

As the time of fall housecleaning comes on, some men may wonder if there is sufficient reason for this spurge of cleaning work, and they may not have noticed that the house needed any such going over.

There has been a strong tradition among housewives that it is necessary to keep the home clean. They see dirt and dust tracked in on the shoes of the family, and blowing in the windows and doors. To their minds a steady warfare is needed against this ever present infiltration.

As one reads about life in many foreign lands, there seems no such hatred of dirt. One reads of countries where many people take a domestic animal into houses, with all their filth. One can imagine how such homes would be a nest of dirt. Probably many of the G's have seen such homes in poorly developed countries where they served. One of the delights of getting back from such a place to the United States, would be the enjoyment of the cleanliness of the ordinary American home.

A very strong aversion to dirt has been characteristic of American life for many years. The old pioneers may have seen plenty of it in their homes, but as life has developed the love of clean homes has grown. The old housewives washed and scrubbed to keep their dishes and eating utensils clean. There was an old saying that everyone had to eat a peck of dirt in his lifetime, but the women have worked hard for perfect cleanliness.

Many people go out in the world and come in contact with dirt in their work. They usually make a great effort to clean up when they get home. The husbands should not be too disturbed if the housewives have a semi-annual scrimmage with dirt. They can realize that it promotes health and makes their homes attractive.

PICKING THE APPLES

Many old timers will recall how they used to pick apples as boys. Many of them had no great taste for farm work, but they found that picking the apples was pleasant work. They found it enjoyable to handle the brightly colored fruit, a pleasant fragrance from which filled the air.

Many young people and older folks who have been taken hold to help the growers pick their apples in recent years, have found it pleasant work to gather this beautiful fruit. The country's fruits are a grand triumph of Nature and science. Their sparkling flavor and wholesome substance add enormously to the value of American food.

SOLICITING FOR GOOD CAUSES

One of the necessary tasks of a community is to organize drives to support the churches and various organizations that carry on community work. Some people say they do not like to go out on such drives and ask people to contribute money. If they try it once, they find they are very cordially received.

They form pleasant acquaintances in that way, and it is a pleasure to talk with people about the interests of the community and the work of its organizations. The people who can find the time to work on these drives and do this soliciting are entitled to hearty thanks, and they make an important contribution to the community.

Hunters Asked To Watch For Raccoon With Ear Tag 6360

There's a 15 1/2 pound female raccoon wearing ear tag No. 6360 that hunters might very well spare if they catch her in the season beginning November 1. She is eight and a half years old, the oldest living wild "coon" of which the conservation department has a record.

No. 6360 was trapped, tagged and released in 1940 when she was a year old, according to Fred Steward, manager of Swan Creek wildlife experimental station. Catching her this fall will not be easy, as she has been smart enough to elude hunters' dogs and avoid trappers' sets through eight seasons, and has been taken only twice, in 1940 and this fall, in the live-traps game men use for pre-season censusing.

MSC Requests Short Course Applications

The Institute of Short Courses at Michigan State college now is accepting applications for its annual series of specialized short courses. Ralph W. Tenney, director, announces: The courses, in seven fields, will start on January 5, 1948, and continue until March 4.

Tenny pointed out that prospective students should make their applications at this time, so that the college may prepare to provide proper facilities for those enrolling. Any citizen of the state 16 years of age or older may apply for admission to these short courses.

Fields covered by this group are agricultural engineering, commercial fruit production, dairy manufacturing, dairy production, forestry and wildlife conservation, poultry, and practical floriculture.

College Gets Gifts Totaling $41,070

Gifts totaling $41,070 have been accepted by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State college.

The largest gift was a $15,000 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, to provide short course scholarships.

The short course scholarship plan now in its fifth year, provides aid for one boy and girl from each Michigan county in a short course at M. S. C.

A grant of $5,000 was received from the Michigan Milk Producers association to be used over a period of two years by the farm management department to continue the study of dairy production costs and returns.

