To Erect Building Materials Center on West Main St.

Plans for construction of a lumber and materials center, unusual in both design and scope, were announced this week by Lowell Lumber and Coal Co.

Plans call for a glass and masonry structure 40 x 100 to be erected near the west village limits on the former Foreman Poultry Farm, cost estimated in the building permit at $30,000.

Bruce Walter, owner, said the new center will be one of the most modern in the nation and will offer supplies and services to everyone from the do-it-yourself handyman to large building firms. Construction will begin within a few weeks with operation scheduled to start this summer, he said.

"The revolutionary design will enable us to present an entirely new concept in lumber merchandising," Walters said. "Materials will be displayed so that the public can shop in attractive surroundings and enjoy the convenience of self-service service."

Borgerson Honored For Safety Work

A pioneer promoter of driver education in Michigan, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction Norman E. Borgerson, was recognized last week (Thursday, April 16) for his 20 years of work in that field by Automobile Club of Michigan. He is a resident of Lowell.

A plaque, citing him "for his leadership in developing the high school driver education program in Michigan," was presented to Borgerson during a session of the 29th annual Michigan Safety Conference, meeting here last week.

Borgerson, who has served as secretary or chairman of the Conference's Schools and Colleges division for the past 20 years, accepted the award from Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director.

Borgerson was appointed director of the first high school teachers' driver training institute, held in Lansing in 1938, and directed 24 of the institutes during the next 15 years. Davis estimated that the program which Borgerson helped start has resulted in the training of nearly 500,000 driver education students.

Gerald Rollins, president of the Lowell board, was in charge of the meeting. He called on Mr. Run-ciman, Mr. Clark and Mr. Gummer to make remarks. A question and answer period followed the formal part of the program and this session proved to be very informative.

The Lowell board distributed bulletins explaining the procedures of annexation and stating Lowell's policy relative to such procedure.

School Heads From Area Meet Here

Seventy-five school board members from virtually all of the thirty surrounding districts now being served by the Lowell school district were dinner guests of the local Board of Education Monday night.

County Superintendent Lynn Clark and a member of his board, and two superintendents and board members from graded districts, and George Schutt from the Department of Public Instruction were also in attendance.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain the position of the Lowell board regarding the annexation of districts—which is simply that surrounding districts are welcome to become a part of the Lowell system, but that no aspect of coercion will be used by the Lowell board.

Law Explained

Mr. Schutt explained the bill now in the legislature which provides that all pupils in Michigan must belong to a high school district within three years. He believed that the bill will become law, if not this year, then surely within a year or two. If and when this bill or a similar bill becomes law, it would mean that there will be no more primary or rural school systems.

Mr. Schutt stated that rural schools are disappearing at the rate of three every two days in Michigan. He stated that whereas there were 7500 school districts in Michigan a few years ago, now there are fewer than 2400 individual districts. He pointed out that of this number 545 are twelve grade districts which enroll 89.4 percent of all public school pupils in the state.

Gerald Rollins, president of the Lowell board, was in charge of the meeting. He called on Mr. Run-ciman, Mr. Clark and Mr. Gummer to make remarks. A question and answer period followed the formal part of the program and this session proved to be very informative.

G. George Boyenga, 69 Dies Unexpectedly

Services were held Monday afternoon for G. George Boyenga, who passed away unexpectedly Friday, April 17. Officiating was the Rev. J. Marion DeVinney, burial in Oakwood Cemetery.

Gerrit George Boyenga was born on December 7, 1889, to Charles and Nellie Yakes Boyenga in Holland, Michigan. His two brothers, Gilbert and Richard, died at the ages of seven and fifteen respectively, and his sister Katie died in early womanhood.

After schooling and a stint at factory work in Holland, he followed his ambition to work at farming and hired out to farmers in Ganges, Michigan, shortly becoming an independent farm manager and owner. He was united in marriage August 31, 1912 with Edna E. Bennett of Ganges. To this union were born two children, Ruby and Mrs. Arie Leeman of Lowell, and Charles, who lives in San Gabriel, California. Mr. Boyenga suffered a great bereavement in the passing of his wife, Edna, at the time of Charles' birth in 1926.

He married Miss Beulah Ruth Voss, who survives him as do his two children and three grandchildren, Robert, Donald and Jean.

As with most farmers, farming was more than a means of livelihood to him; it was a way of living. He loved the out-of-doors, animals, the maintenance and use of machinery.

