

Last week we received a nice letter from Mrs. Edward Nelson, the former Iolene Beebe of Lowell, now of Granger, Ind., in which she mentioned how much she enjoys her Ledger and reading about the people she knows so well.

Thanks, Mrs. Nelson, for the kindly words and sentiment expressed.

An improvement along our Main street is the new front on the Fitzgerald Grill. When completed it will be very modern and a nice addition to the "new look" of places over Flat river.

Lowell folks are very proud of the village and are anxious to have all business places looking their best.

Can you tell sunstroke from heat exhaustion?

Both are dangerous, the National Safety Council says. Heat exhaustion leaves the victim's skin cold and clammy, while sunstroke results in a hot, dry skin.

A general rule for treatment: Keep the cold patient warm, and the hot patient cool.

Stop, look and listen grade crossing accidents, the National Safety Council advises. Slow up before the crossing, don't stop dead at all.

If the train gives a hoot for your life, so should you.

Railroad crossings' greatest need, Twice the caution—half the speed.

The Western Michigan Tourist and Resort Association points out that of every dollar spent in West Michigan by the average tourist, 80 cents goes to people not directly associated with the tourist industry—people who often have only a vague idea of their profits from tourist spending.

This kind of money makes itself felt throughout the entire community in every channel of trade.

Many thousands of these tourists pass through Lowell annually and are attracted by the fine stores, shady parks and congenial business people.

We want to be worthy of our 83 cents.

Father's Day is June 19, and in the Butler family at Point Pleasant, W. Va., it will be son's day as well.

Ronald W. Butler, 14, entered his essay, entitled "How Can Fathers Help Make Us Better Citizens?" in the essay contest sponsored by the C & O Ry. Co. and won for himself a $100 Savings Bond from the National Father's Day Association.

A seven-day trip to historic shrines in Virginia for both himself and his father, Charles E. Butler.

The winning essay which contains a lot of food for thought, and which we feel it is well worth publishing, follows:

Tomorrow rests upon our shoulders and being good citizens is the first thing that we can do to set our nation free from trouble. Our fathers can vote on Election Day and show us that it is not important that we vote for the member of our own political party but that we put the right man in office.

Where does Hello get you and who does Hello get you? Asks the telephone company. Think of the valuable telephone time wasted every day by saying "Hello" and then finding out who answered.

The telephone company suggests we save time by saying "Mr. Jones" or even just "Jones". They haven't computed the time lost when, after answering with the "hello", the caller puts you through the third degree with "whose this is talking to?"

There is such a thing as telephone manners as well as telephone efficiency. We might improve telephone voices by pleasant utterances, cheery greetings rather than a grunt or grumble.

We might start brushing up on our telephone etiquette here in Lowell the next time the bell rings.

Novice mushroom hunters on this spring, who may not know the difference between the tasty morels and the deadly poisonous amanitas, are advised to team up with veteran gatherers for that first field trip.

By taking this precautionary step, says R. D. Burroughs, botanist and education consultant for the conservation department, beginners can get firsthand coaching in distinguishing the edible varieties.

For beginners, Burroughs recommends picking the distinctive "fool-proof four"—morels, puffballs, sulphur shales and shaggymanes. Deadly poisonous mushrooms of the genus Amanita may be detected and avoided, he explains, by noting such features as a cup at the base, a ring on the stem just under the cap, and white spores on white gills.

Grass Day Program Gives Kent Farmers A Rare Opportunity

The statewide Grass Day program this summer will give Kent County farmers an opportunity to see how grasses and legumes can improve soil productivity and farm income and promote good land use and erosion control.

The program in this area will be held June 17 at the Reginald Criddle farm located 2 miles west of Middleville on M-37.

On Grass Day, extension specialists from Michigan State College will be on hand to assist former county agent, Loren S. Armbruster, and to discuss individual problems with farm visitors. Demonstration plots have been established to show management practices and harvesting methods in grassland farming.

In discussing the adoption of more grassland farming in Kent County, Agent Richard Machiele states, "On many farms the crop rotation fails to maintain soil fertility. Soil-depleting row and grain crops must be balanced with soil-building sods. Grass farming actually requires less labor than more intensive types and can make a prosperous soil-saving agriculture as well as give profits."

Special demonstrations and machinery exhibits scheduled for the local Grass Day area: A 15-acre fall seeding of ladino clover and also a 12-acre field of a two year old stand of ladino; an August seeding of alfalfa with and without fertilizer, and the effects of close grazing of legumes during the month of September. Other demonstrations will include the effects and growth of various kinds and rates of fertilizer top-dressing on legumes, gully control and the effects of sod waterways. Testing the moisture content of hay to be harvested will also be shown. The afternoon program will begin with alfalfa seeding demonstration. This will include forage harvesters, blowers, balers, unloaders, bale loaders and other forage equipment. The machinery will be on display before the demonstrations.

UNDEFEATED LOWELL HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM WINS GRAND VALLEY CHAMPIONSHIP

After completing a perfect season, with six wins and no losses, in the Grand Valley competition, the High School Baseball team brings to Lowell the first championship since the Grand Valley League was formed.

In observance of this honor Coach Burch and Mrs. Burch gave a turkey dinner in their home Saturday evening for these players who were responsible for this successful season.

