We, the members and friends of the First Baptist Church of Lowell, wish to inform you of our desire to better serve this community with the greatly improved facilities and enlarged accommodations, in the new structure, being built, just west of the city proper. Thank you, sincerely, for your many words of encouragement

We are planning, in our new church, to offer a program for the people of our community, that will reach and help every group. Our message will the same, in content; but we trust, it will have some improvement, in its presentation It will be based on the Bible as the inspired Word of God, unchangeable and authorititive. We believe that, the Bible not only contains the Word of God, but that it is the very Word of the living God. If your so called god is dead, come and hear about the true and living God.

Three ladies from our church conduct Child Evangelism Clubs, where your child can hear the Bible taught and where Christ is presented as Saviour, Helper Friend. Two of our men are helping conduct Christian Service Brigade for boys from age 8 through 18 years of age, some of our ladies are helping with the Pioneer Girls group, of the same age. Our manner of life we trust will be evidenced by a continuous growth, spiritually, mentally and physically, for the Christian life is an ever expanding life into new opportunities for service to mankind. This is true, because we are followers Jesus Christ, who said, "upon this rock I will build My Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," the Rock referred to is the confession of Peter, that, "Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God." A denial of this truth places one outside of the circle of the true church. The measure of success of this work will be determined by your consideration of the opportunities of our new facilities and the services which we offer you. # Snow storm paralyzes area

Snow was piled high along Main Street Friday, with only narrow paths close to the buildings open. It continued to snow and blow for two days, and highways leading into town were blocked with drifts. Kent County was in good shape by Saturday, but roads in Ionia County were still in rough shape on Monday, and school had to be called off. The storm did bring out the best in people, with neighbors helping each other and strangers on the highway stopping to assist others who were

Only the tops of cars could be seen along the city curbs in the big snow of last week. Some autos were still blocking parking lots downtown on Wednesday, a week after the storm started. City crews could keep only main streets open Friday, but Saturday all the city streets were plowed and homeowners were busy digging out driveways.

Lowell was digging out Monday after the paralyzing storm of last Thursday and Friday dumped 19 inches of snow on the area. While the brunt of the storm was to the south, high winds blew the snow into huge drifts and closed off many of the roads faster than the road commission trucks could plow them out. Few cars and trucks could move Friday with Saturday conditions not too much better until late in the evening.

Lowell Area Schools closed at p. m. Thursday afternoon, and were unable to re-open until Tuesday morning when road conditions proved safe for the buses to go out. No deaths because of storm were reported here and only minor accidents. On Friday morning, some people were walking, but most just stayed home. Factories had only a few employees on-the-job and they closed at noon. Some business places in Lowell never opened; some opened and then closed when the snow kept coming. Two reports of building damaged by the heavy snow were confirmed. The awning on Curly Howard's Club Diner was broken down and several sections of the awning on Eberhard's store fell from the weight of the heavy snow. Many of Lowell's residents spent some of their free time shoveling snow off roofs or bracing overhanging awnings.

Some local citizens who were working in other parts of the state were unable to get home on Friday or Saturday. Bud Thurtell was stranded in Flint from Thursday to Saturday. Bud was one of the lucky ones who found a motel to stay in. Charles Houseman was snow-ed in in Kalamazoo from Thursday to Saturday. Every accommodation was filled down there so Charles, along with eight other stranded travelers, bunked at the Associated Truck Terminal in Kalamazoo. With main highways blocked going to Lansing, Flint and Kalamazoo, communications of all types were shut off. Lowell stores reported that bread supplies ran low on Saturday for much of the baked goods for this area comes from Detroit. Mail service came to a halt on Friday with some rural carriers not even able to get their cars to the post office. City carriers were unable to walk in the residential area. No mail trucks made it in from Chicago to Grand Rapids, so little mail was finding its way into the Lowell post office. Mrs. Trenis Devener, 429 N. Jefferson, was one of the residents of the area who found her car had completely vanished by the time the storm blew out. Only the antenna was still

Of course, babies are no respecters of storms. Mrs. Louise Torian, who lives near Lake Odessa, had to have the help of the Ionia County Road Commission crews when it became apparent that the birth of her child was imminent. The baby arrived at the height of the storm at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. Mrs. George Miles of Lowell, who is awaiting the birth of her sixth child anytime now, suffered labor pains about midnight Friday night, Mr. Miles, with the help of a neighbor, braved the storm and drifts to bring Mrs. Miles to Lowell on the assumption that she might have to go to the hospital. She spent the night at the home of Mrs. Helen Ford. The labor pains subsequently proved to be false and Mrs. Miles is still waiting. Road crew members as well as independent snow plow operators were easily recognized by Monday due to the tired and hollow-eyed look they wore. Many of the Kent County Road Commission men went as high as 24 hours without sleeping. They certainly deserve a round of applause for a tough job well

Christian Missions

Do you know what Christian missions is all about? I have observed that many people think merely in terms of alleviating poverty, providing education for the ignorant, and teaching backward nations the latest agricultural techniques. Now these projects or programs may well be included in the work of Christian missions, but that is not its primary task.

Christian missions is primarily bringing men and women, boys and girls, face to face with Jesus Christ and His saving gospel in order to see them become Christians. Unless people become converted to Jesus Christ, unless they become Christians, little good can be expected in their approach to and in their way of life. In fact, educated pagans may well destroy much that is good, whereas Christians, on the other hand, are "the salt of the earth" and "the light of the world."

We are dedicated to the task of Broclaiming Jesus Christ as the world's only Savior! Works of mercy are, of course, included. -Pastor Henry Buikema

According to Hare, a Centen-nial Farm is one which has been in the continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more.
