School Opens Tuesday, September 3 Bookstores To Open Monday, Aug. 26

The Lowell Area Schools is beginning to move into its fall phase of activity. Summer cleaning and painting has taken place and the Senior High School is nearly completed. Only final cleaning and picking up is needed to finish up the building.

Carl Hagen, Senior High School principal, announces that he will be in his new offices starting Monday, August 19, from 9 to 12, and 1 to 4. New high school enrollees should see him during that week. Parents of kindergarten children, who have not received their preschool information, including physical and dental forms, should do so at once from the Superintendent's office. All kindergarten children should have these reports filled out by their family doctor and dentist by the opening of school.

Bookstores Open Aug. 26
Bookstores will be operated in both the Junior and Senior High Schools this year for the first time. Books will be sold from August 26-30 from 9 to 5:30, including the lunch period. Students with credit slips should bring them at the time books are purchased.

Grade children will rent books, as in the past. The rental charge will be $8.50 in grades one, two and four; $8.00 in grade five; $7.75 in grade six; and $7.50 in grade three. Rental fees will be collected during the first week of school by the classroom teacher.

Appear on Television
On August 21, Mr. Nisbet and Mr. Hagen will appear on WKZO TV from 2:15 to 2:30. This program will be a discussion on the new Senior High School; the building and the educational program.

The Board of Education is planning an Open House of the Senior High School the afternoon of August 25. By then most of the equipment and supplies will be in order. It is hoped that the members of the School District and of the surrounding area will take this opportunity to visit their school before the school activities begin.

Sells Trucking Business To Alto Area Farmer
Harold Yoder of Route 2, Alto, announced recently that transactions have been completed for the selling of his livestock trucking business.

After being in the livestock trucking business for 33 years, Mr. Yoder sold the enterprise to Chris Wenger of Route 2, Alto, on August 9.

Mr. Wenger will strive to give all customers the same friendly and courteous service that they received from Mr. Yoder. Chris is available for all your trucking needs, and he can be reached by either stopping at his farm on 100th street or by dialing 868-2534.

Notice To 4-H'ers

Area 4-H Clubs which wish to publish a list of Kent County 4-H Fair winners must have the information at the Ledger office by 5 p. m. next Monday, August 19. Names of winners will appear in next week's paper ONLY.

To place your ad in the Lowell Ledger, phone TW 7-9261.

Looking for an interesting way to spend the weekend? Take a tip from Charles Kyser, 20.

Kyser and a companion, James McFall, 20, were picked up late Wednesday evening, August 7, by Lowell police for being illegally in possession of alcohol.

The Lowell men spent the night in the Kent County Jail and then pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice Howard Rittenger last Friday morning.

Rittenger fined McFall $50 plus costs, but Kyser, who has a record of previous offenses, received a stiffer penalty—$100 plus costs, and four week-ends in the county jail.

Avery Block, Lowell Police Chief, said that he was very impressed with the need for new legislation to save lives on Michigan streets and highways after attending the Safety Council's Conference in Grand Rapids Monday.

New licensing rules for drivers and inspection of vehicles is needed to cut the death toll which has already reached the 1,000 mark in Michigan this year.

Lowell police were startled to see a 2-year-old boy coming down Monroe Street last Friday morning at 8:30 in pouring rain clad in a pair of plastic pants and a night shirt.

He was given a police escort back to his home, after a period of futile questioning.

Norm F. Shortt, 31, of Flint, is a guest at Kent County Jail for the next 30 days and will stay 30 more days unless he digs up $100 and costs for zig-zagging through Main Street last Saturday at 2:30 a. m.

Local authorities stopped him after he almost hit a car. He was fined and jailed by Justice Rittenger on Monday for drunken driving.

Ferris E. Thompson of Route 1, Fenwick, has sent us a pair of postcard views of Lowell in the early part of the century.

One card shows the old "White School," a two-story frame building built 101 years ago and torn down in 1915 to make way for the present brick building. The other is a Main Street view, taken at a time when hitchhosis lined the walks, the street was little more than a muddy dirt track, and power and phone cables were strung in as many as six tiers from a series of ugly wooden poles.

Ten years ago this week the 19th annual 4-H Fair opened in Recreation Park with the extra space in the new Exhibition Hall a most welcome addition. A drunk driver plowed into a Runciman Co. bean truck in Portland, Indiana, and the big semi overturned, burst into flames, and was completely destroyed. High school teachers Bob Perry and Charles White attended education workshops at the U of M in preparation for the opening day of school. Grand Rapids mayor Paul Goebel was Dan Treleven's speaker at Rotary. Hugh VanderVeen was elected first president of the new Lowell Bowling Association. Workers began remodeling the former L. W. Lamb building at the northwest village limits for the new Lowell Stamping Co. Plant. Two dog bite cases were reported. Potatoes were selling for 35c a 10-lb. bag, and the hottest car on the showroom floors was the Aero Willys.

