From The Counselor's Desk . . . How To Choose A Good Trade school

As the problems of unemployment face us bolder each day, the unemployed are realizing that this is the beginning of a new era. No longer can one get a job by simply being a good worker. Ours is an age of specialization. More and more of the unemployed are realizing that only with special training will new jobs open to them. For many, trade schools have been the means of updating. Choosing the right trade school may mean the difference between the disappointment of wasted time and effort and joy of attaining a new vocation and way of life. Therefore everyone should know what to look for in a good trade school.

Trade schools come in all types, including good, bad and indifferent but unfortunately for the prospective student they do not carry such signs in their advertisement. To make a wise decision one must study and compare a number of schools specializing in your vocational choice, ignoring for present the glossy claims and bright futures painted by salesmen and advertisements. It should be remembered that it is never wise to make a hurried decision. Any special deals to entice immediate signing of a contract may turn out to be a bad bargain for you in the long run. Futures are not decided in an evening so if a salesman cannot wait for you to take a few days to decide you might justly wonder just whose future he is trying to promote! A good sales record may mean more to him than finding the right vocation for you. It should never be necessary to sell a school by pressure tactics. A reputable school will sell itself.

To make a sound decision four steps should be taken:

1. Interview employers who hire in your field of interest. They will tell you of employment conditions, requirements and the value of specialized training programs. Some firms prefer to train their own employees and this could save a duplication of effort.

2. Check with graduates. Reputable schools will be happy to provide names and addresses of former students who will let you know what their experiences have been.

3. Consult your high school counselor; he can help you decide if you are qualified for the vocation you are considering as well as give you information regarding various trade schools.

4. Visit the school if possible—it may save you later disillusionment.

Federal laws prohibit schools from guaranteeing jobs, but most schools offer placement service and will aid you in seeking employment. Never forget, however, that actually getting the job is up to you—no school can sell you, you must sell yourself. Employment circumstances often change on short notice, but whatever happens, the fact that you have been sufficiently interested in self-improvement to spend time and money in additional education will be in your favor when potential employers examine your records—particularly so if you have chosen your school with care.

Upon choosing a school you will then be asked to sign an agreement with this school. Understand that these schools have an investment to protect. In many instances the schools require an "Application, enrollment or registration" agreement which is a legal contract and cannot be cancelled merely by a change of mind. The school must fulfill its obligations as spelled out in the contract and not being tax supported, bases its operation upon fulfillment of contracts with its students.

With these things in mind remember your signature on a contract indicates that you have read it, understood it and accepted its terms. Obviously this proves the necessity of reading every word of the contract before signing it. If the decision to sign is based on something the salesman told but does not appear in that contract, the school will not be obligated to honor any such promise or agreement.

For any assistance you may need in choosing a trade school call Mr. Andrews at the High School (897-9216).

Humph! Sophonisba—What were the provisions of your uncle's will? Theophilus—That I would have all that was left after the payment of his just debts. Sophonisba—How generous! What did he leave? Theophilus—Just debts.

Deer hunters will flock to the woods this Friday when the season opens in the lower peninsula at daylight.

Several from this area made their annual trek to the upper peninsula last week, and are now hunting in several inches of snow. Hunters don't forget to call the Ledger (TW 7-9261) and let us know what you bag (whether it be two legged or four legged). A complete list of good marks-men will be run at a later date.

Michael Vandenberg, 16, 919 West Main Street, was rushed to Butterworth Hospital late Sunday afternoon after having taken too many prescription pills by mistake. He was treated and released.

An ambulance run was made Friday evening to take Herbert Harris, 1021 Lincoln Lake Avenue, to Butterworth Hospital. He was discovered unconscious at his home by his 15-year-old son, Brad, after taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

He was still in the hospital on Tuesday, but his condition was reported to be good.

The Michigan State Highway Department has started distributing third quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections to Michigan counties and incorporated cities and villages.

The City of Lowell's share for this quarter totaled $5,450.

