Gerald Ford to give Independence Day address at Fallsburg Park

Congressman Gerald R. Ford, Congressional minority leader, will deliver a major Independence Day address at Kent County's Fallsburg Park, on Monday, July 5th.

Mr. Ford will be speaking on the central theme of "Our American Heritage" as he addresses constituents of Kent and Ionia Counties, whom he re-represents in Congress. This will also be a homecoming event for Congressman Ford. As a young man, he attended ceremonies dedicating Fallsburg Park in 1929. The park is named for the pioneer Falls family, and a portion of Mr. Ford's remarks will be concerning the current project of the West Central Michigan Historical Society in restoring the nearby pioneer village of Fallsburg.

A visit to the original Fallsburg schoolhouse, will be available to those in attendance. The Society, sponsors of Mr. Ford's visit, feel particularly fortunate to have such an outstanding national figure on this holiday honoring the founding of our country. He is a national figure of great importance due to his position as House minority leader and his role in the investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, and his recently published book, "The Portrait of an Assassin." Congressman Ford also is being considered by many as a strong possibility in the next Presidential contest. All citizens are urged to attend at Fallsburg Park on Monday, July 5.

A picnic potluck at noon on the grounds north of the Pavilion is open to all. Mr. Ford is scheduled to speak at 2:30 p. m. Historical maps of the area will be given without charge for those in attendance.

Fishing derby to be July 17

Hey kids! Derby Day is near. Have you registered for the fishing contest yet? Don't delay, make sure you are on hand for the big, big event.

Registrations for the 4th annual Moose Fishing Derby to be held July 17, will be taken at Lewis Electric 512 East Main Street, between 9 and 11 a. m. Saturday morning, July 10.

All children between six and twelve years of age are eligible to participate, if they are registered, says Jim Briggs, chairman of the contest.

Admission cards will be given out at the time of registration. These cards must be signed by the parent, and returned with the child on Derby Day. No child will be permitted to board the derby bus without his card.

No unregistered child may enter the contest on derby day, July 17; so don't forget to register July 10.

Lowell Police were busy laying out the Showboat Derby route while rounding up two horses which were loose on M-21, just west of the city limits.

After much effort, the horses were caught and are being held until the owners can be located.

Leonard Murphy of Nash Avenue, found $2.17 wadded up in the street near the intersection of Lafayette and Avery Streets, Sunday evening and handed the money over to the police.

Minutes later, Mrs. Gibb Snider of West M-21 appeared at the Police Department to ask if anyone had found $2.17 she had lost.

An auto driven by Reva M. Parks, 35, of 665 N. Jackson Street, was struck while making a turn from Main Street at 12:30 a. m. Sunday morning.

Bernard Bolt, 60, truck driver for DeGroot Storage, failed to see the slowing vehicle. Neither driver was hurt.

Rick J. VanAntwerp, 17, of Grand Rapids, walked out of Riverview Sunday morning carrying a bottle of beer. He was stopped by Lowell police, to whom he showed a driver's license, giving his age as 22.

On further questioning, he produced another driver's license, on this one he was listed as 17. How come? asked Justice Rittenger, who fined him $110 on two counts, minor in possession and improper driver's license.

VanAntwerp explained that State sent him the first license with the wrong age on it. Then he simply applied for another, without returning the incorrect license.

Edward J. Johnson, 23, of Sand Lake was stopped for a minor infraction of the law at 4:15 a. m. Saturday. He handed the police the driver's license belonging to his passenger.

Both Johnson and Kenneth N. Leach, 23, of Grand Rapids, who had lent Johnson the license, were arrested and ticketed. They paid fines and costs amounting to $55.

The fire department answered a call Friday night on 36th Street. A grass fire burned about 2,000 feet along the C&O Railroad tracks before it could be brought under control.

Police Chief Avery Block announced that a new police record for running violations was set during the 14 day period ending June 25.

There were 35 tickets issued for these two weeks.

Ten years ago... The old blacksmith shop, located just behind Gee's Hardware was completely torn down... Four youths were responsible for the capture of a pick pocket who nabbed a wallet containing $50 from one of the youth... Mrs. Iol Dalstra suffered a broken shoulder when her car went out of control and rolled over.

Box office opens; order tickets now

Twenty-eight thousand eight hundred reserved seat tickets fresh off the presses have been received by Lowell Showboat Ticket Chairman Bernard Baer, who advises that the Showboat office in Lowell opened Friday, June 25. Prices are $2.20, 1.60 and 1.00 this year, he reports.

All mail order as well as local direct purchases will be handled at the Lowell Box Office, located downtown in Lowell. Other box offices for direct sales in their localities will be opened on July 1 in Grand Rapids, Lansing, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Ionia and Hastings.

