

Board to act on '64 tax rate and teachers tenure on August 28th

The Lowell Area School Board of Education at their meeting on Monday evening delayed until a special meeting on Friday, August 28, the matter of finalizing teachers tenure and the 1964 levy to retire school bonds.

The board discussed the teachers tenure bill which becomes effective at the beginning of the 64-65 school year. All teachers with two years of service in the Lowell system will be extended tenure.

This guarantees them a position on the teaching staff as long as they wish. The only exception the board agreed upon is in coaching, play directing and that type of non-teaching assignment. These positions will be appointed on a yearly basis.

Tax Rate to Drop

The board discussed the setting of the tax rate for bond retirement. Last year 7.1 mills were needed. With an increased tax basis it is thought that the 1964 rate could be a half-mill less.

The board is considering keeping the rate high enough so that more money is raised than is needed for current interest and principal payments, and pay off bonds which do not become due until the 1970's.

Lease School Car

The only bid to lease a station wagon to the school for 9 months came from Jackson Motor Sales who bid $600; the board accepted the bid.

Three of the four new school buses ordered have arrived. The board voted to sell three old buses on bids. The bus fleet is in good condition. Superintendent Nisbet told the board, the oldest bus on a regular run this fall will be a 1956 model.

Louise Grover writes from Ireland

August 4, 1964

Dear Editor,

I would like you and your readers to share with me the experience of living in the home of one of the nicest families in Northern Ireland.

My family, like all the people I have met in the five weeks I have been here, are very friendly and so anxious to show me all there is to see in Ireland. We have toured Northern Ireland and have seen many of the historic and scenic areas. Due to the fact that the father and son can not always get away from their work, our tours have been limited to the weekends.

On the weekend of August 1, my Irish brother and sister and I went camping in Southern Ireland (Republic of Ireland). We first saw Dublin and then went down into County Cork, which is the very southern part of Ireland. We saw many ruins of old castles and estates, dating back as far as the 15th century and before. We were able to go through most all of the old ruins. Of course, we couldn't miss Barney Castle and the kissing of the Blarney Stone.

Car hits house when driver sleeps

David E. Jeffery, 20, Alden Nash Ave., Alto, was arrested Saturday morning at 4:15 when he went to sleep and drove into the Godfrey home at 804 East Main.

Jeffery, going west, went across the highway, over the curb, sideswiped a telephone pole and a tree before hitting the house. Police said he traveled 236 feet after leaving the road.

Jeffery was treated at Blodgett hospital for facial lacerations and released. He was ticketed for failure to have his car under control. He was also fined for minor in possession; the police found 10 bottles of beer in the car. He paid $50 and costs in Justice Rittenger's Court.

Arrested also was a passenger in the car, Sidney Carrier, 26, of Grant, Mich., for contributing. He had not appeared in court on Monday since he was confined to Blodgett hospital with facial lacerations and fractured face bones.

ASKS RESPECT FOR USE OF CITY DUMP

Citizens of Lowell are welcome to make use of the city dump located a short distance southeast of the city off Ware Road. You are urged, however, to respect our neighbors by loading securely so that none of your load can blow off or be lost along the roadway to the dump.

The littered condition of this roadway in past years bears testimony that complaints from people living along or using this roadway are well founded. Your cooperation in correcting this situation will be much appreciated by all concerned.

It should also be pointed out that littering of roadways is punishable by law.

SUSPEND LICENSES

Michigan Department of State reported this week that the driving permits of two area residents have been suspended.

Ronald LaVerne Beggs, 29, of 6491 Morse Lake Road, Route 1, Alto, underwent suspension for driving under the influence of liquor.

Keith Allen Fredricks, 22, of 7399 Thorncrest Drive, Ada, had his license suspended for an unsafe driving record.

tip and up the western coast of Ireland, we traveled through the Connemara Mountains. Here the famous Connemara Rock is mined. From this rock many beautiful articles are made and sold to the public. Having gone in this area, we had to cross the border back into Northern Ireland at the point marked Bleak. Here we saw the factory where the world famous Bleak China is made.

Our time finally ran out and we headed back to Holywood, where my family lives. Holywood is just six miles east of Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland. When we arrived home we sat down to a lovely Irish dinner. The Irish eat a bit differently than we do, and I believe more often. The food they prepare is delicious and the people here are wonderful.