Armistice Day, 1963, in Lowell saw a full house attend the annual dinner at the American Legion Hall on Monday evening, but the morning celebration was marred by the delay of the erecting of the American flags on Main Street.

Upon investigation, it was found someone just forgot—the flags were flying at 1:30. Only three businessmen remembered, congratulations.

Jokes, jests, jibes and jabs—Heard the other day that big dogs chained interfere with mothers pushing baby carriages; Oh! well it's good exercise to walk out around them. Teenage boys are amazing. The same ones who are too tired to walk two blocks to school fight for the chance to run 100 yards on a football field. A tactful way to accept and insult is to ignore it. If you can't ignore it, top it. If you can't top it, laugh it off. If you can't laugh it off, it's probably deserved. A man is judged by the company he keeps—a woman by the company she has just left.

Plan Career Night For December 3

The high school has set Tuesday, December 3, as the date for a Career Exploration Night. The time will be from 7 to 10 p. m. It is felt that all high school students in grades 9 through 11 must have adequate knowledge about careers and colleges in order to make wise and important decisions concerning their lives and their life's work.

The idea of a career exploration night is to expose many students and their parents to possible careers that exist for the student to eventually choose from.

Freshmen and sophomores and their parents will be strongly urged to turn out for this event. It is at the freshmen and sophomore level that students start to make the decisions as to the type of high school courses they will take for future vocations.

Juniors and seniors and their parents will also be urged to turn out as they are at the age where they must start to think of either finding immediate employment or of making a decision where to go to further their education.

By next week a partial listing of the career people should be ready to publish. Mark this important date on your calendar and plan to attend.

Eight students were very pleased that people in the community were able to hire them this past weekend on various types of jobs. If you have a job that a student can handle either after school or on a weekend please call Hans Andrews at the high school and procure the services of an ambitious young man or woman. The phone number is 897-9216.

Housekeeping, babysitting, raking, putting up storm windows, and peddling of advertisements, are just a few of the jobs that these students are willing and ready to do.

Gordon R. Gould Teaches In Social Studies Dept.

The high school social studies department is proud to introduce its latest addition to the staff, that of Gordon R. Gould.

Mr. Gould is not entirely new to the Lowell area residents as he has worked with the local Y.M.C.A. in recent summers. He is a graduate from Western Michigan University and is in his first year of teaching. At Western, he had experience as an assistant dormitory director and also acted as the general manager of the campus radio station.

During his first year at Lowell he is teaching senior high school social studies, refresher math and coaching freshmen basketball. Various coaches in Western Michigan areas know Gordon for his weekend black and white stripes as a referee.

As his hobbies, Gordon enjoys reading, water sports such as skiing and skin and scuba diving. Although not much of a traveler to date, he is making plans to broaden this area of his experiences.

His feeling about teaching of young people can be best summarized by his own statement that "I wouldn't change jobs for anything."

Lowell School Board Studies Activities Of Various School Library Programs

School librarians were in attendance at the Lowell Board of Education meeting on Monday evening to explain the program offered the students of Lowell Area schools.

Presented to the board was Mrs. Robert Hahn, High School librarian who introduced Mrs. Carl Claus who has charge of the Junior High library and Mrs. Darrell McLaughlin who operates the Runciman Elementary library on a half-day basis.

Mrs. McLaughlin revealed to the board that the elementary library is open 4 days a week and assisting in the program are nine mothers who each work one half day a week. This library serves children in grades 2 through 5; about 900 students; and has 2,132 books. There are some 500 books in circulation at this time.

Mrs. Claus told the board that the Junior High school has grown from 150 students in 1959, when the library was started, to its present enrollment of 421 in grades sixth through eight.

The library was started with funds contributed by the children's magazine sales. Up-to-date they have used $1,682 of magazine sales receipts to buy books. Most of these books are fiction, which keeps the students interested in reading. The library is now located in the former high school quarters, and is in use three periods a day.

There are 1,351 books in the library including paper backs, encyclopedias, and reference books. This library, Mrs. Claus said, is in need of more books.