Showboat performances begin promptly at 8:30 six evenings, July 26 through 31. Baer advises those ordering by mail to be sure to specify the date as well as the prices of tickets desired. He requests that all checks and money orders be made out to "The Lowell Showboat", and that a stamped self-addressed envelope be enclosed.

This year's Lowell Showboat performances will star "Lonesome" George Gobel, long-time star of his own hour-long TV show, and Betty Johnson, delightful singing star of Broadway musicals, former regular on Don McNeill's Breakfast Club, and frequent guest on the Jack Parr and other TV network shows.

Dancing on the professional level will be contributed by The TV Cassidy Dancers, a lovely young group of exceptionally talented veterans directed in arrangements developed by The Perry Como Show's outstanding choreographer.

Also on board the Robert E. Lee as it steams around the bend of the Flat River will be interlucator, end-men, chorus and the Talent Search winner featured for the evening to provide traditional music and comedy long associated with the Lowell Showboat performances.

Frank Stephens begins 6th term as Legion head

The Clark-Ellis American Legion Post 152 of Lowell held their annual election and installation of officers on Monday evening, June 28.

The nominating committee for the 1965-66 officers put Frank L. Stephens of Route 3, Lowell, in the office of commander for his 6th consecutive term.

Assisting him in their second year of leadership are Robert Ellis, vice-commander; Roger Bieri, junior vice-commander; Lawrence Armstrong, finance officer; Lawrence Chesboro, adjutant; David Sterzik, historian; Edward Rash, chaplain.

George DeGraw was also appointed to the Legion's executive board.

A report of the Fifth District's election of officers held recently at Marne with three Lowell men attending was on the order of business at this meeting.

The Lowell post received a citation from the District for exceeding their membership quota. The post was also given a $5 bonus.

The membership now boasts 170 members, who on the second and fourth Mondays of the month meet at the American Legion Building. The next meeting will be July 12.

Call for second bond vote

Lowell Area School's Board of Education met Monday night and voted to call for another vote in six months on the same $750,000 project of additions and a new west side elementary school, which was turned down on June 7 by 16 votes.

Meeting with the board of education was school architect, Donn Palmer, and attorney, George R. Cook.

Mr. Cook told the board that to vote sooner than six months, the project would have to be changed substantially. This would mean eliminating one of the proposed additions or not building the elementary school.

After much discussion, the board agreed that everything in the original project was necessary and it would be better to wait until December and vote again.

Architect Palmer, reported to the board that it would be impossible to build a new elementary school in time for use in the fall of 1966, even if another vote was called later this summer.

The additions to the high school and the Alto Area Elementary school could be completed by the fall of '66 if they were approved in December.

The board realized that voting in December would bring a bond vote up just two weeks after the tax bills were sent out, not considered an opportune time to ask for more money.

Other considerations made it absolutely necessary to ask the voters for funds to provide more rooms as soon as is legally possible.

Superintendent Stephen Nisbet and members of the board have discovered many who voted against the bond issue June 7, claim they did not understand the amount of the taxes necessary. A plan of public hearings and meetings will be scheduled in the months previous to the December election.

Lowell couple is injured at Ionia

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flory of Lowell were hurt in an auto accident Friday on M-66, near Ionia.

Several Michigan Reformatory inmates missed serious injury while another inmate received a head injury in the same incident.

Ionia State Police investigators stated that the accident occurred when the reformatory stake truck, carrying farm workers, started to turn at a road intersection while a car was passing.

Richard Flory, driver of the heavily damaged auto, complained of arm pain but was not seriously injured.

X-rays taken at the Ionia County Memorial Hospital later Friday afternoon showed that Mrs. Flory may have suffered a minor spinal injury. Their child was uninjured.

Three of the inmates were thrown from the stake truck, and one man suffered a severe scalp laceration.

Alto woman develops medical teaching program

An Alto woman has developed a method of applying programmed teaching for the first time in the field of medical technology. The new teaching system is designed to help relieve a national shortage of teachers and assist students in achieving more thorough comprehension and faster progress, it is reported.

The system was worked out and tested by Miss Mary Esther Woodworth, a medical technologist at Temple University Hospital and School of Medicine in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

She holds an M.S. degree and is working toward a Ph.D. in Biochemistry at Temple. She also has a B.S. from the University of Michigan.

Based on recognized systems of automated teaching, Miss Woodworth's work presents original programs for teaching technological procedures to determine abnormal changes in white blood cells ("Leukocyte Changes from Normal") and to determine the concentrations of various substances in the blood ("Beer's Law").

