THE HEALTHY GARDENERS

HAVE YOU ever noticed what healthy looking people gardeners and farmers are? Their tanned faces and good color tell of life under the vital rays of the sun. If you ask them to lift some heavy object, or walk a long distance, they can usually perform all these stunts.

This condition of health is due partly to open air work. Under the fresh oxygen of the out-doors they breathe deeply, they take in more than the average of the sweet air of heaven, and they thrive on them. They are not likely to suffer from the excess fat that makes an unwelcome load for millions of people to carry through this weary world.

Also the possession at the back door through a long season of a constant supply of fresh vegetables, tempts them to eat more of these products. The human body needs the acids and the contents of these foods, and on them it develops something more than average energy.

WHOLLO DO THE MOST WORK?

ONE favorite motto of modern life is "Don't work too hard." Getting along with the least possible work is popular. A different idea is expressed by the national cotton pickers contest, with $2000 in prizes, to take place next fall near Elyria, Ohio.

This affair will stir rivalries like the corn husking contests of the Middle West, and the plowing contests of Canada and various places in our country. In former days the men used to brag who could saw up the most wood or mow the most grass. If the man could do the most and the best work could be made more popular, the cost of many products would be less.

TRADE ENTHUSIASM

THE SUCCESS of people in pleasing the public in the merchandising business depends largely on how far they are able to put enthusiasm into their work. If they just hand over goods in a routine sort of way as if they were eager to have the day's work over, they can't get along very far in the job of pleasing the public.

Here one can see one great advantage in buying goods in our home town. When you go into one of your home stores, you are recognized as a personal friend by the proprietor and his salespeople. It is an incentive to enthusiastic work to do business with personal friends, and people will go a long way to please someone whom they serve habitually. It's different when you are buying in places where you are a stranger.

HAPPINESS AND HEALTH

THE American College of Physicians at Cleveland has been hearing statements showing the effect of unhappiness on people's health. It is an incentive to enthusiastic work to do business with personal friends, and people will go a long way to please someone whom they serve habitually.

There are many people who can't adjust themselves to their surroundings. Some of them live in unhappy homes and quarrel with their husbands, wives, parents or children. Some of them fret about money troubles, or inability to buy the things they want. Some wear themselves out chasing some new form of excitement or illusion.

Then there are many who are fretting over unhappy love affairs. Jealousy has made many people sick. When the adored lover becomes cold and indifferent, the disappointed heart often turns the bodily functions sour, and people eat and sleep with difficulty.

The ability to make the best of an unpleasant situation is a wonderful gift. Some folks go through their experiences with a smile, and will not permit themselves to fret over them.

An intricate network of nerves connects the mind and the physical organs. If the mind feels sick and discouraged, the digestive apparatus may not work properly, and the sleep that refreshes the body may be absent.

These folks need a new philosophy. The old hymn said something about there being a balm for all our ills. Many find it in religion. Many find it in a common sense philosophy, that says if you are disappointed in one aspect of life, find satisfaction somewhere else. When the motorist finds the way to his destination blocked, he finds a detour. There is always some detour by which one can avoid the obstacles and reach the destinations of life.

Musical Groups To State Festival

The Lowell High School Band, Orchestra, and soloists from these groups will enter the State Festival of the Michigan Band and Orchestra Association to be held in Ann Arbor this Friday and Saturday.

Friday the following soloists: John Scripps, Cornet; Jessy Merrill, violin; Elizabeth Ramsey, violin; and Donna Storms, cello; with Virginia Doyle accompanying to some of the soloists, will go with Mr. Jessup to enter the solo festival.

Buses carrying the band and orchestra will leave Saturday morning, the one containing orchestra students at 8:30 and the one for band at 10:30.

The orchestra and band each play three numbers and then have to enter a sight reading contest, being judged on the playing of new material. The orchestra plays at 2:45 in the Waterman Gym, and the band at 4:30 in the Masonic Temple. Both groups will participate in this festival by winning First Division at the District festival held at Ottawa Hills, Grand Rapids, April 6.

Three Proposals Are Put Before District Voters

Special Election Will Be Held Next Tuesday 4 to 8 P. M.

There seems to be a lot of interest but some misunderstanding relative to the proposals which the qualified electors of graded school district No. 1 will vote on at the High School on next Tuesday between the hours of 4:00 and 8:00. The Board of Education has no right to sell property or to tear down or to dismantle buildings without a vote of the people. The Board is merely giving the electors an opportunity to express themselves on measures which the Board feels would be of benefit to the district.

