A SOUND DOCTRINE
Every governmental official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. We hold this to be a fundamental principle of domestic government.

The Doctor

The story of Doctor Stork

When Dr. S. T. Stork, of Lowell, Michigan, started the desk of a baby-nursing automaton, known as a "Doctor Stork" since fresh from medical school, he had no idea that fifty-five years later he would be the center of a national celebration ever extended among a community.

Ledger Entries

ALL PERFECTLY CLEAR

IF ANY of our readers are desirous of knowing something about the new income tax bill they will do well to read the following. It is a plain and simple explanation of the new law, and is the most authoritative and different explanation ever extended among a community.

During the years that he engaged in practice in Lowell and the surrounding country he had assisted 4,500 children into the world, and the parents of these children, who are now grown up, are now paying the tax on their income. It is more than 71, the tax shall be a percentage of the adjusted net income equal to the sum of 4, plus three-eighths of the amount by which it exceeds the percentage which the dividend credit is of the adjusted net income.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS
The world is trying to get the rate down on Easy Street, but it is not so easy as Easy Mark. All right, it is not so easy as Easy Mark.

Wet or Dry, Duty Calls
"What was my most unusual experience, doctor?" queried "Well," he answered, "one pitch dark night when it was raining cats and dogs, I went into the country under another little 1888

FARMING IT . . . BY WILLARD BOLTE

Not long ago I saw an editorial in the Baltimore Sun on drunken driving. From what I want to quote:

"Nobody has ever been hanged for one of these affairs, although some of them were just as much murder as if the victim had been shot from ambush. Who is a fool gets blind drunk and sends a 3,000 pound motor car hurtling through the streets. The question is why any killing does not result in an execution. It is a question of degree. If justice prevails, the driver's neck would be broken by the car.

"That's pretty tough, but stop and think a moment what chance anyone has of getting out of a wrecked automobile or, for that matter, a terrific speed of fifty or sixty miles an hour. The driver is killed, and the wreckage is blurred and practically obliterated by liquor. I will leave the answer with you."

Hickory Hollow

Mrs. Mary Rickert

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Hulleberger and children of Lansing and Naureine and Dick Cahoon were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hale and children.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Raymond of Saranac spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Theobald Cahoon.

Arthur Hulleberger of Detroit spent over Sunday with his family here.

There were about fifty relatives and friends attended a shower for Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rickert held at the home of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Theobald Cahoon on Saturday evening. Those present besides the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Dyer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cummings and daughters of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Valda Chateron and children of Grand Rapids, Wm. Bunker and Mr. Silcox of Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Clark, Mrs. Lena Pritch and son and Miss Helen Ewert of Lansing spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rickert held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theobald Cahoon last Thursday.

Miss Helen Tefft of near Whiteville spent over Sunday with her people.

Worry

When pullets hunt the roots during daylight hours it is a sure indication of illness in the flock. The smart thing to do is to move the timid birds to another pen, where they will be able to get enough to eat.

Each of the sections of the land roller in the sketch is made of concrete-cast in a home-made mold. Cabage can be kept through the winter successfully by bedding it in sod or straw and covering with litter of some kind. The heads freeze but usually come out in good shape. The first time I tried it an old sow got into the bed before I did. After that it was to move the chickens were pegged down.

The hardest part of spraying potatoes to get the horsetail and the under parts of the plants. Illustration shows how an Iowa farmer solved this problem. As the plants grow larger he uses a large pipe nipple on his nozzle assembly. The wheels of his home-made wagon are three feet apart.

George Pierre, born in Pittsburgh, served with the American army in France. He never returned to this country because a political figure in France.

The Clyde children established an all-time record for twins. According to medical authorities their feat in arriving so far apart should make them more famous than the Dionces.

A LOT OF CAR for a VERY LOW PRICE

The Ford effort to make your dollars by a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the De Luxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thirty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon—or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

Federal census figures show that the farm population has been increased by more than 2,000,000 youths and that more than 500,000 new farms have been started since 1931.

This rural trend during the depression was studied by Professor Brunner for the federal government.

"The cultural revival on the farms in the last few years has been amazing," he declared. "It extends to drama, music, art and to literature as shown by the increase in libraries in rural districts."

It is possible, Dr. Brunner believes, that this is the beginning of the development of that agricultural aristocracy which some authorities think is the principal hope for saving our civilization from declining as others have done. They look for it to preserve the family on the farm as a continuing unit which alone can survive economic depressions and political upheavals.

