Council Acts on Water For Attwood

The City Council, Monday night meeting in the large room in the downstairs of the City Hall for the first time, took actions to complete installation of water main to the Attwood Corp. site and prepare for street improvements.

The bid of O. E. Bieri and sons of 65 cents a foot to dig and fill the ditch for a eight inch water main from Jefferson to Monroe Streets along Fremont St. was accepted. The total cost of this project outside the city labor for laying the cast iron water main was estimated at $2,850 by City Manager Bernard Olson.

Street improvements were also authorized by the council. Growing Ada Christian School Takes Delivery of New Bus

Ada Christian School received delivery of its new 48-passenger school bus last week. The inadequacy of one bus was clearly evident last season when the bus had to make three separate runs each morning and each night. Parents of children who steed at the road more than two hours before the 9 o'clock starting time in the dead of winter and often didn't get home 'till after six, considered conditions to be near hardship. The children didn't like it either. The school found that such inadequate transportation facilities seriously limited the growth of the school too, having been forced to reject enrollment requests from several families who lived too far out of the way.

A complete lack of funds for the purchase of a second bus posed a serious problem to the school until a solicitation for funds was made from a number of private individuals and business men, as well as parents and regular supporters, who generously provided most of the necessary money. Ada Christian School now boast seven classrooms, seven teachers and one-hundred and sixty students. The school board is pleased to announce that, with the acquisition of the new bus, the school is now in a position to accept and transport the children of familles moving into the fast growing Ada-Cascade-Eastmont-Low-

> Let's figure a little more and get down to brass tacks. Two eggs gives the following percent of the daily requirements: Protein-17.2 percent; Phosphorus-13.5 percent; Iron-21.6 percent; Vitamin A-22 percent; Riboflavin-16 percent; Vitamin D-25 percent.

Yes, it's true-those two eggs that you can easily hold in one hand represent a terrific value for the money spent. Eggs can be compared to "convenience foods". They come already wrapped in the shell, ready for the frying pan. Eggs are convenient to cook and serve. Just as eggs like cool temperature storage places, they also like low temperature frying pans. Too high cooking temperatures cause tough and leathery cooked eggs.

Stop before you throw the egg yolks away after separating the egg white from the egg yolk for meringues. Left-over egg yolks can be kept up to three days. Simply cover them with cold water and confections, between-meal snacks place in your refrigerator. When days are busy and you're

ing to the Michigan and National Education Associations, is the result of good planning, careful budgeting of time, knowing how to isten and other tricks of the learn-

Teachers in junior and senior high school have this advice for students who want to improve their learning ability:

1. "Budget" your after-s chool hours. Make a chart, leaving a space for each free hour. Then schedule your time between study. sports, hobbies, outside reading, social activities. Don't allow interruptions during study periods.

2. Make use of "odds and ends" of time. Study on the bus. Keep flash cards in your pocket for studying French verbs, chemical formulas, or history dates, while you wait in line or get a quick lunch.

3. Train yourself to be a good listener. When your mind starts to wander in class, try listening "for ise." This means looking for information you can pluck out and use from what is being saidfacts that will help you understand a difficult part of the subject. information that is not in your textbooks.

4. Try the trick of "overlearning." After you have committed to memory a series of dates, a list of foreign words and their English meanings, or a poem that you have been told to memorize, study them some more. Tests have proved that students who study material a while longer, after having learned it, will remember it longer than students who learn it and stop studying.

5. Take an active part in classroom discussions. If you're not particularly interested in a certain subject, make yourself interested by taking part in the class room discussion. The result may surprise

6. Ask yourself questions about what you are studying. To impress information forcibly on your mind, close your book from time to time and ask yourself questions about the page you have been reading Write down the answers, and check them against the text.

7. Study in an organized way. Don't plunge in and wade through the heavy material in your textbook. First read the summary of the chapter's contents. Then read headings and subheadings throughout the chapter. If you know 'where the chapter is going' your concentrated study will roll along more smoothly.

8. Do something extra, "above and beyond the call of duty." Read a short story in the foreign language you're learning. Like math? Try a paperback book of mathematics puzzlers and problems. Read magazines and books about your favorite subject-whether it's
