Board members include Jim Fales, vice-president; Bill Milbrath, secretary; Herb Elzinga, treasurer; and Tom Lyons, general manager.

The program of judging and activities for the five days were the main topics of the meeting. "This is My Country" has been set as the theme of the event.

The A. J. Carl Shows of Utica, Michigan, will set up their huge midway and will be ready to entertain fair visitors during the evening hours. The carnival will feature six big rides, five kiddie rides, and many concessions.

All 4-H members in Kent County, individually or in groups, are encouraged to put together a talent number and to enter the auditions, to be held Monday evening, August 15. Selected acts will then appear on evening programs throughout the week of the Fair.

Tuesday has been set aside as Youth Day, and the exhibition buildings will be opened. Horse judging will take place in the morning, and a parade of 4-H Club floats will provide the evening's entertainment.

Wednesday's activities will include judgings, a pet parade, a softball tournament, and an evening horse show.

Softball eliminations will take place on Thursday, followed by a livestock parade in the evening.

Rodeo Presented

Friday has been designated as Kids' Day, with reduced prices on all rides. Two bicycles will also be given away. A rodeo in the evening will climax the week's activities.

Over 600 volunteer adult leaders work the 4-H members, giving freely of their time, skill and efforts, and receiving no pay except the satisfaction of helping boys and girls to learn.

The Lowell utility has two plants now on the automatic system, the other is the Superior Furniture Company.

Wildcats Champs Of Grade School Softball

The YMCA Grade School Softball teams completed the season with final standings as follows:

In the final game of the season, the Wildcats pushed across a run in the last inning to defeat the Bearcats 6-5 and remain undefeated. A triple by Craig Wittenbach and a ground ball by Ron Wittenbach produced the run to win. Ron also had the only home run of the game to give Terry DeWitt his ninth win.

In the other game played, the Panthers finally came through to win their first game of the season. With Gordon Lind being moved to the Panthers, he pitched and batted his team to victory. Four runs were hit, one each by John Stormzand and Gordon Lind for the winners; Danny Kline and Randy Posthumus for the losers.

At this time, we would like to thank the players for their cooperation, and also the help given to them by their coaches, Bob Elzinga of the Wildcats; Dick Rollins of the Hawks; John Kerekes of the Bearcats and Rick Fonger of the Panthers.

Turning Back the Clock... Village Blacksmith Aided by Pills

"Lowell people testify to permanent cures," blared a notice in the Lowell Ledger, and proved it by printing a testimonial by a prominent local businessman.

The time was 1906, long before the television commercial, but the message was the same.

"Many people never suspect their kidneys," the article warned. "If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders."

Fortunately, there were no pictures of rapidly-dissolving pills of hammers hitting nerve centers, or of alarm clocks ticking loudly in the wee small hours.

But fear was struck in readers' hearts when the article announced that "you must cure these troubles or they lead to diabetes or Bright's disease."

Naturally, "the best remedy to be Doan's Kidney Pills."

A local blacksmith, who resided near the Methodist Church, had this to say about the little pills: "I was shoeing a horse some time ago. He jerked and tore around considerable, and the result was I strained my back. I was not laid up from it entirely, but I might as well have been for I went about my work in great misery and I turned away some customers."

A pretty bleak picture, and, no doubt, all Ledger readers were absorbing every word to see how the problem would be resolved.

"Just when I was suffering the worst," the blacksmith went on to state, "I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and got a box at W. S. Winegar's drug store."

"I took them about a week when I noticed the pain in my back was disappearing."

"I followed the treatment up with another box and to make a good permanent cure I got a third. It made a complete cure."

The new convert then went on to mention, just to clinch the matter, that his "wife used Doan's Kidney Pills and they did equally as well for her. We take pleasure in endorsing them to anyone suffering from kidney trouble or backache."

Thus the article ended on an optimistic note, and Ledger subscribers could move on to the next column—and the next pill testimonial by another neighbor.