Alto Library Started

Mrs. Hahn reported the Alto Mothers' Club contributed $300 to start the library in this elementary school. Since there is no library room the books are in each of the teacher's room and are available to all the students to use by passing them from room to room.

In the new high school library there are 3,126 books with a goal for the library of about 5,000 books. In the North Central Association which only some 265 Michigan high schools qualify for membership, the library is an important element of qualification and minimum standards are required.

Use of the library is being extended by providing material of interest to the many students. There are volumes on art, homiography, mathematics, science, music, and the mechanical arts.

The superintendent provided the board with the budget breakdown for the school library for the past two years. The budget in 1961-62 was $2,288; in 1962-63 there was $2,500 available; and for the present year 1963-64 there has been $3,500 budgeted. The school spends about $300 a year for magazines.

Report on Building & Site Funds

The superintendent revealed to the board that the Alto Building and Site Fund now has a balance of $5,314, after paying for the blacktopping around the school. In the new high school building and site fund, there is a balance of about $20,000.

Two new school buses have been added to the bus fleet. They will help in some areas where the larger 66 passenger units will handle the loads better and with less crowding.

Training Program

A report was made on the cooperative training program that showed there were 18 students working in the various business places in the community.

These students include 3 girls in office work; 4 boys in supermarkets; 3 girls in drugstore; 1 boy in the bakery; 1 boy in carpenter work; 2 boys in other food trades; 1 boy optical mechanic; 2 boys in dairy and 1 boy in flour milling. They spend about 4 to 5 hours in school and the remaining time on-the-job training.

This program is under the direction of Charles White.

Rehearsals Start For Senior Play

Lowell area playgoers will have an opportunity to "hiss the villain and cheer and hero" in the forthcoming Senior class production of the Western melodrama "The Wild and Woolly West."

The cast will present two evening performances at 8 p. m. on Friday and Saturday, November 22 and 23, and one rehearsal matinee on Thursday, November 21, for the junior high students.

The lead roles in this year's production will be played by Diane Christensen, Alex McPherson and Phil Fox.

Phil is the dastardly villain, Effingham Leffingwell; Diane plays Rosemary Lane, the sky dame in distress; and Alex is the hero, Gladwyn Throckmorton.

Work has started on widening 28th Street, west of Cascade. In Kent County, The Hertel-Deyo Construction Company of Grand Rapids began work on a $1,793,091 contract to modernize 28th St. (M-11, M-21 and M-37) in Wyoming and Grand Rapids between the US-131 and I-96 freeways.

The present two-lane highway will be widened to five lanes, with the center lane designed for left turn movements. The bridge carrying the highway over Plaster Creek also will be widened to carry five traffic lanes.

The project is scheduled to be completed by August 31, 1965.

Gingerbread Fair Success; French Club Clears $300

The Lowell high school French Club wishes to thank everyone who attended the Gingerbread Fair last Friday evening and helped to make it such a huge success.

The profits will not only enable the club to put on a formal initiation for the first year French club members, but will also provide enough money to buy two or three additional head sets for the language lab, which will facilitate a larger class taking advantage of the equipment.

The club cleared nearly $300 on the adventure.

Patrolman Instructs Boys In Gun Safety Course

The boys were given instructions in the proper handling of guns and some practice in target shooting.

Patrolman Grummet said, "The boys did quite well at target shooting, and that all needed the safety course."

The parents of the boys expressed their gratitude to Patrolman Grummet for his time and splendid instructions the boys received, and stated that this training should become a standard procedure for young hunters.

We Are Saved By The Grace Of Our God

Mrs. W. J. Kennedy

I We are saved by the grace of our God, And are kept by His power and love; All our sins washed away in the blood, Each day we His faithfulness prove.

III O how wondrous the grace of our God, How sweet and how joyous the thought, That Christ ransomed our souls with His blood, For us His salvation has bought!

II We were sunk in the ruins of sin, But swiftly He came to our aid; O'er our foes He did victory win, For us, peace with God He has made.

IV Ye poor souls, who are wandering astray, So far, far away from your God, If ye come to the Savior today, He'll cleanse all your sins in His blood.

