Reactivates School Guidance Program

The high school guidance program has been reactivated after a year's absence. Hans Andrews is the new director of the guidance program and Mrs. Roth has assigned counseling time to work with freshmen students. Mrs. Richards, the high school secretary, is also a valuable person to this program in the many hours of secretarial assistance she provides.

The guidance program has as its main objectives to help students to better prepare themselves for high school work and for eventual employment or college training following their high school graduation.

Students in grades 8 through 11 will be given assistance in planning their course of study during their remaining high school years. This is accomplished by working with each student on an individual counseling basis. The students and counselors are assisted by the guidance tools of teacher recommendations, the standardized testing program, interest inventories, placement on part time jobs, and through the use of the occupational files.

The process of helping a student select a future job is a continuous process and one that is developmental in nature. That is to say, the student changes in his occupational choice as he matures and comes in contact with new experiences in the classroom and in his out of school environment.

The guidance program is also offering assistance to adults in the Lowell area who wish to complete their high school diplomas either through night school or through an accredited correspondence school.

Hans Andrews

Mr. Andrews received his Bachelor of Science degree from Central Michigan University and his Master of Arts degree in the field of Guidance and Counseling from Michigan State University. One summer of his preparation was taken through the National Defense Educational Act at Kansas State College of Pittsburg, Kansas. Mr. Andrews is presently living on Washington Street in Lowell with his wife, Dawn, and their two children Tina Marie and Hans III.

Prior to coming to Lowell, Mr. Andrews was at Colon, Michigan, for two years where he initiated a guidance program and taught commercial classes. He has had active military duty with the Army Medical Service Corp while stationed in San Antonio Texas, as an Army Reserve Officer.

Home From Korea

Son-4 Charles P. VanDenBroeck, son of Mrs. Viona Hodges of 919 West Main Street, Lowell, arrived in San Francisco, California on October 23.

He has returned from overseas duty, where he served with the 1st Battle Group, 32nd Infantry, Company D, for 13 months at Camp Hovey of Seoul, Korea.

After a two week furlough with his family and friends, he will be stationed at Fort Knox in Kentucky.

Heart Attack Fatal To Albert Roth, 71

A heart attack while hunting near Caro on Sunday was fatal to Albert Roth, Lowell Water Engineer, and well-known member of the firm of Hubbel, Roth and Clark, Consulting Engineers of Birmingham, Michigan.

Roth, who has engineered many Lowell water and sewer projects in the past, was just engaged this summer to bring the water study up-to-date for the community. His work on this project has not been completed.

Albert Roth was born in Lowell, August 13, 1892, graduated from Lowell High School in 1909, and from the University of Michigan school of engineering in 1914. After completing a special sanitary engineering study at the University in 1915, he went to work for the State Health Department. He became a partner with Mr. Hubbel in his engineering firm in Detroit in 1916. He has had over 45 years of continuous service as a principal of this firm.

He made his home in Birmingham, Michigan for the past 7 years. Before that, he resided in Detroit. He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham, a life member of Oakland Hill's Country Club, and many engineering societies.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Riordan of Birmingham; a son, George, of Livonia; and five grandchildren. He has three sisters, Mrs. Alfred Otto of West Bend, Wisconsin, Mrs. Albert Blaser of Lowell, and Mrs. John Hapeman of Cedarville, Michigan.

Funeral services were held in Birmingham Wednesday morning and a second service at Roth Funeral Home in Lowell in the afternoon. Interment was in Oakwood Cemetery here.

Police Chief At Police School

Chief Avery W. Block of the Lowell Police Department was among top city, county and state police administrators from four states who participated in the second annual Police Management Institute at Michigan State University October 28 to November 1.

Greater involvement of police in the community activities outside of their traditional enforcement and protection roles was a primary aim of the institute.

"Today's police department is big business," said Lawrence J. Baril of the MSU School of Police Administration and Public Safety, who heads the Institute, the only one of its kind in the nation.

"Good management practices are as necessary for the police department as for industry. They enable the police administrator to provide the best police service for the community at a savings to the taxpayer."

The institute was designed to enable the police administrator to better understand the population segments with whom his department deals, and to get the best from each of his subordinates. It was also planned to aid him in getting better community acceptance for police, and wider participation in crime prevention activities.

School Bands Sponsor Sale of Fruit Cakes

The Lowell Area School bands are again selling the Texas Manor Fruit Cakes. Any member of the beginning, cadet, junior, or Senior bands can supply you with cakes. While the band has as many cakes on hand this year to sell as they sold last year, we usually have to order more at the last minute.