YMCA Swim Classes Being Held at Campau Lake

Many girls and boys in the 7-15 year old group have entered the YMCA swim classes now being held at Campau Lake twice weekly on Tuesday and Friday mornings. Five "Y" staff swim instructors are on hand to give lessons. The 9:30-11:30 class is completely filled but a few openings are still available in the 8:30-10:30 and 10:30-12:30 classes. The lessons will be held every Tuesday and Friday, ending August 26 for a cost of $2.50 per child. Children are to wear swim suit, shoes and bring a towel. Registration may be made at the Lowell YMCA office.

High Picking

Clement Grindle does some high picking from this record size green bean plant at his home at the corner of Jackson and King Streets. The plant measures 16 feet to the top and a step ladder is needed to gather the bountiful crop of beans. This is only one of several sturdy plants in a fine producing garden. Grindle is a member of the Lowell City street department.

Lack of Manager Holding Back City

The City Council on Monday night bemoaned the fact that after nearly six months the city has no manager. Although many have been interviewed, and the job has been offered to at least three men, no one has accepted the position.

In the mean time all city departments are demoralized with no leadership; the charter requires that the administration of the city be accomplished by a manager, and with no one at the head of the city government little seems to be accomplished.

The four councilmen present Monday all voiced their hope for the employment of a manager at an early date.

Start Road Work

The council received a report that work on city streets will be started in about two weeks. First Washington, Armit and Suffolk, Jefferson and Fremont will be completed after these projects are finished. Also on the schedule will be the resurfacing of the west side parking lot and re-marking the parking area for greater efficiency. There was discussion of placing meters in the parking lots to obtain revenue from the area.

Street Lights

Utility superintendent Roger Westbroek reported that the posts for the new Main Street lights are here and the construction is planned to start about the 15th of August.

Acting treasurer Mrs. Esther Fahmi reported that nearly $20,000 in city taxes had been collected in the first week; the council employed Mrs. Fahmi for the month of August at a weekly salary of $50 to complete the collection.

Gov. Williams Feted At Eggleston Home

Gov. G. Mennen Williams was guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eggleston, 36th Street, following the Saturday evening performance of the Lowell Showboat.

Other guests at the Eggleston home were State Treasurer Sanford Brown and Mrs. Brown; Supt. of Public Instruction Lynn Bartlett and Mrs. Bartlett; and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Reamon.

Reamon is a Democratic candidate for Congress from the 5th District.

Also present were candidates Thelma Patterson; Charles Miller and Mrs. Miller; Arthur Masterson and Mrs. Masterson;

Jean Strand Gets Early Taste of Campus Life

More than 1,500 freshmen who will be entering Western Michigan University for the first time next fall are getting a two-day advance taste of campus life this summer.

Jean Strand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Strand, Route 3, Lowell, is one of those who have finished visiting the campus.

Under the direction of Dr. Paul L. Griffith, dean of students, the freshmen are coming to the campus to learn something of their future programs of study, to meet with the counselors and to see a bit of the campus. It is not all work and some social life has been planned too.

When they return to the campus in mid-September they will need only to complete their registration and pay their fees to begin classes.

Few Voters Turn Out Here!

The Lowell area had a very small turnout for the primary election on Tuesday. Below is the tabulated vote for the city and townships available on Wednesday morning.

State-wide the fall election will see Paul Bagwell opposing the democrat choice, John Swainson. For the U. S. Senate, Alvin Bentley will oppose Patrick McNamara. Reid will oppose Lesinski for Lieutenant Governor.

In Kent County Charles Feenstra meets McCormick, for the 17th district senate seat, Harry Emmons was defeated in the primary by William Doorn who will meet Lucas in the November election.

Electric Line Causes Fire Early Friday

Belding firemen were called to a blaze at the corner of 4 mile road and Montcalm Avenue Saturday morning when the storm blew a tree over Lowell Utility lines, starting a fire.