Former Grattan Resident Passes In California

Clayton J. Beach, a former resident of the Grattan community, passed away August 9, in Hollywood, California, following a few days illness at the age of 80.

Born in Grattan, where he spent the greater part of his life, Mr. Beach worked for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, and was also employed as a clerk in the E. J. Lessiter General Store for many years.

His wife, the former Glenna Deik, also worked for the telephone company, in the Lowell offices. Before his retirement several years ago, Mr. Beach was employed by the telephone company in Hollywood, California.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Roy; and one granddaughter.

CLOSED THURSDAY AUG. 15
Jackson Motor Sales will be closed Thursday afternoon Aug. 15 for their annual employees picnic.

Motorcyclist Injured As Fire Destroys Bike Monday

Lowell firemen were called to the North M-91 city limits at 2:30 a. m. on Monday when a motorcycle driven by Robert Sikorski, 21, of Comstock Park missed the curve and hit a speed limit sign. Sikorski suffered a amputated finger and a broken ankle. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital by ambulance. The bike caught fire and was completely destroyed.

Three Injured Saturday
Mrs. Edward Roth of Alder Nash Avenue and her sons, Scott, 1, and Edward, Jr., 8, were taken to Butterworth Hospital Saturday evening, when the Roth car crashed into a car driven by Dan Lasinski, 23, of Grand Rapids, at the West Main Street C & O Railroad crossing at 7:30.

Mrs. Roth and the boys were treated and released. She drove the Lasinski car forward into a car driven by Douglas E. Lovins, 20, of Grandville. No one in these two cars were injured.

Conditioning Program To Start For Football Teams

The Lowell Y. M. C. A. football physical conditioning program will begin on Monday, August 19, at 7 p. m. in Recreation Park. Registration is starting now, and the program is open to all boys who will be a candidate for one of the football teams.

Candidates for Junior Varsity will report for their physical examinations at the old high school locker room this Thursday, August 14, at 8 a. m. Bring completed physical cards to the examination.

Lowell Pekinese Produces Large Litter; Sets Record

An 18-month-old Pekinese owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey, 1020 Sibley, gave birth recently to a litter of seven pups, believed to be a record in this area. There were four females and three males in the dog's first litter.

Pekinese litters usually consist of no more than two or three. One of Tuffy's off-springs is "particolored," which is also considered a rarity. The new pups are registered with the American Kennel Club.

CAR STOLEN HERE, DRIVEN OVER 200 MILES IN 5 HOURS

The car belonging to Fred Beimers of Lowell View Avenue was stolen at 12:08 a. m. on Thursday, August 8, near the upper bridge over the Grand River on Division Street, while Beimers was fishing. The car was recovered in Monroe, Michigan, over 200 miles away at 5:32 a. m. that same morning.

Mr. Beimers had a long trip to get this car back.

Enjoy 4-H Fair In Spite of Cold and Rain

Cold and rain has attempted to dampen the spirits of the Kent County 4-H Fair being held all this week at Lowell's 4-H Fairgrounds, but the hustle and bustle of the fair is going at a fast pace.

Record entries in riding horses kept judges busy the first two days of the fair. Over 200 horses were entered in the various classes.

Wednesday night there were games and contests with the horses giving county 4-H youth a chance to show their riding ability. Judging in the various divisions continues through Friday. The fair disbands Saturday morning.

Hundreds of the boys and girls along with adult leaders are camping at the park, and would be enjoying the swimming pool facilities, except for the temperature drop, which hit the high forties on Wednesday morning.

Livestock Parade Thursday
Climaxing the judging of the livestock at the fair will be the parade on Thursday evening at 7:30 followed by a variety show, and pet parade in front of the grandstand.

Friday is kids day at the fair with half price on the rides. Tractor and auto operating contests and judging will be held in the morning. The 4-H market livestock sale will be held at 1:30 p. m. of the top animals of the fair.

In the evening in front of the grandstand, the "Little Olympics" will be held with trophies awarded. At 8 p. m. there will be a horse show at the arena.

Services Friday For Edwin M. Potter

Edwin M. Potter, who would have been 98 on October 10, died Tuesday at the Dalstra Rest Home in Lowell. He was born October 10, 1865, on his family farm in Keene Township, the son of Charles and Celia (Taylor) Potter, who came to this community from Glastenbury, Connecticut, May 5, 1856.

