Seek survey of facilities for senior citizens

The needs of senior citizens of the Lowell community were discussed at a meeting on Sunday by 70 Lowell and Lowell Township citizens.

The meeting was called by C. H. Runciman to bring a representative group of the community to meet Mrs. Norman Duke of Lorraine, Ohio, who is a representative of ACTION.

The group voted at the conclusion of the meeting to or-ganize a committee to work with ACTION, a investigating organization financed through funds from Ford Foundation in seeking out the needs of senior citizens of the community and present their findings at a later meeting.

The survey estimated to cost $15,000 would request financing through the Schneider and AC-TION Fund board. Members of the board present at the meeting appeared to be receptive to assisting with a review of the

Mrs. Duke who has personally built two residential homes for senior citizens in Ohio, told of the need in most communities for this type facility: Lowell's needs would have to be investigated, she said. The senior citizens housing units, she has been associated with in Ohio, have provided small apartments for one or two with facilities within the building for group activities. The units built in Ohio have been high-rise type with 77 rental units. They have been financed through government funds and sponsored by churches of the communities. A question and answer period ended the meeting which found most in attendance very enthusiastic for some type of facility for the older citizens of the community. The chairman of the meeting. Mr. Runciman & the 2 members of the Schneider Fund Board. Ray Rittenger and Phillip Schneider will request churches and service clubs of Lowell and Lowell Township to name a member of their organization to serve on the steering committee to work with ACTION to survey the commun-

Lowell Club Rates

Going into the tournament, the Lowell Athletic Club had a roster of 12 boxers; six who have advanced to the finals and six who paved the way with good wins and heart-breaking loses.

In comparison to the three other clubs participating with over 30 boxers in each unit. Lowell is rated as one of the most outstanding clubs in this year's tournament Not only has Lowell made a powerful dent in the winner's circle, but they have won the acclaim of their competitors, tournament officials and the audience for their sportsmanship in and out of the ring. To be congratulated is Jim Hutson of Route 2, Lowell, who trains and manages the local club. Three years ago Hutson formed the Lowell Athletic Club

Another important hygiene aid being advocated is the "swish and swallow" method, There are 40 voices in this well-known choir and all are cordially invited to hear them.

Vigorous rinsing of the mouth with water following eating is another way of removing food particles. Of course, these tips of hy-giene which the children are being taught are very good tips for mom and dad also.

Our kindergarten children are also participating in programs geared for them. Audio-visual aids and large models of teeth and large toothbrushes are used to convey the importance of care of the teeth. A child well instructed in oral hygiene habits will make these lifelong habits.
