Schools Should Foster Growth Of Individual
Schools should cultivate individual differences in children, says William C. Olson, dean of the University of Michigan School of Education.

Unfortunately, he says, differences among children have sometimes been looked on as a nuisance in educational programs since they prevent uniformity in classification, curriculum, methods and results.

Mr. Olson points out, "Consistent differences between the sexes are regularly found in many school achievements. The difference in reading age, for example, is about six months or one-half grade in favor of the girls at each age in the growing period. This makes a sufficient difference to load classes and remedial classes with four or five times as many boys as girls."

Dean Olson says that the schools should be made into laboratories where we have treated uniform groups of children by simply identifying groups of gifted and retarded children. The difference in children within each group will still remain striking.

He points out that communities differ greatly in the values they place upon education, what they seek and what they will do to attain it. In some communities, the emphasis is on the material and the physical, while in others it is on the intellectual and the spiritual.

Modern education, with its emphasis on democracy, has caused a gradual shift in the attitudes toward individual differences in children. "From an atmosphere of suppression, we progressed to one of toleration, and finally to one of cultivation of these differences."

"This makes for a broader curriculum," says the dean, "Education becomes a nourishing rather than a punishing process, with the accent on developing each child to the level of his ability."

Letting children take part in planning becomes more needed. Mechanical assignments give way to allowing children to seek, select, and create their own solutions.

"Children should occupy various roles in a group, have interests which differ, and try to find a place in a society which is healthy just because individuals fit into its varied needs," he concludes.

State Protects Lone Elk Herd
Michigan's original elk disappeared from the state about 1870, according to William H. Burt, curator of mammals at the University of Michigan.

Excess Shrubs Common Error in Landscape
Overplanting is the most common error made by amateur landscapers, believes Joseph T. Cox, extension specialist in landscape architecture at Michigan State University.

A natural impatience to fill empty spots quickly—before proper plants have had a chance to mature—may cause people to plant too much and choose materials that grow too fast.

Cox points out that a foundation planting can either add or detract from the value of a house. To help owners of new homes that need to be landscaped and for those who want to redesign their landscape plan, Cox offers the following general guide.

Draw two lines, beginning at the middle of the front doorstep. Run them in each front corner of the house ending at a height half way between the eaves and the ground. Foundation plants, when they are full grown, should fall within these lines.

If the door is in the center of the house, the lines may be symmetrical. If the door is to the side, one line will rise more steeply to the corner, indicating that taller plants on that side will help to achieve better balance.

Cox says that although there seems to be a preference for evergreens these days, the twig coloring and winter effects of many deciduous shrubs are equally interesting. But if evergreens are used, plant species such as yew, juniper, and holly. These plants offer varieties that will grow only to the height you desire.

Avoid full-sized trees such as hemlocks and pines. Except for small flowering species such as dogwood and flowering crab which may produce a pleasant effect at the corner of a house, trees have to grow together in foundation plantings.

In general, with modern houses, foundation plants should be low and spreading. Low plants are especially desirable at doorways and under windows, unless the house has a high foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson enjoyed a fish supper with their daughter and son-in-law, Fred, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. MacPhee, the man who brought the TV to the farm of Smith Kysor where he is employed at Smith's poultry processing plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kysor and family who have had their trailer at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kysor, have moved it to the farm of Smith Kysor where he is employed at Smith's poultry processing plant.

Power Boats Don't Bother Fish, Biting
If you're one of those fishermen (and who isn't) who curses loudly and swears when a boat passes nearby, Prof. Karl Lager of the University of Michigan has news for you.

Professor Lager, chairman of the U-M Department of Fisheries, writes in Popular Mechanics magazine that both his scientific research and personal experience has convinced him that: 1) Motorboats seldom harm fish—large, small, or even eggs; 2) Motorboats, seldom, if ever, keep fish from spawning; 3) Motor noise does not appear to disturb fish.

Are fish often injured by power-driven boats? Rarely, says Lager, mainly because of the unusual ability to avoid collision with other objects. Observation of fish traveling in schools illustrates this point.

When the water is physically affected by motorboats, there is little proof of it, Lager says. For instance, he has seen channels loaded with boat traffic. If the boats harmed the fish, then the shores would be littered with dead fish most of the time, he theorizes. Such is not the case, however.

