Celebrate Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kiste of Belding were pleasantly surprised Sunday, July 3, when forty relatives and friends arrived with a pollock dinner to help them celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Kiste were married at Ionia and have lived in Kent and Ionia counties most of these years. They were former Moseley residents and have many friends there who add their best wishes. They have ten children and one granddaughter, who were all at home for the day. Other guests were from Kalamazoo, Lansing, Lowell, Ionia, Belding and Edmore.

Correll—Armstrong

Of interest here is the marriage of Miss Ruth Armstrong, daughter of Dennis Armstrong of Springville, Indiana and Mr. Malcolm Correll, son of Mr. J. T. Correll of Bloomington, Ind., which will take place Saturday, July 16, at the home of the bride in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Armstrong was a teacher in Lowell public schools last year and Mr. Correll has been employed with the Electric Sorting Machine company here for the past two years. Both are graduates of Indiana University.

The couple will make their home in the upstairs apartment of Mrs. P. J. Finest's home at 516 West Main-st., Lowell.

Garden Lore Club

The Garden Lore Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rosella Yelter. Following the business meeting the program was turned over to Mrs. Lila Johnson. The club enjoyed lively singing led by Mrs. Yelter with Mrs. Wm. Wachterhauser as the pianist.

An instructive talk on "Cutting, Spraying and Dusting" was given by Mrs. Johnson and a contest followed which was won by Mrs. Chas. Doyle. After the closing song, the meeting adjourned to be entertained July 26 at the home of Mrs. Pat Behan in Ionia. The committee on transportation for this trip is Mrs. E. S. White and Mrs. Warner Roth.

Party Affiliation Not to Be Disclosed

Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, who according to law is the chief election official, calls attention to Act No. 37, P. A. of 1937, which provides for a secret ballot at particular primaries throughout the state. Its purpose is to eliminate the necessity of an elector disclosing his or her party preference, as has been the requirement heretofore.

Under the old law, when a voter visited the polling place to vote in a partisan primary election, the clerk, after locating the voter's name and address in the poll book and determining that you were a qualified voter, asked which party ticket was preferred and gave you the ticket or ballot requested.

Under the new law, the voter, after being certified by the election clerk, will be handed a set of ballots each bearing the same number and stapled together in the upper left hand corner. The election inspector who hands out the ballots, instructs the voter to vote one of the ballots only. The voter takes these ballots into the voting compartment and marks the party ticket preferred. After marking the ballot the voter detaches it from the other ballots and folds it with the perforated or numbered corner outside. The voter hands both ballots, folded the same and separately, to the election inspector, designating the voted ballot by saying, "I've marked this one," or by some other indicating words. The inspector will then place the marked ballot in the ballot box marked "Voted Ballots" and the blank ballots in the box marked "Blank Ballots." At no time will any one be able to tell the party affiliation of the voter.

FOUR HIRED HANDS

Here is a group of really versatile musicians. The Four Hired Hands of WLS are four young men who perform on such novelty instruments as the jug, saw, musical spoons, etc., and in addition play many legitimate instruments including the banjo, guitar, trumpet, bass and accordion. "And how they play them!" They're hot, sweet, smooth and raucous. These four boys, Don, Pitchy, Blinky and Al, also sing comedy songs about boneless bananas, sweetheart ballads, and the rollicking songs of yesteryear. All these are included in the repertoire of the Four Hired Hands.

The Four Hired Hands will next Sunday at the Strand Theater next Sunday as part of the WLS Prairie Ramblers.
