

Lowell Schools Close Next Week

Lowell Schools will close next week Monday and Tuesday, October 27 and 28, to permit our teachers to join hundreds of other teachers from this district for the fall MEA Inservice Conference in Grand Rapids.

The plan for this year's conference is somewhat different in that while elementary teachers are in general session, secondary educators will be participating in special interest group meetings.

Keynote speaker at the morning and afternoon sessions to be held Monday, October 27, at Civic Auditorium will be Benjamin Fine, dean of the graduate school of education, Yeshiva University, New York City. His subject will be "Crisis in American Education." Charlotte Richards, president of the MEA, will speak on "Fifty Thousand Plus."

The invocation will be offered by Reverend Maurice Marcus, Central Reformed Church, Grand Rapids, and the welcome is to be extended by Stanley Davis, mayor of Grand Rapids. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Muskegon High School Band, William Stewart, director.

Special interest group chairman in one of Tuesday afternoon's sessions will be Lowell librarian, Mrs. Aletha Martin.

Shift Arrows To Try for Second Win

Still stinging from a 40-13 rebuke dished out by the Godwin Wolverines, the Arrows move out of the conference to play at Kelloggsville this Friday, October 24. This is the first meeting in several years of the two clubs on the gridiron. Game time is 7:30.

Arrow coach Chuck Pierce has made a few defensive changes for the Kelloggsville encounter. Jim Williams has been moved to end, and Frank Poial switches to a guard position on defense. Truman Stahl moves in as a tackle in an attempt to stop off-tackle slants by the Arrows' opponents.

Godwin, still smarting from their loss to Rockford the previous week, turned all their vengeance on the Arrows, Friday, 40-13. The Lowell boys started off well by taking the opening kickoff 64 yards in eleven plays. The big play was a 30-yard pass from Fred Wissman to Steve DeVries on the three-yard line. Steve Fritz plowed over for the score. A pass for the point failed.

The Arrows' final score came in the second period. Ken Spooner ran 5 yards on a pitchout to score. Chuck Ryder tallied the extra point.

Lowell 6 7 0 0-13
Godwin 13 14 6 7-40
Thursday afternoon the Arrow seconds, coached by Ken Williams, won their first game in two years, downing the Godwin reserves 24-18. Jerry Boone caught two 50-yard passes from Don Dilly to highlight the game.

BUCK SHOT

by Norman Getschall

White-tailed deer are king of all game—here are some facts we know about them that might help some archers. The white-tailed deer has a great advantage in that their head is composed almost entirely of ears, eyes, and nose—and do you use them! Their ears are very long and these gather in sound like a radio antenna. They do, however, like crunchy food and periodically their hearing is not so sharp, but don't you dare breathe when their "antennas" are up. Their sense of smell is second to none and when they are traveling "up wind" they are difficult animals to get close to (they don't always do this). They have the disadvantage of being completely color blind, but they can see shades, so don't wear white this time of the year. Yes, we even think it is a good idea to wear this ridiculous face paint. Though color blind, he can detect the faintest motion.

Deer differ in intelligence as do people. They are curious only when they are not afraid. Most of the things they meet in the woods can be scared away with a stomp or a long sweeping movement of the head—he may try this technique on you.

He feeds at night considerably more when the moon is bright and consequently less in the day. Although he eats rye and grass in the spring and the fall, he is essentially a browser.

If you follow the above suggestions, I am sure the first deer which you encounter will "run like heck," but at least figuring out why will give you much more enjoyment out of hunting.

We were watching a woman who was waxing a floor. She slipped and fell. She said the fall did not bother her much, but it put her behind in her work.

BARB COURT SERVES ON HOME COMING COMMITTEE

Rev. Norman Woon, Retired Minister Named Pastor Emeritus of Church

The Board of Trustees and the Board of Deacons of the First Congregational Church of Lowell are happy to announce that Reverend Norman Woon has been named Pastor Emeritus.

Reverend Woon was born in Seagrave, Ontario, Canada, in 1887, and graduated from Port Perry High School, Ontario, in 1905, and Port Perry County Normal School in 1906. It was the custom in Ontario, at that time, that prospective theological students do pastoral work for two years before entering college, therefore Reverend Woon became a full-time pastor at the age of 22, serving a three-point circuit in Norand, Ontario, and the city Mission in Oshawa, Ontario. He received his B. A. degree in 1915 from Toronto University, and his B. D. degree from Victoria University in Toronto in 1917.

