

Advertising for Bids Now Board Will Chose Contractor for New Elementary School on October 19

Progress is being made steadily toward making the proposed new elementary school building a reality rather than just a lot of figures and blueprints. It was announced yesterday (Wednesday) by Superintendent Schools, W. W. Gums, that the Grand Rapids architects Robinson, Campau and Crowe, Inc., have completed their plans and specifications, and advertising for bids of contractors to build the new school will be begun immediately.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Lowell Board of Education has been scheduled for Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, at 7:30, at which time the architects will submit to the board members all contractors' bids received, at which time they will be opened and examined by the school officials, and a decision made as to the contractor to be hired.

The attorneys for the bonding company have approved the Lowell School's bonding proposal, and most of the bonds have already been sold, providing the necessary funds for this needed construction. The School Board is pleased with the fine saleability of the bonds on the market and the fine progress of the paper-work involved in this construction project, which is so badly needed—very clearly indicated by the large enrollment this year in the public schools. A record 1009 have been registered this year, and every available corner of the present school buildings is being used every period of every school day.

The new building for elementary grades, will have 7 class-rooms and an all-activity room, and will serve the kindergarten through third grades. The building site chosen is at the corner of High and Monroe streets, across from the present buildings, and the new structure will face High st. The activity room includes a stage and kitchen, and the several auxiliary rooms include a clinic, library and principal's office. Both pupils and civic groups will be able to make use of these special rooms.

Families of the U. S. Naval Academy's class of 1950 had an opportunity to witness the progress of their "plobes" during the 57th annual open house held at Annapolis August 27-29. Mrs. Gwendoline E. Beriver of Route 2, Lowell, was among those present, visiting her son, James E. Davis.

Highlights of the open house included a dress parade of the new Fourth Class for their families, visits to the various academic departments and dormitories, a flight demonstration by the Navy's jet exhibition team, the Blue Angels, and the Parents Forum. The forum conducted by Rear Admiral W. F.

Hit-and-run Driver Nabbed as Tire Blows

Three Lowell persons emerged uninjured from a hit-and-run accident on Lincoln Lake road Sunday evening, about 7:15, when their car was struck almost head-on by an oncoming auto. The Lowell folks, Richard Rutherford, his sister, Mrs. C. E. Martin, and her son, Lawrence, were in the Martin car going north. Just south of the cut-off for Fallsburg Park, another auto, driven by Robert A. Morgan of Dowling, headed south, careened to the wrong lane, and struck the Martin car.

Mr. Morgan failed to stop at the scene, but drove his badly wrecked auto on into Lowell until a tire blow-out forced him to stop on Vergennes st., near the Arthur Cross home.

It was here that Police Chief Frank Stephens caught up with him, having been summoned by witnesses to the accident, who had also chased the Morgan car into town.

Mr. Morgan was taken to the Lowell jail, and will be charged with leaving the scene of a property-damage accident. Luckily no one was injured. About $250 damage was done to the left front of each of the cars, however.

First Meeting Of P. T. A. Sparks Membership Drive

A new membership drive was the main subject of the first P. T. A. meeting of the Lowell school year, held Monday night at the high school gymnasium. A drawing, to stimulate membership interest was held of the attending parents' names, and the winner was Mrs. Earl Doyle. Each of her three children will receive $1.00 from the P.T.A. They are kindergarten, Kathie, 1st grade Charles and Susan in the 3rd grade.

After the business meeting was adjourned by President Richard Court, the program chairman, William Jones, who is also father vice-president of the P.T.A., introduced C. H. Runciman, president of the school board, who discussed the new grade school building, and the large enrollment this year in the Lowell schools. He also introduced the members of the school board.

Mr. Jones also called on Steven Nisbet, school principal, who introduced the teachers; at this time a potted plant was presented to first grade teacher, Miss Bushnell, whose class was best represented at the meeting by 20 parents.

Greetings from vacationing W. A. Roth and the Council were brought by Councilman Carl Munroe, who welcomed the new teachers to the community. The program chairman also introduced other civic leaders and ministers of the local churches.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phelps and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kroff, the hospital committee, served refreshments at the social hour which followed the formal meeting.

Next P.T.A. meeting will be Monday, October 12. Mrs. Ed Ward and Mrs. Harold Nash will present the program, which will be entitled "Safety".

Bus Driver Trainer Warns Of Dangers

With 4,500 Michigan school buses back on the highways at least twice each school day, David Soule warns of the dangers lurking on the highways.

There were two fatalities and more than 100 injuries involving school buses in 1954, but Soule says with the cooperation of every driver this can be reduced to no more than a few minor accidents.