However, there is nothing urgent in respect to these proposals and the results of the election will indicate to the Board just what is to be done. It should be noted that a vote in favor of these proposals merely gives the Board of Education the authority to go ahead, but unless the Board could make satisfactory arrangements the proposals will not be carried out. For one thing it is definitely agreed that there will be no special tax.

Vacant Buildings No Asset
At the present time the East Ward School, which is in fair condition, is not being used except for the Girl Scouts. This building is very apt to deteriorate in value, and vacant buildings are not an asset to the town. If the Board is authorized to sell this piece of property it will probably be sold to the highest bidder and this could not be done until proper notices have been published in the paper. The Perry School should probably never be used for school purposes again, and such being the case it should be torn down and the materials salvaged.

The Third Proposal
Proposal three is somewhat more complicated. At the present time the school buses are used in a rented garage. The village garage is not used, could not be used for the purpose. The quarters that are now being used will prove to be inadequate as it becomes necessary to purchase another bus. It is thought that if a garage could be erected back of the high school building between the road and the river, such a structure could be used for various purposes. The ground floor could be used for the storing, servicing, and washing of the buses. The second floor would provide ample quarters for the music department, which at the present time is housed in the high school building. It has been felt for a long time that the pleasant and unpleasant noises emitting from the music department have interfered with the rest of the school and it would be very desirable to move this department.

The second floor could also be used for the agricultural headquarters. This would mean that several rooms in the present building would be available to accommodate the expected increase in enrollments. The engineers have already determined that a W. P. A. project would make the structure possible without much cost to the district. The notice of election and a copy of the ballot will be found in another section of this paper.

Time Is Short On Farm Plans
Kent Co. Farmers Have Until May 1

Kent County farmers have until May 1 to sign their 1940 AAA farm plans, John McCabe, Chairman of the Kent County Triple A Committee, announced this week. "The farm plan shows the soil-depleting acreage allotments, the soil building goal, and the maximum payment which can be earned by each farm through cooperation with the Agricultural Conservation Program," Mr. McCabe said.

The basic information is worked out in the county AAA office but the details of how the plan applies to the individual farm are worked out by the farmer and a community committee member, Mr. McCabe added.

Farmers who intend to cooperate with the farm program sign their farm plans, indicating that they want their farms inspected this summer to determine performance. Up to April 15, 1940, 4075 farmers in Kent County had signed their farm plans. This number represents 83 per cent of all the farmers in the county who have been called on. Last year 78 percent of the farmers in Kent County were in the program.

Mr. McCabe urges all farmers who plan to participate in the 1940 AAA Program, but have not as yet signed their farm plans, to see their local Triple A committee member as soon as possible.

The work of repairing the sidewalk on the north side of Main Street bridge has been completed. The damage was caused by the rusting away of one or two large steel girders and at one point it was necessary to do a little excavating. When the dirt was shoveled back in there was some left over and one of the workmen was heard to remark, "I told you we ought to have dug that hole deeper!"

Late lingering winter in much of northern Michigan has made veteran trout fishermen chary of forecasting the kind of fishing that will be available Saturday, the 1940 season's opening day. Lowell fields a deciding influence up to the last minute. Streams carrying much surface drainage may be rolled by heavy spring rains, after the early runoff of melted snow and ice has left them clear. Where snow persists in the north, better fishing is expected when the opening is a few weeks old. On opening day, chances of success are rated better on the more southerly streams, which reach their normal stage earlier, and for this reason waters in the vicinity of Lowell are likely to see a full crop of local fishermen. The $100 general rod license which includes the wife is good for all kinds of fishing for all year. The limit is 15 trout, minimum length is seven inches.

King Doyle, Valedictorian Florencie Shea, Co-Salutarian William Lalley, Co-Salutarian

THE AVERAGES of grades or "marks" obtained by the members of the senior class during the past few years have just been completed and the result reveals a very unusual situation. Ordinarily the girls excel in scholastic ability and work, but the achievements of the boys of the graduating class upset this record. Three of the four top averages were earned by the boys. A perfect score would be a record that has never been made in Lowell High School. King Doyle, however, approaches this goal with an average of 3.88 and by virtue of this fact leads all classmates and will be the valedictorian of his class.

