Congregational Children to Parlay Christmas Story

When December 17 rolls around this year the members and friends of the First Congregational church will be witnessing a most unusual Christmas Program. It will be put on by the primary and Junior High boys and girls of the Sunday School.

The Christmas story, portrayed by the children, has been photographed on beautiful colored slides which will be projected on the screen.

Speaking choirs will read from the Gospel according to Luke about the birth of Jesus. Group singing and solos will be interspersed throughout the showing of the slides.

Approximately one hundred children will participate in various ways. This should be a program long to be remembered. The time is Sunday evening, December 17, at 5, and the public is cordially invited.

The program following supper will be short for the benefit of the small children. It will include a Christmas worship service provided by a group of the Junior High boys and girls assisted by a couple of third graders. Included in the service will be a short playlet, "Gloria to God" involving shepherds, wise men and the Holy Family. Donna Potter, Beth Ann Rollins, Jeanne Leeman and Martha Coons have "speaking parts."

"White Gift" offerings will be given as usual for the Methodist Children's Home of Detroit. Adults and children will present their offerings at the manger according to the month in which they were born.

The program will be enjoyed by all of the family and a warm greeting awaits you at our friendly church proclaiming the same Angelic Message: "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:11

Girl Scouts Need Doll Furniture

After working two Saturday afternoons, Troop 511 have two wooden doll houses just about ready to be delivered to the children in Mary Free Bed Hospital. The children there, confined sometimes for many weeks and months, will be able to enjoy the long winter days along after the houses are received.

The Troop has paid for material and supplies from its Treasury and individual contributions. Girls have brought in doll furniture for the houses from their own toy boxes, but of course, most of their furniture has become broken or lost over the years. Anyone who has doll house furniture, which is no longer in use, may send it to the Troop, either by giving it to any Girl Scout member or calling Mrs. Dunlap at TW 7-7579, so she can make arrangements to have the furniture picked up. Any extra furniture received will be given to the hospital to replace pieces which become broken in the wards. The Nurses have told the Troop that the children will especially appreciate the doll houses this year, and play with houses until they are completely worn out.

The houses have been painted outside and the girls have finished wall papering the interior walls. Ray Jarvi contributed much toward the interior decoration. Mrs. Dick Priebe supplied the linoleum for the bath and kitchen floors of both houses. Carpeting is fleecy wool coating material, terry cloth and other materials dug out of Mrs. Dunlap's sewing box. Curtains and draperies will be hung on tin rods, making the houses look very homey and comfortable.

The two Stout Houses measure 12 inches by 27 and are two story. Each has six rooms—living and dining rooms, kitchen, bath, and nursery and a master bedroom. Any contributions of furniture will be deeply appreciated.

The troop plans to work one more day on the houses from 3:30 to 5 p. m. Thursday, December 14, after school.

Establish 'Doug Wingeier' Missionary Fund Here

A special fund to be known as the First Methodist church "Doug Wingeier Missionary Fund" has been established by action of the Official Board of the local Methodist church. The fund was set up with an initial contribution of $200.00. Additional contributions have been made since by friends of Doug and his wife.

The initial purpose of the fund is to assist in the purchase of a car for the Wingeiers when they have completed their special missionary training at Yale next fall and sail for Malaya. Cars used by the missionaries remain the property of the Board of Missions but the missionaries are responsible for raising the funds for their purchase.

In addition to the purchase of the car contributions to the fund, whether from the church or from individuals, will be used for the support of Doug and his wife both of whom are already under the employ of the Board. The average cost of supporting a missionary couple (including transportation etc.) is $7500 annually. Churches may assume the entire cost or take "shares" from $600 up. The amount that the local church will assume annually has not been determined and will depend upon contributions to the Fund. Contributions for any amount are solicited.

For income tax purposes checks for the Fund should be made out to First Methodist Church—Doug Wingeier Missionary Fund. They may be given or mailed to Herbert Elzinga at the bank.

Doug's many friends will be happy to know that he will preach at both services (8:45 and 11) on December 24.

Board Takes Action to Build New High School by September, 1963

The Lowell Board of Education on Monday night, agreed that the efforts of the board should be directed at once to push for an early vote to bond the district for a new high school.

Stephen Nisbet, Superintendent of School, presented the board with a four-part program to expedite the construction of a new high school building.

Carl Hagen, Principal of the High School, was given the green light to start a curriculum study with the faculty to determine the program that the school will be designed to handle.

Gerald Rollins, President of the

Meet With Architects

A meeting with three architects was scheduled for Friday afternoon, December 29, so that the board could select a firm to work with Mr. Hagen's committee to plan the new school.

The architects were selected from those who had designed high school buildings, that the board had inspected. The board hopes to select the architect before the first of the year.

The fourth step will be handled by the superintendent who will immediately get the accountant and the bond attorney to work getting the documents ready for a vote which might be held as early as February.

Superintendent Nisbet revealed to the board that a crash program was necessary to get rolling so as to have a new building ready by September 1963.