My tours are not yet over. My family is anxious for me to see even more and I am enjoying all of it. It is truly a great experience to be able to visit another country where, for but a short while, you are able to see and meet many people for the first time. Good-by to all.

Sincerely,
Louise Grover

Legion buys land for expansion

At the regular monthly meeting of the Clark-Ellis Post of the American Legion Monday night, it was voted to purchase 5.6 acres of land on East Main Street from Edward Compagner.

This land would be used for future expansion of the American Legion Bowling Alley and Skating Rink. Other possible use for the land would be a permanent stadium for the Showboat on Grand River.

Escape death as car is hit from behind

Around seven o'clock Tuesday morning, outside of Kalamazoo, 4 Lowell men nearly met with death as their car was hit from the rear, throwing them into a spin on the rain-soaked highway.

Passengers in the car were Howard Briggs, Bowes Road, River; Ron Wood, 36th Street, and Howard's two uncles, Jim and John.

They had stopped for a stop sign and were getting under motion when another car ramed them from behind.

Wood was hospitalized for cuts, bruises and shock. All the men were shook up, but none were seriously injured.

Burning chair brings out firemen Tuesday

A upholstered chair which smoldered for five hours before the smoke awoke Bruce McQueen, 404 East Main St., Tuesday at 3:45 a. m., brought out Lowell firemen.

The smoke which filled the house, woke Mr. and Mrs. McQueen who called firemen.

While waiting for the fire department to arrive, two young men driving by groped their way into the smoke-filled house and carried out the chair and extinguished it with the lawn hose.

Fire Chief Frank Baker said the only damage was from smoke, and to the upholstered chair, which apparently started burning from a cigarette.

Turn landscape into profits

Wise planning of your home landscape may someday put more money into your pocket.

Joseph T. Cox, specialist in landscape architecture with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, says a well-developed landscape adds to the real or sale value of a property.

Cox further points out that a wisely-handled landscape can enhance the commercial value of property.

"If a property has business potential such as rental, dealership, beauty shop or business agency, we have to attribute its commercial success to the grounds' appearance," he explains.

The specialist also notes that the opportunities opening up in rural recreation owe a lot to wise landscape planning.

Mary Free Bed given high accreditation

Mary Free Bed Child Center's Hospital and Orthopedic Center has been granted accreditation for a period of three years by the Board of Commissioners of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

This is the result of the evaluation of the hospital survey conducted on June 5, 1964, by Harold I. Metz, M. D., a field representative of the Commission. Mary Free Bed was first approved in 1963 for a one year period of accreditation.

Four national medical and hospital organizations comprise the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals which grants the certificate of accreditation: The American College of Physicians, The American College of Surgeons, The American Hospital Association and The American Medical Association.

This decision to seek accreditation is voluntarily made by the individual hospital. This means that Mary Free Bed voluntarily meets high standards of patient care. Accreditation is a special yardstick measuring the hospital from the patient's point of view—regarding the patient's life and health. A hospital that has been surveyed and granted the certificate of accreditation of the Commission gives you these assurances: A well constructed physical plant with adequate space and facilities for every patient; a competent, qualified medical staff; a well trained nursing staff and adequate hospital personnel; a responsible governing body and a trained administrator.

Mary Free Bed displays its certificate of accreditation as an extension of its international reputation as a rehabilitation center. Today's hospital census shows that locally in Kent County Mary Free Bed is serving patients from Ada, Grand Rapids, Lowell and Sparta. The hospital is also serving patients from 24 outside Michigan cities: Battle Creek, Bay City, Belding, Caro, Freeport, Grand Haven, Holland, Hesperia, Ionia, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lake Odessa, Midland, Mt. Clemens, Muskegon, Onaway, Otsego, Pierston, Pontiac, Remus, Richmond, Romeo, St. Ignace and Three Rivers. Representing the continental United States are patients from Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Ohio, Texas, W. Virginia and Wisconsin and from outside the continent—United States, Puerto Rico.

Water accidents take jump

An alarming increase in the number of drownings and water accidents this year in Michigan has been reported by the State Police.

Up through July 29 there have been 188 drownings, an increase of 31 or 20 percent over 141 reported through July 30 last year.

