Defeat Sparta 57 to 33
If the first two games of the season are any indication of things to come, Red Arrow basketball fans with weak hearts and shattered nerves are warned to not get within shouting distance of the local aggregation as the season progresses...

The Lowell lads took a 9 to 8 first quarter lead, and managed to maintain this one point margin till half-time when they were ahead 17 to 16.

In this stanza both teams went on a scoring rampage to rack up a total of 31 points, 18 counters for the Arrows and 13 for Sparta, to make the final score 37 to 33 for the Arrows.

During this wild session each basket produced a bedlam of roars that threatened to raise the roof, as the visitors brought along a large rooting section of their own.

Rosenberg was high point man for the Arrows with 14 points followed by Brown with 11.

In the preliminary encounter Sparta seconds trounced the Lowell seconds 50 to 27.

DeHaan Farm
North of Lowell

The lovely snow scene pictured in last week's Ledger Lucky Farmer Photo-Quiz proved to be the home of Ben DeHaan who came here from Grand Rapids twelve years ago and located on this farm on M91 about a mile north of Lowell.

Mr. and Mrs. DeHaan recognized their property and called at the Ledger office Saturday morning to identify it and to claim the framed photo and the thirty gift certificates which merchants had awarded the owner of the farm.

Mr. DeHaan believes in hard, honest toil to make his farming successful and has put in long hours on his farm. His cattle, chickens and hogs, receive his special attention and he raises all the feed for his livestock, which makes his farming more in the general class.

As the picture indicates, the buildings are adequate. A large house, spacious barn, tool house, corn crib, chicken coops, brooder houses, hog house and a garage make up the set of buildings.

In the family besides Mr. and Mrs. DeHaan are four children: Bernard, Mrs. Helen VerVeer, John and Abe, and three grandchildren.

Abe is the only son at home and helps his father in working the farm.

Marthas Entertain
Mary, Priscilla Groups
At Christmas Meeting

On Monday evening the Marthas group of the Methodist Church was hosted to the rest of the Women's Society of Christian Service represented by the Mary and Priscilla groups.

A devotional service entitled "O Come" and presented by Miss Marlon Bushnell, Mrs. Arle Leaman and Mrs. Charles Reynolds, Mrs. Orion Thaler and the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Glatfley was an admonition to dig deeper into the true meaning of Christmas.

While most of us are caught up in a pleasant confusion of activities and traditional symbols centering around the manger, we must remind ourselves that Christmas means much more. It is a celebration of the entire life of Jesus as a Saviour, God's method of revealing His plans and purposes to His world.

"The Lost Lamb" by Sara Jenkins, reviewed by Mrs. Charles White was a heart warming story of a Methodist minister's family in Georgia, and told of their activities as they left one parish for a new one just the week before Christmas.

The entire group was delighted with a reading "The Ladies Aid Will Do The Rest," very ably presented by Mrs. Earl Naab. Tea and Christmas cookies were served by Mrs. Melvin Lewis, Mrs. George Fonger, Mrs. Wesley Clemenz and Mrs. Carl Freyermuth, with Mrs. Rosella Yelter pouring.

During this part of the evening recorded Christmas music was presented by Mrs. Howard Clark.

Regular trapping season on the three furbearers in the northern lower peninsula continues through Dec. 15. Raccoon hunting season in the lower peninsula expires Dec. 15.

Multi-Million Dollar U. P. Project
Copper Development Backed by RFC
Promises Model Town at White Pine

The multi-million dollar copper development in the upper peninsula will be a needed shot in the arm for that area's economy. With backing of the RFC the Copper Range company of Boston will sink at least $57 millions into the venture, $15 million of which will go toward building a model town.

The development at White Pine adjacent to the Porcupine Mountains will have more than 600 dwelling units, railroads, a new copper smelter, mill and other equipment to produce 70 million pounds of copper per year—an additional four percent to the nation's supply.

The White Pine development was attractive because some of the copper veins are only six and eight underground. Many times shafts as deep as 7,000 feet must be sunk to get out copper ore.

Michigan's military units are short on recruits. On the heels of an announcement that there will be no change in the draft laws so long as volunteer enlistments remain so high, the National Guard and army organized reserves reveal they have had small results when they beat the drum for recruits.

The Guard, especially, has been harried by rapid turnover and loss to the regular army.

