Chittin' and Chattin' at the Feed Department

Steve: Well, spring is here again in full bloom. Makes you feel like a kid again.

Vern: You mean it makes you WISH you were a kid again, don't you Doc.

Steve: Don't pick on me, remember you only have one good leg. But seriously, speaking of spring makes me hungry. Guess it's because I was just reading an article about turkeys. Do you fellows know that turkey consumption is increasing rapidly? People are eating 25% more turkeys now than in the 1947-49 period. Of course we can't forget broilers. They're "tops" as meat producers, and fancy eat-

Vern: Now your "cooking with gas" Doc. By the way here are some figures on that on the basis of capacity to turn feed into meat: For broilers it takes three pounds of feed to produce a pound of meat. For comparison it takes four pounds of feed to produce a pound of pork and seven pounds of feed to produce a pound of beef. Turkey broilers take three and one-half pounds of feed for a pound of Steve: Good going Vern, I like to see you boys take an interest in facts such as these. By the way did you fellows know that American hens set a new record in 1953 for the number of eggs laid per hen?

George: It just happens that I read an article about that this morning. The new record is 182 eggs per hen.

Steve: Your right to the egg, George.

Bob: We're getting to the end of our ad so I just want to tell one on Vern, Vern was driving on a strange country road the other day and ran over a rooster. He got out of the car and crossed the field to where the farmer was plowing and said, "I just ran over your rooster and I'm willing to replace him". "Fine!" said the farmer, "Let's hear you crow."