The freshman class that year entering high school would number 185, according to estimates made from records now on hand. That would mean that the high school would be approaching the 600 member mark, or about twice the number the school was designed to hold.

If a new school is not ready by 1963, Nisbet predicted, there may have to be half day sessions in the senior and junior high school.

TV Sets Outdoors flush toilets or bathtubs in American homes, says the Census Bureau. Some 88 percent of U. S. homes had television, only 85 percent had sanitary plumbing. Another census oddity: Married women outnumbered married men by 300,000 in the 1960 count, mainly due to the absence of married servicemen.

Books Fine Gifts For Children

Do you sometimes wonder why certain children love to read and others don't? Frequently it's the pattern set in the home. Parents who enjoy reading and who read to and with their children stimulate the youngsters to want to read too.

That means plenty of books around and today's children's books are a joy to behold. Beautifully illustrated and well written, they tempt even the adults.

If you aren't sure what books to buy for different age youngsters, consult your local librarian. Then after Christmas enjoy the books with the youngsters. Let them read to you and discuss what they read. It's a wonderful way to stimulate interest in reading.

The custom has spread. Today many communities dispatch discarded Christmas trees to some fir Valhalla with appropriate dignity and song.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

Lowell Area School Board

BOARD OF EDUCATION
LOWELL AREA SCHOOLS
Regular Meeting Nov. 6, 1961

The regular meeting of the Lowell Area Board of Education was called to order by President Rankin at 7:25 p. m. with all members present except Mr. Coons. All so present were Messrs. Gotschall, Jeffries and Hagen.

Mr. Gotschall presented the outlines of our present guidance program in which we use Dr. Woodward of Iowa who interviews the children and their parents where severe emotional problems arise. These interviews cost $10.00 per interview, or usually about $60.00 for a series on any given youngster. The school pays 50 percent of the cost and we have felt that we have received better service from this than the participation in the Child Guidance clinic, which costs us $25.00 a year. On motion by Rankin, supported by Westsell, we will continue to make use of this service.

On motion by Metternick, supported by Rankin, the bills are to be paid when the monies are available, except that there was some confusion on the charges listed for architect's fees, and Mr. Nisbet is to re-investigate these before paying.

The minutes were approved as printed.

On the Musical Instrument float or policy we received three bids: Auto-Owners, $123.77; Iowa Farm Bureau Mutual—$144.64; Farm Bureau Insurance—$116.76. On motion by Kist supported by Rankin, these bids were referred to the Insurance Committee with power to act, and subsequently the Farm Bureau Insurance withdrew their bid. It was suggested that an appreciable saving, using either five or ten dollar deductible, could be achieved and that this might well be incorporated in our next request for bids.

Three bids were received on the Virgil Daniels house: Roger Powers—$50.00; Glenn R. Leece—$150.00; Virgil Daniels—$30.00. On motion by Rankin, supported by Kist, the highest bid is to be accepted providing that payment is made within ten days.

A long discussion was held with Martin Vandriel and his mother and on motion by Rankin, supported by Hill, he is to be expelled.

CHINESE CONTRIBUTIONS TO CHRISTMAS

Credit the ancient Chinese for introducing two Christmas decorating techniques—gift wrapping and paper honeycomb. They celebrated the New Year by exchanging gifts, says the Rust Craft Institute, and like to incorporate a special symbolism into their packages with fancy wrappings. The Chinese also developed the idea of gluing several layers of paper together to make paper honeycomb decorations, created primarily for the New Year celebration.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS WITH A "PERSONAL" TOUCH

When wrapping your Christmas gifts, give them a "personal" touch suggests the Rust Craft Greeting Card Company. For example, tall slender gifts such as bottles of perfume, can be made to look like burning candles. Children's gifts are brightened with faces of clowns or Santa. Use allouettes to give a hint of what's inside—a fish if the package contains something for the ardent fisherman; a barber pole of the center is a warning of a razor. Singers, notes and musical instruments for record albums.

THE APPLE TREE

According to an early legend, the first Christmas tree was really an apple tree. And, although the center is a warning of a razor. Singers, notes and musical instruments for record albums.

The school pays 50 percent of the cost and we have felt that we have received better service from this than the participation in the Child Guidance clinic, which costs us $25.00 a year. On motion by Rankin, supported by Westsell, we will continue to make use of this service.

On motion by Metternick, supported by Rankin, the bills are to be paid when the monies are available, except that there was some confusion on the charges listed for architect's fees, and Mr. Nisbet is to re-investigate these before paying.

The minutes were approved as printed.

On the Musical Instrument float or policy we received three bids: Auto-Owners, $123.77; Iowa Farm Bureau Mutual—$144.64; Farm Bureau Insurance—$116.76. On motion by Kist supported by Rankin, these bids were referred to the Insurance Committee with power to act, and subsequently the Farm Bureau Insurance withdrew their bid. It was suggested that an appreciable saving, using either five or ten dollar deductible, could be achieved and that this might well be incorporated in our next request for bids.