William Lalley and Florencie Shea of Alto are tied for second place with a splendid record of 3.69. This means that Florencie and William will be the co-salutarians of the class. Robert Jackson was a very close fourth with a record of 3.65. All of these boys have participated in many of the activities of the school, which indicates that a boy can be a success in a classroom even though he puts in much of his time on the athletic field, in dramatics, or in other activities.

The class will probably number 75, and commencement will be on Friday, June 7, with Judge E. J. Millington of Cadillac as the speaker.

Common Council Makes Good Cut On Tax Budget

Village Rate is Lowered From $12 to $7 Per Thousand

The tax rate of the Village of Lowell which has stood at $12.00 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation for a number of years was substantially reduced by the Common Council at an adjourned regular meeting held last Monday night.

The new rate will be $7.00 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation. Instead of $12.00, and will effect a saving to the taxpayers this year of upwards of $5,000. The tax paid in 1939 totaled $13,440, while the amount to be spread this year will be about $7,200. The reduction applies to the general fund, the sinking fund remaining at 1 1/2 mills and the bond fund at a half mill.

One village official declared that the lower tax rate has been made possible through the good showing made by the Lowell Municipal Plant and Village President Arthur and the members of the Common Council have hopes of realizing a dream long held of seeing the day when Lowell can be pointed to as a tax-free town through earnings from the municipal plant.

Citizens will also be glad to learn that the work of repairing the largest of the two Deisel engines which has been under way for the past two weeks has been completed. The damage was caused by the burning out of several coils about a year ago during a severe electrical storm. The repairs and replacement on the engine referred to cost about $800. Supt. F. J. McMahon states that repairs and replacements at the hydro-electric plant north of town will be necessary as soon as water levels permit.

The council also listened to a proposal by Eric Pearson, an electrical engineer of Chicago, regarding a change in the control system between the hydro-electric plant and the Deisel engine plant in town, which he claimed would improve the plants efficiency and would make it necessary to keep but one man on duty at the dam. A rough estimate of Mr. Pearson's proposal places the cost at around $10,000. President Arthur and the council is taking the matter under advisement accordingly.

Services Monday For Ira L. Moore, 78

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Yeller funeral home for Ira L. Moore, 78, retired shoe repairman, who ended his life late Friday at his home on East Main street by discharging a 12-gauge shotgun into his chest, according to the report made by Coroner Paul W. Blossom. The coroner said relatives stated dependency due to illness was the cause. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Stirling Moore was in the house at the time but stated she did not hear the shot but heard her father-in-law fall to the floor of the first floor utility-room.

Obituary Sketch
Ira L. Moore was born January 8, 1862 in Berrien County, and on July 4, 1888 was married to Dora Burke. He had been a resident of Lowell 20 years to the day of his death, coming here from Ovid in Clinton County. He was widely known as an amateur violin-maker of considerable skill.

Besides Stirling, four other sons and two daughters survive. They are Ernest of Appleton Wis., Stanley of Lansing, Sylvan and Jurden of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Florence Sadoris of Fostoria, Ohio, and Genevieve Moore of Grand Rapids. There are 15 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. A brother, Oscar of Paw Paw, Mich., also survives.

Friends and neighbors in the community extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving family.

Local Firemen Save Lowell Farm Home

What might have been a fire of serious consequences was subdued at the Mart Schneider farm in southeast Lowell about noon Monday. The fire originated in a woodshed and the department succeeded in preventing its spreading to the house standing close by. Mr. and Mrs. Schneider had just moved back to the farm from their home in town when the fire occurred.

Cause of the fire is unknown. A fine large basement barn on the farm of Mrs. Winnie Abraham near Parnell was destroyed by fire last Sunday afternoon. Neighbors succeeded in saving a goodly quantity of valuable farm tools and prevented the fire from spreading to the house and other buildings.

Speaker Urges Lowell Airport Declares It Would Make This Town Grow

Court P. Shropshire, district traffic manager for the Pennsylvania-Central airlines, speaking at the Lowell Rotary Club Wednesday night, declared that the possibility of obtaining monthly payments Mr. Kirchgessner said:

"We know from the original applications for social security account numbers what residents of our area will reach age 65 during April, May and June of this year. Our wage records also show which of these persons have earned sufficient pay in employment covered by the Social Security Act to qualify for monthly payments on retirement at or after age 65.

