Lowell Area School Enrollment 1,315

Lowell Area School enrollment Tuesday found an increased enrollment over the 1959 figure of 1,215. This comes in spite of a drop of about 24 in the total enrollment in the high school. The total enrolled on Tuesday was 1,315.

The largest group to enroll in the elementary school was the first grade with 125, Superintendent Nisbet said Tuesday that plans are being made to form the fourth class in this grade. In the high school the enrollment shows a decrease with the Ada-Cascade area students all being gone. For the next few years small graduating classes are expected but the freshman class has 140 which indicates a growing high school.

Enrollment by Grades

Kindergarten 103, 1st-125, 2nd-89, 3rd-86, 4th-106, 5th-96, 6th-94, 7th-99, 8th-127, 9th-140, 10th-98, 11th-73, 12th-79.

School Insurance

Again this year the school has made available insurance on the children while at school and while enroute at a cost of $2.00 per year. All children have been given applications to take home. These must be returned by next Monday with the money if insurance is desired. This also covers students while engaged in school sports outside school.

For the football team parents are asked to pay $6.50 which is slightly more than half the cost of a special policy. The athletic benefit fund pay the other portion of this policy. All accidents should be reported to the school nurse within 20 days.

Board Meets Tuesday

At the meeting of the school board Tuesday evening new bids on coal were received and referred to committee for action.

The board approved the millage for 1960 at 9 mills operating, 5 mills, debt retirement, tuition was set at Kindergarten through 6th grades, $125; 7th through 12th at $137; transportation at $60.50.

A report on filling in the playground with over 1,000 yards of dirt to bring it up to a higher level to eliminate the water hole. Transportation of students in the city who live over 1 1/2 miles from the school was discussed and turned over to the superintendent for investigation.

A loan was approved with the State Savings Bank for $65,000 at an interest rate of 3 1/2% to handle current expenses until state funds come in.

Methodist Sunday Sermon by Crusade Leader

Rev. W. Arnein Roberts of Baltimore, Md., will preach at both services at the local Methodist church this Sunday. His sermon subject will be "The Church Under Pressure."

Mr. Roberts will represent the Fund-Raising Division of the Department of Finance and Field Service, Division of National Missions of the Methodist church. He is of the fifteen ministers who give their full time going from church to church to assist in special fund-raising endeavors.

The services are at 8:45 and 11. Mr. Roberts promises that there will be no solicitation in connection with the service. A large attendance is expected at both services, as the ladies of the Woman's Society are calling the members and friends of the church to remind them of the service.

The choir, under the direction of Bruce Walter, will make its first full appearance Sunday at the 11 o'clock service.

LIONS GIVE $500 TO SWIMMING POOL FUND

The earnings of the Lions Club summer projects—the Showboat program and the dunking concession at the 4-H Fair, amounting to $500—were donated to the Lowell Swimming Pool Fund.

It appears now that the pool fund will be short nearly $5,000 of enough money to completely pay for the project. Any individual or group who would like to give the project a boost is encouraged to offer their contribution.

bowling

Two teams are still needed for the women's Thursday night league. Any lady bowlers who are interested should contact the Legion Lanes or Lylia Johnson.

Since this is a handicap league, women who are beginning bowlers or even non-bowlers should not feel they are not capable of competing in this league.

Companionship and fun are equally important ingredients in this league and "star" bowlers are very definitely in the minority. If you have wanted to bowl or learn to bowl in a league, this is your opportunity. Just call the Lanes, TW 7-5666 or Lylia Johnson, TW 7-9362 or Gertrude Steffens, TW 7-9362.

One men's team is still needed on Monday at 9 p. m. Call Earl Kinyon, TW 7-9119, or George DeGraw, TW 7-7314, or the Legion Lanes, TW 7-5666.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL SPEAKER, REV. W. A. ROBERTS

An unusual feature at the Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning will be the appearance of Rev. W. Arnein Roberts, of Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Roberts will speak to the children and youth from the fourth grade through college. Sunday School meets at 9:45, fifteen minutes earlier than formerly.

On hand to explain use of the reflector and refractor scopes will be virtually the entire membership of the Astronomical society, including President Eugene C. Covey and Program Chairman and Past President Donald C. Thompson.

According to Thompson, a program of viewing has been planned which will include looks at some of the constellations showing prominently this month, spiral galaxies, nebulae, the planets Jupiter and Saturn and, if possible, a peek at man-made satellite, Echo I.

Along with the viewing will be interesting discussion of these bodies by member of the society.

In case of rain or a cloudy night, an indoor meeting will be provided at the Runciman Elementary building, which should be of equal interest. It will feature rare slides of the heavens and informative talks by members. For those persons interested in future membership in the group, the club's secretary and treasurer will be on hand to explain membership procedures.

Refreshments will be provided those attending by the Lowell YMCA, sponsor of the event, according to Y secretary Robert Forst, who expects a large gathering of Lowell citizens at this unusual event.

Screen Kent Children For Vision Defects

During 1959, 57,136 eyes (8,892 students in the county—19,676 students in the city) belonging to Grand Rapids-Kent County school children were screened by specially trained nurse technicians employed by the Health Department, reported Dr. W. B. Prothro, City-County Health Officer.