Soule begins work this fall as coordinator in a cooperative educational program for school bus drivers. He will work with Western Michigan College and Eastern Michigan College, who are joining Michigan State University in backing such work this year.

Soule says that private drivers must share the responsibility with the bus drivers for the safe trip of the buses to and from school.

"Children who must cross the highway are instructed to do so in front of the bus," he emphasizes. "But be prepared for the child who doesn't follow instructions and crosses from behind the bus. Watch out for that 'crazy driver' who swings into your lane to pass the bus without stopping."

The state law regarding school buses reads: When approaching a school bus from the rear, which has stopped to load or unload passengers, you must bring your car to a full stop at least 10 feet from the rear of the bus and then proceed with caution not to exceed 10 miles per hour.

When you see a large chrome yellow school bus in front of you, watch out for children.

It's a waste of ammunition unless you have a good aim in life.

Bill Potter to Play Against Yankees

Airman Bill Potter, serving in Japan, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Byron Potter of Lowell, has gained great honor for himself and for his home town. Known as the hitting sensation of the Air Force Baseball League in Japan—managing to hit over 400 for his second year—Bill has been selected to play with the All-Japan Baseball team which will tour the Pacific area with the New York Yankees when the latter group visits Japan in October. Their itinerary will include Guam, Okinawa, Philippines, and Korea, as well as Japan.

Bill's record in baseball in the States also shows a hitting average of over 400, and while at O'Hare A.F.B. he had several big league offers. When he obtains his discharge from service in February Bill has indicated to his folks that he plans to sign a professional baseball contract.

This young man is only one of four in the Potter family who have served the U. S. Air Force. His brother, Joe, served four years; a sister, Kittie, served a three year enlistment and another sister, Sharon enlisted this past summer.

Area Life Resident, Fred Nummer, Dies

Fred J. Nummer, a life resident of this area, passed away Saturday, September 17, at his farm home on M-21 just east of Lowell, in Ionia county. He was 70 years of age.

Mr. Nummer, who was born November 12, 1884, at Easton, lived his entire life in the Lowell-Ionia area. On March 25, 1908, he married Jennie Young, and in 1918 they moved to Lowell and have lived at the farm home since that time. Ill health forced Mr. Nummer to retire from active farming three years ago.

Surviving besides his widow are three sons, Nelson, Oscar and Bernard, all of Lowell; a daughter, Mrs. Frieda Hendricks of Lowell, and 5 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Roth Funeral Chapel, the Rev. Keith Melver officiating; interment in Oakwood cemetery.

Church, Town Hall, Kent Schools Hit By Petty Thieves

When Rev. J. M. DeVinney, pastor of the Vergennes Methodist church, arrived for the morning services last Sunday he discovered that the pulpit Bible was missing. Then, as the congregation began to arrive, it was noticed that the electric clock, a recent gift to the church, was also missing, and later the collection plates and the gold eagle on the American flag staff were missed.

Rev. DeVinney states that the three basic requirements for a Methodist service, aside from someone to "preach the word" and someone to listen to the pastor, are a Bible, a hymnal and a collection plate. "Take away two of these requirements from a church and it is doubly crippled," he continued. However, an abandoned copy of the Bible and some paper pie plates were found, and the service proceeded as scheduled.

Lost His Watch?

Did the thief lose his watch? An electric clock was also missing from the Grange hall across the street from the church. Entrance had been made by breaking a window in the basement. The Hall had been ransacked, but only the clock was missing.

County officers theorize the same person must also be responsible for entering another country school at Boynton and Vergennes, in the same general area, and attempted to fire the building, as papers had been scattered about on the floor and ignited. The flames burned out however, without setting fire to the building.

But two other schools were entered in northeast Kent county, and three wall clocks were taken. Two were taken at Lincoln Lake school, and one from Mason school.

Services Here Tuesday For Former Resident

LeRoy N. Chambers, a former Lowell resident, passed away in Birmingham Saturday, September 17, following an illness of short duration. Mr. Chambers was brought to his former home for burial and services were held at Roth chapel Tuesday afternoon, Rev. R. C. Morel officiating, with interment in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Chambers was one of nine children in the family of Seneca and Cynthia Chambers, born September 20, 1873, in Holland, Wisconsin. The family moved in 1894 to Macon, Michigan, and later that year came to Lowell.

On October 24, 1901, Mr. Chambers married Mary I. Lee of Bowne Township. Although he lived most of his life around Lowell, in recent years he moved to Ypsilanti, and then to Birmingham, where he made his home with his son, Clarence.

Surviving besides his son are a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Juhl of Belding, five grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren, and a host of friends.