"Persons receiving these letters may have no intention of retiring. If regularly employed they will earn more than their monthly payment amounts after retirement. But such persons may want to know about the money they will receive, if they retire. In some cases it may be desirable to file the claims for monthly benefits at this time, even though retirement comes months later.

"Our advice to such persons is that they contact our office and find out just what their status is under the Social Security Act. Some workers who were over 65 when the Act went into effect may retire this quarter and receive benefits, if they have earned $80 or more in commerce or industry during each of the last six quarters.

"Because a worker does not receive such a letter is no reason why he may not be entitled to benefits. For that reason we invite any workers who are now reaching age 65 to consult us to learn their status at some cases it may be advisable to file claims now rather than later. This applies only to those workers who have had job covered by the Social Security Act. Old-age and survivors insurance is paid only to those who have been thus employed," Mr. Kirchgessner added.

Dr. G. G. Fowsley Laid to Rest Today

Lowell lost a loyal booster this week Tuesday by the death of Dr. Glenn G. Fowsley, 73, at his residence in East Grand Rapids. He had been ill for about six months. Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at two o'clock in the Metcalf Chapel, Grand Rapids with burial in the Graceland Memorial mausoleum.

Dr. Fowsley was born in Portland in 1866. He was graduated from the University of Michigan Medical school and started practice in Lowell in 1894. During his residence here he was a member of the Board of Trade, always active in community affairs. Dr. Fowsley went to Grand Rapids to practice in 1910 and had maintained his office there up until the time of his illness. Although his home was in Grand Rapids, Dr. Fowsley remained a faithful booster for Lowell and always had a warm spot in his heart for the home town.

The deceased was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist and took post graduate work in Vienna, also studying in New York and Chicago.

Dr. Fowsley was a member of several medical organizations as well as fraternal orders.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Nellie A. Fowsley; a son, Paul G. Fowsley of Indianapolis, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Brink, Sr., of East Grand Rapids. Six grandchildren also survive.

Second Quarter S. S. Payments Now Available

Eligible Persons Should Contact Office For Details

Persons who may become eligible for monthly payments under the Social Security Act in the second quarter of this year are now being notified of their rights under the amended program of old-age and survivors insurance.

Letters are being mailed to many such persons in the Grand Rapids area, it was announced by William E. Kirchgessner, manager of the field office of the Social Security Board in the Grand Rapids National Bank Building in Grand Rapids. Outlining the plan which is being introduced into the United States, he said:

"Persons receiving these letters may have no intention of retiring. If regularly employed they will earn more than their monthly payment amounts after retirement. But such persons may want to know about the money they will receive, if they retire. In some cases it may be desirable to file the claims for monthly benefits at this time, even though retirement comes months later.

"Our advice to such persons is that they contact our office and find out just what their status is under the Social Security Act. Some workers who were over 65 when the Act went into effect may retire this quarter and receive benefits, if they have earned $80 or more in commerce or industry during each of the last six quarters.

"Because a worker does not receive such a letter is no reason why he may not be entitled to benefits. For that reason we invite any workers who are now reaching age 65 to consult us to learn their status at some cases it may be advisable to file claims now rather than later. This applies only to those workers who have had job covered by the Social Security Act. Old-age and survivors insurance is paid only to those who have been thus employed," Mr. Kirchgessner added.

Negro Minister to Speak Here Next Tuesday Night

The Rev. W. H. Jones, pastor of the African Methodist Community Church of Grand Rapids, will speak at a supper to be served for men of the church and community at the Methodist church, Tuesday, April 30 at 6:45. This is a meeting of the Men's Club of the church, but they are inviting all men of the community to attend. Rev. Jones will speak on the subject: "How it feels to be a Negro in America." A quartet of young people of exciting mixups. The story (takes place at a western ranch which has been converted into a tourist camp. Blended with this "dude" atmosphere there is gay music and romance. The super-colossal business deal abroad is delighting in its combination of cupid and kidnapper.

Lowell Moose Lodge Host to Big Gathering

The Lowell Moose lodge was host to about 300 members at a large district meeting held here last Saturday and Sunday. A dance, luncheon, and entertainment provided the program. Talks were given by Dr. McArthur, president of the State Moose association and Billy Kuhn, a Mooseheart graduate, and by secretaries of neighboring lodges.