All school children in the county are screened for vision defects every three years and city school children are checked every two years by trained nurse technicians. Of the 28,568 students screened last year, 2,472 failed the test and were referred to eye doctors for examination after having been screened in the school.

Periodic vision screenings are a necessity to the health of school children, said Dr. Prothro, because the eye sight of growing children changes constantly. Young eyes which function perfectly today can develop defects in a relatively short time and serious eye trouble can develop if these defects are not corrected.

In addition to the need for periodic eye examinations for growing children, adults must also be careful to see that they have their eyes checked periodically.

Since September has been claimed as "Sight Saving Month" by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Dr. Prothro urges all adults to take heed of the educational messages that this National Society will be providing this month and plan to have your eyes checked if you have not done so in the last few years.

Dr. Prothro said periodic eye examinations and screenings are valuable to all children and adults, not only because they uncover vision defects, but also because they sometimes lead to the discovery of unsuspected diseases.

File Petition For Liquor Sale in Lowell

Petitions bearing over 200 names were presented to the City council on Monday evening by Herb Keyser of the Village Inn and Mel Bulk of Mel's Bar asking that the city vote in November on selling liquor by the glass.

These petitions were turned over to the city clerk to check for being registered voters in the city before the council could act on the petition.

Special Assessors

Interviews are being scheduled, Mayor Jones, told the council as soon as possible with St. Louis and Cleveland firms on making a complete re-assessment of all city property.

The council was told by attorney VanderVeen that a trial date has been asked by the city in the violation of the zoning ordinance by Harry DeMull who the city contends has established a junk yard without permission of the authorities.

The Council also asked the attorney to complete negotiations with Lowell Township on a property settlement by October 1st.

The Council has made a proposal to the township on this and no agreement has been reached. The taking over of the cemetery by the city was definitely declined at this time by the council at a previous meeting.

Turning Back the Clock... Lowell Schooling Changes Over Years; 3 R's Now Taught in Greater Comfort

Lowell schools opened for the 122nd consecutive year this week, and all area youngsters exchanged their baseball mitts for books, their fishing rods for pencils, and the 'ol swimmin' hole for the study hall.

Students nowadays may groan because they have to go back to the old "grind," but school today is really not as uncomfortable as it used to be.

As early as 1837 the settlement known as Flat River, then comprising Lowell and Vergennes, was organized in school district, and in April of the following year, Lowell's first school building, which was merely a primitive log hut located on the west side of the river near the site of the present Light and Power plant, was built by the Robinson brothers—whose numerous children needed education.

The first school was a very rude affair, comprised of one room with a loft upstairs.

The building was heated in the winter months by a large fireplace, which featured a wide hearth, and the students sat on rough benches, formed of hand-hewn logs.

The desks, according to one report, "were simply wide, rough boards, fastened to the log walls in such a manner as only necessity could dictate."

The first teacher was a Miss Caroline Baird, "an experienced preceptress from Ithaca, New York, who was employed by the trustees in May, 1838. During the winter of 1838-1839 she was assisted by her niece, Helen Chapin, and within the primitive building both ladies made their home."

One version of the story claims that, when the teachers retired for the evening, they bolted the school-house door and retreated to the loft, drawing the ladder up behind them as an added safety precaution.

Life in the loft did not suit Miss Baird, however, and soon she became engaged to Caleb Page, a native of Windsor, Vt., who had located his farm on a 40-acre tract of land near what is now Fallasburg.

Page married Miss Baird within the schoolhouse in January, 1839, during what was the first wedding among the American settlers of Lowell village.

One history describes the event as follows: "The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Richards, a Methodist circuit preacher. A general invitation was extended to every adult then in the district, and it is said the bride used every effort to make the occasion one of pleasure and joy."

"The scholars' seats and desks... were actually white under the washing process to which the lady subjected them; the floor was also scoured free of color; the log walls were hidden beneath a web of evergreens and white sheets."

The second tolling of the bell marked the death of Abraham Lincoln. It rang again when news of the fall of Richmond at the close of the Civil War was received, and it welcomed home returning soldiers.

For a number of years the bell remained silent until, in 1930, it was hung over the present high school building.

There it still hangs and still calls students to school—a school which, in the past 122 years, has grown through the efforts of Lowell citizens into a fine institution with many advantages, only one of which is scholar-comfort!

Justice Howard J. Rittenger reported that speeding violations numbering 26 lead the list of city and county court cases in the month of August. Total fines and costs collected were $920.80; this was divided $369.50 for the City of Lowell and $551.30 for Kent County. There were a total of 56 violations, 19 city, 32 county, and 5 warrants.

Speeders Again Lead in Justice Court Violations

They are listed as follows: 2 Defective equipment, dismissed, no charge. 12 No stop for stop sign. 26 Speeding. 1 Drove left of centerline. 2 Run red traffic light. 1 Improper left turn causing accident.

2 No operators license on person, one dismissed. 1 Failed to use due caution, accident. 1 Reckless driving. 1 Permitting unlicensed driver to operate car.

1 Allowing another person to use drivers license. 1 Non stop, accident. 2 Warrants for disorderly by fighting and creating disturbance in public place. 1 Warrant for catching and retaining 2 undersized bass. 1 Warrant for forcing entry, destruction of property and refusing to leave premises when asked. 1 Warrant for intoxicated on public highway.