Tests to determine the effectiveness of the programmed study plans revealed substantial improvement in the students' scores after the system was used.

Miss Woodworth was chosen by the American Society of Medical Technologists to receive the 1965 Annual Kimble Medical Technology Award for her work. Consisting of a silver engraved plaque and $500, the award will be presented June 24 during the ASMT Convention in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Sponsored by Owen-Illinois, Inc., maker of Kimble products, the award is presented to give public recognition and financial reward for the most outstanding contributions to better procedural methods in medical technology.

The award-winning work, "The Application of Programmed Learning to Medical Technology Education," will be published in a forthcoming issue of The American Journal of Medical Technology.

From Colonial Days to Modern Times, Volunteer Citizen-Soldiers Have Been Defense Backbone

Someone once said, in reply to the question "What is a National Guardsman?" that the essence of his personal services as a soldier was "a civilian some of the time, a soldier part of the time, and a patriot all of the time." This describes a system which goes back to earliest colonial days, when the very first volunteer militia soldier was a settler on the frontier.

Sam Houston is remembered chiefly as the architect of Texas independence. Less known is that, following the War of 1812 service under General Andrew Jackson, he became the Adjutant General of Tennessee. He was Tennessee's No. 1 soldier from 1819 until 1823, when he entered the United States Congress.

The National Guard is the nation's oldest military organization, older than the country itself, with some units that can trace their history back to 1636. Today's modern Army Guard stems directly from the militia system of postwar years. The first President was a Guardsman, George Washington, at 22, commanded a Virginia militia regiment in 1753 and was later personally exemplifying the creed he would express in later years, that "every citizen who is fit should be a soldier."

non-divisional units, including air observation squadrons. It has been estimated that nearly 20,000 Guardsmen were commissioned during this war, either through officer candidate schools or on the battlefield. National Guard units participated in seven assault landings and 34 separate campaigns, and were awarded over 150 Presidential citations. National Guard divisions suffered nearly 200,000 casualties, and over 25 divisions who earned the Medal of Honor, for valor.

Again, during the Korean emergency, the Guard responded to the country's call by supplying 180,000 men in eight infantry divisions, 22 air wings and many other units. Of these, two divisions and two wings, and many individual Guardsmen saw action in Korea. The National Guard was called upon, since Korea, to assist the U.S. position during the Berlin crisis of 1948.

What Must You Do?

WHAT MUST YOU DO TO BE LOST?

Nothing!! Just don't repent, don't be converted, don't be reconciled to God, don't be saved, don't believe in Christ. In fact, you don't have to do a thing to be lost. You don't have to commit a crime to be lost, either. Apart from Christ you are lost. John 3:18b "he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God."

WHAT MUST YOU DO TO BE SAVED?

Repent, be converted, turn to Christ. Acts 16:31 "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shall be saved, and thy house."
Are you lost or saved?

Nuts command variety of uses

Popularity of growing nut trees for ornament, shade and food production has been on the increase during recent years.

While commercial production is rather limited in Michigan, nut trees are frequently planted around farmsteads and suburban home grounds, says Lee Taylor, Michigan State University horticulturist. Nut growing in Michigan is limited mainly to the southern half of the lower peninsula due to shorter growing seasons in northern areas.

Taylor points out that several cold-hardy and short-summer tolerance strains of Persian (English) walnuts have been introduced into Michigan in recent years. Yet only a few nut varieties are adapted to cold summer and short growing seasons.

"The landscaping value of nut trees should not be overlooked," says Taylor. "They furnish excellent shade, harmonize well with lawns and grass areas while delighting children at ripening time in the fall."

Nut trees are also ideal for conservation plantings in areas where it is not desirable to till the soil. They not only hold the soil against erosion, but also serve as wind barriers for protecting other crops and plantings. Another advantage is that they serve as an excellent source of food for wildlife.

Nut tree species commonly grown in Michigan include: Carpathian walnuts, black walnuts, butternut or white walnuts, heartnuts and Japanese walnuts, hickories and hicans, pecans, hazels, filberts and Chinese chestnuts.

If you don't believe anything, there's no law to make you believe it.

Skateboard accidents are often serious fractures

"Wipe-outs" may shatter more than your pride.

During a six-week period, doctors at The University of Michigan and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital have treated nearly 50 fractures resulting from "wipe-outs" (skateboard jargon for falling off the board).

According to a U-M orthopedic surgeon, who has been tabulating the fractures, skateboard injuries are more common than bicycle injuries and, with the exception of bike-car collisions, are a lot more serious.

Although the fractures have run the gamut from broken collar bones, shoulders, arms, elbows & hands to fractured legs and feet, 12 of the 22 breaks treated at University Hospital were fractured ankles.

