STARVED HOLLAND The flower of Holland's manhood, carried off by the tens and hundreds of thousands to toll at the hands of the enemy, has been broken, not in spirit, but shattered in body after their years of subsistence services in Germany. The survivors have given them only enough food so that their sties have kept on working without dropping dead.

Up and Down Kent County Roads By E. K. Vining, Kent County Agricultural Agent In our mail the other day came a letter from Mr. J. M. Moore, extension specialist in poultry. Mr. Moore had a lot of very good information in it. I was interested in one of the paragraphs where he writes about the keeping quality of eggs. Hot weather is always a enemy of quality eggs. Mr. Moore in his letter commented that eggs lose their quality quickly if they are not gathered often and cooled. He suggests three gatherings a day—10-00 a. m.—noon—and evening. A wire screen frame placed six inches from the ceiling and the coolest places for treating collected eggs. Do not let the hens set on those fresh eggs as it will spoil them.

Editorial BOY WORK Many years ago an old saying was current about employment of boy labor. It was that "a boy is a boy, two boys are half a boy, and three boys are no boy at all." The idea was that a boy might work rather well alone, but if he was working with one or more boys, they would be likely to do a good deal of fooling, and part of the value of the work.

Editorial (continued) Many boys lack experience as workers, but at least most of the modern boys try to make the most of the job they take on farm, in stores, and elsewhere. There are many things for which they want money, that those benefited by their work. They know it is up to them to do the best they can. They have given an enormous amount of help in meeting the wartime labor shortage. It has been a valuable experience for them, and they have learned useful things about industry and methods of production and distribution.

Editorial (continued) President Truman has met all expectations in bringing men to gether. Newspapers and Congressmen have been in the habit of disputing statements and announcements from the White House for many years because of the many frequent changes and shifts in Administrations and policies. But now that there is a determination on the part of President Truman to stick to his text is shown in a little item on the front page of the Washington newspaper of few mornings ago.

Editorial (continued) Asked about the reports that Stettinius will be replaced, the President told a press conference that he could not make his position any plainer than at the previous press conference. Then, he was asked whether he had any plans to name a new Secretary of State and replied with a flat "no."

Editorial (continued) To prevent salt shaker top from corrosion remove tops from salt shakers, invert and pour melted paraffin through them. Enclose paraffin with salters to coat the surface and holes may be opened with a needle. This lasts indefinitely.

Toast TO AMERICA!

These gentlemen of Japan are drinking to us. They are raising their cups in the hope that Americans will get "tired" carrying on a bitter war thousands of miles from home. The Japanese high command is counting on us to help her hold her stolen empire.

The only way we will upset this Jap strategy is to become acutely aware of certain juggling facts:
Do you know that Japan, the "master-race" of 70,000,000 now controls nearly a half-billion people—nearly a quarter of the world's population?

Do you know that the Japs are making planes as fast as we can knock them down? One of our returned Navy fliers just recently said he chased a "Judy" (they're not fighting the old type Zero any more!) for forty miles. . . and the Jap simply pulled away from one of our fastest planes!

Do you realize that it's 14,000 miles from France to Tokyo. . . that we can't wait for the leftover arms from Europe to beat Japan. . . that the Jap Military is counting on this very barrier of distance to cool our ardor for war?

Do you realize that we have never taken one of her stolen islands without having to account for every last man on it—that our first two years of fighting yielded tens of thousands dead Japs but only a few thousand prisoners?

These are cold facts. Let's look at them coldly, honestly. If we haven't enough ships, we must build them. But a citizenry complacent in the idea that one of the world's strongest empires is a pushover doesn't build them fast enough. If we haven't enough guns, planes and tanks, we must make them. But that means staying on our jobs until our war jobs are finished.

How you can help
1 Keep that war job!
2 Keep buying Bonds!
3 Keep doing all your country asks!

He writes that it is difficult to know when to go to bed at night or get up in the morning unless he looks at his watch, as it is daylight there constantly except for a short time around 2 or 3 a. m. He also writes that the Norwegians live more like we do here, in comparison with the people of other countries he has seen. He is with the 7th army, and is serving as a truck driver. Cpl. Tommy and Sis, They Can't Miss Through his profile as a junior street salesman of a Kansas newspaper, nine-year-old Tommy Jovalls is the proud possessor of a $100 and a $50 War Bond. But he doesn't own them alone. He asked the man at the post office to make them out in his name with his two-year-old sister, Frances, as co-owner. He presented them to her on their joint birthday last month. Tommy has been "in business" since last July. Every afternoon after school, he piles his wares—up and down Krassas Avenue in Topeka. "It was his own idea to save his money," according to his father. "As soon as he started, he began bringing his money home to his mother, and asked her to save it for him. He wanted to put it into War Bonds. He wanted to do something for his America." Asked what he intended to use the bonds for, Tommy replied, "Some day I want to go to college, and I want Frances to go, too."

New Ruling Affects Papers Going Overseas A new post office ruling, effective July 1st, in addition to past rulings, still effective, compels the Ledger to ask all service men and women with overseas mailing addresses, who are now getting the Ledger and desire it to come regularly, to comply with the below request so we may mail our publications to you. The below data we must have on file for Post Office inspection. Those who subscriptions are paid will have to comply with this rule on expiration date of their subscription. Do This at Once Mail your written request accompanied by the subscription price direct, or through the "home folks," so we may have both the quest and the subscription receipt on file. These are now both necessary. Our June 28th issue will be the last issue mailed without your order, etc. We regret this existing condition and new ruling, but it's post office orders. The Navy department suggests that through press and radio the public be encouraged to include clippings of particular interest in letter mail rather than send complete issues of newspapers and publications. —Publisher, Lowell Ledger.

More than half of all deaths from accidents in the home in 1944 occurred among persons 65 years and over, according to the National Safety Council. Differ in Quality Variations in nutritional value and quality of various foods, such as meat, the cereals, leafy vegetables, fruits and so on are well-known. That variations within the same class, and even within the same plant variety, may result from differences in soil and the manner in which crops are cultivated is something that should have wider recognition, according to U. S. Department of agriculture experts. Content of phosphorus, calcium, nickel, cobalt, iron, copper, or other elements in vegetables may be low with little, if any, outward sign. Where the crops were grown had much to do with the mineral values they offer, it is believed, and soil surveys are now under way to make definite determination of the relationship between soil and nutritional value of what is grown in that soil.

Keathley's comrades head for the Pacific for the final round of the world struggle to save your country from fascist hands. THE EDITOR