"Of course, it would prove to be a long-time trend," Dr. Brunner explained. "But it may prove the solution of our sociological problem of farm life. It is a matter for development by the farm agencies and they are developing it. The movement has been stronger than ever in the last decade and is still progressing."

The immediate problem, as Dr. Brunner sees it, is to persuade the right type of persons to join the back-to-the-farm movement. That is the class of educated persons capable of aiding the development of the cultured hereditary farm system.

Lowell Basketeers Make Fine Record

Lowell High School rang down the curtain on the 1938 basketball campaign by dropping a hard fought game to Coach Beukema's strong Christian outfit in the regional championships at Grand Rapids Union 27-17. The height of the Flynn team proved to be the factor in the down fall of the Red and White cagers.

DeHaan, crack Christian center, started the ball rolling for the Dutchmen by ringing up five points before the Lowell attack could get under way. Three charity tosses by Kyser and Stauffer and a bucket by Lindsay tied up the ball game 5-5. A moment later the count stood 7-7. Christian added six more and were out in front at the quarter 13-7.

Both teams hit for five points in the second quarter with all of the Lowell tallies being via the four route, Kyser sinking four and Fonger one. Christian headed the locals at the halfway mark 18-12.

In holding their opponents at bay to three points in the third quarter the Lowell boys showed their best defensive power of the year, this being a feat that the Grand Haven team could not match in losing the regional crown to the Christian five 27-23 Saturday night. The Grand Rapids team maintained a commanding 21-12 lead at the end of the third stanza.

Christian topped the Lowell scoring in the last quarter 6-5, with Althen, Kyser and Stauffer contributing for the locals. DeHaan took scoring honors for the evening by connecting for 13 while his teammate Blyma hit for 5. Kyser was again high for Lowell with 8, all the result of charity tosses.

The season's record shows that the Averymen have won 11 of 16 in addition to winning the district crown at Greenville. In the Grand Valley Circuit Lowell tied for second place with East, Stauffer, Kyser, Fonger and Phelps were chosen by the All Star Teams selected by the association's six coaches with the latter two being named among the ten outstanding players in the league. Many top ranking teams were defeated during the year including victories over East, Lee Street, Rockford, Ionia, Belding and Greenville, and coming within two points of defeating Grand Rapids Christian who took top honors in the regional meet at Union High School. Next year's team will sadly miss the services of three of its stars, Capt. Fonger, Armstrong and Lindsay, who played their last basketball game for the Red and White Friday night.

Muck Strip Crop Useful on Sand

Farmers on sandy soils subject to blowing can borrow an idea from muck farmers, according to A. M. Grootendorst, who uses strips of rye as miniature windbreaks to hold the soil on his Berrien county farm.

Dr. P. M. Harmer of Michigan State College reports that this same type of windbreak has been used with success by onion and celery growers for years. If the strips are run on the contour, he explained, water will be conserved as well.

Grootendorst, a bulb grower, has been troubled with wind erosion for years, but not until 1937 did he find the solution. The tiny windbreaks proved so efficient that he will use them again this spring. The Soil Conservation Service reports many other farmers will try the same plan for protecting early summer seedings of alfalfa.

The Berrien county farmer usually seeds rye for a cover crop around September 1, to give protection during the most critical months. Last spring when he disked up the rye, he left two-foot strips every 66 feet and allowed them to grow.

These strips of rye serve as miniature windbreaks and prevent practically all blowing. Last year was the first season that some replanting was unnecessary. In previous years, his foreman says, moving sand particles had either buried or cut off the young plants.

America On Way Back to Farm and Wearing High Hat

Federal census figures show that the farm population has been increased by more than 2,000,000 youths and that more than 500,000 new farms have been started since 1931.

This rural trend during the depression was studied by Professor Brunner for the federal government.

"The cultural revival on the farms in the last few years has been amazing," he declared. "It extends to drama, music, art and to literature as shown by the increase in libraries in rural districts."

It is possible, Dr. Brunner believes, that this is the beginning of the development of that agricultural aristocracy which some authorities think is the principal hope for saving our civilization from declining as others have done. They look for it to preserve the family on the farm as a continuing unit which alone can survive economic depressions and political upheavals.

"Of course, it would prove to be a long-time trend," Dr. Brunner explained. "But it may prove the solution of our sociological problem of farm life. It is a matter for development by the farm agencies and they are developing it. The movement has been stronger than ever in the last decade and is still progressing."

The immediate problem, as Dr. Brunner sees it, is to persuade the right type of persons to join the back-to-the-farm movement. That is the class of educated persons capable of aiding the development of the cultured hereditary farm system.