Many of the broken ankles were "violent types of fractures obviously resulting from high-speed, says a resident in the U-M orthopedic surgery section. Three cases at University Hospital have required surgery.

Patients with such breaks are usually incapacitated 6 to 12 weeks, according to the U-M physicians. However, it's possible that a rare case could be permanently disabling, they say.

The doctors warn parents that perhaps the most hazardous aspect of skateboarding is that inexperienced sidewalk surfers have very little control over their boards and can easily roll into the path of an oncoming car.

Patients treated for skateboard fractures at the two Ann Arbor hospitals have ranged from a seven-year-old child to a man of 46.

At St. Joseph, the majority of the fracture patients have been young children and teenagers, many of whom suffered broken elbows.

Doctors at University Hospital treated 21 U-M students for skateboard fractures—and one physician.

Jager-Caldwell engagement told

Mr. and Mrs. John Jager, jr., of 1106 Argo, SE, Cascade announce the engagement of their daughter, LaRae Carol Jager to Gordon Tyler Caldwell.

Mr. Caldwell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Caldwell, 2920 Beachwood, SE, Grand Rapids.

Miss Jager is a graduate of Forest Hills High School. Her fiancé is a senior at Western Michigan University and is affiliated with Sigma-Tau-Gamma Fraternity.

An August 21 wedding is being planned by the engaged couple.

Food poisoning is summer danger

Summer and picnics form a go-together twosome everyone loves. There's something about a warm summer sun that causes tender fried chicken, combination meat sandwiches and crisp salads to disappear like magic. Unfortunately, that warm summer sun can also detract from the enjoyment of outdoor eating said Dr. W. B. Prothro, City-County Health Officer.

Germs capable of causing severe gastro-intestinal upsets thrive in picnic foods that get too much exposure to sunny summer temperatures—foods that are not thoroughly refrigerated before traveling and not adequately chilled enroute to the picnic site.

The overwhelming majority of food poisoning outbreaks are traceable to mishandled food in the home. One of the chief villains in the picnic picture is a golden-hued bacterium (impressively named: Staphylococcus aureus).

This germ is found practically everywhere, for example, on the skin, in the soil, on dust particles. It can easily find a way into your picnic lunch, and under suitable conditions, it can multiply undetected to produce a poison guaranteed to make life miserable for anyone unlucky enough to eat it.

The trick, says Dr. Prothro, is to keep conditions unsuitable. Our golden enemy needs a fairly warm temperature in which to produce the poison. About four hours between 50 degrees F. and 120 degrees F. or more will please him well. Thus, the rule about keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold is most appropriate. Families carrying food any distance from home and the home refrigerator would do well to invest in one of the attractive, modern, insulated coolers for transporting cold foods. Hot dishes can be wrapped in thick layers of newspapers to retain the piping hot temperatures that discourage bacterial growth.

There are several guides to safe picnicking—all simple and easy to follow.

1. Keep processed foods such as custards, meat salads, egg or potato salads and moist sandwiches well chilled. Keep such hot dishes as baked beans or scalloped potatoes piping hot. Don't allow these foods to remain in the 50 to 120 degree range more than three hours.
2. Chill cooked foods thoroughly before putting them into the picnic hamper or insulated cooler.
3. Don't handle foods if you have any gastric upset. Wash your hands thoroughly and often.
4. Keep insects and animals away from foods during preparation.

The rules that apply to picnics away from home apply to the backyard variety as well. Cold foods should not linger too long on the picnic table or the kitchen counter. Hot foods should be served promptly.

Weather, help shortage cause of high vegetable price

If you don't like this week's high-style prices on fresh fruits and vegetables, don't blame the produce manager of your grocery store or the many farmers who produce the crops. Blame the weather or blame the government, says Sharon Hall, District Consumer Food Marketing Agent.

Unfavorable weather conditions and severe shortages of experienced harvest hands in major growing areas of Florida and California have combined to create a serious situation that can only result in heavy crop losses for growers and an unsettled price picture for producers, retailers and consumers alike. And, the situation will show little improvement in the near future.

Thousands of acres of strawberries and asparagus are being abandoned in California for lack of harvest labor. This is bringing sharply increased prices on the portion of the crop that can be brought in. The Florida celery harvest is underway but only with the help of 500 British West Indian workers who were ordered out of the country April 30 by Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz. A Florida Federal District judge issued a temporary restraining order against the Labor Secretary in response to pleas by celery growers who claim that disastorous crop losses are in prospect if the Wirtz order to remove the foreign celery cutters is carried out. The restraining order allowed 500 workers to remain until June 1. It now appears that all offshore labor will be gone by June 15.