O how deep are the riches of grace, How great is the love Christ has shown, When He stood in the poor sinner's place: No love like His ever was known.

Have you been saved by the grace of God? —H. Bulkman

4-H State Award Winners Gain Club Congress Trip

Three Kent County 4-H Club members and another from Newaygo County will try for $500 college scholarships to be awarded at the National 4-H Club Congress, Dec. 1-6, in Chicago. The teenagers, as state winners in four 4-H programs, won expense-paid trips to the congress, reports the Cooperative Extension Service.

Charles Dressel, 16, of Grand Rapids; Carol Erhart, 17, of Rockford; and Pamela Klahn, 18, of Lowell took top state honors in the 4-H electric, bread and home improvement programs respectively. Seventeen-year-old Sonia Vander Honing, of Sand Lake, won the state 4-H recreation program award. Dressel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dressel of Grand Rapids, received a basement and a model railroad transformer. He also learned to construct, rebuild and repair innumerable electrical appliances during six years of 4-H work.

Teaching others the skills he has learned has been one of Dressel's major contributions.

"A huge of projects to my trust each time that a boy I taught, goes to someone else, and tries to teach him," he explained.

President of his local 4-H Club, the Walker Go-Getters which has members Dressel and Erhart, he said, "I hope to be an electronic technician. The Wisconsin Educational Foundation sponsors the electric awards program."

"To make the Best Better" has been more than a 4-H motto for Carol Erhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erhart, of Rockford. As state bread program winner, she has participated with different grains when baking bread in her effort to achieve the tastiest results.

She has given many bread baking and food preparation demonstrations on the state and county level, and has compiled her favorite recipes in a book. Food preparation is another extensive 4-H project interests.

Miss Erhart termed her selection as queen of the Best Bread Fair a "wonderful surprise." Her sponsor is Slemmons Brands Incorporated.

"I have a bedroom that is truly mine—because of my home improvement projects of seven years," said Pamela Klahn.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Klahn, of Lowell. She used her bedroom as a

Miss Short Weds Dean J. Blough

A candlelight ceremony in the presence of the immediate families united in marriage Miss Mary Barbara Short of Flint and Dean J. Blough of Gladwin at 4:30 p. m. on November 8.

The Reverend Cedric Shears performed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Halle B. Short of Flint.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan J. Blough of Clarksville, Mich.

Miss Shirley Blough, sister of the groom, and David Short, brother of the bride, were the honor attendants.

A dinner and reception was held following the ceremony for friends and relatives at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bourdeau of Goodrich.

The bride attended Flint Junior College and Detroit Bible College. The groom studied at Moody Bible Institute and graduated from Grand Rapids School of The Bible and Music.

The Wrong Companion
"Ah, sighed the sentimental girl, I could sit and gaze at the moon for hours."
"Would I were the man in it!" said the youth who wasn't the one. "I agree with that," she replied wearily; "then you would be several hundred thousand miles away."

How good are your brakes? Would you laugh if you were told you couldn't stop your car in much less than 200 feet from a speed of just 20 miles an hour? Well, it's true—if you happen to be driving on a road that is without benefit of special winter tires, or—b-ter yet—reinforced tire chains. Your brake shoe may grip, but if your tires don't—watch out!

Home Economics Digest

By E. Eleanor Demore, County Extension Agent

We may be 100 per cent American—but many other countries had a lot to do with making us what we are.

Answering roll call right here in Kent County would be people of Dutch, Polish, Canadian, German, English, Swedish, Lithuanian, Italian, Russian, Latvian and Irish ancestry (plus a sprinkling of other nationalities). It's quite a hodgepodge, yet each of these national groups brought something special and distinctive to our building American culture.

Don't you sometimes wonder why these folks came here in the first place and why they settled where they did?

If you are of Dutch ancestry, probably your forebears came here around the middle of the 19th century and were seeking religious freedom or better economic conditions. They must have been bitterly disappointed in the wilderness they had to conquer before the latter could be rendered to our culture.

Today you only have to look about you to see that they made good, and you can rightly be proud of the continuing contribution the Dutch are making to our culture.

