.

IF WASHERS WERE ELECTED LIKE PRESIDENTS!

For more than fifteen years, now, Maytag has been the "elect" among washers—the choice of more women than any other make. The superiority of its features is obvious at a glance. A demonstration is still more convincing, and its record of unflinching service is final proof. Weigh all the evidence, and you also will cast your vote for a Maytag. A payment plan to accommodate your needs. See the New Maytag Ironer. Maytags available with gasoline Multi-Motor.

Long, Low Contours Mark New Plymouth for 1937.

REVOLUTIONARY "safety styling," and massive bodies pillowed on rubber-plate mountings for a new kind of "hushed" ride make their bow with the Plymouth for 1937. Hypoid rear axles, complete soundproofing and big airplane-type shock absorbers are other Plymouth innovations this year. Interiors are roomier, with the added luxury that only extra space can give. Eight "deluxe" and three "business" body types are included in the 1937 Plymouth line. The models shown above are the new Four-Door Touring Sedan (lower left), the Two-Door Sedan (upper right) and Rumble Seat Coupe.