Three bids were received on the Virgil Daniels house: Roger Powers—$50.00; Glenn R. Leece—$150.00; Virgil Daniels—$30.00. On motion by Rankin, supported by Kist, the highest bid is to be accepted providing that payment is made within ten days.

A long discussion was held with Martin Vandriel and his mother and on motion by Rankin, supported by Hill, he is to be expelled.

Telephone Lines

By BERLE SLACK, Manager

MANY OF YOU have asked why telephone directory listings sometimes are abbreviated. Abbreviation makes it possible to put most listings on one line. If abbreviations weren't used your directory would be much larger and more costly to produce. In addition, the paper in your directory has been carefully chosen for wearability, and the type style for readability. All this is designed to make your directory easy and convenient to use.

Give gas appliances - You can live modern for less with gas!

If the old homestead is beginning to take on that tired dated look, maybe all the old girl really needs is a face-lift. The addition of a few modern conveniences can work wonders, the way a getting spring bonnet does in giving her new zip and ring. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association suggests:

Start by getting rid of the old-fashioned appliances that are doing the dating. GAMA advises. The kitchen is a good place to begin. Besides giving the "Missus" pleasant surroundings where she does most of her work, the modern efficiency of gas cooking, refrigeration and clothes drying will help her improve her housekeeping techniques, with a lot less effort, too.

GIVE A GAS INCINERATOR for Christmas
It will be appreciated all year long

Gas Disposer is Ideal Gift
An automatic gas disposer is one of the most useful home appliances ever devised. It will keep the home free of garbage and trash all year long. It is attractively designed and can be installed inside the home wherever proper venting permits. And it is completely smokeless and odorless.

The new gas disposers are designed to consume virtually all combustibles originating in the home—garbage, paper, rags, cartons, string, sweepings, small pieces of wood, even heavy bones and old shoes. And they are fully automatic and smartly-styled. Requirements are established by the Approval Requirements Committee of the American Gas Association and the American Standards Association. They not only cover the elimination of odor and fly-smell nuisance, but every detail of construction and performance that bears on safety and durability as well.

Give a New Water Heater
The poet who said "absence makes the heart grow fonder" obviously never ran out of hot water. In millions of American homes the lack of hot water just when it's needed is a constant source of irritation.

It's easy to understand how this can happen when you realize that families are now consuming almost twice as much hot water as they did 10 years ago. The average family uses 120 gallons of hot water a day—for dishwashing, laundering, bathing, cleaning, and at least a hundred other household tasks.

As the demand for hot water increases, the need for heaters that will keep an abundant supply on tap at all times becomes urgent. This is why fundamental gas water heaters are being installed at the rate of 3,000,000 a year.

Gas solves the hot water problem quickly and economically because gas offers really fast recovery. This is the ability to replenish hot water as fast as it's used. And family gas heaters are designed to meet extra demands as well as normal use. This means that when a family grows in size, adds a bathroom or installs automatic appliances requiring large amounts of hot water, the heater will meet those new demands with the same speed, efficiency and economy.

Professor Had Tree for Son Early As 1832
August Ingard of Wooster, Ohio was long set up the first Christmas tree in America, in 1847. However, there were earlier Christmas trees in this country as recent research indicated. Chas. Folien, Harvard's first German professor, had a tree for his son Charles, as early as 1832.

Harriet Martineau, an English novelist visited the Folien home in that year and later in her book "Retrospect of Western Travel," described how an eventful year spent decorating the tree with gold egg shells, waxed paper and paper bags filled with special treats.

What About Frankincense And Myrrh?

Gold has always been one of man's most treasured possessions; but what about frankincense and myrrh, the other substances which were then close to offer as gifts to the infant Jesus? Why were they so highly valued?

Frankincense and myrrh are resin taken from trees and shrubs found on the dry rock-strewn hills of Somaliland and southwestern Arabia. Peoples of antiquity used the two substances for a variety of purposes—for embalming and in cosmetics, perfumes, medicines and incense.

Frankincense is chief producer of frankincense, although some comes from Arabia. Most frankincense comes from a small shrub-like plant with a stout trunk and pale brown and yellow bark. Its flowers are grouped in slender clusters and the fragrance of the blossoms is discernible for a considerable distance.

The resin flows from natural fissures in the bark of the tree or from man-made incisions. It emerges as a whitish, viscous liquid that turns yellow and clings to the wound as the tree bleeds. Every few days the resin is collected and the wound in the tree is freed.

Ancient Arab traders introduced frankincense to many peoples. Today the yellow tears and brown jumps of resin are sent to the seaport of Aden to be shipped to Europe, America, or Bombay.

Myrrh is obtained from trees of several species and most of it comes from the eastern coast of the trees are from ten to thirty feet tall, other myrrh-producing plants are mere bushes.

Myrrh flows freely from a break in the bark of the tree or plant and is collected in brownish-yellow resinous masses that may be as large as a hen's egg.

The ancients used myrrh in embalming, the Egyptians used it in the mummification process and myrrh in treatment of dropsy, earache, eye diseases, bladder stones, abscesses and broken heads.