He found stimulation and an outlet for his mental energy in the Farm Bureau group, holding office as discussion leader for five years. A member of the Methodist church throughout his years in Lowell, his religion was a fundamental facet of his daily life.

Why Gamble?
Yes, why gamble... when there's no chance of winning? That's the kind of gambling you're involved in when you drive your car beyond the recommended period without having the oil changed.
Although you may use the very best motor oil, such as Phillips 66 Trop-A-Ric, there comes a time when the accumulation of impurities in the oil reduces its efficiency.
That's why lubrication experts say: the best motor protection is to use the best motor oil, and change it every 1,000 miles under average around-town driving conditions.
Be sure to let your Phillips 66 Dealer change oil for you on schedule.

SOIL and WATER CONSERVATION
DONALD KLINE, S. C. S. Editor
By Yong S. C. D. Directors
The main purpose of the Kent Soil Conservation District is the completion of basic soil and water conservation farm plans and the application of conservation practices on the land, states Messrs. Ed Parmeter, chairman of the NE District and Frank Raasch, chairman of the NW District.
Here is what you can expect to find in a completed plan:
1. An aerial photograph of your farm to show field arrangement and the land use changes you plan to make.
2. A colored soils capabilities map which lists the soil types, erosion and slopes found by the soil scientist survey.
3. A list of conservation practices needed on your farm and the estimated date you plan to establish them.
4. A narrative which explains how your management will use conservation practices for crop land, grassland, woodland or other land use which fits your farm.
No two farms may be alike as to soil and water conservation conservation practices. Such a plan is based upon the farmers decisions backed up by sound technical conservation information.
Such a farm plan is a guide and a ready reference for conservation crop rotations and for conservation practices to be established over a period of years.
A farmer must be ready, willing and able to follow his conservation farm plan for it to be of real value to him.
To set a farm planning date, please contact any director who lives near you or stop in, call or write to the Soil Conservation Service, at Rockford. The phone number is YO 5-2501.
To date Kent Soil Conservation District has received requests for assistance on 24 farms to install about 885 acres of field strips and contour strips.
These farmers have observed less wind and water erosion; more productive rotation crop growth and higher yields where field strips and contour strips have been used. As a rule field strips are used on more or less level fields subject to wind erosion. Straight field strips are also practical on slopes where severe long gradual slopes where water erosion is the major problem.
Contour strips are advantageous both for erosion control and for ease in tillage and harvesting operations. Water is held on the slopes or where necessary carried off by added waterways.
Alternate hay or meadow strips with cultivated crop or small grain strips in between slow up runoff and prevent rills, gullies and wash-outs. Width of the strips depends upon the length of the slope and steepness of slope.
U. S. Soil Conservation Service technician, Marvin Schaeffer reports that with a C. P. cost sharing assistance the following Kent Soil Conservation District cooperators plan to install 433 of field strips with Soil Conservation Service technical assistance in 1959: Robert Widener, Ray Backart, and Alvin Lutke of Byron Twp.; E. L. Johnson and D. Groome, Tyrone Twp.; E. L. Phelps, and Harold Fleck, Courland Twp.; Ralph Kinsey, Spencer Twp.; Ford Morris and B. Ewood, Solon Twp.; Hugh Long, Algoma Twp.; and Ed Roberts and Earl Boehrer, Sparta Township. Other cooperators who plan to use field strips are: Marshall Wendergem, Courland Twp.; Richard Crisman, Caledonia Twp.; Wayne Hagamah, Solon Twp.; and Clifford Allen, Plainfield Twp.

Nicest wagon that ever joined your family!
Chevy's station wagons should really be called family wagons. You can choose from five models, including the four-door nine-passenger Kingswood, with its rear-facing rear seat.
Here's a brisk and breezy wagon that'll take on any chore you name, from a trip to the beach to a journey home from the lumberyard. There's room, you see, for a whole half-ton of cargo—a space ten feet long, with the rear seat and tailgate down.
These wagons are easy to load, too—you just roll the rear window into the tailgate and flip it down flat. No liftgate to wrestle with. Chevrolet's so easy to handle it's a natural for the lady of the house. Big, safe, brisk, too. Chevy's even got bigger tires—they come as standard equipment on every one of our wagons. But why not fall in love with a Chevy first-hand—at your Chevrolet dealer!

WE suggest a Fiesta...
 If you want the most in a station wagon!