We Cannot Accept Weevily Wheat To Grind Into Flour

We suggest that you check your wheat immediately for weevil for your own protection. We have had to turn down a few loads recently because of weevil, and we feel that you should be warned.

We use an insecticide called "DOWFUME" to protect our own wheat. We can sell this to you in bulk if you desire it. Bring your own container.

Up and Down Kent County Roads

K. K. Vining, Kent County Agricultural Agent

Michigan's 4-H dairy judging team did well at the Waterloo Dairy Congress a couple weeks ago. The team stood second in all breeds in competition with fourteen teams. Second was taken in Jerseys and Brown Swiss and third in Guernseys.

Gene Post of Algoma Township, a member of the team, stood ninth in the contest. Ann Reiberg of Coopersville was a member of the team. The other two members coming from Lenawee County. We understand the Michigan team will go to the all-American Jersey Show in Columbus, O. this month.

Here are some figures on bee inspection work in Kent County. Don Barrett, chief apiarist at the State Department of Agriculture writes us that 337 apiaries were inspected in Kent County last year. Disease was found in 33. These apiaries had a total of 3118 colonies. Only 29 were diseased or 3 percent, a low figure.

The Kent County Board of supervisors has made annual appropriation for bee inspection work. With the increasing acreage of fruit in this county and the need of bees for pollination, it is quite necessary that there be plenty of bees for this job.

The Grand Rapids Guernsey Breeders' Association are sponsoring a sale of purebred Guernseys Thursday, October 23 at the 4-H Fair Grounds at Lowell. Lyle Hunsberger of Grand Rapids is in charge of the sale. He has 50 head of fine cattle will be offered.

The sale will start at 1 o'clock. Auctioneer is C. B. Smith of Williamston.

We are glad to see the revival of the fall 4-H achievement days. Prior to war days they were a fine fall event. Summer 4-H club members, leaders and parents met for a potluck dinner. A review of summer work, potato, corn and bean club members made exhibits. There was a good talk, pictures of the summer activities and the announcement of delegates to 4-H Club Weeks at Michigan State College and trip winners to Chicago.

All these things are planned for two of these events this fall, October 23 and 24 are the days. Cedar Springs High School will be the place of the meeting on the 23rd and at Caledonia on the 24th. Club leaders and members should watch for letters from Dan Anderson in regard to details.

Another 4-H club event will be leaders' meeting October 20 at the American Legion Hall at Comstock Park.

This is the annual meeting of the Kent County 4-H Leaders' Club. Officers will be elected and plans made for another year's work. This club, a new one in Kent County 4-H club circles is doing much to help Extension Service develop and promote a well rounded club program in the county.

A couple of weeks ago we went to Ada to see their new auxiliary truck in operation. The volunteers were busy learning how to operate the pump, fill their truck as well as the county truck and do some fire fighting themselves. Adolph Nelson, county fire chief, was on hand and ably helping the Ada firemen.

Last week a fire in Ada Township gave them ample opportunity to try out the new truck. A residence fire called out the county truck and of course the township outfit carrying 500 gallon of water, went along. It took three trips of the township truck to keep the county truck supplied with water. Otherwise the latter truck would have had to leave the fire and go for water. Ada and Cascade have these auxiliary trucks. Vergennes is in the process of buying one and we understand other townships are planning to do the same.

Nothing we can think of can give the county fire truck more support than an auxiliary township truck standing by with a supply of water.

DICK DUNKEL'S

College Football Ratings for Saturday, Oct. 11

Explanation: The Dunkel rating system presents a factual, unbiased picture of the relative strength of teams as revealed by the scoring correlation method. This method answers the question, "How well has each team performed relative to the strength of its opposition to date?" The teams set their own ratings by the average percentage margin they establish above or below the average rating of their opponents. Ratings are index numbers—100 percentage. Thus, for example, a 50.0 team rates 10 scoring points higher than a 60.0 team. In this manner, past performance of any two teams can be compared regardless of location. The ratings have been continuous since 1929.