Ten Leading Killers Take 5 of 6 Lives in Michigan "Black List"

Five out of every six Michigan deaths last year were caused by the ten leading killers, the Michigan Department of Health reported today. Dr. Albert E. Heustis, State Health Commissioner, said the final figures for 1954 show "no really significant changes" over last year's report.

With heart disease and cancer still well out in front, more than 50,000 of the state's 60,706 deaths in 1954 were attributed to the top ten. This is how the black list looks: (1) heart disease, 22,362; (2) cancer, 10,105; (3) apoplexy, 6,964; (4) accidents, 3,348; (5) diabetes, 1,463; (6) pneumonia and influenza, 1,437; (7) prematurity, 1,298; (8) arteriosclerosis, 1,170; (9) congenital malformations, 1,004; and (10) nephritis and nephrosis, 749.

When compared with 1953 reports, the list has changed only slightly, with diabetes showing into the number five spot, replacing pneumonia and influenza which dropped to sixth; and prematurity moving up as the seventh cause of death, ahead of arteriosclerosis, which now ranks eighth.

Ability to Speak Second Language Highly Valuable

"Let 'em learn English" is an outmoded slogan for any student who wants to capitalize on the booming demand for skilled linguists in all fields of work, according to Associate Prof. Otto G. Graf of the University of Michigan's German Department.

Foreign language study may lead to a career in itself, but as an added skill for the engineer, scientist, lawyer, doctor, school teacher, and others, it is worth even more.

Many industries and businesses have overseas branches, and newspapers, radio, advertising, movies, and books bring American news, ideas and attitudes to all parts of the world.

Needs for language competence in government service are so extensive that even a partial listing points to more than 20 separate opportunities in government for students proficient in another language.

In the teaching profession alone there are openings each year for more than 2,000 trained in foreign languages and "dependent schools", operated by the U. S. Government in foreign countries for children of military and civilian personnel there, offer teachers a chance to go abroad.

Is It Time For A Change?

"Should Lowell be a city?" That is the question that a group of local citizens asked themselves last week and decided to take steps to determine the answer.

Are we one of a small group of towns over 2,000 population that are still struggling along under a charter set-up before the turn of the century. Are we being held back by this limited charter that prevents Lowell from setting up an efficient and responsive form of local government?

This group of citizens who met last week are going about the village asking just those questions. As a citizen of Lowell, why not ask yourself the same questions. If you are not satisfied with the progress of our town, investigate the ways that a home-rule charter would help.

Announcement of an open meeting will be made soon, in the mean time, think over some of the questions that have been raised.

Start Out Good

The fine crowd of Lowell football fans who turned out Friday for the opening game with Ionia saw the local team get off to a flying start with a score in the first few minutes of play. For the Red Arrows that was the end. Ionia dominated play for the rest of the evening and Lowell lost 6-18.

Roger Raymor, Arrow halfback, was our leading ground gainer but he was stopped by a wide-awake Ionia line. Ionia scored on a screen pass in the 2nd quarter, bucked over for the second score in the last minutes of the 3rd quarter, and arm the ball over again in the final period. Lowell made 80 yards on the ground and 4 yards on 11 passes, a total of 5 first downs.

Potential Will Prove Virtue Of Sod Mulch

Scientists at the Michigan State University Experiment Station have great promise when it comes to proving or disproving statements. Take this case:

For many years fruit growers believed that clean cultivation of orchards would bring the best results. But it took 25 years to prove to everyone's satisfaction that the statement was wrong.

Jolly Community club is postponing from 11 to 12 Wednesday (11) next week Wednesday at Hilda Shore's, in respect to Fred Nummer relatives.

Fred Nummer, who has been ill for some time, passed away Saturday afternoon and funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Grand chapel. The family has our sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Murray are caring for the two children, Candy and Sandy, of friends of theirs. The mother has undergone one operation and will undergo another this week. They also called on their friend Mr. Euche at a Grand Rapids hospital, who was injured Tuesday at a factory, and had to have his leg amputated above the knee.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Shea of Ada were Sunday afternoon guests at the Elmer Hale home. Lunch guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kimball of Saranac.

The Albert Stewart family of Muskegon and the Robert Henderson family of Tustin Lakes were Sunday afternoon guests at the Frank Shore's home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dean were Friday guests at the Paul Potter home. Edna Johnson spent Sunday with Mrs. Gertrude Buck in Lowell.

Mrs. G. Deitman spent Friday with Mrs. Mary Potter and Mrs. Ralph Wheaton and Marie Sunday guests at the Ed Potter home.

You think you're a reasonably good driver; that any accident you're in is likely to be the other fellow's fault. But, should an happen, we ought to know what to do.

