The Diary of Anne Frank

The Lowell High School Players' production of Francis Goodrich and Albert Hackett's tense drama, "The Diary of Anne Frank," will be presented on the senior high school stage Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20, this week end, at 8

Mike McKeage. Stars as Anne Frank

Starring in the World War II classic as Anne, a Jewish adolescent girl caught up in the horrors of the Nazi racial purge is Mike McKeage, a junior, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McKeage of Route 3, Kim Hoag, son of Frances Hoag of Lowell, will be seen in the role of Peter VanDaan. Kim is a sophomore at Lowell.

This play is the second pre-sented by the newly formed allschool players. The group came into being the Spring of this year as a replacement for the former class plays.

It is sponsored by the senior class, just as the Srping was sponsored by the jun ior class.

Following at the heels of the highly successful comedy "Take Her. She's Mine," it promises to be an evening of disturb-ing, but entertaining drama. Don't miss this one.

Others in the cast include Greg Hoag, Tula Nava, Bunny Harris, Bob Leeman, Marcia Metternick, Tammy Goodwin, Dave Hoffman and Paul Good-

Co-directors for the product-ion are John Taylor and Frederic Hoekzema. The set is being designed by Tammy and Paul Goodwin.

Tickets maybe purchased in God advance at the high school box Life. office or at the door.

The United Fund over the top

The United Fund Drive just recently completed has been highly successful according to reports from Chairman Stanley Gardner and co-chairman Gary Rivers, of the Lowell area. The Vergennes quota was set at $210, and the actual collections amounted to $219. The quota for Lowell was $4,000, and $4,020, has been collected and sent into headquar-

So this community is also over the top, as was Kent County as a whole, collecting 100.2

percent of the goal this year. The chairmen of the drive wish to extend their thanks to all the people who participated and the Lions and Rotary Clubs who handled the campaign, for a job well done.

Methodist Church to hold special service of Thanksgiving

A Thanksgiving Day service will be held at the First Methodist Church in Lowell on Thursday. November 25, Thanksgiving Day, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. Special music will be provided by the choir. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service of thanks. The true meaning of Thanks-giving is missed unless we con-sciously do "give thanks" to God the Giver and Maker of What to do with a million dollars?

TO THE PEOPLE OF LOWELL

I have followed with extreme interest the articles in various newspapers about "the town that doesn't know what to do with nearly a million dollars." Since my mother, Libbie Schnieder Cole, was the sister of Phillip H. Schneider; this is of special interest to me.

I had an opportunity today to accompany my sister-in-law to see her parents who are both confined to the medical Care Facility near Newaygo. This is your answer.

What a perfectly lovely place! The accommodations are lovely, the personnel is exceptional and the patients have the added comfort of church services on Sunday in a lovely chapel. They have an extensive occupational therapy department and the articles made by the patients are for sale in the

This is chiefly for patients unable to pay and my sister-in-law had trouble getting her parents in because they would be paying for their care. Lowell certainly needs this. I know, because we went through four years of nursing home care for my father, the late Claude Cole. I certainly wish he could have the privilege of being cared for at such a nice place.

Tell young Phil he should investigate this facility the next time he visits his parents in Newaygo

A most cordial greeting to all my friends in Lowell.

Sincerely, Vivian Cole Ingersoll (Mrs. K. J. Ingersoll) 541 Fenimore Avenue Kalamazoo, Michigan.

property without permission, There was a heated discussion between council members and City Manager Bernard Olson, who pointed out that city property cannot be given away sold under the charter, with out following certain rules.

Some members of the coun-cil appeared to feel the manager was standing in the way of progress; others realized he was merely protecting all the citizen's property rights.

Under the charter any sale, lease or gift of city property must be tabled for 20 days before final action. This was done in this case in giving Story an easement 51x140 ft. Any citizen who objects to the action of the council may protest to the manager or appear at the next meeting on December 6.

The motivation which prompted a recent meeting of some forty Lowell Methodists and Congregationalists was a desire to attempt to better understand this problem and to determine what we as individuals might do to help curb the apparent increase of teens involved in illicit drinking.

I wish to clarify my thinking on the matter of penalties which your article correctly reported was discussed at the meeting. Although this matter of whether or not stronger penalties ought to be a part of school policies relating to drinking violations was discussed at length, the primary concern and intent was not that any degree of ruthlessness and insensitivity should enter into school discipline. It is clear that a cold, legalistic and heartless application of punishments is both unchristian and damaging to personal growth,

The fact that the discussion was as spirited and involved as it was clearly indicates that the primary concern was the attempt to determine what is a just and workable framework in which the highest levels of education and personal integrity might be encouraged.

I wish to thank you and your attended the most recent meetrectly involved in this problem.

I might say that at this point that the whole issue appears to have become highly complicated by a number of misunderstandings and breakdowns in communication regarding the interpretation of the present policy on training rules, by the fact that many concerned parents & citizens are discussing this issue without having fully investigated many of the major facets of the problem, and because in some instances personality clashes have clouded an objective approach.

Most difficult of all the complicating factors to deal with appears to be a lack of concern "in-the-home" among too many parents of the community. When too many parents appear too busy or disinterested in what their youth are doing or not doing, then the community has a problem. Here is where the real responsibility lies so far as youth morality is concerned. The teachers, coaches, and School Board have had to attempt to deal with a most difficult situation because too many parents have apparently abdicated their respons

As these bar graphs and figures show, buck kill has been on the upswing in each of Michigan's three regions for the last four years. State-wide, it was the best last year since 1946. In the Upper Peninsula, the 1964 take of antlered mimals was above the 13-year average and tops for the last five seasons. In the northern Lower Peninsula, last season's buck harvest was the highest in 13 years. Last year saw sportsmen score their fourth straight record buck kill in the southern third of the state which is rapidly developing into a major deer hunting area. Mich. Dept. of Conservation