 No matter what you have seen in station wagons before, we're sure you'll be delighted with the all-new Oldsmobile Fiesta. Here is the most beautiful blending of style, comfort and utility you've ever known. It's roomier inside than ever before. Rear seats can be changed into cargo carriers at the touch of a finger—and the back again in an instant. Olds engineers eliminated the lift gate for '59... the rear window slips neatly into the tailgate.
 What's more, for extra protection, long-lasting vinyl in a wide range of colors covers all bar—'ar areas... while passenger areas are as tastefully designed as an Oldsmobile sedan! There are so many new and different things about the Fiesta, you'll want to try them all... and this is the time to start!

The entertainment event of the year in the Cascade-Ada-Eastmont area is about to swing into production. The fourth annual Thornapple Minstrel Show sponsored by the Christian Men's Fellowship of the Cascade Christian church will be held the nights of June 17 and 18.

Your Washington Review
by Congressman
JERRY FORD

The recent announcement of the names of the seven American candidates for the distinction of making the first flight into space has reopened the question of "why?" Why these huge expenditures and continued experiments involving the risk of human life in the area of outer space?

The second and more practical answer is that our potential enemy is exploring outer space and developing means for its use and control. This adds urgency to the situation and brings into the picture our own national security and the defense of the free world as we know it. Our government must provide an adequate defense to protect the lives and property of our people. In the middle of the 20th century this includes utilization of outer space.

In the past 10 years our country has expended upwards of $25 billion in missile and satellite development. I believe that our overall missile and space program with its present diversification is an excellent one. I intend to do all I can to promote present and future development which will be adequate within the limits set by the overall military program and a sound fiscal policy.

Incidentally, it is not planned to send a man into space before 1962 or 1963. Many more experimental flights with instruments and animals will be required before a human life is risked.

CANCER RESEARCH: The loss of Secretary Dulles' highly successful services has highlighted our national interest in cancer research. Dr. John R. Heller, Director of the National Cancer Institute reported to your Congressmen this week that we are making decided gains in this area of medical knowledge. He stated that today one out of three persons found with cancer is saved. By "saved" he meant able to live comfortably for at least five years after diagnosis. In 1950 one out of four was saved while in 1960 the ratio was only one out of 20.

Dr. Heller pointed out that the death rate from cancer among women is declining while that among men is not increasing. However, we are more conscious of cancer now because of earlier and better diagnosis, an increased number of people, and an aging population which is more susceptible to the disease.

The most promising cancer research according to Dr. Heller is currently being carried on in the areas of chemical management and virology. The first is seeking drug supplement present methods of prolonging the cancer victim's life and making it more comfortable. The second is proceeding on the

ACCIDENTAL KISS
Dinah Shore's good-night kiss is one of television's outstanding trademarks. Several years ago when she left out the kiss at the end of a show, people broke down doors and lit up network switchboards complaining. There was also plenty of irate mail, Dinah recalled. "Actually, the kiss was an accident," Dinah says. "The 'm-wah' sort of popped out of me one day about eight years ago when I had to get off the air in a hurry. So I'm stuck with it."

NO CONTEST
"The biggest star on television" is a title Clint Walker, Jim Arness, Chuck Connors and other hefty performers can no longer claim. Reports are that the new claimant is a female named Bubbles, all whale and more than a yard wide. Fourteen feet long now, she weighs 1700 pounds and has almost a lifetime to grow. Bubbles, a guest of California's Marineland, made her debut in a recent episode of "Richard Diamond, Private Eye."

HIGH-PRICED SOUTHERNS
Television's Cliff Arquette, when not playing Charley Weaver, specializes in carving wood. He represents the Civil War and other conflicts in our history. The figures are carved from soft pine with dental tools and feature real clothes and hair. Each figure is insured for $2,000, but Cliff said,

Disposable Paper Tents Cut Camping Costs

Two families are shown using the new paper camping equipment that is being introduced during April by Ford dealers across the nation. The equipment is designed so campers can have a try at outdoor living for one-third the usual investment. All equipment pictured, including a paper sleeping bag, will retail for less than $75—a cost low enough to permit disposing of it at the end of the season, eliminating the winter storage problem. The tent at right ($19) sleeps two adults and two children, while the tent at left ($13) sleeps two adults. The station wagon boot, which converts the rear of a station wagon into private camping quarters, will retail for $7, and the para-wing equipment because of its interest in outdoor camping which has done much to spur the increase in station wagon sales. Ford sells more station wagons than any other make. After the April introduction, the equipment will be marketed by Corporate Research, Inc., of Ann Arbor, Michigan.