Perhaps your forebears were Polish. Chances are they settled on the West Side of Grand Rapids and maybe got jobs in the developing plaster mines or West Side Mills. Lumber and a growing furniture business lured many to this area.

They also may have come around the middle of the 19th century, because their country had ceased to exist. In the Tri-Partition of Poland, it was divided up between Russia, Prussia and Austria.

Through the years they have added much to our culture and are making fine American citizens.

The Irish came during the last half of the 19th century too. Triggered by the Irish potato famine, they swarmed to America, many stopping off in the East to become New York policemen.

"In cold weather we advise a brief warm-up of your car's engine before moving out into traffic," says Chief of Police Avery Block. "It's good for the car, and for preventing dangerous stalling. But don't let the engine idle for more than a few minutes, and never in a closed garage."

Making The Most of Deer Hides

Many Michigan hunters are missing a bet by throwing their deer hides away each year, according to Lansing taxidermist Robert Robbins pictured here. He points out that it takes a little time and effort to save a hide. In skinning a deer, a not-too-sharp knife should be used to avoid cutting the hide. Once started, the hide can usually be stripped off by peeling downward with strong tines. After it's removed, the biggest trouble should be cut away. Next, spread a couple of pounds of table salt or coarse salt over the flesh side to draw juice out of the skin. The salt will insulate the hide from moisture and tie it. It's then ready to take to a taxidermist and the sooner, the better. Robbins shows (lower right) how a deer can happen to a deer hide if you wait too long. One hide will make about three pairs of gloves. A jacket requires three to five hides.

LOWELL, MICH., THURSDAY, NOV. 14, 1963

Lowell twp. Soil and water conservation farm plan revisions have been made with Robert Joyce, Lowell twp., Richard Krum, Vergennes twp., and with George Wieland, Lowell twp.

Valerie Momber wrote a fine report on construction applied on the land in Alpine twp. Her essay was one of the best from the Alpine Church Road, Holy Trinity School's local conservation team. Organized by the teacher, Marva Hathaway and Alpine twp. co-operators Joe and Pat Alt, and Gerald Host, the 45 students saw much first hand conservation application in their neighborhood.

The American farmer is the most successful farmer in the world. One reason is that he is always ready to capture new markets for his products. The door to another new market has now been opened to him—perhaps the most lucrative of all.

City people who don't have room to play, hike, swim or camp like looking for outdoor fun and are willing to pay for it.

If you are a land owner or operator and want to know more about this coming business boom, you should ask the local representative of the Soil Conservation Service or the local office of other agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, for a copy of AIB 271, "Rural Recreation Enterprises for Profit." Just off the press, this publication lists and describes the many ways you can get started in the recreation business and take advantage of the increasing demand for fun in the sun. "The local SCS office, 3321 Plainfield S.E., Grand Rapids 5, has copies," Lester Mark, Work Unit Conservationist said.

The publication points out the opportunities for income from vacant farms and ranches, picnic and sports areas, fishing waters, camping, shooting preserves, and estate and recreation sites and the like. It discusses legal angles and financing, what to charge, how to advertise, and how to deal with customers. And it tells of the assistance available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other public agencies.

"This is one of the ways we can strengthen Rural America," Mr. Mark said. "The local land owners and operators can put idle land to work and turn it into an entirely new business in their community."

We spared the rod and got a best generation anyway.

Soil & Water Conservation Several New Cooperators In This Area

At home safely from our annual vacation trip to Pennsylvania, the slides with stereophones sound serious though there is of great concern to everyone. Of special interest was our visit to the "Roaring Creek" 1200 acre privately owned watershed. This is usually watershed, in that it is privately owned and controlled, is in the mountains near Shomokin, a series of dams and one large dam supplies water to several towns and nearby areas. Outside of this watershed, even though much soil and water conservation has been done, water is in short supply.

New conservation plans have been made with the following co-operators: Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Coole, Ada twp. and William Lake, Lowell twp.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lampkin were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Mills of Harbor Springs called on Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnson one day last week on their way to Mexico.

