The fire truck and auxiliary truck at Ada were called out five times over the week-end for brush fires. Do not build any fires in the day time that you have not had permission to start, either have the fire early in the morning or late in the evening when the dew is down and there is more moisture in the air. If you start a fire don't leave it. They can get away so rapidly and endanger property.

calling area for

GRAND RAPIDS | ADA LOWELL

APRIL 19 will mark an important improvement in telephone service for Lowell ... the introduction of the Grand Rapids district exchange and extended area service.

On that day, Lowell's local telephone calling area will be enlarged. Lowell subscribers will be able to reach 73,000 telephones without toll charge . . . 66 times as many as they can today. As shown on the map, Lowell telephone subscribers will be able to call and be called by subscribers in the following towns without toll charge: GRAND RAPIDS ALTO GRATTAN

In addition, they will be able to call and called by subscribers in the following towns at "message-unit" rates, which generally will be lower than present toll rates:

Byron Center Jamestown Marne Caledonia Moline Rockford Dutton Hudsonville Sparta

Through the years, a natural community of interest has been built up between Lowell and the towns that are being added to its local calling area. Friendships have developed. People buy and sell back and forth. Many Lowell residents work in Grand Rapids. The everyday life of Lowell has become linked with that of the others. In communities where extended area service already has been introduced, the number of calls between the towns involved has increased 2 to 5 times. With Lowell's enlarged local calling area, telephone service will be geared to modern telephone needs and will become more valuable and

New monthly rates for telephone service in Lowell will be the same as Grand Rapids rates, effective April 19, when Grand Rapids telephones are included in your local, toll-free calling area Prior to April 19, all Lowell telephone subscribers will receive complete information on the Grand Rapids district exchange and extended area service, including the new rates, and telephone directories for the nearby