The power was shut down for a large part of the area until a wrecker from Lowell could pull the tree off the lines and the span rebuilt.

This was the only serious damage caused by the storm the utility reported.

Construction Advances on Bank, Plant, and Pool

Major construction projects in the city of Lowell are now advancing rapidly toward completion. Steel shortages will hold up the Attwood plant, but for the most part, thanks to recent favorable weather, most of the projects will be completed by scheduled deadlines.

Workers are busy roofing the new State Savings Bank building on East Main Street across from the Eberhard supermarket. Completion date has been tentatively set for October 31.

Rising on the former Hosley property, the bank has 132 feet of frontage on Main Street. The lot is also 132 feet deep, and ample space for parking will be available to bank customers when the building is completed.

Swimming Pool Progresses

Began on April 25 after a six-year fund-raising drive, the Frank Twining King Memorial pool is now assuming recognizable shape.

Clark Plumbing employees are laying over a mile of copper tubing in the floor areas of the accompanying building. Paul Rickert has the electrical contracts for the project.

The total cost of the pool and field house will be over $100,000. The field house will be under lease to the Lowell branch of the YMCA for the months of June, July, and August each year; the Lowell Area Schools will pay an annual fee of $4,000 for use of the Recreation Park building during the other nine months.

Attwood Delayed

The Attwood plant, newest of the construction projects in town with the exception of the two 110 ft. bean silos being raised for the C. H. Runciman Company, will be delayed briefly due to a shortage of structural steel.

To be built in two stages, the original building will cover an area of 50,400 square feet. At a later date the plant will be expanded to contain a total floor space of 105,600 square feet.

Attwood's move to Lowell from Grand Rapids was made possible through the generosity of the Lowell Showboat corporation, a non-profit organization which contributed 40 acres of choice riverfront land to the marine hardware company.

The citizens of Lowell are to be complimented for making 1960 a banner construction year in this city.

SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION

Soil Conservation Service, who passed away July 7. In the early days, our department was called the "Erosion Control Service."

Our nation has lost a great man. New District directors approved by the Board of Directors are: Cecil Pisk, Spencer Twp., 80 acres; John Gwin, Caladonia Twp., 30 acres; Howard Ward, Solon Twp., 100 acres; Charles S. Aulis, Spencer Twp., 120 acres; Durran Nunor, Deer, bear and other animals are abundant in the area's great forests.

Traveling into the Copper Country, Michigan's traveler is taken aback by his first contact with the striking features of the upper peninsula. A Copper Country. At every turn a different view invites the attention of sightseers and the click of camera shutters.

Our special thanks go to editorial writer Elliot of the Grand Rapids Press for his timely editorial, July 12, on Dr. Hugh H. Shuman's conservation instruction program at Michigan State University. "I hope you read it."

"There is still time to get a cover crop needed in some corn fields," suggests your Kent District Director. The most serious soil erosion is on the heavy silt loam soils, says Irvin Rodgers of Alto.

"Plow planting" or "minimum tillage" shows wide acceptance and has produced good results on more farms this year. Less weeds, less packing of the soil, lower soil preparation costs and good healthy crop growth are the results noted on the following farms we visited recently: Ross Flax, John Johnson, Marcus De Vries, Cedar Springs; Williams Bros., Rockford; Don Wolcott and Harold Wolcott, Houghton; Warren Benjamin and Verne and J. Warren to name a few.

Special notice to former District Directors, Keep Sunday Honor. August 7 open for the annual D. Directors' picnic. Chairman Frank Rasch and Harry Yeller will notify you of the place where you will meet.

Lloyd Hill, Alpine Twp., former District Director and sons Alvin and Walter report fine raspberry yields from two acres of their Lathams. They sold 150 plants, July 19 for their retail trade and averaged 375 plants a day this past week.