Pressure is rising in the rank and file of the automobile unions, embarrassing both management and union officials. This pressure, result of some work shortages because of material lacks, is reflected in such demands as a 30-hour week to spread available work—with, of course, 40 hours pay.

Sportsman's Banquet
May Be Annual Affair
Nearly 200 Attend

Nearly 200 members of the Lowell Sportsman's club, their wives and friends attended a banquet served by the Lowell Chapter of Job's Daughters at the Masonic Temple Tuesday night. Organ music throughout the dinner was furnished by Emil Meny, of the Grinnell Music House of Grand Rapids.

Philip Davenport, local vice president, acting as chairman introduced the dean of Michigan's toastmasters, Chet Rose, who kept the program on a highly entertaining level.

Harry Gaines, secretary of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, gave a brief but interesting survey on conservation developments in Michigan.

C. J. Tinker, director of educational films of the MUCC for the state of Michigan, was introduced by Mr. Rose as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Tinker's discourse dealt with examples throughout history where lack of conservation led to the direct downfall from Biblical times to the present day. This lecture was by far the best ever delivered on this subject in Lowell.

Due to the success of this occasion the Lowell Sportsman's club banquet is destined to become an annual affair.

Makes Narrow Escape
As Car Hits Train

William M. Beckett, 69, of R-2 Lowell, narrowly escaped serious injury Friday night when his car hit a C. & O. train at the main crossing at Grand River Drive. Train No. 27 had been divided in half and the first section taken over the Allendale hill, the engine returning for the remaining section was moving slowly.

Mr. Beckett told Officer Frank Stephens who investigated the accident that he did not see the train in time to stop. Tracks show that he applied his brakes and skidded into the side of the engine under the cab, striking a post which prevented tipping over.

Mr. Beckett had been visiting at the Floyd Rose home and was returning to his home about 11:20 p. m. when the accident occurred.

South Boston Grange
South Boston had a fine grange attendance at their regular meeting on Saturday evening, Dec. 1, and the delicious oyster supper served by the home economics committee at 7:30 started the evening off in fine shape.

After supper the meeting was called to order by Worthy Master, Lionel Northington. We discussed plans for the Christmas program and it was decided to have our festivities on Saturday, Dec. 29, with the regular exchange of gifts—$25 limit for children and 50c for adults for those who wish to participate in the exchange. Each gift is to be plainly marked for man, woman or girl.

Home economics chairman reported that she and her committee delivered the gifts to Percy Jones hospital and stated that the boys were very pleased and most appreciative.

Following the meeting, new officers were installed by Mr. and Mrs. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Leuttjohann and Mr. and Mrs. Strong. This was very well done and most interesting and greatly enjoyed by all present.

After the installation we listened to a report from the State Grange convention, given by Mr. and Mrs. Burger and Mr. and Mrs. Strong, which was most interesting and instructive.

Next grange meeting will be an all day meeting on Saturday, Dec. 15, with potluck lunch at noon.

Common Questions
Asked By Schools
About Education

More than 100 schools in the state including Lowell high school, are sending out questionnaires to patrons in an effort to find out what people think about their schools. The questionnaire is not a high-toned affair, the questions asked are old-fashioned, like the following:

Do you feel that your school is doing a good job in teaching politeness, honesty, good citizenship, discipline?

Do your schools teach enough about the importance of voting, taxes, earning a living, and the place of profits in business?

There are questions about the three R's, frills, and what general changes the citizens want in their schools.

Freedom of speech and freedom of the press have been subjects of great controversy throughout the entire country for the last few months. It was the suggestion of Lee M. Thurston, Superintendent of Public Instruction, that the heads of schools make this survey in an effort to develop a closer relationship with citizens since schools are for all the children of all the people and therefore everyone has an interest in education.

Supt. Walter A. Gumsier sent out a number of these questionnaires last week and already they are being returned to his office with answers and suggestions which in proof that Lowell school patrons are alert and interested in the welfare of their schools.

Congressman Gerald Ford and Party
Inspect Mighty Mississippi River
Main Stem Levees, Tributary Work

Nowadays Mark Twain would find his beloved Mississippi a good bit different. Perhaps to him it wouldn't have the same appeal but to a Michigander in 1951 the Lower Mississippi River is a sight to behold. This is particularly true when you see it from the pilot house of the Steamer "Mississippi" with a 90-year-old stalwart as your guide.