The meeting was attended by lodge members from Hastings, Ionia, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids and Mt. Pleasant.

Raw Materials For Factories From the Farm

May Expect to See Auto Bodies, etc., Made From Soy Beans

"Farms of the Future" was the subject of pictures and a talk given by Donald Ramseyer from the Research Department of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, before the local Rotary club on Wednesday, April 17. He was presented by Donald McPherson of Vergennes-tp. The discussion dealt with the process of chemistry which, it is believed, will do more for farming of the future than any other one factor.

It was conceded that industry and farming are natural partners—each needs what the other produces. The root of the farm problem is over-production which causes a lower farm income and consequently the farmer is not able to buy industrial products which in turn causes unemployment. The speaker stated that the trouble lies in the fact that we do not yet know how to use the things we have. Surpluses which are created by over-production should not be wasted. Industry and science must find a place for them and thereby eliminate the surplus and stabilize the market.

Scientists have conducted research on many farm products, such as wheat, sunflowers, corn, cornstalks, carrots, onions, cabbage, common weeds, etc., but finally soy beans were found to be the most desirable for conversion to industrial uses for the reasons that soy beans are grown in almost all parts of the United States, they can be grown in soil which is too acid for other products, they are drought resistant, and their use could be greatly increased.

Millions Spent in Research
Around $5,000,000 has been spent thus far in the development of the soy bean for industrial purposes by the Ford Motor Company alone. It is hoped that in the future scientists may provide many more articles from soy beans outside the automotive field, such as tile, paints, plaster, artificial wool, lacers, even furniture and houses. The more uses found for soy beans as well as other farm commodities, the wider the market and the greater the profit. The work is going forward at a rapid pace. It will be necessary to denude the forests, nor use up the mines and other natural resources which it has taken years to develop.

Industry, science and agriculture must work together in the development of chemistry to provide markets and employment for the greater prosperity of the country at large, the speaker said. The field is a challenge to young minds to contribute their share to the great cause.

History of the Soy Bean
Soy beans were known before the time of written history and were introduced into the United States 20 years before the Civil War although their only use was as a cover crop until the Civil War soldiers roasted the beans and made "coffee" from them. At the time of the World War, however, there was a shortage of linseed oil and scientists set to work immediately to develop the soy bean oil. The United States used to import soy beans but in 1939 exported 120,000,000 bushels. It is the fourth largest cash crop in the United States. In Michigan the rise in acreage is great, 67,000 acres being planted to seed in 1939 and an equal amount to hay.

Scientists and industrialists alike would feel well repaid if their efforts will only stimulate the cooperation of all for greater future prosperity.

Farmers in this area who desire additional information on the soy bean may obtain same by writing to R. A. Boyer, Ford Motor Co., Dearborn, Michigan.

H. S. Operetta Wednesday, May 8

"Jerry of Jericho Road" is the fast-moving high school operetta to be given on Wednesday night, May 8. It is certain to be highly entertaining as this two-act operetta pictures the hilarious adventures of a runaway girl in a series of exciting mixups. The story (takes place at a western ranch which has been converted into a tourist camp. Blended with this "dude" atmosphere there is gay music and romance. The super-colossal business deal abroad is delighting in its combination of cupid and kidnapper.

The operetta this year is under the musical direction of Orval Jessup and dramatic direction of Phyllis Huston.

Besides the participants in the singing and dancing choruses, the principals include Lucille Warner, Carol Kyser, James Cannon, Vernon Dicken, Janice Denny, Margaret Kyser, Walter Gumsar, Paul Slater, Priscilla Smith, Adrienne Wallace and Kenneth Smith.

The chief cause of the world's woe is that fools work at their folly and knaves work at their knavery, while the good and wise loaf.—Grand Rapids Press.

UP and DOWN

The "Up and Down" column this week may be mostly a 4-H Club edition for we have been living so close to this work the past week or ten days getting ready for and participating in the annual achievement day festivities that go with closing the winter activities.

Visitors from out of the county commented on the set up of the Rockford High School as ideal for an achievement day program. The fact that the building is on one floor and that all exhibits are on the one level makes it much easier than when located on several floors. It is not only easier on the visitor who comes to see the exhibit but certainly helps a lot in setting up exhibits. There is a lot of walking to and from exhibits, checking the latter, placing ribbons and achievement cards. Having all exhibits on one floor makes it a lot easier. Combined with these factors is the kindly interest of Robert Ferris, Principal and Byron Cook, custodian of the Rockford High School, and their assistants.