The final week for the seniors of the Lowell high school started impressively Sunday night with the inspirational Baccalaureate address delivered by the Rev. Philip R. Giotfey, pastor of the Methodist church. About six hundred relatives and friends of the graduates were in attendance, and gave rapt attention to the speaker, who centered his remarks about "Seeking for Gold."

He drew a parallel between the forty-niners of a century ago with the class of '49, and he asserted that Gold was the objective of each group. Rev. Giotfey pleaded with the class to seek gold in terms of more knowledge, a happy home of their own, a love and sympathy for humanity, and a belief in God.

Elsie Houghton's solo, the number rendered by the quartette consisting of One Roth, Dorothy Foss, Marilyn Clark and Vivian Rickett, the selection sung by the high school chorus, and the number played by the band, were very delightful.

Graduation Night (Thursday) Tonight, seventy-three graduates will receive their diplomas from the Board of Education through president C. H. Runciman. It is expected that as usual the gymnasium will be crowded to capacity. Howard C. Wickert, principal of Creston high school, will deliver the commencement address and in speaking on the topic, "By Way of Inquiry," he will assert that each graduate should analyze and study himself and choose a life's work based upon his own abilities and interests. Mr. Wickert will declare that there are plenty of opportunities for all to assume positions of trust and responsibility.

David Stiff will deliver the salutatory, written by co-salutatorian Carolyn Groenboom. The valedictory by Janet Kleefisch stresses the theme of character—the class motto. The traditional parade will be given to Gordon Newell by Colleen Yetter, Rev. Paul Z. Hoonstra is to give the invocation and benediction.

The names of recipients of various prizes cannot be divulged until next week.

In planning their life's work, many of the graduates will go on to college and several will enter the teaching and nursing professions.

The names of all the graduates, with individual photographs, will appear on page six of this week's Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Franks, who live out on Vergennes Road, have an 80-acre farm and until last fall had a nice dairy herd of Guerneys. Franks is working out and in a matter of time he will know better business of dairy farming. Mr. Franks decided to try something a little different in the way of business management and sold his cows except for enough to provide milk for family use.

Most of his fields are in hay, wheat and other grains, and he remodeled his dairy barn into a brooder house and laying pens where he is trying the raising of chickens for profit, which he hopes will be less work and perhaps smaller investment. He bought 300 layers last fall and this spring he purchased another flock of 400 pullets and plans to add to these in the near future.

This is an experiment which Mr. Franks is working out and in a matter of time he will know better business of dairy farming. Mr. Franks decided to try something a little different in the way of business management and sold his cows except for enough to provide milk for family use.

At least he is sure he likes agriculture and has purchased new and modern equipment with which to handle the work himself most of the year.

We will be interested to know whether the chicken ranch is a better investment than the dairy project, and it might easily be. No two farms can be handled exactly alike.

Old-Time Gowns to Feature In Pageant "Brides In Revue"

A lavender and gray striped silk gown, with full sleeves trimmed with lavender fringe, worn by Mrs. Adeline Look for her wedding in 1861, will be the first bridal dress to be modeled in the "Brides In Revue" pageant to be presented by the Priscilla Group at the Methodist Church, at 8:00 p. m. on Wednesday, June 15.

Several gowns from the early 1900's will be shown, and they reveal a variety of lovely materials, satins, lace, swiss mull, mousseline de soie, and taffeta. The 1920's will be represented, too, with dresses featuring the long waistline and short skirt, so stylish in that period. Finally a number of more recent wedding gowns will be shown, some of them modeled by their owners.

Traditional organ music will be played during the program by Mrs. Arnold Wittenbach, and a solo will be sung by Mrs. David Miller. The church will be decorated with summer flowers and large candelabra.

Refreshments will be served in the church gym following the pageant, where bridesmaids wearing gowns of various periods will assist.

Tickets are being sold by members of the Priscilla Group, and will also be available at the door. Admission is fifty cents, children under twelve accompanied by their parents may be admitted free.

The result of the balloting showed the following officers elected for the new church year: for stewards, Mrs. Margaret Newell, Mrs. Ethel Stevens, Mrs. Hazel Fletcher, Mrs. Clara Kingdom, and Mrs. Theresa Buck. For trustees, Clyde Newell, Emerson Stevens, Fred Kenyon, Byron Weeks, Dave A. Clark, Sr. For Sunday School Superintendent, Gerald E. Rollins.

By unanimous vote of the congregation, the pastor, Rev. Paul Z. Hoonstra, was granted a leave of absence this summer. He plans to be in residence for the completion of his doctoral work, at the Gallien Seminary, of New York, and expects to be back home by the latter part of August. More Smiles per Gallon with Dynaflo Drive

THERE'S the smile when you slip the selector lever into Driving notch—and realize that's all there is to do. There's the smile when you swing smoothly up to cruising speed without halt or check or break of stride. There's the smile at traffic lights when you halt, wait, then move away with never a thought about shifting.

But the broad grin of all comes at the end of a long day's drive and you find you've covered more miles more easily. Even your treadle-foot — so likely to become tired and cramped maintaining an even speed in direct-drive cars—appreciates the fluid ease of Dynaflo.