Frankincense was chiefly used for incense, yet was an early ingredient in prescriptions for tooth pain, hemorrhoids, hemorrhages from the mouth and throat, brain beads, paralysed limbs, bruises and ulcers.

Hawaiians Paint Snow On Christmas Trees

Gift-giving is in order and everyone exchanges inexpensive presents. Even servants in hotels exchange gifts and receive gifts from overnight guests.

You Can Make Snow Grandmother's Way

Aerosol "snow" enables you to spread a fluffy white covering over evergreen branches for tree decorations by just pressing a button. If necessary, though, you can still make snow the way grandmother used to do.

Place plenty of soap chips on flakes in a little water. Beat lightly with a wire mesh spoon. Just enough to get a nice, thick foam. Smeared on needles and stems, allow to dry and you have a beautiful winter woodland scene.

Gold has always been one of man's most treasured possessions; but what about frankincense and myrrh, the other substances which were then close to offer as gifts to the infant Jesus? Why were they so highly valued?

Frankincense and myrrh are resin taken from trees and shrubs found on the dry rock-strewn hills of Somaliland and southwestern Arabia. Peoples of antiquity used the two substances for a variety of purposes—for embalming and in cosmetics, perfumes, medicines and incense.

Frankincense is chief producer of frankincense, although some comes from Arabia. Most frankincense comes from a small shrub-like plant with a stout trunk and pale brown and yellow bark. Its flowers are grouped in slender clusters and the fragrance of the blossoms is discernible for a considerable distance.

The resin flows from natural fissures in the bark of the tree or from man-made incisions. It emerges as a whitish, viscous liquid that turns yellow and clings to the wound as the tree bleeds. Every few days the resin is collected and the wound in the tree is freed.

Ancient Arab traders introduced frankincense to many peoples. Today the yellow tears and brown jumps of resin are sent to the seaport of Aden to be shipped to Europe, America, or Bombay.

Myrrh is obtained from trees of several species and most of it comes from the eastern coast of the trees are from ten to thirty feet tall, other myrrh-producing plants are mere bushes.

Myrrh flows freely from a break in the bark of the tree or plant and is collected in brownish-yellow resinous masses that may be as large as a hen's egg.

The ancients used myrrh in embalming, the Egyptians used it in the mummification process and myrrh in treatment of dropsy, earache, eye diseases, bladder stones, abscesses and broken heads.

Frankincense was chiefly used for incense, yet was an early ingredient in prescriptions for tooth pain, hemorrhoids, hemorrhages from the mouth and throat, brain beads, paralysed limbs, bruises and ulcers.

Mr. Businessman:

Here are ten solid facts you should consider in planning your advertising:

1. The newspaper is an advertising medium that is WANTED—it is sought after and paid for, and advertising in it is not an intruder in the home.
2. Nearly all of a newspaper's circulation is CONCENTRATED in its market area — without overextending into less promising markets.
3. The newspaper provides PENETRATION in the primary market by reaching virtually every family or customer in that market.
4. People read newspaper ads when they are ready to make a decision and to act — WHEN THEY'RE READY TO BUY.
5. The newspaper is convenient; it may be consulted at a time most CONVENIENT to every member of the family.
6. People LIKE TO READ NEWSPAPER ADVERTISEMENTS — surveys show 85% of people want their newspapers to contain advertising.
7. Every issue of every newspaper contains INFORMATION AND FEATURES of interest to every member of the family.
8. Newspaper reading is a habit and a part of people's routine.
9. The printed word is MORE RELIABLE THAN the spoken word and it cannot be refuted because it's easily available for re-checking. More accurate information is obtained by reading than listening.
10. The newspaper is ideal for comparison—items in a newspaper may be easily compared with items in other newspaper ads.

The most effective and most economical way to promote business is through newspaper advertising.

Over 40's Can Exercise Plenty

POINSETTIA CARE
Proper care will insure a long life for the poinsettia plant. Here are some suggestions:
Place the plant in a sunny window well away from drafts and excessive heat. A temperature of 70 degrees is recommended. Examine the soil twice daily and keep it uniformly moist. When it starts to dry out, apply enough water to wet the soil to the bottom.

Walking, swimming, golfing, hunting or snow shoveling can be safely done by a person over 40 years of age, says Dr. W. B. Prothro, City-County Health Officer. In fact, regular exercise should never cease to be a part of a healthy life at any age, Dr. Prothro said.
However, if Mr. "Over 40's" exercise routine is confined to turning his swivel chair, sudden strenuous physical exertion such as hunting or snow shoveling may cause difficulty if he already has a heart condition such as arteriosclerosis.
Exercise does not cause a heart condition, Dr. Prothro pointed out. However, any sudden exertion by a person having arteriosclerosis and who is not used to exercising or to earning his living "by the sweat of his brow" may be sufficient to bring on a heart attack.
Now is the time to begin physical training for the holiday season. An annual physical examination by a physician is valuable to those who do not know they have a heart condition.
If you have had a heart attack recently, check with your doctor before attempting to exercise this winter. If you aren't in good physical condition, leave the shoveling to the kids, Dr. Prothro suggested, they can use the money. If you are in good physical condition, shovel the snow yourself, you can use the exercise.

