CROSS STREET PERILS

SOME OF the worst dangers in motoring are found at street in-tersections. The fast driver has his eyes so firmly fixed on the track ahead of him that he may fail to see the car coming from a side street. The driver from the side street frequently underestimates the speed of the car coming like a streak of greased lightning down the highway.

Several men at Alaska were practicing shooting at a tin can a good distance away one day last week and didn't seem to be able to hit it, when Mrs. Hilbert Moffli, who is 72 years (young), stepped up and asked if they were getting ready for deer season. They declared they were but couldn't hit the can. Mrs. Moffli lifted the gun, got a bead on can and knocked it down, much to the surprise of the gentlemen. However, it doesn't surprise those whoo know her well, because the apple orchard on the Moffli farm was won in a contest between Mrs. Moffli and an apple tree salesman a good many years ago.

Says Chest Clinics Of Great Importance

Mrs. Edith Bordine of Battle Creek (nee Edith Foster of Lowell) makes the following interesting comments in a letter to the

"I was at Northwestern University for eight weeks this summer as I received a scholarship from the Kellogg Foundation for an eight weeks' course there.

My husband is still in the Sanitarium and has been there seven-teen months. I have been more than interested in the notices in the Ledger about the T. B. clinics in Kent county. If the people only realized how important these check-ups are, they would be more than glad that they have the opportunity for the free exams. "Of special interest to me was the notice about Thorne's new shop as I used to teach Esther and Jewel Richardson my first year at Ada thirteen years ago or moreperhaps it was fifteen."
