Let's Help Stop These Grass Fires

Several grass fires in this area have been caused because of carelessness with burning trash. Local police say that if these fires are not watched until the flames are put out it is a violation of the law.

If you burn trash, these precautions are suggested:

1. Never light an outdoor fire on a windy day.
2. Set out, and attach, your garden hose. Keep it in readiness until the fire is completely out.
3. Burn trash in a wire mesh basket or a metal container with a cover slightly ajar to prevent embers from scattering. Set it well away from building, fence, tall grass.
4. Keep children away.
5. Stay with your fire until it is out and the ashes are cool enough to touch.

Using a blow-torch to remove paint is a dangerous practice, and there is danger, too, in the use indoors and handling of paint removers, containing volatile, flammable liquids or solvents.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests removing old paint by safer methods, such as scraping, sanding, wire brushing, or using noncombustible paint remover of a type listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

Forty-eight years ago at a summer camp for girls in Maine, Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsey Gulick, founded the organization to be known as the Camp Fire Girls. Later, the Blue Bird program for younger girls was added. This week, as Camp Fire celebrates its birthday, the National Council is still actively seeking to make available to all girls an educational-recreational program which shall encourage in every girl a variety of desirable womanly qualities and a vital interest in the world around her.

A spirit of fun and adventure pervades the Camp Fire program, which is arranged in seven divisions, called the Seven Crafts: Home, Creative Arts, Outdoors, Frontiers (of physical science), Business, Sports and Games, and Citizenship. Each accomplishment in these fields brings rewards in the form of honor beads, as the Camp Fire Girls fill the requirements of the four ranks: Trail Seeker, Wood Gatherer, Fire Maker, and Torch Bearer. These honor beads are used to decorate the girl's ceremonial jacket or gown, which thus tells the colorful story of her years in Camp Fire. Indian symbols and names are frequently used, as a part of our American past.

The insignia of Camp Fire, the crossed-logs-and-flame, symbolizes the hearth fire of the home and the campfire of the outdoors. The watchword, Wohelo, is coined from the first two letters of the words work, health, and love. A Camp Fire Girl is guided by the Law: Worship God, Seek Beauty, Give Service, Pursue Knowledge, Be Trustworthy, Hold on to Health, Glorify Work, Be Happy.

Tired Out? Then Try Some Exercise

You're all worn out from the holidays? You think a good rest is what you need? Stop. Don't flop on that couch. Get out and take a brisk walk around the block.

Sound Crazy? It's not. More and more doctors are prescribing exercise for fatigue. For a long time they used to treat fatigue by having the patient cut out some activity, no matter how little he was doing. If he did nothing more than sit in a rocking chair all day, the doctor told him to stop rocking and lie down.

That's all changed today. Doctors have found that fatigue as often as not is caused by lack of activity. They call it "atrophy of disuse." Young people usually avoid this condition and keep in good shape by taking part in sports. But as we grow older we tend to give up more and more physical activity. So we suffer from fatigue which makes us think we should give up more activity. Caught in this vicious circle, we can become worn out before our time.

We can blame part of the trouble on labor saving devices our ancestors didn't have. The electric golf-mobility, for example, may be fine for heart cases and similar problems, making it possible for the semi-invalid to get some exercise. But for the average man it can destroy most of the health-giving value of his day on the golf course. He'll feel less tired if he does eighteen holes on his own two feet.

So if you feel exhausted after a hard day sitting behind a desk or loading your automatic washer, exercise may be the prescription for you. But remember, it should be fun, not drudgery.

When you carry packages, don't always carry them on the same side, suggests Coral Morris, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University. Spine and shoulder strain may result if you do. It's best if you carry things directly in front of yourself.

Winter Fish Catch Higher Than Summer

Ice fishermen heard encouraging news this week from Paul H. Echemeyer, assistant director of the Institute for Fisheries Research at the University of Michigan.

According to Echemeyer, a current research project shows that the winter catch from at least one Michigan lake is far superior to the harvest during the longer summer season.

Subject of the study and the findings in Houghton Lake where an estimated 70,000 ice fishermen took 250,000 fish during the three winter months last year. In those same waters, 126,000 summertime anglers only caught 174,000 fish from June through September.