This year no orders will be taken after December 3, because delivery is slow in December and all cakes must be taken care of before school is out. If you are not contacted, call TW 7-7366 soon to assure delivery.

Profits from the sale go towards buying band instruments, uniforms, trips, etc.

Halloween was fairly quiet in Lowell the police department reported this week. Egg throwing by a group of boys led to their being held in the City Hall for questioning and then returned to their parents. Two fire hydrants were opened, but were discovered quickly.

There were ten regular and special officers on duty in the city that evening.

A citizen's warrant was responsible for Roy Green, 22, receiving a $25 fine and costs in Justice Rittenger's court on Friday.

He was charged with reckless driving on Grindale Drive.

Work has been started on the new elevator for the C. H. Runciman Company, to replace the building destroyed by fire last June. Contractor for the 66 ft. high steel and cement building is Hough Brothers of Sunfield, Lowell Construction Company, a subcontractor, is now installing cement foundations.

A project of the Chamber of Commerce to install brackets on the 65 street light posts on Main Street, to carry flags and other decorations for Christmas and throughout the year was given a death blow last week.

The Michigan State Highway Department refused permission to place display over the street.

The City Council was notified this week that Mrs. Eula Iteem of Morley, Michigan, is claiming damages for an injury she sustained when she fell September 4, 1963, near the intersection of South Hudson and Ottawa Streets.

She claims her fall was due to a hole in the paving. The city's insurance company is investigating the claim.

What flavor are your NO TRESPASSING signs? This was a question brought to the Ledger last week when Tom Cornell of Route 3, Lowell, found the signs that he had purchased were being eaten off the posts by deer.

Cornell saw several deer chewing the signs last week, and was curious as to what flavor we put on the paper.

William Plar, 19, of Route 3, Lowell, who pleaded guilty of soliciting a minor girl for an immoral purpose, was sentenced last Friday when he appeared before Circuit Court Judge Fred N. Searl.

He received a 9 month jail sentence to be served at the Kent County Jail.

Don Dilly, former Lowell High School football star now playing at Indiana University was impressive in his showing in the defeat of Minnesota last Saturday, 24-6.

Dilly recovered a fumble, and scored two touchdowns, besides doing a fine job of blocking.

Ten years ago... Merleen Condon reigned as 1953 homecoming queen; 3,500 were present at the game to see Lowell bow to Lee, 19-6... Ghosts and goblins had put in their usual appearance on Halloween, and the usual destruction was reported... The garbage collection rates were raised and people began to wonder if a more economical means of trash removal could be devised... Cary P. Stiff took the Lowell Rotary Club on a slide tour of Cape Cod's Nantucket Island... A new M-21 bridge at Ada was on the drawing boards, with construction planned for 1954-55... John Troy was present at the Village Council meeting to urge that the safety hazard created by old ice boxes be removed; the Council passed an ordinance requiring residents to remove latches when ice boxes are discarded.

Lowell shoppers were reminded that only 41 shopping days remained before Christmas.

Halloween Party Sopping Success

The Moose Civic Affairs Halloween party and Youth Honor Day last Thursday was a high success despite the rather damp weather.

Over 100 children participated in the parade, and other ghosts and goblins joined the party at the skating building in Recreation Park.

The parade left the Runciman building at approximately 6:30 with the junior high band and police escort leading the way.

Following the judging of the children in disguise, Steve Nisbet introduced the city officials and gave a short talk on how the faculty chose the reigning king and queen.

After the crowning of Linda Block and Craig Wittenbach, as queen and king, they were presented bank books with $5 deposited in their name by the Civic Affairs Committee. When the youth present the books at the State Savings Bank, another $5 will be added to the account by the bank.

A barrel of cider, 400 donuts and seven bushels of apples loaded down the Moose "chuck wagon" as it arrived on the scene.

The Moose Civic Affairs Committee wishes to express their thanks to all those who cooperated in this program. Especially the Ledger for their excellent publicity. Orval Jessup and the junior high band for a wonderful job, Ed Kiel for the cider, and the school and city officials who participated.

New Language Lab At High School

Using the new language laboratory in the new high school area, from front to rear: Gary Barnett, Peter Berger, Ralph Miller and instructor Mrs. Bergin at the master control center. These are second year French students who are improving their conversational French by use of records, tapes and recording their own voices and then playing them back.

Have you heard about the new language lab? Yes, but what is a language lab? This is what the alumnus of Lowell High School are asking one another.

