Armistice Day

Now, in the days of our second modern era of peace, may those deprived of renewed associations take comfort in knowing that personalities cannot be separated from the life of a community of which they were, are, and will forever be a part. The influence of the lives of heroes never ter-

Shortly before he died at sea, Nile Kinnick, an all-American football star of Iowa University, wrote to a friend:

"Let us hope that you and 1 and many, many others like us, will be enabled some day, somewhere, somehow, to contribute in some small way to the peace and progress of this world. There is nothing wrong with dreams provided foundations are put under them. Thumbs up!"

Thus, he referred to the American principles of individual freedom and equality of action. By "building foundations under dreams" our fore-bears fashioned this magnificent new world in