The research was conducted by Kenneth E. Christensen, assistant biologist at the Institute. While Christensen feels the greater winter catch is "unusual for the state as a whole," he conducted a similar study at Craig Lake near Coldwater several years ago.

Small Towns Could Improve Aid for Aged

Employment and income problems are especially acute for elderly residents of small communities, a University of Michigan expert on aging believes.

Wilma T. Donahue, director of the U-M Division of Gerontology, says:

"A larger proportion of people living in rural areas and small communities requires old age assistance than is true in cities. This probably reflects lower lifetime with the lack of retirement and pension plans covering farm and small town residents.

"So far as employment is concerned, census data show only about one out of every four men living in small communities is employed. This compares with about one in two men living on farms or in cities.

"Those seeking employment are also somewhat more frequent in the small community than either farm or city.

"This suggests that men desiring to work or to continue working at an older age may find it difficult to do so in small communities."

She suggests there are several ways in which their lives may be enriched. One of these is that communities or rural organizations may establish special committees on aging. Among the functions which they could perform are:

1. Establishing a visiting program for older residents who live alone or have their home in an isolated area.
2. Developing a food service to insure that elderly residents receive at least one hot meal a day.
3. Providing a daily telephone service to talk with those over 65 who live alone, making sure they are in good health and spirits.
4. Helping integrate older people in community life through joint enterprises, such as relief sewing.

Child's Work Habits Come From Parents

What better place is there for children to learn good work habits than at home, asks Coral Morris, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University?

Children learn first from their parents and each other. Your children are good observers of your ways of doing things, so your own good work habits are a help in teaching them.

The method you use to teach them good work habits and family co-operation is important, too. Let your children know they have an important place in your family and can make worthwhile contributions to your family's welfare and happiness. Your children need to know why things should be done or why some ways are better than others.

When teaching children to help, be sure they know exactly what is to be done. Explain how to do the job one step at a time so they understand what you want them to do, adds Miss Morris.

If your children are learning a new task, work with them and give help when they need it. When they have mastered the procedure, watch them work at it alone, making occasional suggestions if necessary, suggests Miss Morris.

After children have learned their work methods thoroughly, let them work without direct supervision. This way they build confidence in their own abilities.

Above all, reminds, Miss Morris, remember to encourage and praise your children for work well done.

TB Society Reports Positive Reactions

"Nineteen people in Ada and 18 in Cascade who recently had chest x-rays in the Christmas Seal X-ray bus of the Kent County Tuberculosis Society had positive reactions. This was shown by a spot which became raised and red and indicates the presence of living TB germs in the body," according to Blanche H. deKoning, Executive Secretary of the tuberculosis society.

"All of these people have received a personal report and literature about the prevention of TB. When we know that tuberculosis does not respect color, race or age, we realize that it is important to find these infected people. Education about good, nourishing food, plenty of rest and the need for annual chest x-rays are the best vaccination we have against this tricky, infectious and costly disease."

In the report recently released, 10,424 people were skin tested, 3,720 had positive reactions and 9,354 had 4x5 chest x-rays. Nine active cases, found among apparently well people, were admitted to sanatoriums; one was hospitalized for a non-tuberculous illness and one had chest surgery for a tumor. The report covered a four months period.

WEED-KILLING "BLANKET" IN ACTION!