Reverend Woon came to Michigan in 1925 to the Church at Kinderhook. He served the churches in Hudson, Armada, and Calumet before coming to Lowell in 1941. Shortly after his arrival a Sunday afternoon reception-tee was given for him on December 7, 1941, at the home of the late Mrs. Gurney Peckham. During the reception, word came of the bombing of Pearl Harbor by the Japanese.

During his sixteen years of service to the Lowell church, many improvements have been made. Shortly after he became minister a new forced-air heating system was installed. In 1952 the sanctuary was completely carpeted and new chandeliers were purchased. Extensive repairs to the ceiling and roof supports of the sanctuary were necessary in 1957 and due to the successful completion of this project a decision was made to excavate beneath the church adding eight new Sunday School classrooms. Reverend Woon and his son Delbert built the garage adjoining the parsonage on Hudson Street in 1957, and he also insulated the church himself.

On May 11, 1957, the church celebrated its 100th year. Reverend Woon conducted the centennial service, assisted by four former ministers, Reverends Robert Barksdale, Samuel Wenger, Edgar Cochran, Andrew Lemke, and also State Supervisor, Dr. Harold Skidmore. Reverend Woon has built a home north of Lowell at 775 Nash Ave., S. E., where he and Mrs. Woon now live.

Reverend Woon will be received as Pastor Emeritus on Sunday, October 26, at 11. His many friends are invited to greet him at the social hour in his honor immediately following the morning service.

Reformation Sunday At Congregational Church

Sunday October 26, Protestant churches throughout the world celebrate Reformation Sunday. This is a day dedicated to the freedom of religious thought as seen particularly through the person of Martin Luther. It is this same freedom that all Protestant churches now base their very existence on. Without this freedom of thinking there would be no Protestant church, or no system of government as we know it in the United States.

First Congregational Church of Lowell will have a special Reformation Day service this Sunday at 11 a. m. Rev. Woon and Rev. Debbink will participate. There will also be special music which comes to us from the pen of Martin Luther.

Speaks Here On Alcohol Education

Robert L. Hammond, the Director of Alcohol Education of the Michigan Temperance Foundation, will speak at the Lowell and Vergennes Methodist Churches on Sunday morning, October 26, and at the Lowell Church of the Nazarene church on Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m.

A graduate of Michigan State University with a Master's Degree in the field of speech, Mr. Hammond has twice attended the National Training School of the National Temperance League.

Stressing the necessity of a scientific and factual approach to the problem of alcoholism, Mr. Hammond maintains that such an approach must of necessity deal with the preventative phase of alcoholism as well as the rehabilitative phase. In his opinion, "Our problem is similar to the road that dangerously winds around a steep mountain. It is more important to build a fence at the dangerous cliff than it is to maintain an ambulance service at the bottom. Any successful alcohol education program must do both. This means that the youth of today need to be shown that total abstinence from all alcoholic beverages is scientifically, economically, socially, morally and spiritually 'the smartest and best way of life.'"

Mr. Hammond believes that "the root of the problem lies in the pressure of the liquor industry which seeks to enlist youth in the drinking cult. Because of high pressure and false advertising instituted by the liquor industry, many youths have failed to make the proper adjustments to wholesome living."

Mr. Hammond's speaking schedule Sunday is: Lowell Methodist Church at 9 and at 11; Vergennes Methodist Church at 10; and Lowell Church of the Nazarene at 7:30.

Bagwell States Positive Program Here Thursday

Paul Bagwell, Republican candidate for governor, who is running against Williams, who is completing his tenth year in office, made a brief but positive statement when he visited Lowell last Thursday morning. If elected he would immediately initiate the following program, he stated:

It would be impossible to offer anything but a skeleton program," the 44-year-old state Republican chief said. "I have been campaigning for governor since April 12, when I first announced it. In all this time I have amassed an amazing list of improvements I should like to make in the administration of our state.

"I'm afraid such a roster would be far too long for editorial use. But, I can offer some basic ideas I believe should become a part of our administrative duties."

Bagwell, who has been sweeping the state in these closing days of the election campaign and has visited every county in Michigan, now is concentrating his time in the populous areas of the state with occasional tours outstate for special events.