Copper Country Contrasts Old Vacation Vocation

Michigan is a land of infinite diversity. Regions of massive industrialization are balanced by areas of pristine wilderness; lush pasture contrasts with barren sand dunes. The tourist becomes accustomed to change in this Great Lakes state.

Michigan's traveler is taken aback by his first contact with the striking features of the upper peninsula. A Copper Country. At every turn a different view invites the attention of sightseers and the click of camera shutters.

SAVE THE FISH

It's not difficult to over-cook a fresh fish. The trick is to serve it before the fish begins to dry out. Test it with a fork. Home cooking is the best. The fish arrived Tuesday to visit her sister Mrs. Marian Yates for a few days.

Home-Grown Foods Abundant In August. August is the biggest month of the year for commercially-grown and home-grown fruits and vegetables. August is the best time to visit the University of Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for Grand Rapids area.

A fried chicken dinner was served at noon.

The annual business meeting followed with a slate of all new officers. Those elected were: President, Kenneth Champlin of Kalamazoo; vice-president, Gary Perkins of Lansing; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John Fox of Delton. In the afternoon several games and contests were enjoyed by the children. While the adults enjoyed themselves visiting, and admiring the eight new babies. The youngest being just 14 days old.

There were no deaths this past year, so the record stands at 141 dependents.

showboat echoes

The show is over and the grandstand is empty. As workmen move in with their pushbrooms, nothing but an echo of the 1960 Showboat remains.

It was a good show, and everyone seemed to enjoy the skillful blend of amateur and professional talent.

It was, in many respects, a crowded show—a lot of equipment had to be utilized to keep the program running at a fast clip.

The water-skiers were outfitted with boats, motors, ramps, skis, and towlines, and the Showboat itself was well-stocked with microphones, loud speakers, record players, generators, and ship-to-shore radios to make it the most electronic old-time minstrel show in history.

The Verduis, of course, had huge rubber balls and steel balancing equipment to move on and off the stage.

Besides their menagerie, the Stephenson family had ladders, towers, gates, hoops, teeter-totters, and other paraphernalia with which to present their act.

The Dolloffs and the Raya Sisters came equipped with their own lighting effects, as well as their many costume changes and other gadgets needed in the performance of their "deception in motion."

Even the Sportsmen, primarily a singing group, had a trunkful of hats, mustaches, fly-swatters, and washboards with which to enliven their numbers.

The endmen loyally substituted Lowell sprayers for fly-swatters, and maintained wooden chests stuffed with fire hydrants, golf clubs, umbrellas, fish, and lawnmowers. The boys in the band had as many as three instruments a-piece on hand, and the chorus struggled with helium-filled balloons prior to the Grand Finale.

Only Candy Candido seemed free of the equipment mania and able to entertain with one gimmick—his voice. He even replaced his bass viol, a trademark of long standing, with nothing but a cigar and an inhalator.

Performers as well as equipment were essential, and because of them the 1960 show was one of the most active in recent years; tambourine-playing endmen, acrobats balancing on rolling balls, dancers doing hand-stands and flips, dogs scampering about the stage, and girls floating through the air helped to make the production, in the final analysis, more visual than audible.

And there was plenty of music, plus one or two side-splitting jokes—all of which left a most pleasant echo over the waterfront.

No doubt most of the spectators will be back next year for more—but they'll bring seat cushions with which to last out the long show in comfort!

Bruce Munroe, Bob Marsh, Doug LaDue, Junior Link, and Ed Roth were part of the crew manning the motors as the boat came down the river last week. Ross Starkweather rode the walking-beam up and down in time with the calliope music.

Nobody was needed to keep the paddlewheel revolving this year—it's motorized so well that it continued to revolve Wednesday night even after the boat docked. Fortunately, the mooring lines are strong, and the Robert E. Lee remained at her (his?) berth.

