Along Main St.

The Village of Lowell is steadily improving its financial condition having retired $10,000 of its hydroelectric bonds June 1. The total bonded indebtedness now stands at $30,900.

Work was begun Tuesday morning according to scheduled plans on the two new buildings to be erected at Recreation Park and to be completed in time for this year's Kent County 4-H Club fair, August 24 and 25.

The work of improving Lafayette and Avery streets for the Lowell Showboat is moving steadily forward. The coffer dam has been completed and workmen have begun pouring concrete for the foundation of the 20x50 foot stage.

Recreation Park is being used by tourists on a larger scale this season than ever before. Several parties with camp trailers and others with tents occupied the park last Sunday, some of them remaining for several days.

Ralph's Tire and Radio Shop took on a bright orange hue this week. Mrs. Hattie Scott's candy shop is being repainted, and it was also noticed that the Lowell Manufacturing Company is brightening its front with freshly painted signs.

The local post office requests that persons using Showboat stickers on their outgoing letters do not put them on the face of the envelopes as it is against postal regulations. It is, however, permissible to stick them on the back of the envelope.

Hoyt Phelps representing the Charles W. Clark post of the American Legion and Robert Warner representing Lowell lodge No. 90, F. & A. M. are in East Lansing this week to attend the American Legion-sponsored Wolverine Boys State, a practical school in the operation and functions of government.

From Main street to Wall Street, Glenn Livingston of Detroit, State agent for the Aetna Fire Insurance company and a former resident of Bowne-tp, this week sent a newspaper clipping to Myrtle Taylor, local insurance agent, which gives the Lowell Ledger honorable mention. The clipping was from the columns of the New Yorker.

Names are something to conjure with. For instance, take the name of M. B. McPherson which has a natural Scotch b-r-r as you pronounce it. Now take the name of Orlando J. Odell with its natural Irish illl. Well wagger that not so very many of our readers know that these two well known Vergennes citizens are first cousins, their mothers being sisters and German.

Lloyd Stauffer, local high school jumper, claims the doubtful honor of capturing a live skunk with his bare hands. Lloyd saw the skunk near his home east of town early one evening this week and, sneaking up, grabbed it by head and tail. He first thought of keeping the skunk as a pet but it had other ideas so the whole thing was dropped. Anyhow, Lloyd must be a brave boy.

Mrs. Frank Blazo has received a settlement for $2500 in the suit which she began following the death of her husband on January 24th. Mr. Blazo, proprietor of the Lowell Bowling Alley, received fatal injuries the night of January 23rd in an accident at the corner of Washington and Main-sts. when he slipped on the icy pavement as he was crossing the street and fell in the path of a passing car.

We trust that James Russell Lowell has not turned over in his grave because of our mistake in giving Henry W. Longfellow credit for these lines, "What is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days," in our issue of June 9. Credit is given Miss Audie Post, obliging librarian, for calling our attention to the error. Perhaps we should say that this is not the first mistake we have made—but everybody knows that by this time.

Jim Burnett, the hermit of the hills was in town on Wednesday for his regular trip in for supplies and was interviewed by the local staff reporter on his weather predictions for the summer. Jim says, "Picky of wet weather this spring and early summer have given the muskrats the idea to go deep for their holes this spring so it sure looks as if the weather will be good and dry about the first Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in August when the local Showboat comes down the river."

Would Rebuild 100 Miles of Kent Co. Roads

Cost, $2,091,000 Work for 2200

Application for a $2,091,000 WPA project for reconstruction of 100 miles of main Kent county roads has been filed with A. D. McRae, district WPA administrator, following approval by the county road commission.

The project would provide employment for approximately 2,200 men for 12 working months. It would provide Kent county not only much-needed road improvements but one of the finest road systems in this part of the state, according to Leonard E. Kaufman, road commission secretary. A maximum of 500 men has been used in present WPA projects in Walker, Wyoming and Grand Rapids townships.

Kent county's cost in the project would be $35,000 for engineering, equipment, supervision and materials according to Kaufman. The project is the largest ever undertaken in the county. Funds would be earmarked for the work as the program progressed.

Kaufman reported the program is intended for the last part of this year and for 1939. The program has the endorsement of Otto S. Hess, county road commission engineer. It was approved formally by the road commissioners, Chairman Warren R. Townsend, Henry Johnson and Edwin Owen.

Blacktop surfaces would be provided many roads. Miles of gravel roads would be furnished permanent bases and permanent blacktop surfaces would be built later when sufficient county funds are available, Kaufman said.

Under the plan, all county roads to be improved with WPA financial assistance would be placed in one major project. This, it was explained, would make the program much more flexible for the best results. All townships would benefit, Kaufman said.

Of a total of 2,100 miles of all types of roads in Kent county, 388.5 miles are gravel, 66.6 miles are concrete and 50 miles are blacktopped. A total of 20 miles of roads in Kent county have been improved each year. Approval of the WPA project proposed would result in a 250 per cent increase in 1938 and 1939 in the improvement program.

Should McRae approve the schedule, Kaufman said, the Kent project will go to the higher WPA authorities for final approval.