"First, he says a new administration is essential to remove the psychological block to new business development and new jobs in Michigan. The issue of Michigan's economic development could be and should be settled outside the political arena for the best interests of all our people. But it can't be and won't be until there is a change of attitude on the part of our present state administration—and this obviously means a new administration."

"Second, I would remove the political shackles from the Economic Development Department and tell it to do its job free of the negative political attitudes which have hampered its activities. And the first thing I would ask of this department is a complete study of the industrial situation of Michigan. I would want to know how many industries and plants Michigan has, how many of them are new, how many came from other states, how many have left—and why? I should like to know of the mergers. I should like a complete picture of the factory job situation in Michigan. Our present governor in the 10 long years he's been in office has never been interested enough to ask for this information."

"Third, having surveyed the situation, I would give every consideration to the creation of an industrial development authority patterned after that of Pennsylvania. In that state 111 new factories were built in 1957, 88 idle plants were reopened and 29,033 new factory jobs created."

"Fourth, I would create a state-wide industrial progress committee that would pool the resources of the local chambers of commerce, local units of government, labor and industry in a constructive program for economic development."

"Fifth, I personally would call upon the heads of some of the nation's fastest growing industries to sell them on the advantages of locating in Michigan. I would ask labor, industrial, agricultural, civic religious leaders to accompany me so that the nation would know that a United Michigan means business."

"Sixth, I would throw the weight of the Governor's office behind a revision of the tax structure to provide equity for all taxpayers, adequacy to meet public needs, stability for the future, and an integrated plan with local units of government to end the crisis-to-crisis financing of our school system and other governmental agencies."

"Seventh, I would bring financial responsibility to a state government which has had an operating deficit in six of the last ten years while 27 changes were made in the tax laws."

"Eighth, I would propose a constructive state labor relations act which would safeguard the rights of union members and protect them from abuses by a few corrupt labor bosses. I would require that complete union financial records be filed with the Labor Department as public documents."

"Ninth, I would reorganize the state government to effect administrative savings and bring the people a dollar's worth of service for a dollar paid in taxes."

"Tenth, I would bring proper law enforcement to Michigan so that all citizens would have equal protection of the laws. Our state long enough has been known as a haven for hoodlums."

"This is admittedly brief, Bagwell said, and it doesn't begin to cover the entire program. I should like to place new emphasis on research in production, marketing, and utilization of farm products, develop a program to help small business and improve mental health programming."

Male Pheasant Sports Harem

Michigan's pheasant—large long-tailed, brilliantly colored game bird—has a right to look exotic. The handsome birds you often see fly up from the fence rows started by your car on a Sunday afternoon drive are for the most part Chinese ring-necked pheasants with a considerable amount of Mongolian pheasant blood mixed in.

Native to Asia, the bird was long ago introduced into England and other parts of Europe. Its color is chiefly rich chestnut or golden brown, barred and laced with black. The head and neck are mostly iridescent greenish blue.

"Last year about one and a quarter million pheasants were harvested in the state and expectations are that we will have a good population of them this year as well. Hunting season this fall begins at 10 a. m., Oct. 20, and ends Nov. 10.

"Pheasants were introduced into Oregon from Asia in 1881. They had such a great increase that within a few years there was a hunting season. This attracted the attention of other states. Michigan first began stocking them in 1917. In eight years they had increased to the point where we could have a hunting season.

Chimpanzees Seek Free Food

The least chimpanzee—that is, the real name—will probably enjoy your camping vacation as much as you do. It given a few food items.

"The value of this chimpanzee cannot be measured in dollars and cents but there is no doubt that the pleasure derived by parents and children from watching this colorful little animal constitutes a real asset," says William H. Durr, warden of Michigan's Van Dyke State Game Preserve.

Sewing Easier When Planned

You will sew faster and more easily if you organize your sewing before you begin, says Bernetta Kuhlman, extension specialist in home economics at Michigan State University.

Make sure your equipment is in good condition and comfortable to use. Frequent removal of dust and lint from your sewing machine, along with an occasional oiling will keep it working well.

Buying a House You Can Afford

You shouldn't let those misleading ads—such as "pay no more than two and a half times your income"—guide you when you buy a house.

Take family size for instance. A family with several children needs a bigger house and may have to spend more of its money on a house than a childless couple would. Even the children's ages matter. If they are near college age, you would not want to commit too much future income to paying off a mortgage.