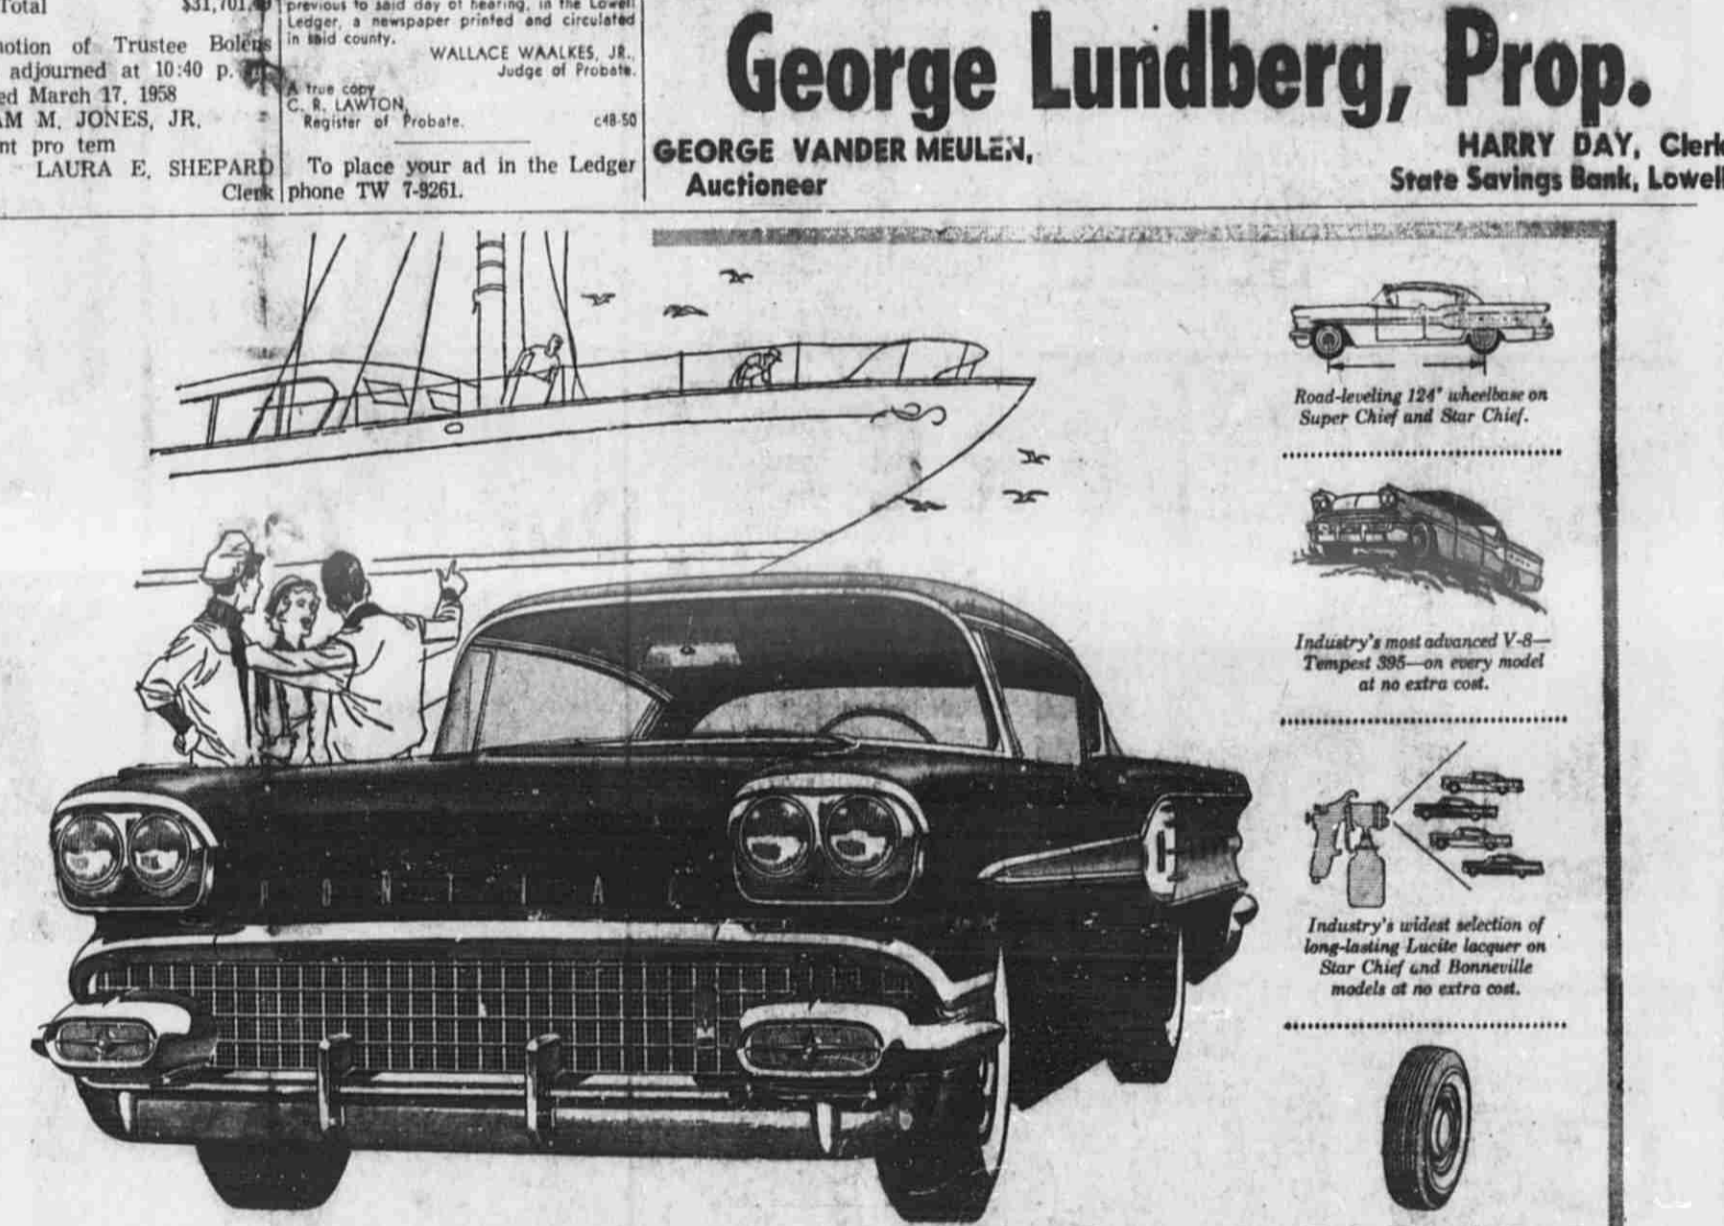

All weeds planted same time. Only difference: celery at left was hand sprayed once with Vegadex at planting. Results like this, last year, saved commercial growers from $20 to $50 an acre on hand-weeding costs.

THIS NEW WEED-KILLING "BLANKET" CAN SAVE YOU $20 TO $90 PER ACRE IN VEGETABLE CROPS

It's Vegadex and it kills weeds for you in a new way. You spray it only once—at planting time. Vegadex forms an invisible chemical blanket over your soil that smotheres weeds.

Speaks Out For Sunday Closing Bill

Bishop Marshall R. Reed, newly elected President of the Michigan Council of Churches, makes the following statement, in behalf of the Sunday closing bill, through the "Michigan Christian Advocate," the voice of Methodism in Michigan.

A few days ago Bishop Reed appeared before a legislative committee at the Capitol in Lansing to speak in behalf of the proposed bill for the closing of certain types of business in Michigan on Sunday. He was as the Bishop of a thousand Methodist churches and the President of the Michigan Council of Churches with 17 cooperating denominations. In the few minutes allotted to him, he tried to emphasize that reverence is an important human trait without which no person or society can be great and that Sunday is the day of the week that helps to sustain the spirit of reverence. "If Sunday becomes the same as any other day, something important will go out of our life," he said.

"I was followed by Father Slowie who represented the Bishop of the Roman Catholic Church and presented the statement of his church which substantially is the belief that Sunday is a part of the Divine Order for the world and that he favored the Sunday closing bill," the Bishop continued.

"We were followed by eight other representative citizens representing agricultural, industrial, labor, and commercial associations, and all of whom supported the bill. We were told that more than ten thousand pieces of mail supporting the Sunday closing legislation had been received by members of the legislature."

Immediately following this hearing, the committee went into an executive session and took a silent vote by which no member was required to express himself publicly and is free to tell his constituents anything he wishes about his stand. The chairman announced officially that by a majority vote the committee had killed the bill by refusing to bring it out to the legislature. Information appears to have leaked out that the vote was seven to two for this action.