Water accidents total 372, an increase of 21 percent over 293 for the same period last year.

Official reports have not yet been received on 31 of the drownings. Of the remaining 343 accidents of all types, there were 139 fatal in which one or more persons drowned, 102 personal injury and 91 property damage only.

Of the 178 drownings on which official reports have been received, 87 were swimmers or waders, 23 boat operators, 25 boat passengers, 4 skin or Scuba divers, 9 fell through ice, 11 fell from a bridge, bank, dock or pier, 1 fell from a cabin and 3 died attempting to rescue another.

"Water safety is just as important as traffic safety and it is dismaying that there has been such a big increase in drownings," Commissioner Joseph A. Childs said. "And, as in the case of traffic deaths, most could be prevented. With August still remaining of the summer season, I cannot stress too strongly observing water safety rules. As I have said before, enjoy the water but respect it."

Lost

A man found an Indian wandering aimlessly in the woods and asked, "Are you lost?" The Indian replied, "No! No! Indian not lost. Wigwam lost!" How like that Indian are many who are too proud to acknowledge their lostness and to pray: "God be merciful to me, a sinner!" W. B. K. in The Sword of The Lord

Many are lost outside the church of Jesus Christ, but not all the lost are outside the church. Many attend church every Sunday as a pious act of religion, but have never seen their sinfulness and, therefore, have never pleaded the blood of Jesus Christ to wash their sins away.

Thank God for gospel preachers who point men and women to Jesus Christ with the words, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." —John 1:29

Twenty-one boy scouts from Lowell enjoyed a week at Camp Shawondosse on Duck Lake, North of Muskegon, August 3-8.

Stephen Nisbet acted as their resident counselor, and the Scouts wish to thank him for this time and enthusiasm in directing their part of the camp.

Candy Roth writes... This is Friesland, Netherlands

I was among the 117 exchange students who left Detroit on July 24 to spend an unforgettable, fascinating summer in Europe. Seventy-six of us were on our way to the Netherlands. We arrived in Amsterdam late in the afternoon and spent the night at Hotel Fleissig, Youth for Understanding headquarters in Europe. It was a warm, clear night and we went by boat on a canal tour of Amsterdam. Many grand, historic buildings and landmarks were pointed out. We even passed over the spot where the Beatles jumped into the canal to escape the wild, screaming crowds.

In the morning we went sight-seeing and visited the Anne Frank house and photographed the many new and interesting attractions. Buildings were tall and close together. The streets were very narrow and busy with bicycles everywhere and policemen on horses. We returned to the hotel and became somewhat nervous and apprehensive as we prepared to meet our families for the summer.

Mr. Weda and Aleidje, 15, arrived at 4 p. m. and we left the hustle and bustle of Amsterdam and headed for Leeuwarden, the capital of Friesland. As we drove northward, we passed ancient villages, historic towns fertile polders and we crossed the 18 mile long Enclosing Dam that turned the Zuider Zee into Ysel Lake.

The country is mostly flat with innumerable ditches and canals. Meadows and waterways are essential to Friesland. The grass feeds the famous black and white cattle that are sold to all parts of the globe.

Now we are about twenty miles from Leeuwarden, which has a population of 90,000. In Friesland, there are only eleven towns, but there are many small villages. This is Fries-

coming events

The main street of Leeuwarden is divided by a canal. Many small shops line both sides of the street. You don't find many super-markets, but each shop contains particular items. You see bakeries, butchers, fish shops, dry goods and drug stores. There are numerous automats and snack bars where you can stop for hot or cold refreshments. On Friday's the main street is blocked off for a market. Farmers, merchants and vendors set up their booths and display their goods. Many bargain hunters go to the market where you can buy anything from wooden shoes to transistor radios.