Costly Palaces Not Necessary For Schools

Costly palaces for schools are not needed, says Dean Philip N. Youtz, of The University of Michigan College of Architecture and Design.
School architects agree with taxpayers in recommending intelligent economy in school design, he continues. "A white elephant or a palace is a bad recommendation for a professional man."
However, the architect has no use for shoddy work likely to prove expensive to maintain and impossible to enlarge to meet growing needs, Dean Youtz points out.
"Architects must produce better schools—more economical, more effective in proving a setting for learning, and more flexible for changes and additions. The school architect should prepare himself to think as an educator," Youtz maintains.
How much money should a community spend on a school project to meet growing needs?
"The architect strives to maintain high standards so that the students and teachers may benefit by the best space arrangement, lighting, color, sanitation, heating, and cooling, and most important of all, enjoy imaginative surroundings which will contribute to creative learning."

MISTLETOE CUSTOMS
The ancient Druids worshipped mistletoe because it grew on their sacred oak. At the end of each year, a Druid priest would cut down the mistletoe with a golden sickle, and not one twig was allowed to touch the earth. Later, sprigs of mistletoe were fastened over doorways to ward off evil spirits.

ST. STEPHEN'S DAY
In Christian liturgy, December 26 is observed as the feast of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, and during the centuries when journeymen and apprentices were in the habit of leaving upon their master's customers, "Christmas Boxes" were collected on Saint Stephen's Day.

Dickens Believed "Chimes" Best

Historians often credit Charles Dickens' immortal "Christmas Carol" as being perhaps the most effective single force behind England's return to the observance of Christmas. Yet, Dickens did not consider it his greatest work, nor was it the best seller during his lifetime.
The most popular of Dickens' stories in his day was "The Cricket on the Hearth," the story of a father who tries to shield his blind daughter from the realities of life. "The Cricket" made its appearance in 1845 and was an immediate success. It sold twice as fast as the now-familiar story of Scrooge and Tiny Tim. Less than a month after "The Cricket" reached bookshelves, dramatic versions of it were playing in 12 prominent London theatres.
Despite the immediate success of "The Cricket" and the relative popularity of "Christmas Carol," Dickens did not believe either to be his greatest work. His personal favorite was "The Chimes," which he told friends "would knock the Carol out of the field."
Dickens, of course, was wrong. "The Chimes" and "The Cricket" have each taken a back seat to "The Christmas Carol," the cheerful Christmas story of Tiny Tim and his friends.

Outdoor Lighting

If you are planning an outdoor lighting display for the first time this year, here are some suggestions which should be helpful.
Don't use old lighting sets unless necessary. If you do, check carefully for loose connections and defective bulbs.
If you must use a combination of old and new light strings, the new strings, with new bulbs, in decorating the high or hard-to-reach places—such as the top of the tree or on the roof. New strings and new bulbs are less likely to burn out.
Don't use the small, series-wired bulbs for outdoor display. Hunting for defective bulbs on the indoor tree is bad enough; you certainly won't like to take on this task outdoors. Use the larger bulbs which burn out individually and replacing the bad ones will take less than a minute.
Don't overload your extension cord. Your house circuit is no doubt equipped to carry an extra load. A single extension cord, however, has a low capacity, so use more than one extension cord if you use a number of strings.

Evergreen Idea

According to an ancient Norse belief, an evergreen on the door will keep out witches—which may or may not have something to do with the fact that a giant, 22-foot, 1,000-pound wreath was hoisted on to the Metropolitan Museum in New York for the 1958 holiday.

Special Weekly CON-CON REVIEW

At the same time, the Convention's nine substantive committees turned to the tedious task of formulating specific recommendations for changes in Michigan's 35-year-old basic law, hopeful of completing a major portion of their work before the Dec. 22 recess.
"Ideally we'd like to finalize as many non-controversial matters as possible before the holidays," explained Convention President Stephen S. Nisbet, (R., Fremont).
The Convention is working toward a March 31 start adjournment date, Nisbet said. A resolution outlining a schedule for completion of various phases of work calls for:
Dec. 21: Completion of public hearings, Jan. 5: Completion of hearings on delegate proposals, Jan. 31: Completion of Committee reports, Adjournment: On or before March 31.
Meanwhile Nisbet moved to counteract what he described as "growing public confusion" over the Convention's work to date.
He singled out the more than 800 proposals for revision under the consideration by the Convention as the source of the confusion.
"Unfortunately many citizens have interpreted these proposals as final action," Nisbet said. "Others have been confused by conflicting proposals on specific issues."
"These proposals are only proposals and not final action," Nisbet emphasized. "They do not constitute final action."
"Each proposal must be given careful study and evaluation. Those deemed valid will be incorporated into Committee recommendations and reported out to the general Convention for further study and debate."
Nisbet urged citizens "to withhold judgment on the issues until the Convention has taken final action."
Dr. Charles W. Joiner, co-director of research and key figure in the Con-Con Preparatory Commission, backed up Nisbet's remarks and called public understanding "the ultimate key to the Convention's success."
"What the people must understand is that the State of Michigan has serious problems, and the Convention is making a serious effort to work out real and lasting solutions to these problems," Joiner said.
"And I think the people can take great pride in the 144 highly qualified representatives they have chosen to perform this important responsibility," he added.

