Two Main Problems Mr. Borgerson stated the directors have two main problems under State Bowling Meet study this year, namely, a new seating and ticket pricing system, and the planning of a special feature for the Monday night's show, to attract better sales. Empty seats on the first two nights of Showboat have been a problem in the past, coupled with the necessity of turn-

Lowell Ground Observers Are Honored On Fourth Birthday Wednesday

Pictured above are some of the honored guests present at the Fourth Birthday Party of the Lowell Ground Observer Post, held last Wednesday evening, February 8, at the City Hall. Left to right are: Mrs. Luella Hunn, assistant chief observer, was among the first to volunteer for service on the Lowell GOC Post; Next is Capt. Robert L. Fauthaber, U. S. A. F., commander of the Grand Rapids Filter Center; Art Biggs is another veteran, with over 600 hours of service on the Lowell post; Next is Art Grotenrath, who serves Kent County as a civilian liaison officer, between the Civil defense and Ground Observer Corps organizations. U. A. Hawk, next in line, is 78, and one of the oldest members serving the Lowell GOC. He is a Spanish War Veteran. Next to him is Charles Wood, who, with 500 hours of watch to his credit, also is more appreciatively known as the unofficial repairman and decorator of the post building on the 4H Fair Grounds. Harley York, Frank McMahon and Bill Murphy, the next three in line, are all original volunteers of the post when first organized four years ago, Mr. York and Mr. McMahon have 600 hours of observing to their credit and Mr. Murphy helped build the present post building with L. A. Wood, not pictured. Lowell Police Chief Frank Stephens is pictured next. He is the Post Supervisor for the Lowell GOC, and, with Mrs. Stephens (extreme right) takes care of all calls to the Grand Rapids Filter Center when no observer is on duty at the post building. Mrs. Stephens has over 3,500 hours of service with the Lowell Post. The young man, in the white suit, pictured in front of the group, is Ross Starkweather, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Starkweather, S. Jefferson st. Young Ross has more than 100 hours to his credit at the Lowell Post since he started last Fall to work as an "assistant observer" whenever his three other brothers are on duty.

"Mystery Farm" Owned Just One Year by City Couple

The former "Albert Lewis" farm on Conservation rd. was the "mystery farm" pictured in last week's aerial-photograph series, and was identified first by Bill Roth of Parnell rd. Over 56 years ago the farm was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Lewis, Mr. Lewis' widow and her son, Albert T. Lewis, and wife, made their home here until a year ago, when, after Albert T. Lewis' death, the farm was sold. Present owners of the 125 acre plot are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norwood, who only a year ago moved out to the "country" from Grand Rapids, where he is associated with a real estate firm. The Norwoods haven't settled down to real farming, but are enjoying their new life in the country. They are presently raising some beef cattle, and keep a small garden for their own use. They have three children, Linda, 16 and Lloyd 14, who attend Lowell high school, and another daughter, Leslie 11, who attends Honeycreek school. The "mystery farm" series will be discontinued for two weeks, during the Wittenbach Sales & Service Open House, but the sponsors of this present series will renew it in the March 1 Ledger, so be sure to watch for the adv. and see if you can guess the name of the "mystery farm". Who knows, it may be yours.