Mr. Potter operated the family farm until the last few years. He was married to Mary McKeivey, who died June 17, 1959. Mr. Potter was a life member of the Saranac Masonic Lodge, who will conduct the services Friday afternoon at 2:30 in the Morris Funeral Home in Saranac. Burial will be made in the Saranac Cemetery.

He is survived by three sons, Byron and Paul of Lowell, and Edwin of Saranac; three daughters, Mrs. Ralph (Edith) Wheaton of Greenville, Mrs. Celia Boss of Lowell, and Mrs. Gordon (Mary) Hoddinott of Cleveland; seventeen grandchildren and twenty-six great-grandchildren.

Larry Watson Ends Drug Career After 13 Years, 13 Days

A Lowell institution drew to a close this week when Larry Watson ended his career as a Lowell pharmacist.

Watson cashed up for the last time Monday night at his Main Street drug store, ending 13 years and 13 days of filling prescriptions and serving the public in Lowell.

In the past few years Watson's activities at the store had been curtailed somewhat following a heart attack which hospitalized him in October, 1961.

From Ionia

Laurence L. Watson, formerly a druggist in Ionia, purchased the Henry's Drug Store at 203 E. Main St. in July, 1950, and formally took possession of the concern on August first of that year.

The Henry Drugs had been established 45 years earlier by the late M. N. Henry, well known Lowell pharmacist and village president.

Watson came to Lowell after 21 years in the former Smith and Smith Drugs in Ionia. For 4 1/2 of those years he was a partner in the firm and the store went under the name of Huber and Watson.

Watson's wife, the former Gertrude Hughes of Portland, also has served at the Lowell store as a member of the staff. Prior to this, Mrs. Watson had been a nurse.

Watson was a graduate of Ferris Pharmacy School. He is affiliated with the Masonic Lodge and the Benevolent Order of the Elks.

The Watsons have one daughter, Lynne, and two grandchildren. The family home is located at 117 N. Jefferson Street.

The Main Street store will continue to be operated by Dean Mangold.

Isaac Wood, 84 Life-Long Lowell Resident, Passes

Isaac A. Wood, aged 84, passed away at the Greenview Nursing Home in Grand Rapids, on Friday, August 9.

He was born in Lowell on February 18, 1879, the son of Henry and Emma Wood.

"Ike" was well known as a contractor in "years gone by" and many homes and other buildings in Lowell and surrounding areas knew his handiwork. Numerous sidewalks in our town also bear his name—I. A. Wood—attesting to his skill with concrete as well as with wood and plaster.

For many years since his wife, Jennie, passed away, Ike had lived alone in his little home on Hudson Street.

He was a member of the Senior Citizen's Club and his many stories of the "old days" gave his friends much enjoyment. He suffered an accidental hip injury last January 15, and was cared for at the Lowell Rest Home until last week, when he moved to Grand Rapids. His death came very suddenly.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Kellogg of Lowell, and Miss Addie Wood of Grand Rapids; one brother, Clarence Wood, of Kalamazoo, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held Monday, August 12, at Roth Funeral Home. The Rev. Kenneth Culver officiated. Interment was made in Snow Cemetery, Cascade.

Installation of a new electric power transformer at the recently built Lowell sub-station is expected to draw to completion within the next two weeks, according to Jake Callier, Lowell Light and Power Co. acting superintendent. The new transformer, shown here being unloaded by crane, weighs a total of 31 tons. Part of this weight is made up of 27,200 lbs. of oil, used in the transformer as a coolant.

New Transformer and Sub-Station Means New Power For Lowell Soon

Lowell will be able to tap a new source of electric power soon. Workmen this week are putting finishing touches on a new transformer at the sub-station located behind the present power plant on Riverside Drive.

When tests have been completed, the new sub-station will in effect be able to handle 5,000 kilowatts, a power stream which is greater than the present 4,936 kilowatts generated by the local plant when it operates at full capacity.

The new power will be purchased from the Wolverine Electric Cooperative, a Big Rapids-based company whose lines link up power stations in several Western Michigan counties.

Jake Callier, acting superintendent of the Lowell Light and Power Co., said Tuesday that Wolverine power will be used as a supplement for the present power supply and whenever else it may be needed—at peak consumption hours, during the breakdown or servicing of the community's present generating equipment, or in the future, when power needs are expected to increase.

Stabilization...
The demand for electricity fluctuates throughout the day, Callier explained, and each community hooked up in the Wolverine system often feels this demand at a different hour of the day.

When one of the communities in the system has an extraordinarily heavy demand for power, it can draw upon the resources of the cooperative to meet the demand.