Miracle Plays Part Of Brazil's Holiday

The Christmas season in Brazil begins on Christmas Eve and ends with Epiphany on January 6. And because it is really summertime (south of the equator) festivities and entertainment appropriate to summertime hold sway throughout the season.
Miracle plays are performed in adoration of the Holy Child. Many take the form of elaborate dances meticulously performed and accompanied by music or an orchestra. The Dance of the Four Parts of the World is a typical example.
The roles are enacted by girls dressed for the part and, in succession, Europe, Asia, Africa and America declaim. The discussion finally involves their respective rights to make obligation to the Christ Child. Eventually, Father Time appears and settles the dispute to the satisfaction of all concerned.

THE CHRISTMAS GOSPEL

"A Child is Born" "A Son is Given" "The Everlasting Father" "The Everlasting Father"

These words, taken from the prophecy of Isaiah, chapter 9 contain the marvelous mystery of Bethlehem. Here was a child born to Mary, but he was a son given by God, the Holy Spirit. Notice who is the "Mighty God" in human flesh, and the "Everlasting Father" or "Father of Eternity" as it has been translated.

Children Seek Self Identity at Early Age

Children are human beings all problems, but can resolve a ready launched on a lifetime search for a sense of self, says Marie Harwig, University of Michigan supervisor in physical education for women, in "Children Are Human—Even at Camp," a new book co-authored with Betty Myers (Burgess Publishing Co., Minneapolis, 95c, 225).

The boy child fails and flounders in a situation carrying possibility of failure. He prefers the security of fantasy. He needs constant support and reassurance. The shy child, following an argument with a classmate, will say, "That person doesn't like me."

This kind of child needs activity allowing him to lose his identity as an individual, the author says. "Group singing is a good example where the interest of personal failure is removed."

The aggressive child is often viewed as a noisy, stubborn, rebellious person who should be excluded from the activities of other children. He would be likely to say after an argument with another, "That person doesn't like me. I DON'T CARE. I DON'T LIKE HIM EITHER."

Children Should Not Be Labeled As Failures

Teachers should never use the word "failure" either to child or parent, says Norman G. Cole, University of Michigan professor of education.

This word is too often equated with insult and injury and from it, the child may infer that he is the child who simply is not achieving. How do we let him know? Says Ketcham, "I have no objection to the teacher dividing pupils into five groups, A through E, according to achievement. 'A' would indicate the pupil who is learning the most and 'E' the pupil who is learning the least."

"It's all right for the teacher to say to the slowest child, 'You are learning the least of the pupils in my class.'"

"What I do object to is calling the child a failure. A child who is at the bottom of his class is usually well aware of this himself. 'Children are able to accept, without emotional harm, the idea that they aren't doing as well in class as others. But this doesn't call for being labeled a failure.'"

"The U-M educator feels the traditional grading system is to blame here."

He points out that on the traditional report card a grade of 'A' is excellent and 'E' is failure. "Many teachers grade on the basis of simply by virtue of the fact that in every class you have children who are noticeably achieving much less than the brighter top of the class, failure is predetermined," says Ketcham. "It's wrong right into the policy of the school because there is bound to be someone who is at the bottom of the class."

"In this case, there isn't any standard, even to failure, because the bottom child in one community may be on an achievement level with the top child in another community. Geographical area alone could make a child a failure."

"The curve system of grading applies only to the entire population. You can't apply it to 30 pupils. It's entirely possible that a teacher could have all pupils who are average or above average."

YULE LOG CUSTOM

Medieval England celebrated Christmas for twelve days instead of four. The celebration began with the lighting of a huge log, which was kept burning for twelve days. At the end of the twelve days, the fire was extinguished and a remnant of the fire kept for the following year when it would be used to kindle a new log. This gave rise to the Yule log custom and explains why Christmas is sometimes referred to as "Yuletide."