The new lab consists of a master set that plays tapes, records, and makes possible reviewing tests and conversations between students. There is one student recorder on which the pupils can make tapes and play them back for further drill. Also, they can make up vocabulary tests on the student recorder if they happen to be absent on the day of the original test. Seven more earphone and microphone complete the lab.

As students of Lowell High School we think that it is the best thing that has happened to our language department in quite some time. A part of every class period is devoted to listening to tapes which are made by French speakers. We have reading books that correspond with the tapes. In this way, we hear the words spoken, repeat them, and see the words all at the same time. We also practice French conversations with other students on the earphones and go over the weekly vocabulary.

This program is helping us tremendously to master conversational French.

Our teacher, Mrs. Bergin, has been helping a great deal with the new lab. She makes some of the tapes, monitors our pronunciation during our daily sessions in the lab, and answers questions we may have.

Traveling Time Is Cut In Half

B. G. Brown, Travel Editor of the Grand Rapids Press and former president of the West Michigan Tourist Association, believes Michigan's 1,000-mile freeway system played a major role in Michigan's summer tourist season.

Brown wrote recently that Michigan's new freeways "are fulfilling their promise of cutting travel time in half and making it more comfortable." He said: "When tourists can comfortably travel from Cincinnati to the Straits of Mackinac in a single day with barely a traffic stop along Interstate 75 this is indeed a major stimulant."

All of Michigan's freeways are taking travelers to their destinations in half the time formerly consumed.

"It literally has moved many mid-western cities hours closer to Michigan vacation spots."

Deer-Car Accidents Speeding Upward

The Michigan Department of Conservation reports that deer-car accidents have increased steadily from 1947 to 1952. The graph shows a sharp rise starting in 1950, reaching a peak in 1952.

This fall, Michigan deer hunters should bring home over 7,000,000 pounds of venison. During the year, motorists will "bag" another 300,000 pounds. Hunters will get a lot of sport and good eating for their efforts, but drivers who hit whitetails are in for nothing but trouble—and danger. Damage to their cars alone will average about $200 per accident. With this year's highway deer kill expected to approach 5,000 animals—some 870 above the record total of 1952—auto repair bills will total $1 billion. As these graphs show, the hazard of deer-car collisions is most serious, and increasingly so, in the southern half of the lower peninsula (Region II) where whitetail numbers are snowballing each year. Since 1954, auto traffic in southern Michigan has risen 27 percent. The Conservation Department expects highway kill to hold pretty steady about its present level in the upper peninsula (Region I). It looks for a continued increase in these accidents along the highways of the southern lower peninsula (Region II), but not at southern Michigan's "samashing" rate.

The Lowell High School varsity took the 2nd place spot in the conference again in 1953 for the third time. Pictured here is the squad: front row, left to right: Barry Knoolthuis, Dennis Verburg, Darrell Kelley, Dick Rollins, Duane Baker, Gary Kropp, Terry Abel, Ron Hostetter, Barry Hunt, Keith Anderson, Charles Klot, Tom Myers, Gene Boyer, Tom Jakubczak, Second row: Rick Condon, Mr. Jim Austler, Craig Walter, Gordon Meyers, Mike McMahon, Jon Alexander, Dave Armstrong, Steve Ayers, Ty Reminga, Ty Plesco, Dan Hoffman, Mike Sterne, Tom Raynouth, Kurt Belmers, Danny Nugent, Jim Boyd, Derek Hanson, Dennis Conner, Dennis Sisson, Ron Bieri, Gary Rivers, coach.

Lowell had a 3-3 record, a disappointing start saw the Arrows drop three of the first four games, the most serious loss was 1-0 Rockford 6-0, that cost them the Tri-River title. A reorganization of the team at this point because of an injury got them on their winning way and they defeated their final opponents by good margins. In scoring for the season Mike McMahon led with 12 TD's 3 EFPs for 25 points; Paul Kropp was next with 4 TD's, 6 EFPs for 48 points. Duane Baker placed third with 4 TD's, 3 EFPs for 26 points. Abel placed 4th with 12 points in his two TD's in the game with Belding, Videa, Elzinga and Boyd scored one TD each. Videa and Elzinga had one extra point each and Walter scored two extra points. Nowhere near enough credit can be given to the defense line which kept all the opponents from moving the ball. Unfortunately these jobs well done have no marks on the record books, just the satisfaction of a job well done.

