"Valley View" Farm on M-91 Was Pictured Last Week

The "Valley View" farm, located two miles north of Lowell on M-91, was the "mystery farm" pictured in our January 24 edition of the Ledger. Mrs. Paul Kohn of Rtc. 1, Belding, was the first to call Thursday afternoon last week and correctly identify the place. She received a gift subscription to the Ledger. So will the person who calls this coming Thursday, the first one that is who calls after 1 o'clock, correctly identifying the farm pictured above. It may be your neighbor's place-or your own, in which case you will receive a framed copy of the above aerial view. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson have been the owners of last week's mystery farm for over ten years. They purchased it from Joe and Mary Project. They do just general farming, but due to Mr. Johnson's leg injury a few years ago, they have gradually sold small parcels off the farm, put the rest of the farm in melcan and to raising chickens, Mrs. Johnson likes to raise flowers as a hobby. The Johnsons have a daughter, Treasure, (Mrs. Charles Goodwin) of Kankakee, Illinois.

SANCHE LANCE THE SECOND

An old favorite on the school hot lunch menu, Chili and crack-Blue Star Mothers, No. 153 of berg, January 23, at Blodgett hosers, with Cherry Cobbler and milk, will be served Monday, Feb. 4, to start out the week.

On Tuesday, a hot pork sandwich, buttered carrots, jello and milk are planned. Wednesday is scalloped meat and potatoes, bread and butter, carrot sticks and cookies. Don't serve the family spa ghetti and meat balls Thursday night mom, not if they plan to eat at the school that day for lunch. Pickles will finish the Carl Heim of Route 2, entered lunch, with blueberry muffins for Friday they will serve grilled and jello.