Forest Hills School Life
Wyoming Whips Forest Hills 57-41
 The Wyoming Vikings led by their 6 ft 5 in. senior center Lance Riemsma, beat the Forest Hills Rangers on the winners home court Friday night. The win was Wyoming's first against as many losses. The loss dropped Forest Hills to a three-way tie for last place in the OAK conference.
 Reimersma led all scorers for the evening with 25 points before fouling out in the 4th period. Steve Bushouse was high for the Rangers with eight points.
 Tuesday Dec. 12, the Ranger Varsity will clash with the Byron Center Bulldogs at the Forest Hills Gym at 7 p. m.
 Friday, Dec. 15, the Rangers will meet Lee at the Rebej home court. This game starts at 6:30 p. m. Ranger fans are assured to see some exciting play and keen competition, for there will be great basketball rivalry with these particular schools.
 Forest Hills Freshmen were beaten last Friday afternoon with a second half rally by the Vikings. The Freshmen were led by the scoring efforts of Tom Gleason with 13 and Dick Flynn with 12.
 They will play the Byron Center Freshmen next week at 4:30 in the Rangers home gym.
 "Viking JV's Win 46-32"
 The reserves lost a hard-fought game to a spirited Viking squad Friday night. At first, plagued by a full court press, it was hard to set up a score. But they then broke it to lead at the half 20-13.
 In the second half they could not hold off a third-quarter scoring surge and were defeated. Fisher led the scoring column with 13.

Technical Drawing Classes Take Trip to Lear Plant
 Mike Sault & Karl Heldenga
 The technical drawing classes of Forest Hills High School took the afternoon of Tuesday, December 5, and toured Lear's Plant No. 6 under the direction of Mr. Klaus-wiler, the drawing instructor. Approximately 45 students attended this educational experience.
 The students went into the plant and were divided into nine groups of five, each group directed by a Lear supervisor. The supervisors conducted the tour around the plant, and the students saw many of the parts and products which were being processed in the plant.
 All in all, this was a very interesting and educational experience, in which the students saw some of the business complications involving technical drawing.

Swedish Holiday Season Features Lucia Day

A Swedish custom of long-standing is the observance of Lucia Day on December 13. The celebration takes its name from St. Lucia, or Lucy, married for her faith and virginity in Syracuse in 304 A. D.

Pretty blonde girls compete for the honor of being elected a "Lucia" with fair hair, good disposition and high character being outstanding recommendations.

Wearing a traditional costume (long white robes and crowns of lighted candles) the "Lucia" visits the sick, leads caravals, and attends banquets and balls accompanied by her "handmaidens."

The ancient custom coincides with the winter solstice, when the sun swings toward the earth once more and the days begin to lengthen.

Puritan Children Not Without Toys

While it is quite true that Christmas was just another winter day in early New England, Puritan children were not without toys.

It is quite likely that children in Puritan families received toys as awards for being good. Since there were no stores in which to buy toys, the father had to rely on his own ingenuity and imagination.

In most instances, toys were miniatures of furniture or other items familiar about the home, and were carefully whittled out of wood.

Some interesting toys from the New England of a century and a half ago may still be seen at Old Starbridge Village, Mass., a re-creation of a typical town in this period of American history.

Included in the collection are such items as a doll bed, wheelbarrow, a hand-stopped clock, and a dry team of oxen drawing a sled.

A new lightweight aluminum sledge which can be fastened to a garden hose is just the thing for gardeners faced with August dry weather. Roots of trees and shrubs can be fertilized and watered in a matter of minutes.

Use Christmas Card Decorations in Home

Christmas cards can be the key to a host of exciting decorating ideas in the home.

A pair of scissors, some cellophane tape, a ball of colored yarn.

—place a brightly-hued card in the center of the holiday wreath on your door, preferably one with "Christmas Greetings" in large letters.

—If you have a glass top coffee table, place an assortment under the glass. Try using a single theme—winter scenes, forests, Americana, religious.

—create a striking religious tableau on a small table or mantel by standing religious cards about the family Bible opened to St. Luke's narrative of the first Christmas.

—and don't forget the kitchen. This room is given less attention than any other when it comes to decorating at Christmas time.

If you criticize the wealthy these days, you may be accused of being anti-labor.

2. When the whole family is listed on the card, father's name comes first, followed by mother's and then the children according to age.

3. Address a card to both husband and wife, even if you know only one of them. The exception to this rule is the business card, that may be sent to one or the other at his or her office.

4. Address cards by hand, never by typewriter, and always include a return address. In New York City, also means your Christmas cards pour into the Dead Letter Office at the main post office.

5. It's both proper and thoughtful to send Christmas cards to people in mourning. It is a matter of courtesy and good taste to use the form of name preferred by widows. The same is true for the bereaved.

When sending cards to the clergy, always write "The Reverend Do." instead of simply "Reverend Do." However, the correct form for Protestant ministers with a doctor of divinity degree is "The Reverend Dr. Do." Initials of a special order or rank to be added to the names of Catholic priests who are also addressed as "Reverend Do."

Both etiquette and postal authorities agree that "first class friends" deserve first class mail. Translated literally this means four cent stamps. It also means your Christmas cards will be forwarded or returned, if necessary, and they may carry the brief written messages that so many people like to add to a greeting card.

You can provide a great service to the post office by remembering to: mail early; write addresses plainly; use zone, apartment, rural routes and box numbers; include return address; and the all cards for local distribution with addresses face up and the same with all cards for "out-of-town" and "out-of-state."

Checking Heating Plant Avoids Home Fires Says Safety Engineer

About 45 percent of all farm fire deaths in rural homes occurs from October through March.