What ought we to do? The closing Sunday bill was sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches. The Roman Catholic Church cooperated by sending a representative to the hearing to state the position of his church on the recognition of Sunday and to support the request that the bill be taken to the legislature. That church is conducting a vigorous crusade to persuade its people not to shop on Sunday. "It would be well," he said, "for us to cooperate with them in a similar effort to urge our people not to shop on Sunday. This would add weight to the total Christian witness to the sacredness of Sunday. It would also clear the Methodist conscience in observing God's law."

Why is it the ignorant talk and the intelligent so often remain silent.

Running a church is a demanding job and those who do it have no easy days.

U. S. Stamps Available in Revised Edition

George Hale, the local postmaster, has been notified that a revised edition of the official publication entitled "Postage Stamps of the United States" is now available from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D. C. The new edition contains descriptions of all United States postage stamps from the date of their introduction in 1847 to December 31, 1957, the plate numbers and quantities printed on commemorative and airmail stamps with a complete index.

Lowell Listed in Suburban Directory

Metropolitan Grand Rapids has outgrown its city directory "pans." The population increase has now reached the stage where it has been decided that two directories are needed—one for the city proper and one for the suburbs. Lowell and 15 other towns are included in the new guide.

Yellow pages: alphabetical list of residents and firms; and direct-ory of householders.

The yellow pages catalog 490 different kinds, or varieties, of enterprises from "Accountants" to "Zines." In "age," the classifications run the gamut from "All Lines" to "Blacksmiths," "Dry Goods" to "Dairy Bars," "Phone Graphs" to "Television." There is a special manufacturers' section along with this.

Special features of the alphabetical list of names are the listing of the names of wives and the designation of the heads of households.

The householders, or green, section, in addition to showing locations of streets and who lives at does business at each house number, denotes the houses that are owned by the occupants thereof, and the houses that are rented. It also shows the telephone numbers at each house.

As a part of the local directory service, R. L. Polk & Co. are sending copies of the new Grand Rapids Suburban Directory to public-reference Directory Libraries located at Chambers of Commerce throughout the Midwest and to many of the largest cities farther away, the company announced.

This not only will serve information purposes, but will help to focus the notice of outsiders upon this area, it was pointed out. A branch of the out-of-town directory service is maintained by the publishers for general public reference at the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce offices.

Why is it the ignorant talk and the intelligent so often remain silent.

Now's The Time to Check Sewage Systems

With the coming of spring and the melting of the snow, turning to normal from winter's freeze, there are some things we should check, according to Mr. Stockton, City-County Director of Sanitation.

This time of year offers a fine opportunity to those whose sewage systems are maintained by septic tanks. Septic tanks must be cleaned occasionally, explaining Mr. Stockton. The recommended time for cleaning is once in 3 years. Occasionally new tanks do not start functioning properly and may require checking sooner.

All systems will plug up in time. The time is dependent upon the manner in which the family uses the sewage system. The more solids, such as coffee grounds and garbage that is put into the system, the sooner the septic tanks must be cleaned out.

The solids from the sewage accumulate at an average rate of eleven gallons per person per year, Mr. Stockton explained. If septic tanks are not cleaned, the solids will pass into the tile field or drainage system and plug it up. If the solids are removed in time, you will prevent the costly rebuilding of the tile field or drainage system.

All septic tank cleaners in the county must be licensed and bonded by the Michigan Department of Health and display a decal from this department. Mr. Stockton advises for you to be sure that your septic tank cleaner is so licensed. A licensed cleaner will advise, after an examination of your septic tank, whether it should be cleaned or continue operating as it is for a while longer. A list of septic tank cleaners is available from the Kent County Health Department upon request.

Plan New Post Office For Ada

Ada Valley Grange is participating in a community service project to promote a new Post Office for Ada and the remodeling and modernizing of the present Massie Building, now housing the present post office.

Chairman of this committee, Knapp Lambear, also Master of the Grange, has corresponded with Congressman Gerald R. Ford of this district as to the procedure required. This information has been submitted to the following interested persons: Masonic Lodge of Ada, Walter VanderWuy and Dick DeVries. Recommendations have been forwarded to the Post Office Department in Chicago.