This past week three members of the House Committee on Appropriations made a four-day inspection trip of the Lower Mississippi from the mouth of the Ohio River to the Gulf of Mexico. Via the river this is 964 miles and our inspection party made most of the journey on board one of the few remaining steam propelled "paddle-wheelers."

In order to inspect adequately all of the many flood control levees, reservoirs, cut-offs, bank reverts and floodways the Army Engineers kept the three Congressmen on the go from early morning till late at night. We viewed not only the "main-stem" levees and cut-offs but much of the tributary work which is an integral part of the master plan for the control of the Mississippi, the giant of all streams in America.

Huge Drainage Basin
The Mississippi River has its source in Lake Itasca, Minnesota, at an elevation of 1,470 feet above sea level, and flows 2,470 miles to the Gulf. Together with its tributaries, the river drains a total of about 1,244,000 square miles. The drainage basin, exceeded in size only by those of the Amazon and Congo Rivers, covers all or parts of 31 states.

On Saturday afternoon we boarded the Steamboat "Mississippi" at Cairo, Illinois, and for the next four days followed every twist and turn of the river. The most interesting guide was a civilian engineer, Mr. S. P. Reynolds, of Caruthersville, Missouri, who has lived within a few yards of the river over 90 years.

This fine old man who was born in 1861 and who has helped to build levees almost a century, is as spry as most men half his age. The Mighty Mississippi hasn't licked him and he hopes to live to see the day when the flood control job is done from the mouth to the headwaters. His pride he told me the levees built under his jurisdiction some fifty years ago have never been destroyed or topped by the numerous rampages of the devastating Mississippi.

Watched from the Pilot House
Saturday night after dinner on board the steamer "Mr. Reynolds asked me if I would like to go up to the pilot house to see the pilot at work while the steamer plodded southward. It was dark, drizzly, and somewhat foggy but my 90-year-old guide agilely led the way on catwalks and ladders from the lower deck to the pilot's sanctuary.

For two hours we watched an experienced river pilot stage a true course in the pitch-black night. Yes, a river pilot now has searchlights, radio communication and other navigation aids, but nevertheless these men are truly experts. Our boat, in addition to the inspection party, was hauling three big barges of rock for use in the levees being constructed downstream.

While we were aboard the Steamboat "Mississippi" passed both ways numerous other tugs and barges with all kinds of cargo. Believe it or not, over 67 million tons of cargo were carried on the Mississippi in 1950, the biggest navigation year in the River's history. Now only a very few boats are paddle-wheelers but the tremendous paddles at the stern of the Steamboat "Mississippi" propelled us and the three barges of rock down the river at a speed of 14 miles per hour. In time the few remaining old steamboats and their paddle-wheels will pass to oblivion but in the year gone by they did their share in building the economy of America.

Because turning cars kill and injure hundreds of U. S. children during December of each year, the above poster has been sent to Michigan schools by Automobile Club of Michigan.

It will be used on bulletin boards to remind youngsters to keep an eye out for autos which may not be able to stop short of crosswalks due to icy streets.

In all, some 10,100 of the posters, 20,000 lesson sheets, and 10,000 coloring sheets stressing the "Watch for Turning Car" message will be used in Michigan schools during December.

The Tree

The Christmas tree is one of the most beautiful of all traditions and customs associated with the Christmas holiday. The use of the fir tree as part of the Christmas celebration is of Germanic and Scandinavian origin.

Prof. their pagan Norse mythology, the newly converted Christians of Northern Europe took the sacred fir or evergreen tree, and made it a part of the Christmas festival, decorating it with garlands and gilt apples, symbols of the stars and planets of the heavens.

Today, our Christmas trees are either spruce or fir. These trees which once were shipped to us from the north and northwest are now grown close by in suburban areas.

The decoration of the tree has changed much, with the advent of electric lights, tinsel, angel hair, and elaborate ornaments.

Basically, however, there still remains the tree, and rich or poor, from child to adult, Christmas could not be Christmas without a tree in the house during the holiday season.

With "hot cereal time" approaching, Michigan State College foods specialists remind homemakers that hot cereal can be kept free of lumps by sprinkling the dry cereal slowly into the boiling water and stirring as the cereal swells.

Home economists at MSC point out that peanut butter may be kept soft and ready to use by storing it in a cupboard instead of the refrigerator. But don't keep it too long or it may become rancid, they warn.