His amazing total of accident-free miles amounts to an average more than 5,000 a month during the 27 years he has driven a truck for the Geo. F. Alger Company, large Detroit truck concern.

Like the 11 other truck drivers who were finalists with him in the annual competition (and the drivers of the thousands of trucks which keep Michigan's farms and factories and shops and farms supplied with the things they need), West makes a professional career of safe driving.

Congratulations, Harold West! Keep up the good work—and may your example be an inspiration to Michigan's vast motoring public!

Celebrate 95th Anniversary

The oldest Mutual Insurance Company in Kent County is celebrating its 95th anniversary. The insurance company is the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Kent Co., known through the area as the "Old Kent". The company was formed April 20, 1863 in Grand Rapids as its headquarters, with the following men as directors and officers:

Zabin Williams, Jr., Rudolphus G. Chaffee, Moses O. Swarthout, William H. Hines, Jacob S. Schoen, James Naymyth, Samuel Beach, Edward Pettit, Thomas J. Hastings, Alanson Crump, Edwin N. Chaffee, Adam VanDusen, John L. Clements, Daniel Perkins, Rex Robinson, Orin Kellogg and Byard Barkley.

Some of the others who have been associated with the company through the years are: Samuel Langdon, C. H. Richardson, Aaron Brewer, Edmund Manly, M. B. Nicholson, L. G. Livingston, Orson Bradford, Earle Brewer, John H. Wakeley, Henry Green, William C. McLaughlin, A. J. Brown, Wm. H. Adams, Nelson Kelley, Frank W. Peterson, R. H. Brownard and Irving Pennington.

The company through the years has had a very successful experience in covering the insurance requirements of the farmers in the community, in a time when it was the only available insurance and at a cooperative cost. They have always maintained a record of paying claims promptly and satisfactorily. The cost of the insurance has always been among the lowest. At present the company has at risk $15,282,723. The charter has been rewritten and the by-laws changed with the changing conditions, and at present the company writes insurance in the counties: Kent, Montcalm, Newaygo, Muskegon, Ionia, Ottawa, Alcona and Barry.

Present officers and directors are: James E. Hanna, Harry T. Emsnos, E. Harry Norris, Richard Bowler, Adelbert Odell, Wm. A. Peterson, Glenn Hunsberger, Roland Depew, John B. Heffron and Hazel M. Pennington.

A one-track mind is not a real handicap if you are sure you are on the right track.

Change Kent County Library Headquarters

The new location provides approximately twice as much space as the Godfrey avenue building offered, Miss Thomas said. She added that during the past decade the circulation and membership of the county library has doubled while its quarters have remained the same. This has greatly hampered efficient operations she said.

An open house is slated for April 30 from 7 to 9 p. m. at the new headquarters. The Wyoming township branch library will remain at its present location.

Mrs. Blanche Ward, who collected McCabe road in Ada, is among the first, if not the very first, in Kent County to finish her collection. She was finished last week.

Mrs. Elliot Weathers and three children—Robert, F. Susan, 8 and Jimmy, 9, of Scarsdale, New York, spent the last week with Mr. and Mrs. Niel Weathers on Dogwood drive.

TV News

Gale Storm, vivacious comedy star of "On! Susanna," maintains a pace, both on camera and off, that wears out script writers, producers, and press agents. TV Guide magazine, celebrating its 5th anniversary on April 5, picked Gale to be their cover personality during its anniversary week. They felt Gale typified the bouce and zest of America's TV magazine. But it wasn't until the cover and story were all set that a researcher for the magazine happily discovered that Miss Storm was born on April 5. She slips away from the year.

Whistle While You Work: The rash of TV Westerns this season makes for some very interesting scheduling by the studios. It was reported that a ranch will often rent its street to two shows on the same day. They work just out of one another's camera range, and control the sound problem with whistle signals. Said a Have Gun, Will Travel staffer: "When we whistle, the Wyatt Earp people pipe down, and vice versa. Works out nicely."

TV Briefs: Benny Goodman, the King of Swing: "There's not enough musical content in rock 'n roll for me."

Hollywood film technicians are out of date. You can't get a decent sustained performance out of a person when you shoot him in 11:1 segments—not even in sequence.