I've come upon dozens of auto accidents, everything from run-of-the-mill fenders to horrible smash-ups that made me look away. I've never been involved in anything serious, and, of course, I never hope to be.

Nevertheless, I've tried to plan out what I'd do if the time should come. Even though a fractured temper was my greatest personal injury, and some crumpled chrome work and shattered glass the worst damage to my car, I'd still want to do the right things. What appeared to be a minor accident at the moment might have some serious future results, and I might be so excited or nervous—or just plain mad—right after it happened that I couldn't think clearly unless I'd already gone over the important steps of what-to-do beforehand.

After thinking it over, and talking with people who know the answers, here's what I'd try to remember to do, if I were in an accident while driving, and I'd do as many of these things as I could:

I'd stop right away, without blocking traffic; before I did anything else, in a serious accident, I'd try to help anyone who had been injured; I'd make sure that someone called the police (in the city) or the state police or sheriff; Then, I'd get the other driver's name, address, and license number; and I'd be sure to get the name and address of anyone injured, or possibly injured; I'd read up as many witnesses as I could and get their names and addresses; I'd make my own written notes of all the significant circumstances concerning the accident; and I'd be specific.

Also I would try to remain calm and make no comment on the accident. I would make no hasty admissions, and, above all, I would not sign anything at the scene. I would go to my doctor within 24 hours (sooner, if possible) if I suspected any injury whatsoever. Serious and costly injuries don't necessarily result in immediate pain or bleeding.

I'd report the accident, no matter how slight, to my insurance company at once.

These are the major steps that I would try to follow. While I might legally drive away from the scene of a minor accident after identifying myself and getting the other driver's name and address, to be on the safe side I'd wait for the police to come.

Time Now to Lengthen Poultry Laying Day

Smaller number of daylight hours means a shorter working day for the poultry laying flock. Now is the time to begin using electric lights to lengthen the day for the layer, according to J. M. (Mac) Moore, extension poultry specialist at Michigan State University.

Additional light in the laying house is especially valuable for keeping old hens in production when days get shorter. Moore says it's easier to keep them laying for a month or so than to get into a slump because of the shorter days.

Electric lights should be used in the morning or evening to make a total of 13 or 14 hours of light daily on the floor of the laying house. Morning lights don't require a dimming device but evening lights do. The dimming device is necessary so the birds can find their way to the perches.

Moore recommends 25 watts of light per 100 square feet. Light should be well distributed over the entire house, both on the floor and feeding area, as well as the roosts. Use reflectors above the light bulbs, too, so that the ceiling does not absorb too much of the light.

Lights should be used regularly throughout the entire season. If not, the birds may molt and interrupt egg production.

NOTHING IN ITS FIELD CAN MATCH CHEVROLET FOR ACCELERATION!
Great Features back up Chevrolet Performance: Anti-Dive Braking—Ball-Race Steering—Out-rigger Rear Springs—Body by Fisher—12-Volt Electrical System—Nine Engine-Drive Choices.
When you need a quick sprint for safer passing, this V8 delivers!
It's pure dynamite, and you have to go way, way up the price ladder before you ever find its equal.
The proof was burned into the sands of Daytona Beach at the NASCAR trials earlier this year. In acceleration tests, Chevrolet walked away from everything else in its field. Plus all the high-priced cars except one!
It's the big reason Chevrolet's been taking all comers in short track stock car events this season. Sizzling acceleration along with handling ease and cornering ability—things that mean safer, happier highway driving. Come on in and let a new Chevrolet show you what we mean.
NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY! LOW PRICES—BIG DEALS! ENJOY A NEW CHEVROLET

The practical way for parents to lead their children to righteousness is to do that way themselves.

70,000 Young Davy Crocketts Practice in Army-Backed Clubs
Seventy thousand one hundred American teenagers are attempting to recapture—with the aid of the U. S. Army—the marksmanship prestige their ancestors brought to the United States in frontier days.

Organized in 1,381 clubs, these 12 to 18-year-old rifle enthusiasts have the backing of the Army's Office of the Director of Civilian Marksmanship, which carries out the program of another Army agency—the National Rifle Practice for the Promotion of Rifle Proficiency. Both agencies exist through Congressional action.

Voluntarily organized, the teenage rifle clubs break down into three general groupings: junior divisions of senior clubs for youths 12 to 17 years of age, junior clubs with an age-span of 12 to 19, and schools other than those in the reserve training program.

Young persons interested in getting club support for their rifle clubs go about it this way: They must have a minimum of 10 club members and their leader, advisor and instructor must be a responsible adult with skill and experience in rifle marksmanship. In many cases, these are former Army non-commissioned or commissioned officers. Veterans groups often act as sponsors for the groups.

