Oil's Safer Than Gas

Combustion is the result of (1) fuel, (2) air and (3) heat or spark to ignite a fuel-air mixture. In the case of oil, the only place all three can come together is in the combustion chamber.

You can't say the same for gas. As it leaks into a room it's already mixing with air. Only a spark is needed. Just the simple act of turning on the electric light can do it.

You can see an oil leak but you CAN'T SEE A GAS LEAK.

Oil Costs Less to Operate

You will pay much more to keep the gas pilot burning, whether the gas burner is on or not. The pilot burns 24 hours a day for a total of about 720 hours a month. The average monthly cost of the pilot is about $1.75. That's $15.75 per nine-month heating season.

The gas utilities like to see the pilot burning all year. It saves them from having to send a man around to light it each heating season. They recommend a year-round pilot, too, to "keep dampness out of the equipment," which is made of lighter metal than oil-fired equipment. Year-round pilot cost could run over $21.00.

Oil Tank? A Private Well

The oil tank is the symbol of oil heat's dependability. It's your own storage vault. It's like money in the bank. This symbol is reinforced by the storage tanks at your local Standard Oil

The distribution of natural gas, on the other hand can be interrupted by low pressures, leaks, or explosions along pipe lines.

Any church, or religious or fraternal organization which does not accept the Bible as the inspired word of God makes itself of little value to a community and often a curse instead of a blessing. When the Bible is viewed simply as the word of men, you have no final authority for anything. Then sin and evil become relative, never absolute, and every man does that which is right in his own eyes. That means spiritual and moral decay. Does your church and preacher, or fraternal organization accept the Bible as the inspired word of God? EVERYONE WELCOME