Anyone else interested in promoting the progress of Ada Township, at present concentrating on the Post Office, contact Miss Nellie VanDePeere, Secretary of the Ada Grange.

Every individual owes society more than can be repaid in one lifetime.

Department upon request.

Mr. Stockton concludes advising that if you have any doubt about your septic tank or your sewage system, call the Kent County Health Department for advice. If you are planning to put in a new system or an addition to the current one, it must be in compliance with the Kent County Sanitary Code. The Health Department can help you with this problem also.

TV News

SECRET OF SUCCESS

James Arness, star of TV's top Westerns "Gunsmoke," explains why Westerns are so popular. "A cowboy wasn't tied down to one place or to one woman. When he got mad he hauled off and slugged someone. When he drank he got good and drunk. Today people don't have enough gunpowder to live the way they want to. They've grown away from their basic instincts. They're overcivilized. That's why they tune in on Western shows, to escape from conformity."

SURPRISE FANS

Patricia Munsel, Metropolitan Opera and TV star, features both operatic and popular songs in her repertoire. "Though she's known for her operatic work, she's also a fan of her own music. She's found that her fans also want to hear her arias. Patricia tells that she discovered during a Las Vegas appearance that the toughest characters in town were crazy about her arias. "One night two prize fighters came up to me. They asked for my picture—they said they wanted to hang it in their gym."

NO POTATOES PLEASE

Lassie, canine star of TV, currently earns $100,000 a year, but still gets only one meal a day. The meal consists of a healthful variety of beef liver, ground round steak, cottage cheese, and stew. When a reporter assumed that this meant left-over stew, Lassie's owner, Rudd Weatherwax, exploded: "Left-over? He gets it before we do, before the seasoning is added and with potatoes taken out. Loves it!"

M.S.U. Groups Arrange Planning Meetings

District meetings on program planning have been arranged in March for the Michigan State Home Demonstration Groups. Miss Eleanor Denmore, County Agent, will lead the all-day sessions to be held Tuesday, March 18 at Alpine church (4 mile road), we do, before the seasonings is added and with potatoes taken out. Loves it!"

SOME FUN

Pro hockey players by tradition do not expect to receive warm welcomes from out-of-town fans. New York Rangers' star, Lou Fontana, said he was surprised at the receiving end of many surprises. "One night in Chicago, some drunk got so mad he threw a brand-new pair of shoes at me. Well, I skated over them, cut them to ribbons, and threw them right back. Ho, ho!"

TV BRIEFS

Bonnie Prudden, physical fitness expert: "The best time for establishing an exercise routine is while you're watching television. The secret is to turn each station break into a 'fitness break'."

Hazel Court, the Duchess of "Dick and the Duchess," on her first visit to New York: "You know, in London one tells a man's success by his car. Here, it looks as though everyone owns the Empire State Building."

Fred Coe, pioneer TV producer: "TV was basically invented to remain live. The only way it can even cautiously call itself an art form is to be live."

Rudd Weatherwax, owner and trainer of TV's Lassie, speaking of his 160-acre ranch: "Lassie bought it. Let's face it Lassie buys everything."

Mark Twain Poked Fun at 'M' Roads

Humorist Mark Twain poked fun at Michigan's plank roads back in the 1840's—and apparently with some justification, according to material in The University of Michigan Historical Collections. It seems he made a stage trip over one of these roads to give a lecture in Grand Rapids. When asked how he liked the trip he replied, "The road wouldn't have been so bad if some scoundrel had not now and then dropped a plank across it."

The anecdote and an account of the condition of the plank roads are contained in a transportation article by the late Roger L. Morrison, formerly a member of the U-M faculty.

According to Morrison, "Some of these plank roads were well maintained but others became very bad when the planks rotted away, leaving many holes."

After Michigan became a state in 1837, there was no more road building by the Federal government. Roads already built soon became very bad from lack of proper maintenance.

"Many private toll road companies came into being. These were known as plank road companies. The predecessor of the plank road was the corduroy road, many miles of which were built in the swampy areas of the state."

Some of the plank roads were in good condition in 1900 but in the condition of many the end of the plank road already was plainly forecast.