Club leaders then get in touch with the Office of the Director of Civilian Marksmanship, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., detailing the kind of help they would like from the Army.

To be eligible for Army assistance, the club must be affiliated with the National Rifle Association of America, a non-profit, non-governmental federation to promote rifle marksmanship. Moreover, 25 per cent of the eligible members must fire annually for qualification one of the courses prescribed for record firing by members of the active Army or special courses for very young members.

The help given will depend upon the club needs. Some of the clubs might have their own rifles and equipment and need only the use of an Armed Forces rifle range in the area; private rifle-ranges are an expensive item confined to the wealthier groups.

To Help Children With Hearing Loss

More than 160,000 Michigan school children will don headphones this year, but they won't be tuning in on crystal sets—they'll be listening to the carefully measured tones of an audiometer, an instrument designed to evaluate their hearing.

According to the Michigan Department of Health, almost 5,000 of these children will be found to suffer from a hearing loss. Many of them are having difficulty in school and at home because they can't hear or understand most of what is said to them.

"A child with a hearing loss isn't sick," explains a department spokesman, "and he looks like any other child. That's why his condition so often goes unrecognized. But the fact is that he is handicapped just as much as a child in a wheelchair or on crutches. And in one way his plight is even worse since he is often regarded as slow, dull, or even stupid, when actually he just can't understand directions because he can't hear what's being said."

Fortunately, out of every ten children with hearing loss, seven can be helped by prompt treatment. But, the department points out, the first job is to find them. That is the purpose of the hearing conservation programs which will be carried on in 26 counties this year by state and local health departments in cooperation with schools and local civic groups.

The state and local medical societies also cooperate by making hearing clinics possible. All children found to have impaired hearing will be referred to local otologists—hearing specialists—for diagnosis and treatment.

Becomes Bride of Robert H. Faber

Miss Mary Jill McMahon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Byrne McMahon of Lowell, became the bride of Robert H. Faber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Faber of Grand Rapids, Saturday, September 17th, in a beautiful ceremony preceding a nuptial high mass sung in St. Mary's Church, Lowell. Music was supplied by Mrs. Lloyd Ritzema, organist and Victor Reynolds, soloist, cousins of the bride, and the Reverend Father Speer Strahan read the marriage rites. Bouquets of pink and ruby red gladioli adorned the altar where the couple was honored by the presence of Monsignor A. P. Arszulowicz, Chancellor of the diocese of Grand Rapids, Msgr. Arthur Burkowski, president of Aquinas College and the Rev. Father John Hart, Adrian English and Bernard Hart.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of rose point lace over white satin with a round neckline, long pointed sleeves and full net skirt. Her chapel length veil was of the same lace and net. She carried a white prayer book to which her bouquet of stephanotis and ivy, centered by a white orchid, was fastened.

Her only sister, Judith Ann McMahon, as maid-of-honor, was attired in pink crystalette with a headband of matching crystalette and net, and carried a bouquet of ruby-red gladioli buds and ivy.

The bridesmaids, Margaret Bergin of Parnell and Donna Gless of Grand Rapids, wore dresses similar to the honor-maid's in ruby red crystalette with matching headbands and carried pink gladioli buds with ivy.

Richard Doyle of Grand Rapids served the groom as best man, while guests were ushered to their places by Gary West and Dan Pupill of Grand Rapids and Lloyd Ritzema of Lowell.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McMahon chose a black velvet suit-dress with white trim and white accessories and a corsage of pink garnet roses. Mrs. Faber, mother of the groom, wore a blue velvet suit-dress, matching accessories, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

An afternoon reception was held at the Lone Pine Inn with Mr. and Mrs. John Klempon and Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Donohue of Saginaw.

Create Nesting Areas Plant-Killing Chemicals

About 2200 acres of wild public land, scattered in a number of small parcels, were sprayed with plant-killing chemicals this summer to create openings for wildlife.

Most wild animals in Michigan, except for squirrels and other tree-dwellers, are creatures of the forest edge. Wildlife alternates between forest and open land and in general it can be said that such edge areas are preferred for nesting.

So spraying strips of scrubby tree growth in forests opens up such edge areas for wild animals to use.

The Conservation Department used both aerial and ground spray equipment this year and the areas involved were scattered throughout the state.

Included in the northern spraying were four areas totaling 795 acres sprayed for sharp-tailed grouse openings, 420 acres in strips to produce close-to-ground deer browse, and a number of small patches for woodcock openings. In southern Michigan, about 1000 acres of state game areas were aerial and ground sprayed to produce edge areas for small game in general.