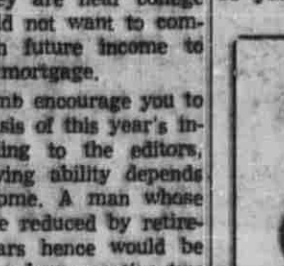

Rules-of-thumb encourage you to buy on the basis of this year's income. According to the editors, your true buying ability depends on future income. A man whose income will be reduced by retirement five years hence would be foolish to buy a house costing two and a half times his pre-retirement income.

Second income is another problem. One lender gives credit for half the wife's income if she is a professional and under 32, full credit over 32, and no credit for non-professional working wife under 32.

Differences in living standards count too. People on low incomes spend more for housing than people with big incomes. If your income is $10,000, you should not spend more for housing than people with big incomes. If your income is $10,000, you should not spend more for housing than people with big incomes.

Tribute to Addie L. Wride

I will try and write a tribute to my mother, if I can put the words to convey the meaning, for we all, have had her to do with our lives. And as my sister said to me in the funeral home the other day, she called her 'Addie', and the name fit her so well. For she was a good soldier through all the years.

With all due respect to the jurors for their winning float, it seems as though judging should be based more on the ability and combined efforts of a group of students to create a float that has taken many hours of planning and work by the students, rather than that which is loaned to them.

Well, I have enough to eat and wear and a warm place to stay. I can sit here and watch the world go by. Why, she said, I have counted over 200 cars in three minutes, going nowhere. If you can do what you want to do, do what you can, she would say. How she loved the grandchildren, great and great-grand, and how proud she was of them.

There was many a tragedy in her life. Her husband killed, murdered, and she was left with a young child to raise. She was a strong woman, and she never asked anything in return.

How interested she was in progress. I have seen three new roads built by her, she said. A farmer's daughter, a lover of the soil, and all it produced. She lived to see the city fairly lapping nearer and nearer to her door.

That was Mother, truly a wonderful woman. Mrs. Wm. R. Wilbur

TV News THE CLOTHES HORSE Unlike many Western gals, Ann Blake, one of the stars of "Gunslinger," loves wearing the old-fashioned clothes. "It was the most becoming picture I ever saw," Miss Blake said. "I have that kind of crazy-type figure these clothes look good on."

THE NAME'S NOT THE SAME The Russian word for television sounds something like "televee." "Televee," that's pretty long, even for the Soviets. Nowadays in places where U.S. newspapers use "TV," the Russians use "televee."

CARDON COPY COMO One of the TV shows Perry Como saw during his recent visit to Italy seemed hauntingly familiar to him. Translating it, he discovered it was the "Perry Como Show" all the way down to its theme song, "Designing With Me."

Your temper is one of the few things that will improve the longer you keep it. "One touch of a woman's hand can be paradise, if the touch is not too much."

TODAY'S CHILDREN LEARN about the value of the telephone almost before they can walk. Here's a story of a six-year-old daughter who knew exactly what to do when she heard a man trying to break into the house. She ran to the phone and got the police. The fact that the intruder turned out to be her father (he had lost his keys) takes nothing away from her prompt action in a crisis.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY has a special way of recognizing telephone deeds by telephone employees in time of crisis. Telephone folks have a long tradition of service to the public. Each year the company makes a practice of giving medals, cash and citations to employees for some particularly outstanding deed beyond the call of duty. This year, for instance, awards were given to a Pontiac telephone man credited with saving the life of an auto accident victim, and to an Ann Arbor repairman who rescued a man from fire.

A SMALL BOY called the Information Operator to ask for a local number. After she had supplied it, the operator suggested to the small boy that he would find it in the telephone directory. "I know," he agreed, "but I can't do that 'cause I'm standing on the directory to reach the telephone."

DO YOU HAVE TROUBLE reaching your phone? Do you sometimes find yourself upstairs when it rings downstairs? Did you know that you can save yourself and family any amount of rushing about? And very inexpensively, too. All you need is a bedroom extension phone. More and more people are discovering the wonderful convenience and extra fun of having extension phones. How about calling our Business Office about it today?

PARTING SHOT: Psychiatrist: "Do you have trouble making up your mind?" Patient: "Well... yes and no."