Help Jimmy And His Fellows

You will meet him Saturday, June 25th, on your way to work, as you go to lunch—during your afternoon shopping—a bright, smiling little fellow.

You will know him by the green pot on his unruly red hair, by his championship freckles and the coin box in his hands, as "Jimmy" one of Uncle Floyd's boys!

For Saturday is "Starr Commonwealth Day" in Lowell, when Jimmy and his fellows, youthful residents of Flint, will make home and training school for underprivileged boys who need an opportunity, at Albion, hope to enlist your sympathetic interest, as well as your tag day contributions.

Take time whatever the urgency of the day, to stop and talk with "Jimmy" and his well-paid. For his tag and his grateful "Thanks, Mister!" You can give whatever you can afford with the definite assurance that it will go—every cent of it—to the support of one of the country's finest good-will enterprises.

Starr Commonwealth for Boys receives no state or federal aid; its maintenance and expansion have been due entirely to the generous aid of men and women everywhere who "believe in boys."

Lowell Girl Crowned Peony Queen

Lowell was justly proud when Miss Inez Cole, 16 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Cole, was crowned queen of the International Peony show by Mayor Max Templeton in Lansing Saturday evening. Miss Cole presided over the show seated on her throne, which was set apart by evergreen trees and surrounded by arrangements of the choicest peony blooms.

The queen was presented with the mayor's trophy, a silver loving cup, and she will later enjoy as part of her reward, a week-end at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, with all expenses paid. Miss Cole was sent to Lansing under auspices of the Lowell Garden Lore Club.

COME SEVEN!

THERE IS a certain magic in the number seven. In "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" that seems to everybody to be exactly the right number of dwarfs. Somehow the human race, from time immemorial, has come to regard seven as a mystical number, with a peculiar significance which no other number has.

Great poets and authors have written verses and books based on the magic number seven. The Bible is filled with examples, from the first chapter of Genesis, when God rested on the seventh day after the Creation, to the Revelation of St. John the Divine, with its vision of seven angels with seven vials filled with the seven plagues. Almost as ancient as Holy Writ are the legends of the Seven Wise Men and the Greek myth of the Seven Pleiades. The Seven wonders of the World have been traditional for thousands of years.

In the teachings and traditions of the Church we find the Seven Chief Virtues contrasted with the Seven Deadly Sins, the legend of the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus and the Seven Champions of Christendom. In the theological system of the Jewish Cabala there are Seven Heavens; and the list might be extended interminably.

We don't know, and we have never found anyone who does know why the number seven should figure so prominently in the folklore and legends of all races. But we are firm believers in the magic of the Seven Dwarfs. To bring a fairy tale to life and make real personalities out of colored pictures is something that even the legendary magicians of ancient days never did.

NEW VOTERS PARTY

LAST YEAR Lorain, Ohio, gave a "coming out party" to young people who were voting for the first time. Since that date the example has been followed all over the country. This year the Lorain school board will arrange for a second new voters party, at which 900 of them will be welcomed to citizenship.

How do the new voters take hold of their great new responsibility in Michigan?

In some states many young people say that politics is such a mess it isn't worth while to bother with it, that the results are all cut and dried, and the individual citizen can do nothing about it. That seems the view of some who never trouble to vote.

The right to vote is a glorious privilege for which mankind struggled for centuries. After they got the privilege, many wouldn't cross the street to exercise it. Let us hope the new voters of our state have a better conception of this grand possession.

"ADVERTISING MAKES WORK"

THE ABOVE was the slogan for the annual convention at Detroit, of the Advertising Federation of America. President Roosevelt sent a message saying this slogan was of great significance.

It is doubtful if there is any greater producer of work than advertising. Advertising is like the warm sun of spring, and it thaws out the ice of fear and hesitation, and sets the brooks and rivers of spending to work. When the people are induced to buy things they need, the idle factories start up, and the sad faced workmen hear the joyful sound of the factory whistle.

Advertising makes more work in America now if it was given a chance.

REASONS FOR FAILURE

PSYCHOLOGISTS recently studied results in a Chicago high school, to discover why students fail. They named 13 reasons for such lack of success. A study of these causes would suggest that they are about the same reasons that lead older people to fail to hold their jobs, obtain any satisfactory pay, after they get out in the working world.

Three of the 13 reasons for failure were as follows: "work avoidance", "lack of joy in work", and "refusal to work unless bribed or begged". These three reasons probably account for half the failures, both in the school and the working world.

There are of course plenty of other faults. Such reasons for failure as "over confidence", and "inferiority complex", which seemed to the investigators named above, to account for some failures, are usually overcome, if people really like to work.

Work is the foundation of all success, and the lack of it the principal foundation of failure. A person may make mistakes, he may be disagreeable in his attitude toward others, he may not be very good at co-operation. But if he likes to work, and is willing to work, he is apt in time to overcome his defects and the world will somehow find a place for him.

A man once said he would rather suffer severe pain than work. There are many people of that type, and they don't get along well. Some of them have a too contemplative temperament, and like to idle away too much time in meditation. Others have a dreamy nature and live in a cloudland of romance. Others are just "born tired". The world can't do much with such people. If a man is willing to work, and will try to make his labors effective, he meets the needs of a world where toil is the basic essential.