Miss Mildred Mullen spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Cash of New Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Seymour and three children of Lansing were dinner guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jones attended a birthday dinner for Evelyn Potter Thursday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frazer.

Mrs. Ida Mullen entertained the birthday club party of twelve ladies Monday evening.

Leland East of Lake Odessa spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kinyon.

Know YOUR MICHIGAN LAW

By Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is one of a series of public articles explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

Next to the purchase of a home, perhaps one of the largest financial obligations most of us assume is for the remodeling or improvement of our dwellings. Maybe an extra room is needed for the latest family addition or perhaps aluminum siding will help solve the painting chore. Usually arrangements will be made following a lengthy discussion with a salesman of a home improvement company during which time the home owner will be expected to sign a formal contract and other documents.

Home owners should know that as soon as the contract is signed, their rights and obligations are fixed. More important, their rights are limited to what is specifically stated in the contract.

The law provides that when parties to an agreement have put the agreement in writing form which appears to be complete and clear, it becomes the only evidence of their agreement. Thus previous negotiations, verbal promises, unwritten commitments, cannot even be mentioned if the contract should ever be the subject of a law suit.

It goes without saying that most concerns engaged in the home improvement business are legitimate operations. Regrettably, some are not.

The old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is especially applicable in this type of transaction.

I strongly recommend that you insist that the salesman make a list of exactly what the company is going to do. Then insist that the salesman give you a copy of the contract and any other documents you will be expected to sign. Do not settle for documents he says are similar. Get the actual proposed documents.

Take the list, the contract and the other documents to an attorney and ask him if every item the company has promised to do is stated in the contract. Ask him to explain exactly what you are agreeing to do and what obligations you are undertaking when you sign the contract and other documents.

Know YOUR MICHIGAN LAW

by Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is one of a series of public articles explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

Thousands of civic and social-minded citizens have either by will or other legal action established "trusts" for charitable purposes in Michigan.

The income and sometimes some portion of the principal of the trust property is dedicated for the relief of the aged and poor people; needy, crippled or handicapped children; scholarships; medical and scientific research; schools; libraries; religious purposes; to erect hospitals and homes for the aged; and as it has been stated for any purpose "beneficial to mankind and the community."

A learned English judge once ruled, "There is no justification for any charitable trust to operate in a cloak of secrecy because that cloak can become a shroud, and the property vanish like the snows under the warming rays of the sun."

In a charitable trust, a private individual may not step forward and endeavor to force a trustee to carry out the trust provisions.

In 1961 the legislature enacted a law by which it became the duty of the trustees of charitable purposes trusts to register the trust with the Attorney General, and the Attorney General was authorized to supervise and take appropriate action to enforce the provisions of the trust. Since the effective date of the act, the Attorney General has registered 1,781 charitable purposes trusts, having a combined asset and property value of upwards of 6 million dollars. A complete registration and file record of all these trusts are maintained in his office.

Some of the investigations and action of this office to the present time has resulted in increased amounts of funds being used and distributed for use of libraries; scholarships; needy, crippled or handicapped children; hospitals; aged persons; to build a home for the aged; medical care for needy persons; as well as many other benevolent purposes.

Look At This U-M Washing

If you think you have a lot of laundry, try washing 21,000 bath towels, 18,000 pillow cases, 40,000 sheets and 25,000 diapers—every week.

This is par for the 1,000-bed University of Michigan Hospital, whose "daily wash" would last a family of five about two years.

You would need to be in top physical shape to do a hospital-sized wash, too. It weighs about 50 tons per week—dry, of course.

How clean is "hospital clean?" Most linens are washed at about 180 degrees Fahrenheit, but those suspected of being contaminated are washed for a much longer time at higher temperatures.

Heavily soiled articles, such as diapers, are thoroughly rinsed repeatedly before washing. A special anti-bacterial substance is put in the final rinse water for all hospital linens.

Few sheets survive more than 100 washings.

Harry Sakada, manager of University Hospital's central services department estimates that $80,000 per year is spent to replace hospital linens.