At other times, when the demand is light, a community may be asked by the cooperative to generate extra power to feed to other communities in the chain when they reach their "peak" demand hours.

"Our new transformer is of the latest design and will automatically regulate the voltage being fed into the Lowell electric distribution system," Callier said. "This inter-connection with a larger power company will also aid in stabilizing our local system," he added.

Means Efficiency

Callier explained that Lowell's new hook-up will enable the community to operate its plant more efficiently.

Instead of revving up the light company's diesel generators to meet great drains on the community's power supply, and then slowing them down again when the demand slackens off, engineers at the local plant will be able to operate the generators at an even rate and allow the new automatic equipment at the sub-station to handle any abrupt increases in the demand.

"It's a little like driving a car," Callier pointed out. "When you race your engine up to 70 miles an hour, and then slow it down to 50, you're not going to get as good gas mileage as you would if you kept your car rolling along at 60."

"Safety Factor"
At present, Callier said, only 3,000 kilowatts of power are needed to keep Lowell manufacturing plants and homes supplied during peak hours. Normally the local generators can easily meet this demand.

The new hook-up with the Wolverine system, however, will give Lowell an added "safety factor" in the event of mechanical breakdown.

One of the present generators at the plant is almost 30 years old, and all of the generators require increasingly frequent shut-downs for repairs and servicing.

Should one of these generators break down unexpectedly, Lowell could be without power for an extended period of time—a situation which is viewed dimly by factory owners during the work day and by housewives during supper time.

In 1952, for example, an early-morning fire at the light plant left the city paralyzed for eight hours, and just last May service was disrupted for 22 minutes after one of the generators exploded while in operation.

With Wolverine power available, however, such emergencies could be overcome more readily.

Cost is Shared
To bring its power to Lowell, the Wolverine company has built a new transmission line into the City from its nearest sub-station, located 14 miles away near Lake Odessa.

The cost of the new transmission lines will be borne entirely by Wolverine, but the cost of the new sub-station and transformer will be shared with the Lowell Light and Power Co.

The contract price for the new sub-station and its modern equipment is expected to total $92,525, of which the Lowell company will pay $80,850.

Kirkhof Electric Corporation of Grand Rapids was contracted to handle the construction of the new riverbank facility. Callier said it will be put into operation as soon as wiring can be completed and the new equipment can be tested.

CLOSED FOR VACATION
Fluger's Lowell Bakery will be closed Monday, August 19 through Labor Day for vacation. c-18

Don Dilly Makes Indiana Univ. Team

Don Dilly, former Lowell High School standout athlete, is one of the few sophomores expected to see considerable action this fall on the Indiana University Fighting Hoosier football squad. At the end of Spring drills Don was running neck and neck with the starter at the wingback position and will more than likely split the duties when the Big Ten Conference member opens its season September 28 at Northwestern University. Dilly will report for practice September 8. The Indiana team will be playing at Michigan State University on October 19. When Dilly makes his first appearance with the Hoosier varsity, he will be Lowell's first Big Ten football player. Everyone in the community is looking forward to a great season for its top athlete. Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dilly, 310 Lincoln Lake Ave., Lowell.

A WONDERFUL SUNDAY

Last Sunday was another wonderful Sunday at Calvary Chapel. A father and mother rose to their feet, professed their faith in Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, and received the rite of holy baptism. Following this their six children were also baptized as children of the covenant of God's grace.

Thus another family has been brought out of the stream of godless humanity into the family of God. How was this brought about? By hearing the word of God preached and taught, and by the working of the Holy Spirit in their hearts, directing them to Jesus Christ as the only Savior.

We invite you and your family to come and hear the word of the Lord. The salvation which has come to this family and to several other families can also come to your family.

About Half of Michigan's Roads Are Still Unpaved

Some people seem to think there are no unpaved roads left in Michigan. They couldn't be more wrong. The fact is that 67,231 of the 111,209 miles of roads and streets in Michigan are not paved.

But most of the people who live and drive on these unpaved roads wouldn't think of begrudging the city slicker his paved streets. Potholes, flying dust and loose gravel are just bad memories to many. The difference is made by clean, economical chemicals that give unpaved roads a moist long-lasting surface. These chemicals, such as calcium chloride, give unpaved roads the same appearance and benefits of a light summer shower. They keep dust in its place, and turn grimy nuisances into scenic lanes. With this quick-acting chemical, local road officials can change complaints about road dust to words of praise—quicker than overnight.

Maybe that's why some folks think only a few Michigan roads are unpaved. They just don't notice them anymore. Lowell's first school opened on May 1, 1839, with an enrollment of 14 children, 5 of whom were Indians.
