How is wet garbage handled in your house? Do you scrape food waste into a paper bag a newspaper - into a paper or plastic-lined can? Where does it go after that? Does it stand out side, waiting for the garbage collector? How 1 on g? What about odors? Have you ever had a full garbage bag spill on your clean kitchen floor?

There is a better way! Simply scrape food waste, bones, peelings, rinds and pits right into the sink opening, and let an electric waste disposer grind them up and flush them away! There's no such thing as "garbage" in the kitchen equipped with this marvelous appliance Look under the sink when you next visit a Gold Medallion Home. You're quite likely to find an electric food waste disposer already installed. In some areas, it's one of the major electric appliances which builders may choose to provide, to round out the joy of total-elec tric-living.

We are confronted on November 8 with an unparalleled opportunity to stimulate the economic health and growth of our community.

Our mutual goal can be attained by a "Yes" vote on the referendum on the "Special Election Ballot" authorizing a rezoning of a 7½-acre tract on the West side of the City for the development of our vitally needed shopping center.

We consider adoption of this referendum vital because it will not only open the way for construction of a modern supermarket but will spark the total development and expansion of Lowell's business community.

There are those among our Lowell citizenry who have expressed fear that establishment of a new shopping facility will have an adverse reaction on the existing downtown enterprises. Of course, the experience in scores of other communities in Michigan and throughout the nation has proven the reverse to be true—new shopping centers actually have been the impetus for revitalizing established but dormant business districts.

Undoubtedly, this would also be the case in Lowell. Not only would the new facility expand the City's tax base, producing additional revenue, but the newly stimulated central business district would promote further increased tax receipts to the benefit of all our home owners.

Certainly it cannot be argued with any degree of logic that the new State Savings Bank building on the East side of Lowell served to lower property values. On the contrary, the construction of this building appreciated property tax values and contributed tax funds to the community.

Likewise, new construction on the West side of the City, including Lowell Lumber Company, Azzarello Chevrolet, the impressive new Professional Building and Curtis Cleaners' modern structure provides more business for Lowell and contributes appreciable new tax monies. This valuable new construction cannot be stymied with the false contention of a few self-serving individuals that construction anywhere out-side of the central business district depreciates the value of our City.

By rezoning 7½ acres, this commercial facility will be developed to provide sufficient off-street parking within the site to accommodate shoppers and delivery services. The street at the point of the proposed construction allows for the free flow of traffic, assuring public safety and convenience.

We are convinced that approval of this referendum is the only forward-looking approach for the voters of Lowell, and we recommend a "Yes" on the referendum.

and whe shall be at

Although many tourists find it harder to see elk in northern Michigan's Pigeon River Area than they did a couple of years ago, there is no reason to think these big, majestic animals are declining in numbers. Latest word from Conservation Department field men, who are keeping 'round-the-calendar tabs on the situation, is that elk appear to be healthy and reproducing normally this summer. The herd won't come under the gun this fall, but this doesn't mean there is any letup in the continuing intensive study of elk by Department game researchers. The year-long job of watching, tagging, weighing, measuring, and otherwise gathering information about these animals goes tight on. -Mich. Dept. of ( vation

During the 1961-62 Constituional Convention Governor Romney and Stanley M. Powell, now State Representative from the 89th District, both served as delegates.
