"I know," Steve said.
"Play much golf?" she asked. Steve said he did, but hadn't until lately. No use being a bore about his pro efforts. He couldn't completely suppress curiosity about how this girl played the game, however. But the way she looked in a gray skirt and yellow blouse would justify any performance. It turned out that her game was up to her looks. That was apparent in the first shot she made with an iron straight to the green. She sank the first putt. At the ninth hole she said, "I'll play you through to the eighteenth

That is, if I don't lose the ball." "You'd better not," Steve jibed. It was Ellen and Steve between them now. Neither one remained more than two strokes up on the other for very long. Steve was playing brisk-ly and enjoying the companionship as well as the sport. At the seventeenth they were even. Steve held out his hand. "Last hole, Ellen. May the best girl win." Her smile was very warm, and they played the final strokes carefully. Three apiece to the green. Eller canned out in one putt. Steve watched her fondly. A great partner, he thought. He took two.

120 artificially bred daughters stud led produced 14 per cent more but terfat and 9.3 per cent more mille than their dams. As two-year-olds on two times a day milking, these cows averaged 8,557 pounds of milk and 329.9 pounds of fat in a lacta tion of 10 months. Their dams at the same age in the same herds averaged 7.823 pounds of milk and 287.7 pounds of fat, or 734 pounds of milk and 42.2 pounds of fat less than their daughters. There were no records of dams for some of the daughters. All told, the average production for the first 280 artificial twoyear-olds was 8,125 pounds of milk and 324.3 pounds of fat. The records were made by Holsteins and Quernseys, the first two breeds to enter the program.