Candy Candido tried his hand at the Showboat calliope coming down the river one evening, marveling over the fact that the keyboard is only half the length of a piano's normal 88. But everyone in the bow of the boat agreed that the lusty-throated steam machine was at least twice as loud. Oh, for those good old days of bands in the bow, when Showboat passengers didn't have to wear ear-plugs!

Fireworks after the Grand Finale added a lot to the show, but prevented John Roth from maintaining his record of clearing the grandstand within 6 minutes.

Boat traffic passing in front of the grandstand had no problem following the route around the island—a one-way street sign had been mounted on one of the dead trees in the channel, and all lost navigators were easily returned to course.

Youngsters swimming near the water-skiing ramp Tuesday night were asked to leave so they would not disturb spectators watching the show. While swimming back to shore, one of the boys started to go under and had to be rescued by Ed Laux, who took a flying leap from the bow of the Robert E. Lee, clothes and all.

Bill Days, the Sportsmen's top tenor who wowed Showboat audiences with his Mexican hat number, has held a pilot's license for the past fifteen years. This qualifies him to fly planes—not steer river steamers.

After handshaking his way around the decks of the Showboat Saturday night, Gov. Williams was presented on arrival at the dock with a gold-encrusted perpetual pass to the show. Williams said that he and his wife hope to be able to make it back every year.

Most of the Mayors missed the boat Wednesday evening and had to wait for the arrival at the Showboat dock, Jeff Davis, grandson of Mayor Stanley Davis of Grand Rapids, was a little disappointed as he has been riding on the boat since birth.

Plenty of Showboat models graced Main Street windows during Showboat week. Besides the one with the revolving paddle-wheel in Avery's, models were to be found in Chris', Gamble's, Speer's, and the Belding Finance Co.

The June Taylor Dancers, rushing to get on the boat Saturday night, took time off to fight through a crowd of young autograph seekers and to photograph the Robert E. Lee at the Riverside dock. Evidently a floating minstrel show was a new event in their lives.

The endmen and the new interlocutor are to be congratulated for the fine performances they turned in each of the six nights. The endmen's boxes of tricks were especially enjoyable.

Candy Candido rowed downstream ahead of the Robert E. Lee in a borrowed rowboat Saturday night. A flashlight borrowed from Louis Kingsley was flashed on him from the boat, providing the comedian with a "spot" to work in.

Sharp-eyed chorus members report that the Kennedy button Gov. Williams was wearing Saturday night was pinned on upside-down.

Theron Richmond, Showboat president, estimated that over 600 people were involved in the production of the 1960 Showboat. To each and every one who lent a hand—thanks.

Library Corner

Main and Hudson

Attending the Library Work Shop last week was an interesting and rewarding experience for your librarian. Intensive courses in library science were given Monday through Friday. The opportunity to meet librarians from all over the state resulted in an exchange of ideas and practices. You may be proud of your attractive, well-stocked library, as the books and facilities offered at Lowell compared favorably with other libraries of its size.

Part of the time was devoted to the study of a state-wide plan suggested by Michigan State Library which would give adequate library service to everyone in the state. At the present time many areas, not only in the Upper Peninsula, are without libraries of any kind.

In order to make our excellent reference books available to all of the high school students, the Saturday morning hours will be transferred to a weekday morning before school commences. Watch for an announcement of new library hours.

The present schedule is: Tuesday and Thursday from 1 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. Saturday, 10:30 a. m. to noon, 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Where the Bible is received, and believed, and preached, not as the word of man, but as it is in truth, the word of God.
That is So Right, Billy Graham!
Speaking in Washington, D. C., recently, Billy Graham criticized the present "strange concept" of Christianity in the United States, calling it a combination of paganism and true Christianity. "People laugh at us," he said, adding Christianity is becoming more and more a minority religion. (Grand Rapids Press, June 27, 1960).
We invite you to Calvary Chapel where the orthodox and evangelical Christian faith is proclaimed.