Late last summer, Secretary Wirtz announced that no foreign laborers would be permitted entry to the United States in 1965 for agricultural harvest work. The government has stood firm, despite increasingly desperate messages from growers who doubt the abilities of untrained domestic laborers to bring in a harvest of tender fruits and vegetables. These fruits and vegetables just cannot wait in the fields if peak quality is to be maintained.

Although there is no way to estimate losses with true accuracy, one of California's largest shippers reports that on one day last week, inexperienced pickers harvested only 2,300 trays of strawberries from acreage that a year earlier had yielded 11,400 trays to experienced Mexican braceros. Lemon picking is at least one million boxes behind normal and losing ground daily while the Valencia orange crop, ready for harvest this week, will require 2,500 workers who simply are not available.

Lettuce growers have been able to maintain harvest activity as they can transfer crews from winter growing areas and because they pay harvesters on a piece-work basis, enabling skilled lettuce cutters to make many times more than the $1.40 an hour minimum harvest wage. The competition for harvest hands, however, drives labor costs and therefore lettuce costs up and up again.

In a recent move, Labor Secretary Wirtz announced he would relent and admit 1,500 Mexican braceros around the end of May—a promise regarded by Californians as "too little too late." They had asked for a minimum of 6,700 on March 15. Labor shortages won't be felt in Michigan until mid-summer, but Michigan sugar beet, pickle and fruit growers have depended heavily on imported labor in other years and will find the competition for available hands keen indeed. In a recent move, it now appears that some help may be forthcoming for Michigan this summer.

Weather conditions have also added their bit to the serious situation. In some areas of the country, severe winter weather and late spring frosts have caused a severe reduction in supplies that will be available from this year's harvest. In other areas, spring rains and floods have caused weather damage on quality of the crops being harvested. And presently in Michigan, dry weather is spelling "bad news" for such crops as asparagus. The stalks that are popping out of the ground are "spindly" and of some what less-than-desirable quality. Yields are not nearly as great as usual because of hot dry conditions. Continued dry, hot weather may also cause further damage to other soon-to-be-harvested crops of fruits and vegetables.

Almost every grower, shipper, retailer and finally, consumer, must ask themselves...

"If things can get so bad before the spring season is hardly started, what about next week, next month and the period of really heavy labor demands starting in late July and August." For consumers, at least, the answer must be higher prices, irregular supplies and less-than-desirable quality. So remember, if things go from bad to worse, don't blame producers and retail store produce managers. This is a case where it hurts them more than it does you.

Couple wed in Dykstra Chapel

The Dykstra Chapel at Central Reformed Church was the setting, recently for the marriage of Miss Linda Connors and Robert Clegg Barnes of Batavia Creek. The Rev. Sylvester Moths of the Ada Community Reformed Church performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Edward Solle was the soloist.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Connors of 2911 Hayward Drive, SE, ad Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes of Doylestown, Pennsylvania, are the parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding, the bride chose a sheath of peau de sole over crystalite with long tapered sleeves. Appliqued embroidered organza flowers trimmed the neckline of her gown and the detachable chapel train. A pillow decorated with appliqued flowers secured the illusion veil. The bridal bouquet was made of roses, lilies-of-the-valley, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Nancy Barrows of East Lansing was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Anthony Musser and Mrs.

Larry Rogers of Portland. They wore turquoise empire-styled sheaths and matching headpieces and carried baskets of daisies.

Allen Barnes of East Lansing assisted his brother as best man. The ushers were the bride's brothers, Richard Connors of San Francisco, California, James Connors and Robert Connors and Gordon Terry of Toledo, Ohio.

A wedding reception was held at Finger's Restaurant immediately following the ceremony. The master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kalhwart, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Following their honeymoon trip to Yellowstone Park, the couple will make their home in Battle Creek.

Boil brook water before drinking

On a hot summer's day temptation to drink from the crystal clear waters of a bubbling brook may overwhelm a family hiking through the woods.

But don't give into the temptation, warns Dr. W. B. Prothro, City-County Health Officer.

Even the clearest, cleanest looking, sparkling water may contain thousands of germs.

Mr. Win Eltesvold, Chief Sanitarian suggests that if you're really roughing it in the wilds where the only source of water is a stream or brook, here are three ways to make sure the water you're drinking will be safe.

Add three drops of any standard laundry bleach to one gallon of clear water and let it stand for 30 minutes. Place the water in a clean container and let it boil vigorously for at least one minute; or add chlorine or halazone tablets available at drug or sporting goods stores. Be sure to follow the directions on the label. Without these precautions, you might become ill.