My family is very proud of Friesland and want to show me everything. There are many carnivals and fairs here in the summer. We have visited neighboring towns to attend the fairs and enjoyed the large one that came to Leeuwarden. One Sunday, we went to Den Helder where the ships of the Dutch Navy are harbored and then went to the beach. We have driven to the woods for a picnic and have done some sight-seeing in Friesland. There are many people out on a Sunday afternoon mostly on bicycles and scooters. The countryside is very scenic with many beautiful farms. Aleidje and I went sailing in a huge sailboat down a canal to a large lake. You can go anywhere by water along the canals. Many vacationers do just that and you find them camped along the banks. We are going to spend the week of August ninth on a holiday to Heidelberg, Germany and I shall return home on August 24. My summer in Europe has been one of pleasure and excitement that shall never be forgotten and I thank you, the people of Lowell, for making it possible. Candy Roth

Education in conservation should begin in grade school, as so many of our early impressions are the guideposts for our actions in mature years.

According to Mrs. Howard, there are only eight countries in the world where individuals can study nursing education in a university. With the establishment of the Department of Nursing at the University of Ibadan, Nigeria will become the ninth. Others serving on the team with Mrs. Howard include: Mrs. Barbara Vail of Seattle, Washington, who will be the Public Health Nurse; Miss Jean Dooley of Laconia, N. H., who will be the nurse midwife.

More than 275,000 non-campers flocked to state forest camp grounds in Michigan during the year of 1963. They routed $415,000 into the economy of local areas.

Predictions show school attendance will be extended to 18 years, soon

The age of compulsory attendance at school will be extended to 18 years, Warren A. Ketcham, University of Michigan professor of education predicts.

"A small number of cities and states have already done so; as a result, by the end of the present century, more than 90 percent of adolescents will earn a high school diploma," Ketcham says.

"Other dramatic and seemingly impossible changes in high school policies and practices are in the making. New patterns of high school education are certain to appear in response to today's social and economic pressures."

Ketcham adds that it is certain such changes must involve something more than merely adding a movie projector, a television set, and a dozen teaching machines to the ancient classroom.

"The high school is rapidly becoming our most important educational institution primarily because serving the needs of youth is rapidly becoming our most serious national problem," he declares. "If youth can not be kept in school, where else?"

The U-M educator also predicts that the high school of the future will be called upon to care for social needs as well as educational needs of its students. "If and when this comes about, the curriculum would need further expansion in three main categories: 1. the recreational and avocational which are planned primarily to provide students with opportunities for the constructive use of time and energy; 2. the general educational which are intended to contribute to preparation for citizenship and 3. the prevocational.

"Most students would select a program from all three categories; others would confine themselves to the first two, and a few would appropriately confine their activities to the first," says Ketcham.

"It would be expected that some students would make drastic changes in the distribution of their activities and studies as they advance in age and maturity and consequently acquire new interests and purposes."

Ada nurse works with foreign team

A Boston University nursing educator has been chosen by the World Health Organization in Geneva, Switzerland, to direct the first university degree program for graduate nurses on the African continent, according to Boston University President Harold C. Case.

Mrs. Anna T. Howard of Annisquam Mass., associate professor of nursing at the University's School of Nursing, will lead an international team of five nurses in developing a degree program in nursing at the University of Ibadan in Nigeria this year. Miss D. DeLooff of Ada, Mich., will be the Maternal and Child Health Nurse.

The project, which is designed to help alleviate the dire shortage of trained nurses and nursing educators and administrators in Africa, is being jointly supported by the World Health Organization and the United Nations' Children's Fund.

Mrs. Howard, who has been granted a sabbatical leave of absence from Boston University during the 1964-65 academic year, will be Professor and Head of the Department of Nursing of the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Ibadan. She will be in charge of immediate technical and operational direction of the project and will have the overall responsibility for its administration.

The immediate objective of the program is to establish a Department of Nursing offering studies in the post-basic field of nursing leading to a Bachelor's degree. Long-range plans are to provide studies for a Bachelor's degree in basic nursing and a Master's degree in post-basic studies for graduate nurses, and to promote nursing research and the application of its results to meet the needs of Africa. When degree courses have been established, the University of Ibadan hopes to make places available for students from other countries.

Mrs. Howard said the courses will cover three academic years, with the program limited to 25 students during each of the first three years of the project. Graduates will receive Bachelor of Science degrees in nursing.

The international team of five is responsible for selecting and preparing Nigerian educators to take over its work, hopefully within five years, according to the Boston University educator.

Students graduating from the University's Department of Nursing will be competent in such fields of nursing education and nursing service as general nursing, public health, midwifery, psychiatric and pediatric spe-