Kent County 4-H Service Club gave evidence of the purpose of their organization by helping on the achievement day program. It is some job to gather a group of girls for a style show at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, divide them into their various groups and give them directions for their part of the program. Older girls belonging to the service club were on hand early and stayed right through the program assisting with the details and helping to make everything work smoothly. Previous to the Saturday program these same girls had helped with setting up and checking exhibits, reports and stories.

One group of honors was forgotten in the program at Rockford. The six club secretaries whose books were judged the best were overlooked in making plans for the day.

Each year a 4-H Club pencil is awarded to six secretaries, three boys and three girls, whose books and reports are deemed the best. Following are those who received the honors and our apologies for the oversight on achievement day: Boys—Arthur Roth, Alpine-tp., Beechgrove School; Milo Levett, Gaines-tp., Cook School; Wayne Monroe, Byron-tp., Barney school.

Girls—Gertrude Sief, Byron-tp., Barney School; Bernice Hornrich, Byron-tp., Byron Center School; Patsy Bunn, Walker-tp., Oakgrove School.

A lot of Kent county 4-H Club members and leaders are going to get a good look-in at this United States of ours. The U.S.D.A. sent a photographer, Mr. George Ackerman, to the Kent Achievement day to take pictures that will be part of a film strip to be called "4-H Clubs on Parade." Local pictures included the annual exhibit, setting them up, the exhibits themselves, clothing and handicraft clubs at work, leaders in conference, style show winners and the achievement day program.

Kent county leaders and club members will look forward to seeing this film.

Clothing and handicraft clubs totaled 142 in Kent county the past winter. This means that 142 men and women acted as local leaders. In fact quite a number of clubs had two and three leaders, particularly the larger ones. Clubs generally meet every two weeks and many of them every week. If the club met for an hour, and many meet longer, it is easy to figure the amount of time each week that local leaders give. Multiply this by the weeks from early winter to early spring. Plus this time is that given for local leaders meetings, district and county achievement days. Any way you look at it the local leader is quite the keystone to the 4-H Club program and as such should have much of the credit that is given to the success of this youth movement.

We know that parents and club members appreciate the work of the local leaders and as such will voice their appreciation of their help.

The Kent County 4-H Club Camp at Beetwick Lake moved a step nearer to realization when folks in that neighborhood had a bee a week ago and hauled gravel for the floors and foundation. Victor Weller, of Cannon township, was in charge of operations.

Miss Gezon emphasized the importance of training all young people in the development of skills of the hand and of the mind, so that every one is able to be self sustaining. Qualities apparent in the lives of young people who are failures, as Miss Gezon sees them, are selfishness, covetousness and greed, distaste for regularity, lack of a proper idea of recreation, failure to attend church or Sunday School, poor health, lack of any realization of the importance of friendship, lack of appreciation of the importance of the home, absence of training in self-control, and lack of knowledge of God.

Vining, heading a committee to select a boy from a Grange family in Kent County to attend the Wolverine Boys' State Camp at Lansing in June, announced that the names of six boys, handed to him, did not permit a choice, owing to their unmet qualifications. So it was decided to select a winning delegate by lot. The name of Richard Otterbacher of Spencer Grange was drawn as the delegate.

The evening program, under the direction of Mr. Gerald Kitson, was featured by the address of State Master Armstrong. Wesley Hessler pleased the audience with a very interesting story of his recent Chicago achievement trip, which was awarded him for five years of outstanding 4-H club work.

The play, "Suitable for Charity," which greatly pleased the large audience, was presented by Mrs. Josephine LaBou, Mrs. Harry Reider, Victor Waller, Muriel and John Hesselius, James LeBon and Gerald Kitson, who are members of the Bostwick Lake Dramatic Club and were directed by Miss E. Eleanor Denmore and Wallace Clark of Courtland Grange.

There were songs by June Ives, Lois and Marvin Hull; song and tap number by Marjanna Deansbach and Barbara Vierhelf; reading, "Home," by Percy Erving, and a humorous skit entitled "The Railroad Crossing" given by members of Kinsey Grange, which completed a most enjoyable evening.