Team Effort Gives Junior Varsity A 4-4 Season Record

Lowell Junior varsity came up with wins over Comstock, Cedar, Sparta and Belding before losing to McDonough, Bill Stinchcomb, Mike Hodgins. The Junior varsity scored six touchdowns on passes, four extra points came from passing. Steve Collins proved to be a real leader of the team and a real passing threat, individual high score for the season was 120-lb. Pat Hoag with 25 points. Next was Dan Finkler with 30 points. Guard Jack Nowak's 100-yard punt out, was the most improved lineman, going both ways. Wesell and Briggs both have done well, working both on defense and offense.

The freshman football team ended their season last Thursday afternoon against Rockford, being defeated by a score of 15-0. This was the 6th loss of the season, with a single win. They opened the season against Ionia losing 40-0. In the second game against Sparta, they scored their only victory with a 20-7 win. The next 3 games were all tight ball games; being defeated by one touchdown or less against Grandville 16-7; Comstock 18-4; and Greenville 14-0. In the last two games Caledonia Junior varsity won 38-4 and Rockford 15-0. The most important factor is, the freshman team gained valuable experience in each of these games this year and next year will be able to put it to work in the winning column.

Soil & Water Conservation Provide Cover For Wild Life In This Area

At this time of the year there is more thought given to Michigan's wildlife. Many of us say, where has it gone?
There are many answers to this question. One of the reasons the game has moved to where there is more cover. Cover is not all that rabbits, pheasants, and the like seek. They need food, water and good nesting areas.
One thing to remember is that man has taken away many thousands of acres of good wildlife food and cover. It is our good to try to replace some of it.
Shredding corn stalks soon after harvesting will cut soil erosion losses on weed-free cornfields to less than one-half that which might be lost if not shredded, say soil scientists.
To have an abundance of wildlife, we must replace and maintain these things which we have taken from them.
In order to replace the food, we must use the areas of our farms which, due to soil types, steep slopes or places which are not practical to till, have become useless to us. By planting alfalfa, clover and other such shrubs in and around these areas we can help wildlife with their food problem. If we leave a row or two of corn standing each year this will surely help!
Trees and shrubs planted in proper ways and places will also help to provide good nesting areas. To provide water for wildlife is not quite as easy and cheap to do. However, there are many ways to do it. One way to do this is by not draining the small pot holes which have water standing in them during the spring of the year. The low lying bogs or swamp areas where the water table is high is another good place to make a wide water pond, either by digging out shallow ditches or shallow ponds.

Use a large fall dormant weed spray on clover alfalfa seedlings, but use the right kind and the right amount to get rid of yellow roset, abnormally purple, pepper grass, cockle and the like. Marvin Porritt of Alto moved he could produce much better quality hay by spraying late enough in the fall when clover and alfalfa become dormant.
Barry Brand, editor of the Barby Sentinel tells us he obtained a new advertiser because this year the late fall rains came, with phosphate and water conservation happenings reported in the Sentinel.

Saying What God Says

In the Grand Rapids Press of Tuesday, Nov. 5 came this story from Churchill, England—linked at the persistent theft of his apples, farmer Claude Bache put up a sign on his orchard fence saying: "Keep out. Trespassers will be prosecuted." The apples continued disappearing. So Bache took down the sign and put up one that said: "Thou shalt not steal." The thefts stopped.

The farmer posted the 8th commandment of God's holy moral law and the effect was immediate. The thefts stopped.

What the farmer did is what we must all do to stem the flood of lawlessness which has come upon our civilization. We must proclaim what God says. There is much talk today of a new moral code to meet the crisis of the day. We don't need a new moral code. We must get back to the old moral code which God gave when He gave the ten commandments.

The same God who gave the moral law also "gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

Trust in Christ and you will also desire to do His will. —H. Buikema

Over 500 Dogs At Show In Grand Rapids Sunday

Owners of purebred dogs from many parts of the United States and Canada have entered 552 dogs in the Grand Rapids Kennel Club's All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial to be held Sunday, November 10, at the Civic Auditorium here. The day-long event will begin at 9 a. m.

"This will be our largest show," said Irvin M. Werner, Kennel Club president. Part of the proceeds will go to the Santa Claus Girls for the benefit of under-privileged families at Christmas, he added.

This will be an unbench show in which all dogs except winners in various groups and classes will be allowed to leave the grounds after initial judging.

Represented in the competition for conformation judging will be sporting, non-sporting, working, hound, terrier, toy and miscellaneous breeds. Junior showmanship competition for boys and girls 8 to 16 years old will be included in the show. An obedience trial also is scheduled.