"Surveys show that defective heating equipment is associated with about 48 percent of all home fire deaths," according to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer.

"About 30 percent of these deaths happen between 8 p. m. and 8 a. m."

Pfister recommends having a competent service man check equipment unless you thoroughly understand it. He may determine whether safety devices such as shut-off and high-low-level limit controls work properly.

"There's trouble ahead when you try to make a stove heat a large area than it's capable of handling," the engineer adds. "The manufacturer's manual indicates a stove's normal heating capacity."

The chimney can cause trouble too. Pfister stresses the need to clean it regularly and check to see that the flue lining is sound. It's also important to check for loose masonry—especially near the roof line. Vibration of TV aerials attached to a chimney frequently loosens mortar.

"Be sure to keep flammable materials away from heaters, pipes and chimney connectors," the engineer warns. "As the stove pipe leaves the stove, the first three feet of it shouldn't come less than 18 inches from combustible materials."

On partly-filled fuel storage tanks water often condenses on the inside and settles to the bottom. This moisture then leads to corrosion of the tank as well as the burner unit. Keeping the tank at least half full tends to reduce condensation.

It's essential to have the first-stage regulator outdoors on a liquid petroleum (LPG) gas installation, according to Pfister. Service men should check an LPG gas storage system whenever cylinders are replaced.

One dangerous type of mishap happens when furnace motors burn out. Pfister suggests three preventive checks or replace furnace filters often.

"Second, lubricate the fan assembly and motor regularly. The fan requires oiling more often than the motor."

Third, use a time-delay fuse to protect the motor from over-heating. This fuse should be one and one-fourth times as large as the rated amperage on the motor nameplate."

Christmas Names

Many towns and cities in the United States have names which reflect Christmas in one way or another.

This Holy Land monument is built on the site where Jesus pronounced the Sermon on the Mount. Blessed are the poor, blessed are the meek, blessed are the merciful.

From the chapel, the visitor can see the footprints of Jesus, downward from the Mount of Beatitudes to the Sea of Galilee, where He performed the miracle of the loaves and fishes, and where He preached on the "Bread of Life."

Nazareth and Cana are but a short distance away.

Reunion and Feasting

Through the ages, Christmas has always been a time of reunion and feasting.

In this country, Christmas is not considered complete unless the entire family gathers at "mom's" or "gramma's." Turkey on the table is a tradition and, in some sections, ham is considered a menu necessity.

In the time of the Saxons, the festive board was spread with a "born-cloth" and the guests waited impatiently for the two specialties that marked Christmas: the peacock and the boar's head.

Use Spotlight

If you want your outdoor decorations to really attract attention, spotlight them and conceal the source of the light as much as possible.

Placing the spotlight beneath a nearby shrubbery hides the source of the light—but be careful!

At the University of Michigan there were 1,612 tables delivered at the University's hospital during the past year.

WE HAVE A FINE SELECTION OF CHRISTMAS TREES For Sale

Our SCOTCH PINE trees are individually selected and are all fresh cut, including the beautiful improved French Blue variety. We have the sheared and the natural—all sizes.

Check Heating Plant Avoids Home Fires Says Safety Engineer

About 45 percent of all farm fire deaths in rural homes occurs from October through March.

"Surveys show that defective heating equipment is associated with about 48 percent of all home fire deaths," according to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer.

"About 30 percent of these deaths happen between 8 p. m. and 8 a. m."

Pfister recommends having a competent service man check equipment unless you thoroughly understand it. He may determine whether safety devices such as shut-off and high-low-level limit controls work properly.

Send Your Mail Early

The Post Office requests and pleads and warns: send your mail early. We hear it, and depending that this year so are going to do it. But there are so many things to do: shopping, preparing company dinners, or we just don't feel like it tonight. Before we know it, we are as late as ever. We are caught in the rush, so with much of life. We have good intentions, but they just don't get carried out. We should do it. We should go to church, we should study our Bible; we should investigate the Christ, whose birthday we commemorate at Christmas. But we just don't do it. Before we know it, a life has passed. Send your Christmas mail now. Far more important, give your life to the Christ of Christmas and Calvary, NOW.

New Yule Look

"Honeycomb" paper, used to form the familiar red yule bell, is expected to be back on the Christmas scene this season as the 100-year-old unique paper form is given new form and dress.

This Christmas in stores from coast to coast there'll be a new idea on display, designed to beautify American homes and add easy, do-it-yourself touches to holiday decorations fashioned from this adaptable paper.

The resumption of the use of such paper has opened a broad new vista for paper conversion firms, according to Hallmark Cards, the firm that pioneered the comeback of "honeycomb" paper. The greeting card firm now has more than 200 different products utilizing such paper.

A heat-resistant ink recently developed is said to withstand temperatures up to 2500 degrees F. and is designed specifically for use on paper form. It gives identification marks on steel, copper, brass and welding rods. A new safety harness for toddlers that gives children freedom to make a complete 360 degree turn is now on the market.