All dogs will be purebreds registered with the American Kennel Club. They will compete for conformation or obedience honors with points counted toward championships. Trophies also will be awarded.

Urge Yearly Check Of Children's Eyes End of Summer Brings

Behavior changes in young children are no surprise to most parents, but many are not aware that visual patterns change with age too. Dr. Ralph Howard, President of the Michigan Optometric Association, said today.

"During pre-school years, a child's vision is constantly developing. It is affected by his hereditary background, his environment, health, and his social needs for approval, success and conformity, as well as the child's mental and emotional make-up," he remarked. The Battle Creek optometrist gave a step-by-step report of the normal changes which occur in youngsters.

Dr. Howard said eye movements begin before birth. By two weeks after birth, eye movements are pretty well controlled. And at three months, the average child will spontaneously look at his hand. This is the beginning of the triangle between the two eyes and the object in space that attracts his attention. At the same time, he starts to focus. Dr. Howard pointed out.

In tracing the progress of development, Dr. Howard said that by the time the child has reached the age of 2½, he is beginning to expand his world in space, and is able to distinguish between near and intermediate distances. He is soon fascinated by moving objects.

At three, the child is much better oriented in space. At four, he shows a growing sense of form by utilizing both eyes as a coordinated team to sense height, width and depth. The five year old starts making more precise use of his visual tools, and the six year old starts using his eyes as a reliable means to explore beyond his immediate area. At seven, the child begins to become perfected in his vision.

The eight year old usually starts gaining a visual awareness and his eyes become geared to speedy performances. His world is expanding greatly and there is a growing interest in books.

The nine year old becomes interested in hand-and-eye activity, and when motivated will work endlessly on a task. The ten-year-old shows better organization and sets out to stabilize the visual patterns that he has selected.

"All along the line of development in those early years, new visual adjustments have to be made," Dr. Howard said. "At any of these stages, problems can appear that will affect future development and progress. Some can be physical, some functional. Nevertheless, they can evidence disturbances in the visual pattern often noticeable only to the trained practitioner."

Dr. Howard went on to recommend that every parent practice preventive care by taking their child to a vision specialist at least once a year for a thorough vision examination. He urged that this program be started at a very early age, perhaps two or three years old.

THINGS TO COME—A New York specialties manufacturer is offering monogrammed auto seat belts in 12 different colors; the monogram is printed in simulated gold on the chrome-plated belt buckle. To stretch the outdoor porch and patio season into cooler-weather months, a portable patio heater operating on propane or natural gas and giving off infrared heat to a range of 15 feet is being marketed nationally. For the man who has everything, including a number of pocket watches, a Texas firm suggests a solid brass pocket-watch holder that has adjustable arms to fit any size timepiece.

"Affluent Exurbanite" New Type Customer

A new type of consumer, living in small communities clustered around big cities and industrial centers, is becoming increasingly important in the economic picture. You could call him the "affluent exurbanite."

He is in the upper salary brackets, usually commuting to a white-collar job; if his wife works also, their combined income may top $15,000. Much of this is disposable income—and he is more than willing to spend it on products connected to his out-in-the-country, semi-rural home life. If there's water nearby, he wants a boat. If there's good hunting, he wants the best in equipment to enjoy playing Nimrod.

Thus the affluent country-lover has become a major marketing target for manufacturers in a variety of fields. This was pointed out notably at a recent trade exhibition for hardware firms. Typical of scores of products on display was a "you-ride-it" lawnmower with an eight-horsepower motor, named the "Executive." Another company manufactures a similar tractor-like vehicle which a snowplow can be attached for winter-time plowing of the driveway or road. Price tags for such vehicles run as high as $700. One hidden factor behind the boom: leisure time has increased in recent years to the point where the man who can afford such products also has enough spare time to enjoy them.

BIRTHS

Veterans Homestead Exemption Equalized

"A new veterans homestead tax exemption form has been designed and shipped to local assessors," Auditor General Billie S. Farnum announced today. The new form incorporates amendments made by the 1963 Legislature, which will initially affect 1964 property taxes. Affidavits may be filed with local assessors beginning December 31. Five forms have been combined into one and a carbon is now available for the taxpayer.

In most cases, the Auditor General stated, the new law means that veterans with property tax exemptions will be paying somewhat more than previously. The chief effect of the amended law is to require assessed value to be state-equalized. If the state-equalized value of the property does not exceed $10,000, exemption may be granted on up to $2,000, also at state-equalized value.
